An Italian newspaper gives an account of an amusing lawsuit which has taken place lately in a Russian city in which German is the prevailing language. One man sued another to recover the sum of 50 rubles, the debtor having faithfully promised to return the money on St. Henry's day. But having failed to do so for a long time the lender discovered that the Russian Orthodox church includes no such saint as St. Henry, and the judge before whom the case was tried was much puzzled as to what verdict he should give. Happily the idea occurred to him that, saint or no saint, All Saints' day included even the most doubtful, so he gave judgment that the 50 rubles should be returned next All Saints' day.

A Just Man.

A slight shower was falling, and Mr. Ferguson discovered, when on the point of starting for church, that there wasn't an umbrella in the house fit for use.

"You can borrow one from the Thompsons next door," suggested Mrs. Ferguson. "They never go to church."

"No, Laura," he answered, with iron firmness. "It is wrong to borrow umbrellas on Sunday. I should have bought one yesterday. I shall punish myself for my carelessness by not going to church this morning." Thereupon he proceeded to punish himself still further by reclining in an easy chair and reading the morning papers.

Retired Grinders.

A whole village of well to do Italians speaking English with an accent is one of the most astonishing things that Italy offers to the tourist. They are retired organ grinders who have acquired comfortable fortunes in various countries and have gone back to their beloved native land to live in affluence with their families in this strange little colony which they have founded among these sweet Italian mountains.

Anxious to Comply.

Professor (to student)—You should have written on the subject, sir, so that the most ignorant of your audience could understand all that you have to say on the subject. Student—What part of my production is not clear to you, sir?

How It Happened.

"How did that interviewer come to misquote you?"

"I heard something shortly after he left that entirely changed my opinions on the subject we were discussing."

The man who forgets to be thankful has fallen asleep in life.—Stevenson.

CHOCOLATE.

It Was a Luxury In This Country In the Eighteenth Century.

The first newspaper notice that announced the sale of cocoa and chocolate in America read:

"Amos Track, at his house a little below the Bell tavern in Danvers, makes and sells chocolate which he will warrant to be good and takes cocoa to grind. Those who may please to favor him with their custom may depend upon being well served, and at a very cheap rate."

This notice appeared in the Essex Gazette of Massachusetts on the 18th of June, 1771, five years before the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Despite Mr. Trask's assurance that his rate was cheap, chocolate was very expensive and beyond the purse of any but the wealthy folk. Wouldn't they be surprised to see how generally chocolate is sold these days in packages as cheap as a penny?

When the Spanish soldier Cortes conquered Mexico in 1519 he found the people very fond of a drink called "chocolatl." This was served to the ruler Montezuma in a cup of solid gold. When the Spaniards went home they introduced this drink into their country, but it remained very expensive. The secret of its preparation was never allowed to get out of Spain. Now it is the cheapest article of food and drink we have.

VARIETY IN CHEWING.

Gum and Tobacco Are Not the Only Materials Utilized.

Gum chicle, which forms the basis of most American chewing gums, is by no means the only chewing material, though chewing gum has spread over a large portion of the world.

Among the old fashioned the gum of the spruce tree is still in greater favor, and druggists near the great spruce belts drive a thriving trade in the brown lumps.

Although the chicle comes from the tropics, it is seldom used as a chewing gum there, uncured rubber being the fashion. In Peru "cuca," or cocoa leaves, form the staple chew, the plant being a powerful stimulant, since from its leaves cocaine is extracted. In the east the betel nut is chewed in preference, the nut being prepared with lime. To it might be accorded the place of first prominence, since because of the congestion of population practically one-tenth of the human race give it their preference.

One of the oddest chews is the leaden bullet which the English soldier used to chew before the introduction of the jacketed bullets now in use. They declared that it lessened their thirst and to some extent deadened their hunger on long marches.

And then there is tobacco.

ODD THINGS ABOUT WORDS.

When the Word "Lunch" Was First Used It Meant a "Lump."

A "lunch," etymologically, is just a lump. In the sixteenth century a "lunch of bacon" meant merely a slice or hunk of it. So Burns speaks of bread and cheese "dealt about in lunches," and Scott records that "little Benjie was ramming a huge luncheon of pie crust into his mouth." While in modern times "lunch" is an abbreviation from "luncheon," the latter was originally an elongation of "lunch." A philologist shows how the old "noon shenk," noon drink, came to mean noon eating, and to appear as "nunsheon," and the development thereafter of "luncheon" from "lunch" was very natural.

Curious changes of words sometimes take place between two languages. Thus English has borrowed the French "poseur" and has given to France "snob" in trade. Frenchmen have a way of taking a polysyllabic word and using half of it. Thus of "steeplechase they have appropriated the "steeple," and now the French sportsman speaks of "mounting a steeple" when he means to ride a race over the customary obstacles. A smoking jacket is with him a "smoking" and a sleeping car is a "sleeping."

Inspired a Noble Poem.

It was the daguerreotypist Hesler of Chicago who inspired Longfellow to write "Hiawatha." Mr. Hesler was one of the most eminent of his profession, and in 1851 the London world's fair awarded him the prize medal for daguerreotypes. One of them, a picture of the falls of Minnehaha, came into the poet's possession and furnished immediate inspiration for the poem. In testimony of his debt to Mr. Hesler Longfellow sent him a bound volume of his poems with his signature and compliments on the fly leaf.

The Herring.

Deep sea denizens of the northern waters are all remarkable for their migratory habits, the herring especially so. These fish approach the Newfoundland littoral to spawn and then are captured in great quantities, but this is only during a few months every year, while for the remainder they withdraw to some waters the location of which has never been determined.

A Great Sinner.

The Doctor—Yes; that's the sort of man Bejings is. The neighbors say he cheats the gas company by tapping a pipe in his basement, and he lies about the ages of his children to keep from having to send them to school. The Professor—Then he sins against both light and knowledge.

The Art of Pleasing.

The secret of many a man's success is an affable manner, which makes everybody feel easy in his presence, dispels fear and timidity and calls out the finest qualities in one's nature.—Success Magazine.

BELL

WHY DO
So many Institutions devoted to the higher Education select Bell pianos? The fact that they use and prefer the Bell is evidence of distinct merit!
One follows professional advice in acquiring an education, why not follow professional custom in buying Bell pianos?
The only pianos with the Illimitable Quick Repeating Action.

ART PIANOS

Send for Beautiful (free) Booklet B to The BELL PIANO & Organ Co., Limited GUELPH, ONTARIO.

SAFE INVESTMENTS

LOW EXPENSE

THE CARDINAL POINTS
—OF—
THE DOMINION LIFE
Head Office: Waterloo, Ont.
P. H. SIMS, S.B. BRICKER, Hon. Senator McMULLEN
Vice-Presidents.
THOS. HILLIARD. President and Managing Director.
FRED HALSTEAD. Supt. of Agencies

LOW MORTALITY

HIGH AVERAGE INTEREST RATE

ICE CREAM SODA

We are serving Ice Cream Soda this winter as well as the Ice Cream.

A delicious drink we are serving now is a Chocolate Soda, made from Lowney's Gold Medal Chocolate.

It is manufactured by an improved process which preserves all the nutritive qualities of the Cocoa Bean and makes a delicious drink either in a soda or hot chocolate.

Ed. F. Dickens.
CATERER

K&K K&K K&K K&K K&K K&K

BLOOD DISEASES

If you inherited or contracted any Blood Disease you are never safe unless the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. At times you see alarming symptoms, but live in hopes no serious results will follow. Have you any of the following symptoms? Sore throat, ulcers on the tongue or in the mouth, hair falling out, aching pains, itchiness of the skin, sores or blotches on the body, eyes red and smart, dyspeptic stomach, sexual weakness—enlarged glands. Don't trust to luck. Don't ruin your system with the old fogy treatment—mercury, potash and patent medicines, which suppress the symptoms for a time only to break out again when happy in domestic life. Don't let quacks experiment on you. Our NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure you. OUR GUARANTEES ARE BACKED BY BANK BONDS that the Blood or Skin disease will never return. Thousands of patients have been already cured by our NEW METHOD TREATMENT for over 20 years, and no return of the disease. No experiment, no risk—not a "patch up," but a positive cure. The worst cases solicited.

W. H. PATTERSON NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT. W. H. PATTERSON

Before Treatment

HAD BLOOD POISON 12 YEARS

The New Method Treatment Cured Him after Drugs, Mercury, Hot Springs, &c., all failed.

Wm. H. Patterson, of Saginaw, Mich., relates his experience: "I do not like notoriety and especially of this kind, but I feel I owe this much to Drs. K. & K. for the great good they have done me. I had a serious blood disease when 24 years of age. The skin and blood symptoms gradually developed. Pimples and ulcers formed, running sores broke out, hair became loose, pains in the bones and joints, dyspeptic stomach, foul breath, itchy skin, etc. It is needless for me to say I tried doctors. I grew to hate the looks of one. I visited Hot Springs twice for four months each time. It helped me temporarily, but in six months after returning home I was as bad as ever. Finally a Doctor friend of mine advised me to see Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. He said he had known of them for over 20 years, and as they made a specialty of these diseases and treated the worst cases by the hundred they ought to be expert in curing them. I was afraid of advertising doctors, but I took his advice. They agreed to treat me under a guarantee or no pay. I investigated their financial standing and found they were perfectly responsible, so I commenced the new method Treatment. The eruptions disappeared in two weeks, the bone pains in four weeks and in four months I was entirely cured. Yes, sir, I can recommend the New Method Treatment for Blood and Skin Diseases."

After Treatment

CURES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY.
Consultation Free. Books Free. If unable to call, write for a Question Blank for Home Treatment.

DRS. KENNEDY & KERGAN
148 SHELBY STREET, - DETROIT, MICH.

Colonial
London Dry Gin
A Strictly Pure and Wholesome Spirit.

KEEP THE CAPSULES AND GET A VALUABLE PREMIUM.

BOIVIN, WILSON & CO., Montreal.

Armour's Extract of Beef
AND THE CHAFING DISH

By using a little Armour's Extract of Beef in preparing the good things on your chafing dish, you insure their easy digestion and an appetizing flavor.

Armour's Extract of Beef is the concentrated essence of prime beef. It makes an excellent soup stock—costs less and gives better results.

Send for a copy of "Culinary Wrinkles," which tells how to create 20 triumphs of the chafing dish, and how to use Armour's Extract of Beef for making soups, sauces, gravies, stews, etc. SOLD BY GROCERS & DRUGGISTS.

ARMOUR LIMITED, Toronto

ARMOUR'S TOMATO & BEEF CATSUP
An appetising relish.
Sold by all grocers.

The Intelligencer Bindery

Makes a specialty of Ledgers, Journals, Cash Books and all Descriptions of Blank Account Books.

Overcoats Ordered Out of the House

Here's the first "toot" of our Overcoat Special———

Time's Up and the Coats Must Go

If you want a coat step lively, please.

If you knew we were giving away $5 bills you would come in for your share, wouldn't you? Well, it's just what we are doing, and sometimes we give away even more.

We are closing out our Overcoats.

We won't carry them over.

It certainly isn't good business to do so.

Our Overcoats are cut to the cost and often less.

Now Is the Time to Buy an Overcoat.

Copyright 1905 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

MEN'S SUITS

After the season's rush we find many lines of Men's Suits badly broken. These we are offering at greatly reduced prices.

Quick & Robertson

BELLEVILLE'S FOREMOST CLOTHIERS.

ESTABLISHED 1870.

30 p.c. Reduction

ON ALL

MANUFACTURED FURS

S. A. HYMAN & CO.,

MANUFACTURING FURRIER.

N. B. Highest cash prices paid for Raw Furs.

BARGAIN PRICES IN SHIRTS

For a few days we will offer you a large assortment of $1.00 and $1.25 Shirts for:—

75c

See window display.

Chas. J. Symons

298 Front St. Shirts to Order.

GLASSES THAT BEAUTIFY.

Eye strain causes that worn, worried look which mars otherwise beautiful features.

This can be removed by correct and up-to-date glasses.

Correct Lense.

Up-to-date Mountings.

Our neat Rimless Eye Glasses and Spectacles please the most exacting.

T. Blackburn.

TO MEET THE EYE of those with eye troubles this advertisement is inserted.

It is our business to make eye tests, prescribe a cure for defective sight and to provide the necessary EYE GLASSES OR SPECTACLES. for the test: we charge nothing, if glasses are ordered here, and for the glasses our prices are only reasonable.

ALEX. RAY.

How to Make Hens Lay

Keep Your Chickens Strong and Healthy.

Feed them once everyday.

Dr. Hess' Poultry Panacea

Prevents all Diseases.

WATERS' DRUG STORE.

Happy Enough...

Your family can be happy enough if they have good health and they can be helped a long way on the road to health if your Plumbing is just right.

We keep up with the times, and our up-to-date skillful Plumbing work is worth a great deal to you.

JOHN LEWIS & CO.

A BARGAIN IN CARDS.

Business and professional men will do well in examining the cards just imported by The Intelligencer Job Department. They are of superior quality and very cheap. We have them from $1.00 for 500 with name and address upwards. Eight sizes. tf

Good humor is the health of the soul.

A Dual Purpose Railroad Track.

Peterboro Review: A Peterboro traveller, who has just returned from a trip up the Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa Railway, reports a curious condition of affairs in the district traversed by that line. The railroad track, he says, serves a dual purpose, being used as a highway for both railway rolling stock and farmers' vehicles. The ordinary roads are in such bad condition during the winter that the farmers use the railway track as a highway. Several times when this traveller was a passenger on the above road, the train would overtake a farmer hauling a load of wood or other produce on the railway line. The train would be stopped, the train hands go out, help the farmer off the track with his load, the train would then move ahead a short distance, and the train hands would then assist the farmer in getting back on to the track. Having done so the train would continue on its way.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take "Laxative Bromo" Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c.

FIFTH CON. THURLOW.

The farm of Mr. James Boldrick, fifth concession Township of Thurlow, has been purchased by Mr. Frank Hicks. Mr. Boldrick and family went to Forest Grove, Oregon, last June, where they intend to reside.

Usually the man who worries over the country's difficulties lets his wife do the worrying for the family.

BUSINESS CARDS at The Intelligencer. Your name and address on 500 $1.00. a19-t

The coming man is generally a good advertiser.

An Expert Talks On Good Roads.

MR. A. W. CAMPBELL, PROVINCIAL ROAD COMMISSIONER, HOLDS FORTH AT AMELIASBURG.

On Thursday, January 18th, a good roads meeting was held in the Town Hall, Ameliasburg, Prince Edward Co., and was fairly well attended by those interested in the improvement of the public highways in that township. The chief attraction in connection with the meeting was the delivering of an address on the subject of better roads by A. W. Campbell, C.E., Deputy Minister of Public Works and Commissioner of Highways for the Province of Ontario.

For some time an agitation has been going on in this township for the improvement of the roads and although this was Mr. Campbell's third visit, each time of which he spoke upon the subject of roads it is to be regretted that the improvement has not been as great as he expected to find, or as much by any means as it might have been. Mr. Campbell, who is both an able and convincing speaker, held his audience for over two hours in complete attention. He began his address after a brief introduction by Reeve W. E. Anderson, who acted as chairman, by saying that while he had had over 20 years' practical experience in building and suggesting the building of better roads throughout the province, he did not profess to be an expert, neither did he claim to know all about the building of roads, and hoped the time would never come when he would know all about the building of them: He occasionally met men who professed to know all about this subject and who had been able to acquire this knowledge in a year or two, but he was a student and always hoped to be, and must confess that he was not so apt in acquiring knowledge as these men and hoped the time would be a long way off when he could feel there was nothing more to learn about how to build better roads. He had come to the meeting at the request of the Municipal Council, and he thanked them for the kind invitation and the privilege afforded of talking to them on the subject of roads. His visit brought no tax upon the municipality; he was employed and paid by the Government, and if he had not come here he would have been some place else. He was not present for the purpose of laying down any set plan for them to follow or to find fault with any system now in force, if working to his entire satisfaction, or to endeavor to force his ideas upon them. He would feel repaid for his visit if he should be able to drop some hint or suggestion which they might feel disposed to adopt, which would in any way have a tendency towards influencing them to improve their present methods of road building. He wished to impress this one fact upon his audience, that no matter how much enthusiasm might be displayed by their Council in the way of improving the roads by adopting more modern systems, their efforts would result in failure if they were not backed up by the ratepayers and every assistance rendered towards carrying to successful completion any plan designed for the promotion of a better system for building and maintaining good roads. He was not present to find fault with the Statute Labor Law. He would say that the Statute Labor Law was one of the best laws ever introduced and had done much towards opening up this country for settlement. He felt, though, that in the days gone by more people were faithful in the discharge of their Statute Labor than they were at the present time and if the people would at the present time do the work assigned them to perform by the Statute Labor Law, as faithfully and honestly as the old settlers of years ago had done theirs, there would be no necessity for calling meetings of this kind and advocating or trying to devise some other system of building and keeping the roads in repair. Every one was willing to admit that the performance of Statute Labor in many sections was a farce, in short a regular holiday. Section after section turned out not to work, but fill in the time, swapping yarns, telling stories, smoking, having a good time generally, possibly more time taken up discussing the fixing of some piece of road than it would take to build it, or what too often was the case through changing pathmasters—undoing some piece of work done by the pathmaster of the previous year, making the road worse than before for public travel. There were many road sections which endeavored to do and did do good work. These sections had the hardest part of the system of performing Statute Labor. While they did their own work honestly and fair they were year after year being taxed by the Council to provide grants to fix up some other road sections in the township, the Statute Labor of which would have been sufficient to have kept in good shape had the time not been fooled away, and the probability that a grant had been squandered in the same way. It was seven years since his last visit to Ameliasburg. At that time the township had bought and paid for a rock crusher and grader and he felt the outlook was bright. From the returns furnished the Bureau of Industries by your Clerk, the average yearly expenditure in cash on roads and bridges was about $1,000, amounting in seven years to $7,000. He also noticed the amount of Statute Labor work each year required to be performed was 4,800 days. In seven years this would amount to 33,600 days. It was true [illegible] labor was high at the present time and possibly some difficulty might arise in getting labor at less than $1.50 a day, but to be safe in his estimate he would make the price of work at $1.00 a day. This would place a value on the 33,600 days of Statute Labor at $33,600.00, added to this the $7,000 of cash expenditure and in seven years the Township of Ameliasburg has expended on roads and bridges alone $41,600 in hard cash or its equivalent besides having the free use of the most improved road making machinery at their disposal. Now, gentlemen, said Mr. Campbell, be honest and fair with yourselves; have your roads been improved to the extent they should have been with this enormous expenditure in seven years of $41,600. Would any of you feel satisfied with an expenditure on this line in your own private business with no greater profits? What hope have you if you continue your present system, your roads will be any better than to-day should I visit you again in seven years, with the same expenditure of $41,600. You are in a better position than myself to know whether during this period of seven years you have realized the full value of your money and time under your present system of doing Statute Labor. If you feel that you have, then I say by all means continue that system; on the other hand, if you have not, then don't you think it would be nothing more than good judgment to change that system, and, if possible, adopt some other which would pay you better? I can say to you honestly, as one having had experience in road building and a civil engineer that $41,600 would have macadamized every main road and side road in this township with stone. I would even go further than this and say that a commutation tax of 50 cents for the 4,800 days of Statute Labor you are now doing, which would be $2,400 yearly, if properly expended, would do more substantial work than you are now doing with your $5,800 or its equivalent. Modern times demand modern methods; if it were not so farmers to-day would be cutting their grain with the sickle and scythe instead of with the most improved binders. The old system of schools, where it was necessary to carry them on by voluntary subscription, according to the children sent to school and the boarding of the teacher on the same basis have long since passed away, and who would prefer the old system to the new. In fact, we can scarcely think of any of the old systems which did excellent service in their day, but have been revolutionized at the present time to a much greater extent than the performance of Statute Labor. In the Province of Ontario there are about 750 townships. Of this number over 130 have commuted or abolished their Statute Labor and are building their roads according to some systematic plan, while in this township you have no system, but fifty some different pathmasters idea every year how the work should be done, or should not be done. Why should not the Township of Ameliasburg, which I am told is one of the wealthiest townships in one of the wealthiest counties in the province, adopt this scheme of modern methods? The people are demanding better facilities of communication, and very readily and properly take up telephones and improvements of that kind, and why should the roads be neglected? We would not consider it good policy if a railway management spent all its money in telegraph and telephone arrangements and allow the track and roadbed to remain in any kind of shape. Mr. Campbell closed a most excellent address by adding he had no hesitation in saying that if the township were to commute their Statute Labor at 25 cents a day, which would give $1,200, and add to this the $1,000 average annual expenditure in cash, making $2,200, with the advantage of having road machinery paid for, in five years all the principal roads in the township should be macadamized.

A hearty vote of thanks to the speaker for his instructive address was moved by John Sprague, seconded by James E. Anderson. Ex-Warden Reech and Warden Young expressed pleasure at being present and their hearty endorsation of the good roads movement.

THOSE ANNOYING BLACKHEADS.

External applications will never remove pimples or blackheads. Only by stimulating circulation and purifying the blood can it be done. For quick, sure release from these pests use Ferrozone; it drives all humors from the blood, makes the skin healthy, tones up the system. With the pure, nutritious blood made by Ferrozone it's impossible to suffer from any skin disease. You'll have a smooth, delightful skin, healthy color and beautiful complexion by using Ferrozone—and you'll feel immensely better as well. Fifty cents buys a box containing fifty chocolate-coated tablets at any drug store.

A Small Fire.

At a few minutes after 6 o'clock last evening fire did some damage to a double roughcast house on Pinnacle street. The building was occupied by B. A. Sanford, and is owned by Mr. T. A. Petrie. The fire broke out in the rear part of the house, and the brigade had to tear away a portion of a partition in order to extinguish the flames. The loss to the occupant and owner is covered by insurance.

A PROSPEROUS MAN.

A man to look prosperous should be well dressed. Clothes count for more than anything else when first impressions are formed. Good clothes help a man along in life. There are no two ways about it. Quick & Robertson can make a man look prosperous in short order without material damage to his purse.

Again the Deadly Railroad Crossing.

DR. JOHN SING, OF THURLOW, HAD A CLOSE CALL WHILE COMING INTO THE CITY THIS MORNING.

What might easily have proved to be a fatal accident occurred this morning on the Canifton road railway crossing of the G.T.R.

Dr. John Sing who lives in the Second concession of Thurlow, was driving into this city with a horse and buggy, and, when coming over the crossing at the Canifton road was struck by a light engine.

The buggy was demolished, and Dr. Sing, when picked up, was thought to have been fatally injured.

He was taken to the Hospital, and enquiry at that institution this afternoon elicited the information that, though it was impossible just yet to make a correct diagnosis, the unfortunate man had not received any fatal injuries.

The horse was uninjured, and galloped off into the city, where it was caught.

Dr. Sing, we are told, is deaf, and the sight of one of his eyes is also defective, which, perhaps, accounts for his not seeing or hearing the engine. He is about 60 years of age, and formerly, it is said, was a doctor in the U. S. army. Of late years he has followed farming for a living. He married, some years ago, a Miss Gordanier, of this city.

THE NEW WARDEN.

BRIEF SKETCH OF MR. ROBERT LANCASTER, THE COUNTY'S NEW CHIEF MAGISTRATE.

The Warden-elect for 1906, Mr. Robert Lancaster, is a farmer well known in the northern part of the County. He was born in Quebec in the year 1847, and when a young man, 19 years of age, came to this section of the country, and has since made his home in the Township of Dungannon. For five years he was Reeve of that township and for 17 years has been a member of the County Council. When the County was divided into divisions for County Council purposes Mr. Lancaster was elected one of the representatives of No. 7 division, and, although he has had several contests, has proved successful every time. In politics he is a Liberal. According to an unwritten law of the Council, which has prevailed for years, the wardenship alternates between Conservatives and Liberals, and this year it was the turn for a Liberal to occupy the chair, so Mr. Lancaster was unanimously selected. He is an adherent of the Methodist church and a member of the Canadian Order of Oddfellows. Mr. Lancaster is married and has a grown up family. That he will fill the Warden's chair with credit to the County and himself there seems to be little doubt.

HASTINGS IRON ORE IS MADE INTO STEEL.

ELECTRICAL TREATMENT ACCOMPLISHED THE WORK IN FIFTEEN MINUTES—MAY MEAN MUCH FOR EASTERN ONTARIO.

Toronto, Jan. 23.—T. W. Gibson, Provincial Director of Mines, has in his possession two interesting curiosities sent to him by Mr. J. W. Evans, a mining engineer of Deseronto. They are two small samples of steel made from iron ores, which have been disregarded by ordinary iron smelters on account of their inadaptibility to the ordinary smelting processes. Mr. Evans used the electric furnace and accomplished the process in fifteen minutes.

One sample was made from the titanum ore of the Horton Mine of Hastings county, and the other from the Coe Hill Mine in the same district. This is the first steel made from these ores in Canada, and if the expenses of the process can be reduced to a profitable basis it may mean the commercial utilization of these hitherto valueless ores.

Take in the Family Washing

Clothes line thieves are operating in the city and it will be well for the housewives to take in their clothes before the shades of night fall. On Monday night a line was stripped on Emily street and last night two lines were stripped on Grier street. The losers were Mr. F. M. Clarke and a family near by named Watts.

Not Likely to Be Claimed.

Chief Newton has in his possession a puck which he would like to find the owner of. The article in question was found in the Baptist Church, and a broken window was evidence of how it found its way into the building

WHAT CAUSES SNORING.

When asleep people that snore breathe through the mouth instead of the nostrils, which are choked with catarrh. Just use "Catarrhozone" before retiring and you'll quickly cure the snoring habit. By destroying the cause of catarrh and healing the membranes Catarrhozone makes a complete cure in every case; it cleans the nostrils, stops the discharge and prevents dropping in the throat in a few minutes. Nothing so pleasant or certain to cure snoring, catarrh or colds as Catarrhozone—that's worth remembering.

COLGATES

Cashmere Boquet and Violet

TALCUM POWDER

Shaving Stick and Barber's Soap, Monad Violet, Cold Cream, Sandal Wood and other fine

TOILET SOAPS.

GEEN'S DRUG STORE

CARMAN OPERA HOUSE.
S. E. Carman, Manager.

Tuesday, January 30.

Direct from Five MONTHS Run at La Salle Theatre, Chicago.

THE SHOW WITH MUSIC

"HIS HIGHNESS, THE BEY"

A Musical Comedy in Two Acts.

More Laughs and Music than ALL Others Combined.

Book and Music by Howard, Hough And Adams.

10 MUSICAL COMEDY STARS 10 AND 50 OTHERS

Including

THE FAMOUS BROILERS

And The Best Chorus on Earth.

Twenty Big Musical Numbers.

Gorgeous Scenery

Ten Positive Song Hits

Prices 25, 50, 75, $1.00 and $1.50.

The Quinte Laundry Co.

A new list of prices for household goods—20c per doz.

MANGLE WORK IN LARGE LOTS AT SPECIAL PRICES.

Agents for British American Dyeing and Cleaning Co'y.
Front Street South.
Telephone 102.

HOSPITAL Entertainment in CITY HALL on Thursday & Friday, 25 & 26. Tea served. European plan. 4 to 7 o'clock. Spinsters' Convention in evening. Admission 25 cents.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

"UNCLE TOM" ALWAYS DRAWS.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin," it would seem, never grows old. Year after year it holds the boards, a favorite with old and young. The Al. W. Martin company had a bumper house last night, and certainly gave a fine presentation of the historic old play. The orchestra was particularly good, and the characters, for the most part, in very capable hands. By means of cinematograph effects many embellishments were added, and the performance, as put on last night, would be an eye-opener to those who saw the old play a quarter of a century ago. There was the usual complement of singers and dancers, and, taken altogether, the Martin company put on about the best "Tom Show" ever seen here.

SOUTH AFRICAN BOYS' CHOIR.

Belleville people will be delighted to learn that the Kaffir Boys' Choir is again coming to this city. This Choir is undoubtedly the finest organization of its kind that has ever toured this continent. The singing of the boys, mostly in English, is marvellous and delightful, and the short talks on Africa by Mr. Balmer and Miss Clark are extremely interesting. They will appear in Bridge St. Church Sunday School Rooms, Thursday evening, Jan. 25. Admission 25c. 24-25

"HIS HIGHNESS THE BEY."

Teeming with catchy musical numbers, bright, crisp, clean comedy and plenty of action, "His Highness the Bey," the season's musical novelty, after a five months' run in Chicago, comes to the Carman on Tuesday next. "His Highness the Bey," very correctly and appropriately termed the "show with music," holds the record at the LaSalle, having enjoyed a longer run than either the Royal Chef, Isle of Spice, Runaways, Isle of Bong Bong, or any of this producing house's successes. The action tells of the tribulations of Louis Wurtzelheimer, a band leader from Kankakee, who, by odd series of mischances, becomes both a Turkish bey and the leader of a band of desperate insurgents, who are seeking the life of the new bey in order to overthrow the government. Louis, who originally lands in Turkey in answer to an advertisement for a band leader, is followed by a jealous wife, who becomes involved with the houris of the harem, bequeathed the new bey by his fleeing predecessor. An American war correspondent and foreign ambassadors complicate the affair by making love to the numerous wives of Wurtzelheimer, and these afford comedy situations galore.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorized to refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

Daily Intelligencer.

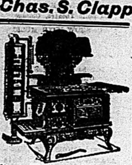
TEMPTING, LUSCIOUS

CANDIES MADE FRESH DAILY.

Fresh Mixed Creams 20c lb.
Creamy Cream Peppermints 30c lb.
Creamy Wintergreen Creams 30c lb.
Chocolate Drops 20c lb.
Chocolate Drops 30c lb.
Chocolate Drops 40c lb.
Chocolate Greengage 50c and 60c lb.
Chocolate Pineapple 50c and 60c lb.

These are a few with many others we are making this week.

Chas. S. Clapp



The Happy Thought

Is the only range which has been made under one name for eighteen years, and is still the leader.

WM. McGIE,

Tel. 38. 11 Front St.

CHRISTMAS FLOWERS

A choice lot of Plants and Cut Flowers, Holly and Mistletoe.

COLLIP.

Better News—A FURTHER SLUMP IN MEATS.

—Beef Roasts	3c, 10c, 12½c
— " Steak	11c, 12½c
— " Stew	5c, 6c,
—Round Steak	3 lbs. for 25c
—Lamb	8c, 10c, 12½c
—Pork	10c. 12½c
—Sausages	3 lb. for 25c

—GREEN.

PECK & WILLS.

Opposite Market. Successors to Walter Alford

Sash, Door and Blind Factory.

Dressed Lumber of all kinds.—Mouldings Store Fronts and Fittings, Stair Work Grilles, Mantles, Hardwood Pannelling Bar Fixtures, &c.

Prompt attention given to custom work. A call solicited.

PECK & WILLS.

When the bread or cake or pastry comes from the oven light, crisp and appetising, you are wont to say you have had good luck with your baking.

The "good luck" idea is a relic of the time when housekeepers pitted their competency against poor flour.

To-day good baking isn't a matter of good luck in any home where

Royal Household Flour

is intelligently used.

In the hands of competent housewives it never fails because it is the whitest, lightest, purest and best baking flour to be had.

If the goodness of your baking is due to chance, your grocer is giving you the wrong kind of flour. Ask for Ogilvie's Royal Household.

Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Ltd.
Montreal.

"Ogilvie's Book for a Cook," contains 130 pages of excellent recipes, some never published before. Your grocer can tell you how to get it FREE. 161

Unloads the Liver, Opens the Bowels, Relieves the Kidneys.

APENTA

The Safest and Most Reliable Household Aperient.

ONE DOSE gives IMMEDIATE RELIEF.

ORDINARY DOSE, A Wineglassful Before Breakfast.

The good effects of Apenta Water are maintained by smaller and steadily diminishing doses, repeated for successive days.

Sole Exporters: THE APOLLINARIS CO., Ld., London.

MUST BE A GODLY MAN

Dr. Torrey States the Great Essential of a Minister.

Preaches There Is a Personal Devil to One of the Greatest of Massey Hall Crowds — Saloons, Theosophists, Christian Scientists, Dowieism and Spiritualism Evidences That He Is a Match For Any One of Us.

Toronto, Jan. 24.—The Torrey ministerial conference opened yesterday at the Metropolitan Church. Nearly 500 ministers and theological students were present. Dr. Torrey said that the great responsibility of winning souls dwelt on themselves personally. "If the ministers get right, the churches and sinners will all be converted and the greatest revival ever heard of would begin right in Toronto," he said.

The great essential of a minister was to prove his ministry by saving souls. He must be a Godly man, at all times preaching under the guidance of the Spirit of God. Under such men the church prospered and under other leaders the church declined.

Province Packs Hall.

Massey Hall was packed in the afternoon with workers and laymen from all over the province.

The necessity and possibility of the baptism of the Holy Spirit in order to undertake any kind of Christian work was the theme of Dr. Torrey.

In the evening Evangelist Torrey gave one of his sermons to the largest crowd yet seen in the auditorium.

He told every man and women present that sometime or other they would need a hiding place from the peril hanging over them. To-day many needed a hiding place from the accusations of their own consciences. The conscience might sleep, but it would never die and woe to the man or woman who had no hiding place when the divine spark wakes.

There Is a Devil.

"I believe in a personal devil," said Dr. Torrey, "and you need a hiding place from his power and cunning. Many people say there is no devil, I know there is because the Bible teaches there is and my own observation has shown me there is. The footprints of the devil are all over this city. Look at the saloons. What means these strange delusions of the day, Theosophists, Christian Scientists, Dowieism, Spiritualism. It means that there is a devil. That devil is more than a match for any of us. Many in Toronto believe there is no hell. My common-sense tells me that there is a hell and if there is not there should be."

Someone in the audience applauded and the evangelist said: "Don't applaud, I want that to sink into every heart in Toronto."

ALEX. CARTER NOT GUILTY.

A. R. Walton on Trial on Four Charges of False Pretences.

Toronto, Jan. 24.—After deliberating for over four hours, the jury decided Alex. Carter was not guilty of the charge of killing Fred ("Dutch") Miller. The verdict seemed a surprise to the court and its frequenters, who rather expected a disagreement.

Justice Britton, in discharging Carter, advised him to have more control over his temper in the future. "There might have been a more serious charge against you, which might have cost you your life. The dead man was only willing to fight when you wished him to. Let this be a lessen to you."

The afternoon session was one of continuous objections. A. R. Walton was put on trial on four different charges of obtaining goods by false pretences from Ambrose Kent & Co., Ed. Mack, Ryrie Bros., and the Julian Sale Co.

The first charge taken up was obtaining a diamond pin from the Kent firm. The firm was never paid for it, but paid $30 to redeem it from the Buffalo pawnbroker.

Senator Cox denied being mixed up with Walton in anyway, any more than giving him two letters of introduction.

PACIFIC LINER WRECKED.

Valencia Aground on West Coast of Vancouver Island—Serious Loss of Life Is Feared.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 24.—A great marine disaster has occurred near Carmanah, off the west coast of Vancouver Island. The steamer Valencia of San Francisco, a regular liner plying between points in California and Washington, Victoria and the north, and which was due in Victoria Monday night, was wrecked off Cape Beale, going ashore on a rocky and perilous place. The first news of the disaster reached Captain Gandin, Receiver of Wrecks, late yesterday afternoon upon the arrival of nine of the survivors in a boat which succeeded in landing at the telegraph huts on the coast several miles from the scene of the disaster. The information obtainable from them as to the loss of life when the Valencia struck and the crew and passengers took to the boats is of the vaguest sort.

Over a Hundred On Board.

There were considerably over a hundred persons on board. Mr. Paterson, the lighthousekeeper at Cape Beale, wired that sixty persons had been drowned, and asked that assistance be rushed from Victoria at the earliest moment.

The vessel is reported against a cliff and the survivors who reached shore near Carmanah are the only men who can furnish any details of the affair. They have already told their story, although a disconnected one. The reason the vessel proceeded so far north and how she came to strike on the coast still remains unexplained.

Canadians On the Vessel.

The passenger list is not yet obtainable, but Victorians are looking on the present vessel for W. H. Langley, a well-known local barrister, and his bride, formerly Miss Raiss. Another bridal couple on board are J. Downey of Saanich and wife, the latter a Miss Camp. Messrs. J. Lyle, a former purser of the Rosalie, and Fay, an insurance man, were also on board. The steamer Queen City, which left here last night for the west ocast, had on board a number of Indians, who were to land both at Cloose and Pachena Bay, where the Valencia is. This being the case, the Queen City could not fail to see the stranded vessel, and may have already rendered help.

To Attempt a Rescue.

The steamer Queen City will bring the survivors to Victoria in the morning. The lost may be safely put at fifty or sixty, and those in peril at about ninety. Two young men, Daykin and Logan, have gone to the scene in a small boat with ropes in hope of rescuing two men who are on the face of the cliff and unable to get up or back to the ship and in peril from the rising tide.

DEADLY FURNACE GAS.

Three Servants Asphyxiated and One Is Already Dead.

Quebec, Jan. 24.—Three servant—Mrs. Thomas Greene, her husband and an English girl of about 18 years, employed by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Joseph, were found unconscious on the floor of the basement of the latter's residence, Grand Allee, by other servants, about 8 o'clock yesterday morning. All had been asphyxiated by gas escaping from the furnace. Mrs. Greene is dead.

Her husband attended the furnace and did other chores. They were an English couple, past middle age, and had been here about a year.

The key in the furnace was turned, and this, it is thought, caused the gas to escape.

WARDENS ELECTED.

Bruce—A. W. Robb.
Carlton—Charles Craig.
Dufferin—Samuel Platt.
Frontenac—W. J. Franklin.
Haliburton—George W. Hewitt.
Hastings—Robert Lancaster.
Huron—Hugh Spackinnon.
Kent—S. P. Sturgess.
Lambton—F. C. Watson.
Leeds and Grenville—Isaiah Alguire.
Middlesex—F. Shaver.
Ontario—Ambrose E. Henry.
Oxford—James Carrett.
Perth—Robert E. Armstrong.
Simcoe—Joseph Whiteside.
Welland—Charles Steel.
Wellington—Alex. McKinnon.
York—W. H. Johnston.

A Cocking Main.

St. Catharines, Jan. 24.—The police authorities of Grimsby Village, yesterday laid information against some thirty-four men who, it is claimed, were interested in a cocking-main which was held at that place Jan. 2. A large number of sports from Grimsby, Beamsville, Winona, St. Catharines and Buffalo were present, and some parties whose names are prominent in the county are on the list.

Fire at Dundalk.

Dundalk, Jan. 24.—About 1 o'clock yesterday morning, fire destroyed the brick store on Main street owned by James Carson and occupied by Barton & Arnold, furniture dealers. The general store of J. D. Brown, on one side, and S. McCullough's office, were more or less damaged.

CANADIANS IN DEFEAT

Capt. Campbell and Mr. Wyatt Share in Unionist Rout.

Austin Chamberlain Is Elected by a Big Majority—Rosebery Junior's Fate in the Balance Over Home Rule—Tuesday's Returns Include One Conservative Gain, One Labor Gain and Two Liberal Gains.

London, Jan. 24.—(C. A. P.)—The following was the standing of the parties at last midnight:

Liberals	289
Labor	38
Conservatives	126
Nationalists	80
Liberal Gains	159
Labor Gains	31
Conservative Gains	10
Nationalist Gains	2
Seats unfilled	144

London, Jan. 24.—Two more Canadian aspirants for the House of Commons fell yesterday. They were Capt. D. F. Campbell and H. Fraser Wyatt, both Conservatives. This disposes of the list of new Canadian candidates in this fight. The net result is the addition of two to the House—Hamar Greenwood and Boulton, both Liberals. All the four Conservatives have now shared the fate of so many of the party and gone down to defeat.

Capt. Campbell was defeated in a three-cornered fight in Mid-Lanark by a majority of 2,776. The seat has always been held by Liberals with majorities of 71 to 1,063. This time a Labor candidate was in the field, but his candidature was repudiated by the official labor men. The Liberal candidate declared that the Conservatives were paying the expenses of the Labor men, but this the Conservatives strongly denied. The result was that James Caldwell, the Liberal, polled 7,246; Capt. Campbell, Conservative, 4,470, and Gibson, Labor, 758.

Mr. Wyatt also fought an even stronger Liberal seat in the Rushcliffe division of Nottinghamshire, where the majorities in the past have ranged from 446 to 2,636. He was opposed by J. E. Ellis, Under Secretary for India in the new Government, whose majority is 3,634. The vote stood—Ellis 9,090, Wyatt 5,450.

Tuesday's Gains.

Other returns last night include one Conservative gain; one Labor gain, and two Liberal gains.

W. Mitchell Thompson, Conservative, secured the seat by a majority of 675 in Northwest Lanark over C. M. Douglas, Liberal, who held the seat by 291. The Labor candidate secured 3,291 votes, and is therefore blamed for defeating the Liberal candidate.

Labor gained the Newton division of Lancashire, J. Seddon defeating Col. Richard Pilkington, Conservative, by 541, the former Conservative majority being 1,504. Labor also scored in the Heywood division of Lancashire. E. H. Holden defeated Capt. M. F. M. Buller by 1,112, and in the Tottenham division of Middlesex Percy Alden securing 2,947 over Horace W. Chatterton, who started with a lead of 2,712. The Liberals also hold the Loughboro division of Lancashire, Maurice Ivey being elected by 1,780.

Irish Question Bobs Up.

Other ridings were decided yesterday, but are not yet announced. The most interesting fight occurred in Midlothian, where Lord Dalmeny, elder son of Lord Rosebery, was fighting for the seat once held by Mr. Gladstone. The Irish question caused trouble, though Lord Dalmeny's utterances were sympathetic to the Irish cause, and in line with Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's pronouncement. He is held responsible for his father's strongly antagonistic views and the official Irish leaders issued a manifesto against him. The last Liberal majority was 314, and the Irish vote numbers over a thousand. It is not thought the manifesto will do more than split the Irish vote at the most.

The standing of the parties is—Liberals 289, Labor 38, Conservatives 126, Nationalists 80.

Gains are: Liberals 159, Labor 31, Conservatives 10, Nationalists 2.

Austin Chamberlain In.

The east, or Bromsgrove, division of Worcestershire has re-elected Joseph Austen Chamberlain, Liberal Unionist, eldest son of Joseph Chamberlain, and former Chancellor of the Exchequer, by over 4,000.

Donald MacMaster, K. C., the defeated candidate at Leigh, and a former Canadian, addressing the meeting after his defeat, said they had been beaten this time by false cries and the landslide.

The future was theirs. They must take to heart the lesson of the fight, and improve their organization. It was not gentlemanly to jeer at a defeated candidate, as the crowd had done at him. Conservatives were bound to win at the next swing of the pendulum.

Military Men Alarmed.

Kingston, Jan. 24.—Military men hereabouts are alarmed at the way Imperial officers are being called into the Canadian service. Gen. Lake is credited with the plan of getting the British officers places in the colony. The latest rumor is that Gen. Parsons is to be given command at Halifax, superseding Col. Drury, C. B. The announcement of English officers getting the staff places in the Royal School of Gunnery here has added consternation.

Squadron Going Home.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 24.—The Vladivostock squadron, consisting of the cruisers Gromobol, Bogatyr and Rossia, arrived at Colombo, Ceylon, Sunday.

Big Cotton Fire.

Jackson, Miss., Jan. 24.—The Mississippi cotton compress burned yesterday with 9,500 bales of cotton. Loss $750,000.

Bishop McEvoy Sees Pope.

Rome, Jan. 24.—The Pope yesterday received in private audience Bishop McEvoy of London, Canada.

STEALING A CONSTITUENCY.

Saskatchewan D. R. O.'s Who Were Former Dominion Officials, Did Not Even Visit Their Polls.

Prince Albert, Sask., Jan. 24.—The two deputy returning officers who were convicted Saturday for not having held an election in their polls, and for having sent in a majority of 150 for Tyerman, the Liberal candidate, were former Government officials. Chas. J. Sutherland was Dominion fruit inspector, and John F. Neilson, Dominion fisheries inspector.

Their attempt to steal the constituency was perfectly astounding. It was proved at the trial that the two officers, along with R. McLeod, another returning officer, did not even visit their polls. The three officers left Prince Albert two days before election and went as far as Isle La Crosse, where they spent election day. Three days after the election was over they returned to Prince Albert with their ballot boxes and 150 votes for Tyerman. Donaldson had previously a majority of 56, and this gave the Liberal candidate a majority of 94. The polls where the election was supposed to have taken place were Pine Point, Bear Lake, and Sandy Lake, 300 miles north of Prince Albert. The inhabitants are practically all Hudson Bay men and Indians. More warrants will be issued.

THE ONTARIO HOUSE.

Legislature Will Be Opened Thursday, Feb. 15—Short But Brisk Session Is Aimed For By Premier.

Toronto, Jan. 24.—His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Mortimer Clark will formerly open the Ontario Legislature on Thursday, Feb. 15, at 3 o'clock.

This statement was made officially by Hon. J. P. Whitney, Premier of Ontario, last evening, and the proclamation was prepared last night.

Notices will be sent out to-day to all parties immediately concerned.

The Premier announced that it was the expectation of the Government to dispose of all the public business in a thorough way in time to prorogue the Legislature on Thursday, April 12, the day preceding Good Friday, making the session a brief but brisk one of just eight weeks.

An organized attempt will be made to do away with the delays which have in the past characterized dealings in connection with private legislation. The times of extension of bills will be shorter and members will be asked to get their notices in right away.

Hon. Mr. Whitney would not say when the Government legislation would be brought forward, beyond that it would be "as soon as possible."

ATTACKED BY BLIGHT.

Great Patches of Ontario's Pine Forests Declared to Be Affected.

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—Officials of the Dominion geological survey have made the sensational announcement that a blight has struck the great pine forests of the Temiskaming district.

They say that great patches of the grand white pines are losing their foliage through some unknown cause. The needle-like leaves of the affected trees were turned in some cases to a yellow color, and in others to a deep red brownish.

In some cases the entire foliage of gigantic forest monsters was so affected, in others the enemy had only attacked in patches, but in all cases appearances pointed to the early death of the trees, which would expose them in a year, or two to the ravages of the "borer," an insect that perforates dead timber in a manner that makes it absolutely worthless, except for firewood.

The discoverers of this condition were Dr. Barlow and W. J. Wilson of the geological survey, both of whom were engaged during last summer in different parts of the Temagami country.

Dr. Barlow communicated his observations upon his return to Hon. Mr. Cochrane, Provincial Minister of Lands and Mines, who expressed his intention of looking into the matter.

PROVINCIAL RIGHTS CONVENTION

Presents Ex-Premier Haultain With $1,000, Which He Refuses.

Moosejaw, Sask., Jan. 24.—An enthusiastic Provincial Rights convention was held here yesterday, when 250 delegates gathered from all parts of Saskatchewan. It was decided to form a permanent Provincial Rights association. The party, in a strong resolution, laid down as one of the main planks in its platform, the nationalization of the school system.

The principle of public control, of railways was also set forth.

The convention presented Haultain with a purse of $1,000, which he absolutely refused.

J. K. McInnis, editor of The Regina Standard, was elected president of the new association.

Repose in Council Chamber.

Montreal, Jan. 24.—The remains of the late Hon. Raymond Prefontaine now repose in the Council Chamber where he ruled the administration for so many years. The funeral train reached here at 8.15 p. m. yesterday. The turnout, both military and civil, was imposing. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who had just arrived from Ottawa; Hon. Messrs. Paterson, Brodeur, Emmerson, Lemieux and scores of federal and local members of Parliaments, made up the cortege.

Canada God's Country.

London, Jan. 24.—(C. A. P.)—"Canada is God's place for poor people," said Commissioner Coombs, who has just arrived. In regard to the Salvation Army emigration scheme he predicted that 1906 would be a record year in the number of emigrants leaving England for Canada. The first would leave in March.

Telephone Bill a Sure Thing.

Winnipeg, Jan. 24.—Hon. Robert Smith said last night, in reference to a report that the Manitoba Government would introduce no telephone legislation this session, that the bill would be introduced in a few days. He said that for obvious reasons it was impossible to make it public beforehand.

THERE ARE MANY BAKING POWDERS

BUT THERE IS ONLY ONE MAGIC BAKING POWDER

It is Pure, Wholesome and Economical SOLD IN ALL SIZES.

E.W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
TORONTO, ONT.
MAGIC
"THE LIGHT OF THE KITCHEN"

British American Assurance Co.
Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co.
Western Fire Insurance Co.
Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Dominion Plate Glass Co.
Travellers' Accident Insurance Co.

CHANCEY ASHLEY
INSURANCE AGENT.
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Opposite Post Office. Belleville

DR. W. H. ELDRED'S
LIQUID ELECTRICITY
The Magic Pain Reliever.
Electricity Cough and Consumption Cure.

See directions on bottles, For sale by
R. Templeton & Co.
Druggists, Belleville, Ont.
or D. P. Corey, General Agent,
202 Church St., Belleville, Ont.

British American Assurance Co.
Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co.
Western Fire Insurance Co.
Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Dominion Plate Glass Co.
Travellers' Accident Insurance Co.

CHANCEY ASHLEY
INSURANCE AGENT.
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Opposite Post Office Belleville.

IMPORTED DIRECT
Pure Norwegian
Cod Liver Oil.
Best for Coughs, colds and all ulmonary Troubles.

DON. G. BLEECKER.
Phone 11.
Prescriptions carefully compounded.

Bargains in Ordered Clothing

As we are contemplating making some changes in our store will offer the following bargains.

25—$18.00 Tweed Suits at	$15.00
40— 20.00 Tweed Suits at	$16.00
30— 22.00 Tweed Suits at	$18.50
30— 24 & 25 Tweed Suits at	$20.00
$5.00 Trousers for	$4.00
6.00 Trousers for	$4.50
7.00 Trousers for	$5.00
8.00 Trousers for	$6.00

Up-to-Date goods made and trimmed same as at regular prices.—Terms cash.

ARTHUR McGIE, 300 Front St

POULTRY SUPPLIES

Fresh Eggs are in Demand—why not order some of the following lines and add to your supply—

MEAT MEAL
GROUND BONE
OYSTER SHELLS
MICA GRIT
INTERNATIONAL POULTRY SPICE
MYER'S POULTRY SPICE
HERBAGEUM
WHEAT, CORN, BARLEY.
COARSE CRACKED CORN
BUCKWHEAT &c.

J.C. Hanley & Co.
Telephone 214.

Another Snap for My Customers

DRESSED LUMBER

Flooring, Wainscotting, Ceiling, Clapboards.

C. P. HOLTON
Phone. 112.

The first test of a truly great man is humanity.

McLAUGHLIN CUTTERS
A Specialty.

The most up-to-date sleighs in style finish and material.

A full assortment at their warerooms OPPOSITE THE MARKET, FRONT ST., BELLEVILLE

Also full lines of :—

Robes, Harness, Blankets Rugs, Men's and Women's Fur Coats and Collars, &c.

Call in before you buy.
No trouble to show goods.

J. A. ROSE,
Manager Belleville Branch.

The Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

Incorporated by Act of Parliament.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000

3 1-3 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE—Bridge St., Belleville.
J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

BANK OF MONTREAL

ESTABLISHED 1817.
CAPITAL AND REST (All Paid Up
$24,000,000
(Twenty-four Millions)

Savings Bank Department.

Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch

G. A. Bennett,
Carpenter. Joiner. Builder.
WORKSHOP AND OFFICE,
Victoria Avenue,
(Next McCrodan's Grocery.)

Estimates furnished, work promptly and carefully executed; prices moderate.

— SPECIALIST ON —

Parquette and Hardwood Floors
Grills and Fireplace Mantels.
Building and House Repairs & Alterations.
Office and Store Fixtures, also Cabinet Work and Furniture Repairs.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No. 8.—12.45 a.m., Mail train, daily, except Monday.
No. 2—1.30 a.m. Fast train (Flyer), daily.
No. 16.—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m., daily, except Sunday.
No. 6—11.15 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4—12.06 p.m., Express, daily.
No. 12.—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5.—2.22 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.
No. 3.—4.02 a.m., Limited Express, daily.
No. 9.—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday. Leaving Toronto at 5.10 p.m., arrives in Belleville at 9.10 p.m.
No. 11.—11.08 a.m., Passenger, Daily, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 1.—1.40 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7.—5.03 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.15 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've.	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published, for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 183, Front St.

Clearing Out Sale

We have a line of Elite Enamelware, Blue outside White inside, this is the best Enamelware made. We find it too expensive for our trade and we have decided not to import many ore.

Our idea is to clear it out entirely, with this object in view, we would ask you to call on us any day this week, if in need of the best goods at prices that are far below 25% discount.

McINTOSH BROS.

Genuine Scranton COAL
Prompt delivery. (Well screened.
THE SCHUSTER CO.
Office, Bridge St.

The Daily Intelligencer.

THE VERY BEST COAL
All Sizes
Wood for the millions.
Dry Pine, Hardwood cut and split.
C. C. LEAVENS

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL — LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL — CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 39 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JANUARY 25, 1906. NO. 222

Teas Get Stale

and you can tell a stale tea the minute you taste it, it lacks the fragrance and the aroma that a fresh tea has.

You Won't Buy Stale Bread

Why buy stale tea? Tea that has been standing around some store for a couple of months or more—generally more. To sell fresh tea it is necessary to buy fresh tea and sell it quick, or it will go stale waiting to be sold. We buy all our tea direct from places of growth and new teas are constantly at our warehouse in Montreal where they are opened, blended, repacked and shipped weekly to our different stores. Consequently our teas are always fresh.

STROUDS

SINCLAIR'S

Great Removal Sale

IS NOW ON.

We Have Five Persian Lamb Jackets

Which will be cleared at the following prices:

$145.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price	$108 75
135.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price	101.25
100.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price	75.00
85.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price	60.75
65.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price	50.75

25 P.C. Discount Off All Small Furs.

Ladies' Cloth Coats HALF PRICE.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO.

Late Returns Come Slowly.

This Emphasizes the Fact That End of the Polling Is Near.

Net Conservative Loss is Now Two Hundred, With About Sixty Seats to Poll—A Turn-Coat Defeated by a Tariff Reformer for North Lonsdale Division of Lancashire—Aberdeen's Son Defeated.

London, Jan. 25.—(C. A. P.)—The slowness with which returns are now received emphasizes the fact that the polling is nearing an end. Results out of thirty-four seats polled yesterday were received, also the remaining two of Tuesday's poll. These include two more Liberal gains, bringing the net Conservative loss up to two hundred. About sixty seats are yet to poll. The tariff reformers get a ray of encouragement from the North Lonsdale division of Lancashire, where the Hon. R. F. Cavandish, who was elected a Conservative in 1900, went over to the Liberals last year, now stood as a free trade candidate. He receives 3,942 votes while C. B. Haddock, tariff reformer, received 4,121.

The standing of the parties is: Liberals, 316; Labor, 42; Conservatives, 139; Nationalists, 82.

12 Liberal Gains.

As a result of Tuesday's pollings the Liberals gained 12 more seats, the Labor party two, and the Conservatives one.

Lord Dalmeny, the son and heir of the Earl of Rosebery, won a great victory in Midlothian, where he increased the Liberal majority from 314 to 3,217. The Irish question caused the trouble.

Lord Haddo, the son and heir of the Earl of Aberdeen, the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, was defeated in Woking, by 1,325 majority.

ROYAL ARCH MASONS.

Annual Convocation of Grand Chapter in Progress at Toronto.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—Men of affairs composing the Grand Chapter, the governing body of Royal Arch Masons in Canada, began their 48th annual convocation in the Temple building yesterday morning. There are in attendance in the neighborhood of 300 delegates, representing every part of Canada.

M. E. Comp. Wm. Roaf, K. C., Toronto, Grand Z., welcomed the delegates and reviewed the work of the year. The committee on Audit and Finance reported the finances to be in a flourishing condition. R. E. Comp. Aubrey White reported the net gain in membership during the year to be 1,084.

The election of officers resulted: M. E. Comp. Roaf, Toronto, Grand Z.; R. E. Comp. John Leslie, Winnipeg, Grand H.; R. E. Comp. Geo. Moore, Hamilton, Grand J.; R. E. Comp. George Bennett, Grand Scribe E.; M. E. Comp. Hugh Murray, Hamilton, Grand Treasurer; Comp. Donald Fraser, London, Grand Scribe N.; Comp. E. B. Brown, Toronto, Grand Principal Sojourner; Comp. James McLaughlin, Owen Sound, Grand Registrar. J. Ross Robertson was elected Chairman of the Board of Benevolence in place of J. S. Dewar, London, resigned. Executive committee, Aubrey White, Toronto; W. S. R. Murch, Kingston; W. T. Toner, Collingwood; J. E. Halliwell, Sterling; John Craig, London; Grand Janitor Jas. M. Pritchard, Toronto.

$100,000,000 TO $150,000,000.

Bulk of Great Field Fortune Goes to the Grandchildren.

New York, Jan. 25.—A Chicago despatch to The Times says: The great bulk of the estate of Marshall Field, according to the will, which was read to the family on Saturday night, will be held undivided under trusteeship for the benefit of three children of the late Marshall Field, Jr., according to one of the members of the family present at the reading of the will. The estate has been estimated at from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000.

Specific bequests are made to the aggregate of $25,568,000. The remainder of the estate is left in trust for the son, Marshall Field, Jr., (died Nov. 27), and his descendants. The principal of the residuary estate is to be kept intact until one of the sons of Marshall Field, Jr., shall reach the age of 50 years. The largest single bequest is for $8,000,000, to be used as an endowment and building fund for the Field Columbian Museum. The widow is given $1,000,000, and to the only daughter, Mrs. Beattie of Leamington, England, $1,000,000 is left in trust.

Premier Whitney at Kingston.

Toronto, Jan. 25—Kingston electors will hear Hon. Mr. Whitney at Kingston on Saturday night when the Premier will attend a mass meeting to favor the candidature of Donald M. McIntyre. On Sunday he will go down to Ottawa where he will keep an appointment with Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Dominion Cabinet regarding Temiskaming Railway matters. Hon. Col. Matheson, Provincial Treasurer, will meet him at the capital and it is the intention of the Ministers to press the claim for the grant of $12,000 a mile for the Temiskaming and Northern Railway.

Smuggler Runs Amuck.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 25.—A man named Jamieson, a smuggler, went crazy Tuesday afternoon, and, securing a gun, visited the naval yard at Esquimalt and shot at the marine guard. The guard closed with the man, when the latter bit his hand, and, breaking loose, made his escape. The alarm was given and soldiers started in pursuit. The fugitive next appeared at the Gorge Terminus of the tramway, and took a shot at a conductor, but missed, and broke a window. He then took to the woods.

Concessions to Jews.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 25.—Further concessions have been granted to the Jews in the Governments of Russia, where they enjoy the rights of domicile, by the addition of 133 places, in the country districts, where they will be permitted to reside without hindrance.

Hit by Light Engine.

Belleville, Jan. 25.—Dr. Sing of Thurlow, while coming into the city yesterday morning, was driving across the Canifton road G. T. R. crossing, when his buggy was struck by a light engine. The buggy was smashed and the old doctor injured. The injured man was deaf and blind of one eye.

Blasting Kills Two.

Quebec, Jan. 25.—Word was received here last night that a blasting accident occurred on the La Tuque branch of the Quebec and Lake St. John Railway, some fifteen miles west of La Tuque Junction, and two men were killed and three others badly injured.

Crosses Pyrenees in Balloon.

Madrid, Jan. 25.—A Spanish aeronaut named Duro has crossed the Pyrenees in a balloon. He ascended at Pau and descended at Guadic, in Granada, covering the 560 miles in 14 hours.

The Ritchie Co., Limited. | The Ritchie Co., Limited.

OUR PRICES

We claim and guarantee our prices to be as low or lower, value considered than can be found anywhere in CANADA,

Fifty years of merchandising experience places us in a position to know what GOOD VALUES are and being in constant touch with the largest markets we enjoy inside prices.

Establishments in large cities as Toronto and Montreal have, owing to greater land values, higher rents, etc., expense bills proportionately many times larger than ours.

These expense bills must be paid and can only be met by being added to the retail prices.

Thus while we enjoy ideal buying advantages our lower ratio of expense enables us to mark our goods at a lower margin than is possible in the larger centres.

If you contemplate a purchase, investigate our values before sending out of the city.—It will save you money.

Sale of Remnants

This is clearing out time—all odds and ends must go in the next two weeks. Our stocks have been thoroughly searched out and on Thursday morning every department will have its quota of bargains—all marked at quick selling prices. Here is a partial list.

Towellings, Flannelette, Carpets, Prints, Laces, Linings, Table Linens, Ribbons, Silks.

Fur Specials

We are making special inducements on many of our Furs, to clear them quickly.

At the rate Furs of all kinds are advancing, these prices offer splendid investments.

—4 only Greenland Seal Coats, regular prices $38 to $40, to clear at $25
—A few sizes, in Ladies' Black Astrachan Coats, selling much below regular prices
—Bargains in Ruffs, Stoles, Muffs, Caps, etc.

$10.00 JACKETS $3.95

Your choice of 30 Ladies' Colored Cloth Jackets

ALL THIS SEASON'S STYLES.

Regular Price $10.00 For $3.95

$10.00 Suits for $7.50

Here is something you cannot afford to miss. We are getting ready for inventory and stock must be reduced at once. On Tuesday morning we will place on sale 30 Men's Suits in Plain and Fancy Tweed, well sewn with silk and linen, up-to-date styles—sizes 30 to 44—regular price $10.00, for $7.50

$1.00 and $1.25 Shirts 75c

The season's selling has left behind about 84 of these Shirts, we therefore want them all out in two weeks and on Tuesday morning we place the balance on sale.

—100 Men's Shirts in stripe and spot, all sizes, large variety of patterns, regular price $1.00 and $1,25, for 75c

The RITCHIE Co., Limited

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON.

Remnants
Remnants
Remnants

Tuesday morning we will have all our Remnants measured up and out on the tables. There are lots of them. The close of the biggest sale in the history of our business has left us with a lot of ends. These odds and ends must all be cleared out before stocktaking. We are making price do the selling.

Dress Goods, Silks, Embroideries, Prints, Linens, Shirtings, Cottons, Sheetings.

A vast lot of other odds and ends all to be cleared at bargain prices.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

20 Per Cent. Discount
OFF ALL
Men's and Boys' Wool and Fleece Lined Underwear.

ROBINSON & THOMPSON.
Tailors & Furnishers.

25 Per Cent. Discount

Our entire stock of High-Class Manufactured Furs will be sold at a Great Sacrifice.

Sale commences Wednesday. Come early and secure first choice.

GEORGE T. WOODLEY.
Successor to Miss M. H. Herbert. Opposite Footbridge
Highest Prices Paid for Raw Furs.

The New Store.

Plenty of Bargains All Over The Store.

All winter goods have received marching orders.

MANTLES HALF PRICE.

FURS 25 p. c. to 30 p. c. DISCOUNT.

UNDERWEAR FOR LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, ALL REDUCED.

HEAVY DRESS GOODS REDUCED.

Come In—Look around, you won't be urged to buy.

Wims & Co
TERMS CASH.

Lace Curtain Bargain.

We have two or three dozen SINGLE PAIRS of Lace Curtains which will go on sale SATURDAY, 13th, at from one-third to one-half off regular price. If you want a good pair of Lace Curtains cheap this is your chance.

T. P. BROWN'S

A few 2-pair lots, slightly soiled, at a big reduction.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

How to Win Elections.

SASKATCHEWAN GRITS CAN TEACH ONTARIO GRITS.

The Saskatchewan Laurierites have an easier way of winning elections than the West Elginers, or Lott and Shibley.

The advantages of the Saskatchewan plan is, that it does not cost anything, except probably a few false returns and a little perjury, which, unfortunately, of late, in election matters, does not appear to trouble the consciences of those who manage Grit elections.

A special telegram of January 21, from Prince Albert, Sask., says.

"The result of the election trials of Deputy Returning Officers Nelson and Sutherland Saturday for not holding an election in their polls in the northern part of Prince Albert district, brought to light one of the boldest and most barefaced efforts to steal a constituency ever attempted in Canada.

"The two officers admitted on the stand that they held no election, and yet sent in a vote of 150 cast entirely for Tyerman, Liberal candidate. They were fined $200 and costs.

"More revelations are expected, as J. McLeod, another deputy returning officer, has been summoned, and his case will be heard Monday.

"The polls where the outrage took place are in the far north, in districts where there are less than 75 voters in all.

"Great excitement prevails in Prince Albert."

Two hundred dollars fine is no adequate punishment for such crimes. A year or two in the penitentiary at hard labor might assist in the prevention of a continuance of these crimes.

TIMELY TOPICS.

The good old winter time. There's nothing like it, after all.

* * *

Remember, the pretty Spinsters will convene in the City Hall to-night. There is no occasion for any good-looking bachelor to disguise himself if he goes. The Spinsters won't hurt him. They will simply 'do him good."

* * *

Mr. F. E. N. Boulter, of Picton, writes to The Intelligencer: "If you can spare me a copy of your issue of 20th inst., which gives an account of the hockey match played there on 19th inst., by your Junior O.H.A. team and ours, I shall be obliged I must congratulate you on the very impartial manner and the creditable way it was penned for the public. I wish to send it to my father in Frisco, Cal."

The above, of course, is gratifying Everybody, be he friend or foe, gets "an even break" in this great family journal.

* * *

Should the proposed County Council Act come into force next year, this County, instead of having 14 members to transact its business, will have 34.

* * *

The Council having engaged an architect to prepare plans, etc., for the House of Refuge, that gentleman will at once commence his duties, and, as he intimated to the Council, in four weeks will have plans prepared so that tenders for the erection of the buildings can be asked for. It is expected that the House of Refuge will cost about $30,000. Mr. Millar, of Toronto, is the architect.

* * *

Kingston Whig: The Ottawa Free Press says, the longer Mr. Gamey is allowed to run at large the more thoroughly does he reflect the discreditable methods of the party behind him.

Then why don't some of the leading Grits who have been attacked by Mr. Gamey prosecute him for slander, if his stories are untrue? The fact that the Man from Manitoulin continues to make his charges openly convinces people, more than anything else could, that they are true. The Grit papers whine about "discreditable methods," but they have such a wholesome respect for Mr. Gamey that they dare not put his truth to the only convincing test there is — that of appeal to the law.

* * *

Kingston Whig: It is said that Belleville citizens were hit far into the thousands by the Dever brokerage failure.

Millions, old man, not thousands.

* * *

Jus' one year ago to-day, love, the old War Horse got his. Will we ever forget the deep, impenetrable gloom which settled around the palatial chambers of the West Hastings Reform Club about eight o'clock on the evening of January 25th, 1905!

Hamilton Spectator: A Grit can always be depended upon to do the right thing at the right moment for the benefit of his party, and he has no qualms of conscience about precedent, either.

Nothing truer than the above has been written for a month of centuries. Your genial Grit friend is always ready to moralize and use sweet gilded platitudes, but when it comes to the question, party or no party, he is always there with the goods.

* * *

There has been a row in the Fishery Department, Toronto. The fight is between the Department Commissioner, Mr. Bastedo, and Mr. Webster, Chief Clerk of the Fisheries Department. What crime these gents have been accusing each other of has not been given to the public, nor will the Minister let them know. He told a Mail and Empire reporter "that the investigation would be conducted in private, as the matter was solely one of internal administration of the department, and he did not wish to unnecessarily hurt the dignity or the feelings of the two officials concerned or any others who might be brought into the investigation," adding laughingly, that "If there's to be any dirty linen washed, it will be done in our own backyard, and you boys cannot come in and play there."

* * *

How would you like to be one of Marshall Field's grandchildren? Three of them will divide up an estate of a hundred and fifty millions between them.

* * *

Miss Mabel French, whom the judges of New Brunswick refused to allow to practice as an attorney in New Brunswick Courts, on the ground that a woman is not a person in the eyes of the law, is avenged. Kate Smith, being arrested for drunkenness in St. John, N. B., pleaded that the by-law which dealt with drunkards did not apply to her, inasmuch as, according to the learned Judges of New Brunswick Supreme Court, in the case of Miss Mabel French asking admission to the bar, as an attorney, a woman was not "a person" within the meaning of the Act. Judge Ritchie turned up the by-law, which reads, "Any person who shall be found drunk or feigning to be drunk or making any loud bawling, yelling, screaming, singing or shouting in any public street, thoroughfare, alley, road or by-road, shall be fined." That settled it. Women are not persons, and, therefore, cannot practice law. Women are not persons, and, therefore, have full permission to bawl, yell, scream, shout or sing on the King's highway. What noodles these Judges made of themselves.

* * *

Our correspondent, F. S. D., whose letter on street paving appears in another column, give some interesting information, which should prove useful to the Council. With one suggestion in the letter everybody will agree: If there is any probability of the installation of a trunk system of sewerage in the near future, it would be folly to inaugurate a permanent system of paving until the trunk sewers are laid: providing, of course, that the laying of the said trunk sewers would necessitate excavation work on Front street.

* * *

And that brings up the question, will it be necessary, after Front St. is permanently paved, for so much excavation work to be done as has been the custom in the past? If so, an asphalt pavement on our main aisle would soon become, in the language of our old friend Gilbert, "a thing of shreds and patches," and the last state of things might be worse than the first. These matters, of course, must be considered before the Council commits itself to a scheme involving an expenditure of from $20,000 to $30,000.

* * *

What a fearful state of affairs. Cleveland is seriously considering giving every person arrested by the police a bath before locking them up in the cells. The tramp would not mind being arrested but to be arrested and washed would be too deep an insult. No self-respecting tramp would remain in a town in which he ran the risk of being arrested and washed daily. This would be a greater punishment than a suspended sentence. What does our Police Magistrate think of it.

* * *

The Montreal Gazette says: "Rumor has gained currency and has met with some acceptance that as a result of the surveys that have been made the idea of constructing the Quebec-Moncton section of the National Transcontinental Railway will be abandoned. To abandon it would leave the Intercolonial a chance and save the country probably twenty millions of dollars at a time when its finances are in a serious condition." If this rumor be correct it proves that the Government at Ottawa are gradually coming to their senses.

* * *

A bad record. There were 160 murders in Cook County, Illinois, last year, and not one of the guilty parties has yet gone to the gallows. This fact makes it easy to appreciate why Chicago has the reputation of being and is one of the most lawless communities on the continent. The brand of justice maintained there is the criminal's best friend. Honest people had better live in Canada.

It is often stated that in Canada and the United States, personalities in election contests are carried too far. Can this be exceeded? Here is a specimen of a Liberal fly-sheet issued in England during the late election:

Does Breed Tell? If it does, every vote given to a Conservative is a vote given to the "Imperial Thieves Kitchen."

* * *

Ottawa news indicate that the contest for the vacant Ontario seat in the Senate is between Mr. G. W. Ross and Mr. John Dryden. What in the world has become of those promises of Sir Wilfrid and Sir Richard. If our friend in Thurlow was Irish wouldn't there be a ruction!

* * *

Another violation of Grit professed principles. D. D. Mackenzie, M.P.P., is likely to resign his seat and accept the vacant County Court Judgeship for Cape Breton. They all want office.

* * *

It does not appear that election fights are yet over. The protests against the Minister of Militia and Finance Minister were dismissed on a technicality, one being in Europe and the other comfortably enjoying the sea breezes in Boston. The hunt is not yet over, they are after some of them yet. Hon. W. S. Fielding was served with a subpoena on Saturday, 20th inst., to appear on Wednesday before Judge Meagher in the election case of Cowie vs. Fielding. Mr. Carney, the member for Halifax, was served with a similar subpoena in the Halifax case. The sheriff's deputy has so far been unable to find Mr. Roche with a subpoena for that gentleman. This is the regular Grit trick, get out of the way to avoid giving evidence.

* * *

An old man of 80 years of age has been sentenced in Chicago to 99 years of imprisonment for hold-ups and attacks upon women and children. It is supposed he will be old enough to know better when at the end of his sentence he is released from prison.

* * *

An important declaration was made by Mr. St. John, speaker of the Legislature of Ontario, at a meeting in North Toronto the other day in reference to the enforcement of the liquor license law. He said that while public opinion could pass a local option law sometimes it was not strong enough to enforce it. The Government was considering vesting the enforcement of the license laws with the municipality. The idea is a good one. If the Government throws the responsibility upon the municipalities, there should also be corresponding sums taken from the license income to cover the expenses to which municipalities would be put. The party that gets the money should pay for enforcing the law.

* * *

Mr. St. John also declared "that no one inspector could enforce the law in West York nor could four such officers do it. The Government were anxious to enforce the license law, and to that end invited the co-operation of the citizens." West York is not alone in that respect.

* * *

During the six months ending with December 31, the imports of foreign goods into Canada were valued at $138,327,000, while the exports amounted to $140,213,000. The exports exceeding the imports by $1,686,000. This, according to free trade theorists leaves the country just $1,686,000 poorer. The big harvest enabled us to pay off some of our outside debts; and it was time.

Don't Chap

Sore, chafed skin is an unnecessary trouble, for with a little care the skin can be kept soft and healthy all through winter's most trying weather; all you need is a bottle of WINTER CREAM and your skin comfort is assured. Apply a little of it before going out of doors or having hands in water. It is pure and wholesome and you'll like to use it.

2 Sizes — 15c and 25c.

SOLD ONLY AT
McKeown's DRUG STORE.

Is Your Hair Sick?

That's too bad! We had noticed it was looking pretty thin and faded of late, but naturally did not like to speak of it. By the way, Ayer's Hair Vigor is a regular hair grower, a perfect hair restorer. It keeps the scalp clean and healthy. Sold for 60 years. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charge as less than twenty-five words.

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

There was no business for the Police Magistrate to-day.

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED at Intelligencer office by J. D. Ford. Also at residence, Murney St.

The market to-day was fairly well attended. Prices remained about the same.

South African Boys' Choir, Bridge St. Church, Thursday evening, Jan. 25. Most delightful entertainment of the season. Admission 25c. 23-3t

WANTED.

A printer at once, male or female. Steady position. — The Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont. 23-dawtf

The Ladies' Class in Physical Culture at the Y.M.C.A. will be reopened on Friday, Jan. 26, at 4.30 p.m. A full course in recreative body-building exercises will be given. Class limited to 30. Tickets may be procured from Miss A. E. Fish or class members. 24-25

Don't fail to see the greatest scientific discovery of the age, "Remodelscope," City Hall, Thursday and Friday evenings, 25 and 26, in aid of Hospital. Admission 25c. 23-2t

Delightful, interesting, instructive, is the verdict of all who heard the Kaffir Boys' Choir here three years ago. They appear here again Thursday evening, Jan. 25, in Bridge St. Church. Those who do not hear them will lose the opportunity of hearing one of the finest entertainments ever given in this city. 23-2t

Mr. Charles Schuster, who is in Dayton, O., attending a convention of agents of the National Cash Register Co., sends The Intelligencer a neat badge issued by the concern.

The plan for "His Highness the Bey" will open on Saturday afternoon at 1.30. 25-2t

HAS THE PRODIGAL SON'S JOB

W. J. SHIBLEY, OF BALLOT-BOX FAME, IS NOW ATTENDANT ON SWINE.

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 24. — W. J. Shibley, the late Liberal candidate in Frontenac, and of bogus ballot-box fame, is now an employee of the physician attached to Auburn, N.Y., State Prison. The doctor has a swine farm and Shibley is an employee.

A Painful Accident

Mr. Owen Cummings, a butcher residing in Sidney Township, yesterday met with a painful accident. He was driving a beast along the road and had in his hand a rope which was fastened to the head of the animal. The latter started up suddenly and threw Mr. Cummings to the ground with the result that his shoulder was dislocated.

THE SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA NEW TRAIN—BEST ROUTE.

The Los Angeles Limited, electric lighted, new from the Pullman shops, with all latest innovations for travel comfort, leaves Chicago 10.05 p.m. daily, arrives Los Angeles 4.45 p.m. third day via Chicago, Union Pacific & North-Western Line and the Salt Lake Route. Pullman drawing-room and tourist sleeping cars, composite observation car, dining cars, a la carte service. For rates, sleeping car reservations and full particulars, apply to your nearest agent or address, R. H. Bennett, 2 East King St., Toronto, Ont. j13-g0-27-f3

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

To-day, fair and cold. Friday, fair, with a little higher temperature.

OUR

assortment of choice Bon Bons and Chocolates was never more complete than it is this year.

Your Christmas Presents will not be complete without a nice box of our Candy, prices from 25c to $2.00 per box.

JAS. WALLACE & CO.

They will Adjust Themselves

to a wide range of circumstances — the eyes — will stand lots of hard work, and get along with very little attention.

When they do complain, it is usually the result of their being overworked. They are calling for a rest.

They ache, smart, burn, probably you are subject to headaches, which you never think of attributing to your eyes.

If you are bothered, call on us. We shall gladly inform you regarding their state, and there is no more THOROUGH or reliable examination to be had in Canada.

Angus McFee
Phone 128.
The Store With the Big Clock

At Wallbridge & Clarke's
Marmalade Oranges
Pineapple Marmalade

COFFEE
WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE'S
DELICIOUS COFFEE.
Ground Daily.
Electric Power
30 and 40c a lb.
COFFEE DEMONSTRATION
—AT—
Wallbridge & Clarke's
BRIDGE STREET.
Come in and have a cup of delicious Coffee.

Huyler's New York Chocolates.
Extra Value in Tea.
Wallbridge & Clarke's Fine Indo-Ceylon Tea—30c lb.—4 lbs. for $1.00 in sealed packets.

EASY MONEY AT HOME
[illegible]
COTTAM BIRD BOOK [illegible]
BIRD BREAD 10 CENTS, and "CANARY vs. CHICKENS," [illegible]
COTTAM BIRD SEED, [illegible]

The Everstick Rubber
Is Light and Durable.
THEY WILL PLEASE YOU.
We can fit your boots with
RUBBERS or OVERSHOES.
VERMILYEA & SON

SIMPLE REMEDY FOR CATARRH

JUST BREATHE HYOMEI FOUR TIMES A DAY AND BE CURED.

Hyomei has performed almost miraculous cures of Catarrh, and is to-day recognized by leading members of the medical profession as the only advertised remedy that can be relied upon to do just what it claims. The complete outfit of Hyomei costs $1.00, and consists of an inhaler, a medicine cropper, and a bottle of Hyomei.

Breathe Hyomei through the inhaler for a few minutes four times a day, and it will cure the worst case of catarrh. It soothes and heals the mucous membrane of the air passages, prevents irritation and effects a complete and lasting cure.

If you cannot obtain Hyomei of your dealer, it will be forwarded by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price. Write to-day for consultation blank that will entitle you to services of our medical department without charge. The R. T. Booth Company, Hyomei Building, Ithaca, N. Y.

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage, 50c each insertion.

Death notice, 50c, or when funeral notices included, $1.00.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Weekly Intelligencer $1.00 a year; Daily Intelligencer $3.00 a year; strictly cash in advance.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E & J. Hardy & Co.'s office, 30 Fleet St., London, E. C.

Intelligencer WANT ADS

Advertisements under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for each insertion, and one cent for each additional word, 4 insertions, 75c; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales which will be published at two cents per word. Count 8 marks and figures as one word each.

WANTED.

Wanted—To buy—a house in good pair, central, on east side of city. ddress Box X, Intelligencer Office. j212:

Machine fitters and erectors want. for heavy work. Box G, Intel. gencer. m,w,f

By lady, plain table board with cely furnished room. Will pay ghest price. Address for two ys. Miss Verne Shibley, Bellelle, Ont. j22-2t Traveller Wanted. Teas. House house. Others clear Twenty Dolrs weekly. Why not you? Ald Tyler, London, Ontario.

FOR SALE.

House, on easy terms, a comfortle eight-roomed house on Victoria enue. Apply Box 1054. 23-24

Wanted—A printer at once, male or male. Steady position.—The Intellincer, Belleville, Ont. d&wtf

The Canada Life Assurance Co. nt a good live agent for Bellele, Trenton, Madoc and vicinity. pplications and recommendations reived by J. O. Hutton, Mgr. Canada fe Ass'n Co., Kingston. j8-tf

Wanted—Agents to solicit subiptions to The Weekly Intelligen with their four magazine prem. —5 papers, all for one year, .00. Liberal terms. Good money sharp canvassers. Get samples. d for terms.—The Weekly Intelencer, Belleville, Ont. o5d&wtf

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

Parliamentary Notice.

Monday, 26th February next, will the last day for presenting Petins for Private Bills.

Monday, 5th March next, will be last day for introducing Private ls.

Monday, 19th March next, will be last day for receiving Reports Committees on Private Bills.

CHARLES CLARKE,
Clerk Leg. Assembly, Ont.
j25-d2t

We should be careful about taking ngs as they come. Many a man has into jail just that way.

County Council.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON SESSION.

Previous to the Council transacting business three architects were allowed to present to the Council plans for a House of Refuge. These plans included similar buildings erected at Lindsay, Picton and Whitby. The gentlemen presenting the plans explained minutely the various designs and the estimated costs of the building.

All were given an attentive hearing and the matter was referred to the Council for consideration and definite action.

Mr. M. Palmer, of Thurlow, who had been engaged as an engineer to run the county engine in connection with the crusher, appeared before the Council and asked for an increase of wages. He was receiving $1.75 per day and contended that he should have an advance. He also thought the Council should procure a heavier engine.

On motion the matter was referred to the Roads and Bridges Committee.

Mr. Macfarlane thought that the Council should now decide as to the House of Refuge, and the architect who would be employed. The plans of three architects had been seen by the members of the Council and they were in a position to intelligently consider this matter. He thought the plans presented by Mr. G. N. Millar, of Toronto, of the House of Refuge built at Lindsay, would be preferable for this county.

Mr. Dryden moved, seconded by Mr. Bonter, that Mr. Millar, of Toronto, be engaged as the architect for the building of the House of Refuge.—Carried.

On motion the committee of the whole on communications resumed, Mr. Vandervoort in the chair.

A motion prevailed that the Council become a member of the Provincial Municipal Association, and that the Clerk be instructed to attend the annual meeting of the Association as a delegate.

The committee rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again. —Granted.

Mr. Wm. Rogers was elected chairman of the Gravel Roads and Bridges Committee.

Council adjourned until 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

THURSDAY MORNING SESSION.

A deputation from the Hastings Law Association, consisting of Mr. E. G. Porter, M.P., Col. Ponton, and City Solicitor Mikel, were on motion introduced and addressed the Council.

Col. Ponton, President of the County Law Association, was first called. He said that the deputation came before the Council to speak in reference to the necessity of placing the Court House in a proper sanitary condition. Judges and Grand Jurors had requested this, and they were no doubt right. He read a resolution which was passed by the Association, asking that the heating and lighting of the Court House be improved.

Mr. Porter said it was apparent that there was a grave necessity for improvements to be made to the Court House. It was he contended in a state of inefficiency. It was grand in its exterior condition, but its interior condition was bad. He hoped the needed reforms would be attended to at an early date. The light was poor, the heating worse, and other improvements were necessary.

Mr. Mikel endorsed what had been said by the previous speakers. Whilst the Court House was, outside, all that was desired the interior arrangements were poor. As members of the Law Association they considered it their duty to lay this matter before the County Council. He hoped the changes which were asked would be attended to.

The Warden said that the matter would no doubt be considered at the proper time.

BRIDGE REPAIRS NECESSARY.

Mr. J. W. Pearce, M.P.P., an ex-warden, was invited and took a seat within the bar. He addressed the Council in reference to necessary repairs to be made to a number of bridges in the northern portion of the County. He thought it would be wise for the County to ask the Government for assistance in helping to keep up these bridges, but before doing so the County should show the Government that it is willing to assist in maintaining them. Last year he secured $3,500 from the Government on colonization roads, which was expended in North Hastings.

Mr. Denyes thought that the Government should assist materially in keeping up those bridges and the Council should look to the Government to help them.

Mr. Dryden was of the same opinion.

The Warden stated that he knew the bridges referred to by Mr. Pearce and many were in a bad state of repairs.

Mr. Pearce was thanked for the information he had given and for the assistance he had secured for repairs to roads and bridges.

Council went into committee of the whole on Ways and Means, Mr. Dryden in the chair.

A motion prevailed that the County pay $10 and become a member of the Provincial Municipal Association.

The following accounts were passed.

N Allen	$195.75
G. Clapper	2.00
J. Williams	19.50

WAIT FIVE MINUTES

and get Clark's Pork and Beans steaming hot. It makes a difference in the flavor. Very appetizing. Plain or with Chili or Tomato Sauce.

GOT HIS HAIR BACK.

Was Perfectly Bald When He Started to Use Newbro's Herpicide.

Frederick Manuell, Maryland Block, Butte, Montana, bought a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, April 6, '99, and began to use it for entire baldness. The hair follicles in his scalp were not dead and in 20 days he had hair all over his head. On July 2 he writes, "and to-day my hair is as thick and luxuriant as any one could wish." Newbro's Herpicide works on an old principle and with a new discovery — destroy the cause and you remove the effect. Herpicide destroys the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair, and finally baldness, so that with the cause gone the effect cannot remain. Stops falling hair at once and a new growth starts. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. J. S. McKeown, special agent.

HOW SMALLPOX IS TREATED IN QUEBEC.

HUNDRED AND FIFTY CASES IN ONE VILLAGE — PROVINCIAL AUTHORITIES MAKE NO ATTEMPT TO CHECK DISEASE.

Drummondville, Que., Jan. 24. — A most peculiar state of affairs is existing at St. Cyrille and the surrounding country. For the last month or so an epidemic of smallpox has been raging there, entirely unknown to the outside world, although the Provincial Board of Health has known it for some time. A hundred and fifty cases have been reported in the village of St. Cyrille, and it is stated that in almost every farmhouse for miles around the disease prevails. Fortunately, it is in a mild form, and as far as can be ascertained here, no deaths have taken place. The average run of the disease seems to be an illness like a slow fever lasting about two weeks, when the pustules break out. After that the patients slowly get better, and only in very few cases are serious marks left on the face.

The two most remarkable features of the epidemic are, that the people themselves do not seem to mind it at all, and that no quarantine whatever has been established to prevent the disease from spreading all over the country, with the possibility of the mild nature of the disease turning into virulence. A doctor of the Provincial Board of Health is reported to have visited St. Cyrille about two weeks ago, but as far as can be ascertained no steps have been taken whatever by that body to stay the epidemic, or prevent it from spreading either through persons or milk or farm produce.

NO VACCINATION ATTEMPTED.

No organized attempt has been made at vaccination, and unfortunately as the local physicians report their own stock of vaccine has turned out worthless. Another remarkable thing is that no attempt at disinfection is being made, because there is no formaline to be had somehow or other.

A telephone interview with Dr. Pelletier, the only physician at St. Cyrille, brought out the facts, as stated before, that up to date there have been a hundred and fifty cases in the village, mostly convalescent and that the disease has now attacked almost every farmhouse in the surrounding country. He states that the disease is of a mild type, but generally very filthy.

Being asked if any of the people of the village intended to go to Montreal on the excursion to-morrow for the funeral of the late Hon. Mr. Prefontaine, he said that he thought not, and he hoped not.

PEOPLE ARE INDIFFERENT.

As an example of how little the people in this vicinity think of the disease, it may be stated that Dr. Girouard of this town was informed yesterday by an official of the Court, that two or three men with unhealed smallpox pustules were among the audience in the Court House, but the doctor was powerless House but the doctor was powerthat in the principal hotel of the place, the proprietor was ill with the disease for two weeks, while guests were taken in just the same, and it was only after he had warned the family that they might be prosecuted that the patient was placed in quarantine in a hired house.

No special treatment is followed for the disease. It is allowed to run its course, it appears, and when the fever becomes high that is treated in the ordinary way. The opinion here is that a quarantine should be immediately established, and that doctors should be sent to observe the progress of the disease and aid the local practitioners.

WHAT CAUSES SNORING.

When asleep people that snore breathe through the mouth instead of the nostrils, which are choked with catarrh. Just use "Catarrhozone" before retiring and you'll quickly cure the snoring habit. By destroying the cause of catarrh and healing the membranes Catarrhozone makes a complete cure in every case; it cleans the nostrils, stops the discharge and prevents dropping in the throat in a few minutes. Nothing so pleasant or certain to cure snoring, catarrh or colds as Catarrhozone—that's worth remembering.

Dr. Sing's Condition.

Dr. J. Sing, who was injured yesterday at the Canifton road crossing, was resting comfortably to-day and spent a good night. At present it is impossible to tell what the Doctor's internal injuries are, if any, but no serious results are anticipated.

GREATEST BATTLESHIP.

DESCRIPTION OF THE DREADNAUGHT, THE NEW BRITISH VESSEL.

London, Jan. 24.—Some remarkable illustrations of the immense fighting power of the Dreadnaught, the new type of battleship now under construction at Portsmouth, are given by the engineer. Ten years ago the Majestics were the finest ships in the world. To-day there is no question that the Dreadnaught could lie off 10,000 yards and sink the entire fleet of Majestics as easily as the Japanese fleet sank the Russians at Tsushima. Indeed, the Majestics practically would be unable to reply, their guns not being really effective much over 5,000 yards. Later ships, of course, would be better off.

It is probably no exaggeration to say that the Dreadnaught could fight a couple of the latest King Edward VII. type and come out best. Incidentally the Dreadnaught probably could tackle the entire German battle fleet single-handed, and so is a guarantee of peace.

It should be remembered, however, that Germany is preparing to build similar ships, that Japan has two in hand, that the United States contemplates a couple, and that France has plans for three. When these ships are afloat all existing battle ships will hardly count.

Naval officers have been instructed by the admiralty to give their commands in "a loud, distinct and decisive manner." It has been noticed that the newer school of naval officer is not being educated to give orders in the bluff and authoritative tone which in the old days made the sailors skip around in double-quick time to carry out orders. It is feared that the drawing-room manners of the new blend of young executive officers will cause their voices to be inaudible through the din, even of practice, and, in addition, that the effeminate tendency of the word of command causes slowness in men and a weakening of confidence and discipline.

Now the young executive sailorman is to practice his voice as if it were the sole means of communicating orders in the din of battle.

The disappearance of sails is believed to have caused this vocal defect, as now there is no stentorian calling to men aloft to open the lungs and strengthen the spoken word.

THOUSANDS DIE OF CONSTIPATION.

No condition causes so many incurable diseases as constipation. It not only prevents the kidneys from eliminating the poisonous wastes, but causes anaemia, stomach trouble and indigestion. Why won't you use Dr. Hamilton's Pills and get cured? This excellent medicine restores normal bowel action in one night. Thousands say so. Your system will be pure and clean, you'll be free from headaches, no more sour stomach—in short you'll have jovial spirits and perfect good health. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are sold everywhere, 25c a box. Get the genuine.

SMELTING BY ELECTRICITY.

SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENTS CARRIED ON AT DESERONTO.

Toronto, Jan. 24.—For the first time in Canada steel has been made direct from sulphurous ores by electric furnace, and a sample of it has reached Mr. T. W. Gibson, Director of the Bureau of Mines. It was accompanied by samples of steel made from titanium ores by the same process. The samples are from Mr. J. W. Evans, a well-known mining engineer of Deseronto, and the ores used are Hastings county ores, the titanium from the Horton mine and the sulphurous from the Coe Hill mine. The experiments in the treatment of the ores were, of course, carried out only on a laboratory scale, but the results give every reason to hope that the effect on the iron mining industry of Ontario will be of beneficial importance. In his letter forwarded with the samples Mr. Evans says one sample was produced in fifteen and the other in twenty minutes.

Mr. Gibson, in speaking of the experiments to a Globe reporter yesterday pointed out that the usual method of making steel is from pig iron, which is the product of the iron ore. Pig iron is produced by mixing the ore with coke and limestone and smelting it in blast furnaces. Another operation is then required to convert the pig iron into steel. The object of the electric smelting is to produce steel directly from iron ore by one process, and this Mr. Evans has accomplished on a laboratory scale.

"Another feature in connection with these samples," said Mr. Gibson, "is that both are from varieties of iron ore which at the present time are of comparatively little value. The presence of titanium in iron ore is objectionable because of the difficulty which is experienced in reducing the ore in the blast furnaces, while sulphur, in excess, also renders the pig iron of inferior quality. Mr. Evans has made small samples of steel of apparently good quality, direct from these two classes of ores. Titanium does not injure the quality of pig iron, but it makes the ore difficult of treatment, hence it is objected to strongly by furnacemen. It makes a molten mass in the furnace, is sticky and apt to clog. These are, as yet, mere laboratory experiments, but there is a possibility of the electrical treatment of iron ore developing into an industry of importance."

"There are considerable deposits of titanium and sulphurous ores in Ontario, and if the electrical method of producing pig iron or steel from them can be carried to commercial success it will enable large industries to be established, and those deposits instead of lying absolutely useless would become valuable additions to the wealth of the province."

The York County Loan

TORONTO SHAREHOLDERS HOLD A MASS MEETING AND ADVANCE SOME ORIGINAL IDEAS.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—"Resolved, that the affairs of the company be administered by the shareholders instead of the liquidators, and that power be sought from the Legislature for this purpose."

After two hours and a half discussion this resolution was adopted by a number of shareholders of the York County Loan Company, mostly ladies, who more than half filled Association Hall last night.

Controller Jones occupied the chair, and among others on the platform were Messrs. S. J. White, Secretary of the Shareholders' Committee; Ald. Gilbert, Hamilton; Oliver Marter, Berlin; Jas. Bicknell, K.C.; A. W. Briggs, solicitor to the committee; Father Minehan, Col. McGillivray, C. D. Scott and John Aldridge.

Mr. White reported on behalf of the committee. It was proposed to reorganize the company on lines which would give the greatest benefit to the shareholders. A sum of $53 had been collected and about the same amount expended by the committee. The rent of the hall and printing expenses had to be met.

Mr. Briggs outlined the proceedings previous to the company's assignment. The liquidators, he said, approved of the committee's assistance.

Mr. Bicknell, on the request of the committee, explained his plan of reorganization, as already published. The question was, would the land be sold by the sheriff or by themselves? The essential feature was to get the most out of the property.

Mr. A. F. Saunders, as an ex-employee of the company, favored reorganization. Liquidation was a most unsatisfactory proposition. The National Trust Company was simply playing in their backyard, and without the shareholders' consent. The liquidation would cost two or three hundred thousand dollars. The shareholders could sell on easier terms than the liquidator. Plenty of respectable builders in the city—and he was one himself—would be glad to have some of the property. If it was sold by the block some capitalist would get it at a snap. It might be revealing secrets, but they could build $175,000 worth of house property at an outlay of $50,000. The stockholders would all be levelled to one class in the reorganization, and no more installments would be collected. He read the report of the committee embodying these ideas.

Father Minehan belonged to a class, he said, that laid up treasure where there was no liquidation, and thought an explanation of his presence was due. He took shares to help an acquaintance, and with the object of paying a visit to his parents in Ireland, which he left 22 years before.

A collection was taken up to defray expenses.

Ald Gilbert reported four thousand books collected in Hamilton out of five thousand.

Mr. A. R. J. F. Hassard represented clients who wished to partake in no such invidious and injudicious proposal as the reorganization. He specially condemned the idea of building houses.

Col. McGillivray also disapproved of building, but supported reorganization

The question was put, but when the yeas had voted the Chairman permitted a renewal of the discussion. A long speech was made by one of the shareholders, and the Chairman suggested substituting the motion eventually carried for one approving the committee's report. The committee having agreed, Mr. Hassard remarked: —

"It seems to me they have received more light in the last five minutes than in all their previous deliberations."

Another shareholder thought the Government should take over the property and advance its value to the shareholders, as they had done for the "Soo" company. The Province could hold it till it was worth par on the dollar.

REDUCED TO FIFTY CENTS.

Our complete stock of soft front shirts, regularly sold at seventy-five cents and one dollar. Desirable patterns and well assorted sizes. Sale price 50c.—QUICK & ROBERTSON.

Ontario Liquor License Act.

LICENSE DISTRICT OF WEST HASTINGS.

NOTICE is hereby given that John J. Fitzgerald, of the City of Belleville, has made application for permission to transfer his tavern license for the premises known as the International Hotel, Belleville, to John Burke, of the same place, and that the said application will be considered at the meeting of the Board of License Commissioners, to be held at the Inspector's Office in the City of Belleville, on the 7th day of February, 1906, at the hour of 2 o'clock p.m.

All persons interested will govern themselves accordingly.

HUGH WALKER,
License Inspector.
Belleville, 24th Jan., 1906. 24-31

NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS.

FURNISHED BY J. R. HEINTZ & CO.'S LOCAL OFFICE.

Stock	New York, Jan. 25 Op'g	Close
Atchison	93⅛	93⅜
do pref	104	104⅛
B & O	115½	115⅝
C O	61⅛	61
C.P.R.	174⅝	174⅞
Erie	49⅞	49½
C. G. W	22	22⅜
Ills. C.	....	....
K. T.	39⅛	39⅛
L & N.	152	153⅛
Soo	158½	159
Hop	104⅞	104⅞
N Y C	152½	153
Nor	89⅞	91⅛
O W	53⅛	53⅜
Penn	145½	145⅞
R I	24⅜	24½
Reading	156	153½
St. Paul	189⅞	189
Sou Pac	75⅞	70⅜
Sou. Ry	41	41⅜
Union Pac	156⅞	157⅞
Texas	38½	37⅛
Wab.	25⅜	25⅜
do pref	47⅜	47
W C	....	30⅜
W C pref.	60⅛	60⅛
B.R.T.	91	90⅞
Met.	124⅞	124⅞
Manhattan	16.⅞	161⅞
T. W.	119⅞	124¼
A. C. P.	110	110
Alo.	73⅜	73⅜
Sugar	151½	151½
P. O.	100⅞	100⅞
U. S. Steel	44½	44½
do pref	111⅞	11⅛
W. U.	....	93⅜
A F.	46½	46⅜
C.F.I.	81	81⅜

May wheat opened at 85⅞ closed at 85⅞
July wheat opened at 84 ; closed at 84½
May corn opened at 45 ; closed at 44⅜
July corn opened at 45½; closed at 44⅞
May Oats opened at 31⅜; closed at 31⅞
Jan. pork opened at 14.00 closed at 14.12

STOCKS, BONDS, GRAIN, PROVISIONS, ETC.

J. R. Heintz & Co.

Established, 1879.

Members New York Consolidated Stock Exchange, New York Produce Exchange

Branch Office—52 Bridge St.
'Phone 50

The Folly of Change.

A California judge told the following story: "Montana Jack, a highwayman I prosecuted and convicted while I was district attorney, was a great humorist. The day he received his sentence the judge asked him whether he had anything to say against sentence being passed upon him. Jack admitted that he had no protest to make, but that he would like to say a few words to the young men in the courtroom. Consent was given, and Jack spoke as follows:

"'Boys, my advice to you is to stick to whatever you are doin'. Don't change your occupation or you'll never get along in the world. Look at me. I was a successful burglar for years, never got caught and collared lots of dough. Then I turned highwayman and got caught in my first holdup. And here I am, all the result of changing my occupation. Whatever you are, boys, stick to it.'"

Paul Revere, Dentist.

Was Paul Revere a dentist? The following advertisement published in the Boston Gazette and Country Journal of Revere's time is believed to prove that he was: "Whereas, many persons are so unfortunate as to lose their Fore-teeth by Accident and otherways, to their great Detriment, not only in Looks, but speaking both in Public and Private:—This is to inform all such that they may have them replaced with artificial ones, that looks as well as the Natural & answers the end of Speaking to all Intents, by Paul Revere, Goldsmith, near the head of Dr. Clarke's Wharf, Boston. All Persons who have had false Teeth fixt by Mr. John Baker, Surgeon Dentist, and they have got loose (as they will in time), may have them fastened by the above who learnt the Method of fixing them from Mr. Baker."

A Weird Old House.

There is an old manor house at Knaresborough, England, parts of which were built 700 years ago. It is a fine place, with magnificent paneling in the rooms, a bedstead in which Cromwell once slept, a priests' hiding place and a ghost. The priests' hiding place is concealed by a spring door. The present occupant of the house says that during the night sounds of footsteps are heard on the landing, and it is impossible to keep the door of this room closed. On one occasion the footsteps were accompanied by a loud bump at the door of another room. During some recent restorations the skeleton of a woman was found buried at the foot of a staircase.

Exercising Disease.

Very curious methods were employed by the ancient Babylonians to exorcise disease. The sucking pig and kid played an important part in the remedies. The pig or kid was to be killed, cut up and placed upon the sick man. The heart of the pig, which had been placed upon the sick man's heart, was to be held by him, and the pig's heart was to be as his heart, the blood as his blood, the flesh as his flesh, and the pig was to be in his stead. The virgin kid was dealt with in the same way, being placed upon the sick man.

Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women

They are the prescription of a specialist.

This is an age of specialists,— men who give all their time, study, and practice to some particular branch of medicine. There are specialists of the eye, specialists in diseases of the lungs, specialists in diseases of women. It costs something to get a prescription from a specialist, but it is worth all it costs, when you get it.

Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women are the prescription of Dr. Hugo, of Paris, a specialist of forty years' experience in diseases of women.

It embraces the latest medical discoveries of the other skilled physicians in the world. It might be called a compound prescription of the world's best specialists.

No ordinary physician can prescribe such a remedy. The better the physician, the nearer will be his prescription to that of Dr. Hugo.

Thousands of women in Europe have paid $50 for a consultation with Dr. Hugo and got the same remedy. Considering the benefit they received from it, it was worth $50, but it costs women now only 50c. for six dozen tablets—enough for an extended treatment.

It is a compound remedy containing all the tonics and alteratives that any woman can need, no matter what her condition. For women suffering from a run-down condition, or any weakness peculiar to her sex, it is now acknowledged to be beyond doubt or question the best remedy available to-day. It makes healthy women.

50c. at dealers or by mail postpaid.
B. N. Robinson & Co., Coaticook, Q.

The Best Yet the Very Best

AND YOU ALWAYS GET GOOD THINGS AT SCANTLEBURY'S.

We have to-day, just this day, prepared a dozen BARGAIN TABLES the choicest BARGAIN TABLES you have yet seen anywhere—

Cost has not been considered. These bargain tables are prepared just to close out everything in china and fancy goods preparatory to our arrangements now under way for our Wall Paper season ahead.

During this week of BARGAIN TABLES we nave also classified our pictures into Bargain departments—or wall Bargain Tables — and they are remarkably interesting.

We will add to the above bargains all this week everything in books in the rear store at 25c each — books worth 50c to $1.00 for 25c Remember.

C. B. Scantlebury.
Designer, Decorator, etc.

Wall Paper this week at 25 per cent. discount.

New Telephone Directory

The Bell Telephone Company of Canada, Limited, is about to publish a new issue of the Official Telephone Directory for the district of Eastern Ontario, including the town of Belleville.

Orders for new connections, changes of m name, changes of street address, or r duplicate entries, should be handed to cal manager at once.

C. D. DYKE,
LOCAL MANAGER.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

FOR A GOOD CUP OF TEA
USE
"SALADA"
Ceylon Tea because for QUALITY and FLAVOR
It has no Equal.
Sold only in Sealed Lead Packets at 25c, 30c, 40c, 50c, and 60c per lb. ALL GROCERS. Highest Award St. Louis, 1904

The Man Who Knows
"Maple Leaf"
Rubber Quality
Has No Desire to try other MAKES.
Are the Lightest
AND LAST THE LONGEST
The J. J. Haines
SHOE HOUSES—Belleville. Napanee & Trenton.

Both an Economy And a Luxury.

Armour's Extract of Beef cuts down the cost of living and makes many dishes more tasty.

Instead of making soups with fresh meat—simply add Armour's Extract of Beef. It gives the rich color, taste and aroma of prime beef. It's quicker, better, easier too.

Armour's Extract of Beef added to roasts, stews, ragouts, "potpies", in fact all meat dishes—restores the flavor and aroma lost by the first cooking.

Armour's Extract of Beef does not entirely take the place of meat—but it makes a small quantity of meat go further.

Use the right way—¼ the quantity of any other Beef Extract.
Sold by all Grocers and Druggists.

ARMOUR LIMITED, - - TORONTO, Ont.

Armour's Tomato and Beef Catsup
An appetizing relish for steaks, chops, roasts, pork and beans, and fish of all kind. It is just a little bit better than others. At all grocers.

ICE CREAM SODA

We are serving Ice Cream Soda this winter as well as the Ice Cream.

A delicious drink we are serving now is a Chocolate Soda, made from Lowney's Gold Medal Chocolate.

It is manufactured by an improved process which preserves all the nutritive qualities of the Cocoa Bean and makes a delicious drink either in a soda or hot chocolate.

Ed. F. Dickens.
CATERER

Sixteen Bodies Recovered.

Haverstraw, N. Y., Jan. 24.—Up to yesterday 16 bodies have been recovered from the landslide, leaving those of Mr. and Mrs. Mannion and Joseph Albert to be found. This makes the total loss of life by the disaster 19. All the others missing have been accounted for.

Adamy Extradited.

Toronto, Jan. 24.—U. S. Commissioner Keating has granted an order for the extradition from Buffalo of Albian Adamy, a Syrian, who is wanted in Toronto for the alleged theft of $700 worth of jewelry.

Just a Gentle One.

The Man—A fortune teller predicted that I would be lucky in love. The Maid (demurely)—And the same prediction precisely was made about me. Do you still think, Henry that we were made for each other?

Getting to It.

Anxious Mother—Has Mr. Bashful proposed yet? Daughter—Not exactly, but last evening, when I was holding little Dick in my lap, Mr. Bashful went to the piano and sang "Would I Were a Boy Again."

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

What will they not do? Two Saskatchewan deputy returning officers have been fined $200 each for failing to open polls in the recent provincial election. At the polls they did not open the Laurier candidate was credited with receiving a majority of 150 votes. Well, is this not better than opening the polls, and then stuffing the ballot boxes? Its less trouble and less expense.

* * *

A man by the name of "Bundy" was removed from the important position of issuer of marriage licenses a short time ago, and the Toronto Globe and News kept up a fearful howl over the affair, denouncing it as a fearful abuse of the spoils system, at the time. The Intelligencer ventured the opinion that when the facts were known, the dismissal would be found to be justifiable. Now we have them. The Mail says: "The duty of issuing marriage licenses in Parry Sound was performed for years by an afflicted man, a Liberal, who needed the little income badly. The late Government in 1904 appointed "Bundy," who was an active partisan, to do the work which the unfortunate Liberal had performed, and to get the small revenue which this person had hitherto enjoyed. When the truth was laid before the Whitney Government it dropped "Bundy," and now the Liberal who formerly had the profit from issuing licenses is entitled to it again. The great "Bundy" outrage was invented to deceive the people and to create a belief among them that the Whitney Government is unjust. It was an imposture, and, as such, it has failed." Who will say the dismissal was wrong?

* * *

A Grit political reason. At a meeting of a Board of Trade in Prince Edward Island, the president gave as the reason for it costing $1.70 to earn $1 on the P.E.I. Railway last year that there was a parliamentary election during the time the shameful record was made. This means that public money was squandered on the property for the purpose of influencing electors or buying those whom it was presumed could influence electors. The statement creates another reason for getting rid of properties that are misused in every way. This state of things will continue just so long as Grits rule.

* * *

A contemporary says: "This election is clearly without a precedent, when the Conservatives make gains in Scotland and lose elsewhere." It shows that the Scotch are becoming more intelligent, and the English less so.

* * *

Mr. Hays, manager of the G. T. R., told the people of Toronto the other day, that "everybody thinks he could run a railway a little better than the manager." Mr. Hays never tried his hand at running a newspaper: if he had, he would know the force of his statement.

* * *

Steps are being taken to bring the Nova Scotia contested parliamentary elections to trial. The public has recently found out to what some of the great Government successes in Ontario and Quebec were due. It may soon have a chance to discover that like methods were behind the party's triumph in Nova Scotia. Late exposures of how to elect Liberals in the Northwest eclipsed all Eastern methods.

* * *

Important to the County of Hastings. The Toronto News says: "Treating iron ore in electric furnaces for the manufacture of steel has been attempted in the Province recently and Mr. T. M. Gibson, Director of Mines, has been forwarded two samples of the product by Mr. J. W. Evans, mining engineer, of Deseronto. The steel, which is of a high quality, was manufactured from titanum ore taken from the Horton and Cochill Mines, Hastings County, the entire process being completed within fifteen minutes. By this treatment the pig iron stage is eliminated. These ores have not proven commercially valuable thus far, owing to the difficulties in heating them in the ordinary way. The electrical method is also expensive." Let us hope this discovery may prove profitable as it means much for this County.

Sunlight Soap is better than other soaps, but is best when used in the Sunlight way. Buy Sunlight Soap and follow directions.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Lower, Chicago Higher—Live Stock Markets—The Latest Quotations.

Wednesday Evening, Jan. 24.

Liverpool wheat futures closed to-day ¼d lower than yesterday, and corn futures ⅛d lower.

At Chicago, May wheat closed ¼c higher than yesterday, May corn ⅛c lower, and May oats unchanged.

WINNIPEG OPTIONS.

The following were the closing quotations yesterday at this market: Jan. 76¼c, May 79⅝c, July 80⅝c.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

	May.	July.
New York	90¼	89
Minneapolis	83⅝	84⅜
Toledo	88⅜	85½
Detroit	89⅜	85¾
St. Louis	83⅞	81⅛
Duluth	83⅝	84⅛

TORONTO PRODUCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, spring, bush	$0 76 to	$....
Wheat, fall, bush	0 76	0 78
Wheat, red, bush	0 76	0 78
Wheat, goose, bush	0 70	....
Barley, bush	0 50	0 51
Oats, bush	0 39½	0 40
Rye, bush	0 74	....
Peas, bush	0 75	....
Buckwheat, bush	0 53	....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Liverpool, Jan. 24.—Wheat—Spot nominal. Futures steady; March 6s 11⅛d, May 6s 9⅛d.

Corn—Spot quiet; American mixed, new, 4s 3d; American mixed, old, 4s 8½d. Futures steady; Jan. 4s 3⅝d, March 4s 3⅛d, May 4s 3⅛d.

Bacon—Short rib quiet, 43s 6d; shoulders, square, firm, 29s 6d.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, Jan. 24.—Butter—Weak; receipts, 9019. Street prices: Extra creamery, 26c to 26½c. Official prices: Creamery, common to extra, 17½c to 26c; do., held, seconds to extra, 19c to 23½c; renovated, common to extra, 15½c to 20½c.

Cheese—Firm, unchanged; receipts, 1622.

Eggs—Firm, unchanged; receipts, 10,680.

CATTLE MARKETS.

BRITISH CATTLE MARKET.

London, Jan. 24.—Cattle are quoted at 10½c to 11½c per lb.; refrigerator, 7½c to 8½c.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Jan. 24.—(Special.)—Receipts were 700 cattle, 50 milch cows, 150 sheep and lambs, 75 calves, 500 hogs. A feature of the trade was the easier feeling in the market for hogs, and prices declined 10c to 15c per 100 lbs., which might have been expected after the steady advance of late at the reduction there was a good demand from packers, and sales were made at $7.40 to $7.60 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars. The butchers were out strong, but did not seem to require much beef; besides, good beef was scarce, there being no choice animals on the market. The top price was 4½c per lb., but they were not extra; pretty good cattle sold at 3¾c to 4¼c, and the common stock, 2¼c to 3½c. Two of the best calves sold at $8 each; the others at $3 to $5 each. Milch cows sold at $30 to $50 each. Sheep sold at 4½c and lambs at 6c per lb.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, Jan. 24.—Cattle—Receipts, 200; fairly active and firm; prices unchanged.

Veals—Receipts, 100; slow and steady, $5.25 to $9.

Hogs—Receipts, 2100; slow; 5c to 10c lower; heavy, mixed, yorkers and pigs, $5.90 to $5.95; roughs, $4.90 to $5.25; stags, $3.25 to $4.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 500; sheep active and steady; lambs slow, 5c to 15c higher; lambs, $6.25 to $7.75; few, $7.80; yearlings, $6.50 to $6.75; wethers, $5.50 to $6; ewes, $5.25 to $5.50; sheep, mixed, $3 to $5.65; western lambs, $7.25 to $7.65; few, $7.70.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, Jan. 24.—Beeves—Receipts, 1868; prime and choice steers steady; others slow to 10c off; bulls steady; medium cows 10c off; others slow; steers, $4 to $5.60; extra, $6; oxen, $2.75 to $4.25; bulls, $3 to $4.25; cows, $1.75 to $3.60; choice Ohio do., $4. Exports, 15 cattle, 20 sheep and 2800 quarters of beef; to-morrow, 816 cattle and 3000 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 1648; veals steady; prime calves firm; barnyard calves unchanged; westerns slow and three cars unsold; veals, $5 to $9.50; tops, $9.75; little calves, $3.50 to $4.50; barnyard calves, $3.25 to $4; western, $4.25.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 6223; sheep steady; lambs slow but full steady; sheep, $4 to $5.75; lambs, $7 to $8; culls, $5 to $6.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Cattle—Receipts, 22,000; dull; prices weak; common to prime, $3.40 to $6.50; cows, $3 to $4.40; heifers, $2.25 to $5; bulls, $2 to $4; calves, $3 to $6; stockers and feeders, $2.40 to $4.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 35,000; 5c lower; choice to prime, heavy, $5.60 to $5.65; medium to good, heavy, $5.50 to $5.60; butchers' weights, $5.55 to $5.67½; good to choice, heavy, mixed, $5.55 to $5.60; packing, $5.35 to $5.57½.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 22,000; steady; sheep, $4.50 to $4.85; yearlings, $6 to $6.50; lambs, $6.50 to $7.70.

PINE FOREST NOT BLIGHTED.

Ontario Forestry Bureau's Explanation of An Ottawa Story.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—A story from Ottawa to the effect that Dr. Barlow and W. J. Wilson of the Geological Survey have announced that the pine forests of the Temiskaming district have been attacked by a blight, pointing to the early death of the trees, has not caused any alarm at the Parliament buildings.

It is regarded as a revamp of a verbal report made to the Bureau of Forestry last summer by Dr. Barlow, respecting a small portion of the Temagami forest reserve. Some fine pine trees near Obabika Lake were found to be losing their foliage, which was turning in some cases to a yellow color, in others to red.

Samples of foliage and parts of the trees were obtained by Dr. Clarke, the Provincial Forester, who, after a thorough investigation, decided that the cause of the threatened decay was lack of moisture. The summer was dry, and the point where the trees affected were growing was too sandy to retain enough moisture for them. There was no disease of any kind, and no danger of other parts of the forest becoming affected, as there was sufficient moisture elsewhere.

WARDENS ELECTED.

Brant—Paterson.
Haldimand—Frank Ramsay.
Lincoln—St. Crow.
Peel—George T. Ward.
Prince Edward—J. M. Mallory.
Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry—J. P. Case.

Fourteen Injured.

Los Angeles, Jan 25.—Fourteen persons were injured in a collision Tuesday at Glendora, between the Santa Fe Limited westbound train and a local train.

Squadron Going Home.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 24.—The Vladivostock squadron, consisting of the cruisers Gromobol, Bogatyr and Rossia, arrived at Colombo, Ceylon, Sunday.

A Striking Fact.

A young man was riding in the cab with a locomotive engineer.

"Now," said the young man, shuddering, "suppose a stage load of children were to glide on to the track from that lane—what a blessing it would then be if you could stop short, instantly, like a man walking."

"Blessing?" said the engineer. "Why, young fellow, if that stage you speak of were to appear now, and I could stop short like a man walking, I wouldn't do it. Instead, I'd keep right on and kill the kids."

"Why?"

"Because it would be the more humane course. In one case there would be a stage load of kids slaughtered; in the other case there would be the slaughter of a trainload of people. This train is going at the rate of forty-five miles an hour, and the sudden stoppage of a train going at that rate would give the passengers precisely the same shock that they would get from a fall of fifty-four feet—a fall from a housetop."

Preparing For the Storm.

A correspondent in the north of Ireland sends the following account of an interesting incident that came under his observation:

Being on a walking tour through Inishowen and passing along the edge of Lough Swilly, the romantic Lake of Shadows, he noticed an immense gathering of rooks on the sandy shore. In company with several others, the tourist was attracted by this novel spectacle and began to wonder at the cause of it. An old man who was working in a field near the place offered an explanation. He said that the birds were picking up sand to ballast themselves in a storm and that when they did so it was a sure sign of approaching bad weather. He added that on shooting rooks after a gathering of the sort he had found that they were loaded with sand. As a matter of fact, the gentleman concludes, a violent gale set in early next morning.

The Spider's Web.

If we compare the dimensions of the spider with those of its web we are forced to admit that the little creature is a true engineer, able to construct a cable network of relatively enormous size. Thread after thread is put in position in the desired and necessary order, and sometimes prolonged observation on the part of the investigator is required in order to understand the reasons which direct the spider in its complicated operations and which make it always follow the same order and the same laws. Some of these reasons are explained by geometry, others by the strength of materials, and he who succeeds in discovering the "why" of all the interesting details of the method employed is compelled to admit to himself that he could not have achieved so good a result with the same materials.

Poor Richard.

"In December of the year 1732," says Bigelow's "Life of Franklin," "Franklin commenced the publication of what he styled 'Poor Richard's Almanac,' price fivepence. It attained an astonishing popularity, and at once. Three editions were sold within the month of its appearance. The average sale for twenty-five years was 10,000 a year. He was sometimes obliged to put it to press in October to get a supply of copies to the remote colonies by the beginning of the year. It has been translated into nearly if not quite every written language, and several different translations of it have been made into the French and the German. It contains some of the best fun as well as the wisest counsel that ever emanated from his pen."

China's Flag.

The flag of China is one of the gayest among ensigns. The body of the flag is pale yellow. In the upper left hand corner is a small red sun. Looking intently at the sun is a fierce Chinese dragon. The dragon's belly is a brilliant red and white. His green back is covered with stiff knobs. He is standing on his two hind paws and the left fore foot. His feet are five toed and slightly hooked. His long, five forked tail stretches away in the rear. The dragon's neck is arched back. His mouth is wide open, and he looks as if he were about to try to swallow the red sun.

Then and Now.

"When old Fladger came to this town twenty-five years ago," said the man in the mackintosh, "everything he had in the world was on his back."

"And now?" queried the man who had his feet on the table.

"Well, his wife and six daughters have relieved him of the burden. They carry it all on their backs now."

Postprandial.

"Judge Goodliven just went down the street. I thought you said he was attending a big banquet to him this evening."

"Not at all. I saw him coming out of Del's, and I merely remarked there was a big dinner in his honor this evening."

Procrastination.

How mankind defers from day to day the best it can do and the most beautiful things it can enjoy without thinking that every day may be the last one and that lost time is lost eternity!—Max Muller.

Sufficient Reason.

Roomerton—Guess I'll have to give up boarding. Flatleigh—Going to get married? Roomerton—No but my landlady wants her money.

A joker is near akin to a buffoon, and neither of them is the least related to wit.—Chesterfield.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM
For The Winter
GO TO CALIFORNIA, MEXICO OR FLORIDA.
"The land of Summer's sunshine"

TOUR OF ALL MEXICO
Leaving Toronto on Jan. 29th covering all points of interest.
Special reduced rates.

Mount Clemmens "Mineral Baths" and St. Catherines Mineral Springs, delightful resorts for those who need a rest. Best of hotel accommodation.

For tickets and full information call on
H. C. THOMPSON, Town Agent.
T. H. COPPIN, Depot Agent.

Hotel Belleclaire
Broadway and 77th Street, New York.

Seventh Avenue, Amsterdam Ave. and West 72th St. Cars pass the door.
Luxurious rooms for permanent and transient guests.
Restaurant a Feature.
Exquisite Palm Room.
Art Nouveau Cafe.
Royal Hungarian Orchestra.

"Most Artistically Beautiful Hotel in the World." Can offer few single rooms, with bath, beautifully furnished, suitable for two people, $60 per month.

TRANSIENT RATES:
One Room, with bath.............$2.50 per day
Parlor, Bedroom, with bath, $3 and $5 per day
Parlor, 2 Bedrooms, with bath, $5 and $7 per day
Every improvement known to modern ingenuity.
Write for our magazine, "The Hotel Belleclaire World."
MILTON ROBLEE, Proprietor.

HOTEL TOURAINE
Delaware Ave. & Johnson Park
BUFFALO, N. Y.
A modern, high-class and convenient stopping place, offering every accommodation for the comfort and pleasure of transient guests. Moderate prices.
Harry C. Griswold, Proprietor.

NEW YORK CENTRAL
& Hudson River R.
THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE
SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST

		Daily except Sunday
Lv. Belleville (G. T. R		1.39 a.m.	noon
Arr. Kingston	"	3.25 a.m.	1.25 p.m.
Lv. Kingston (steamer)		5.00 a.m.	2.00 p.m.
Arr. CapeVincent (str.)		7.00 a.m.	4.00 p.m.
Mondays only
L. CapeVincent N.Y.C.		7.15 a.m.	4.50 p.m.
Ar. Watertown	"	8.10 a.m.	5.50 p.m.
Arr. Oswego	"	11.59 a.m.	9.12 p.m.
Arr Syracuse	"	12.13 p.m.	9.33 p.m.
Arr Rochester	"	2.28 p.m.	....
Arr. Utica	"	12.20 a.m.	9.00 p.m.
Arr New York	"	5.48 p.m.	7.12 a.m.

Convenient train service in opposite direction.
Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

* * *

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10, while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C.R.R. of New Jersey, cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from H. S. Folger, N.Y.C. agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS, General Pass'r Agent, New York.
A. H. SMITH, General Manager, New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent, Watertown, N.Y.

THE RESULT OF YEARS OF STUDY AND EXPERIMENT
The method of preparing the steel and tempering is our exclusive secret
YOU GET EVERLASTING SHAVING COMFORT
For sale by W. W. CHOWN Co., Ltd., Belleville, Ont.

Business Directory.

MUSICAL.

W. H. SPOONER,
Associate of Trinity College, London, Eng. Organist of St. Thomas' Church, receives pupils for Pianoforte, Organ, Vocal and all branches of Theoretical Music. Apply at studio, Coleman St., or by letter, P. O. 932.
56-6md

MEDICAL.

McLEAN CAVERLY, M. D., C. M., M. C. P. S. O.
Office, at residence, No 90 West Bridge street. Office hours 9 to 10 a.m.; 1 to 3, and 7 to 8 p.m. No regular office hours on Sundays. Telephone 325.

JONH J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.C. C. S., England.
Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. WILSON,
J. M. Wilson. D. D. Wilson,
Located in Dr. Lockridge's old office, opposite Wallbridge and Clarke's, Bridge street, Belleville.
jy13-d & wly

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, &c., Belleville.
Office—9 Campbell Street.
Malcolm Wright. J. Franklin Wills.
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B.C.L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for City of Belleville.
Office—City Hall.

PORTER & CARNEW,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices—Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 67.
E. Guss Porter. Wm. Carnew.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over G. N. W. Telegraph Office, Bridge St., Belleville.
Money to Loan — Private Funds. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

NORTHRUP & ROBERTS,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public.
Offices—North Bridge St., opposite Post Office, Belleville, Ont.
Solicitors for Bank of Montreal.
Money to loan at 5 per cent.
W. B. Northrup, K. C., M. P.
jy27-d&wtf A. A. ROBERTS.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
(Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q. C.)
Barrister, Solicitor Conveyancer, etc Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire, Life, Accident and Plate Glass
INSURANCE AGENCIES.
The Guardian
Ins. Co. of North America,
Quebec and Metropolitan Fire Co's.
Insures farm and city property at lowest rates.
Canadian Railway Accident Ins. Co.
Office Campbell St., Belleville, Ont.
R. W. ADAMS.

THOMAS STEWART,
INSURANCE AND REAL ESTATE.
Agent Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society, Scottish Union & National Insurance Co., North British & Mercantile Insurance Co., London & Lancaster Insurance Co., Dominion of Canada Guarantee & Accident Co., Equitable Life of New York, New York Plate Glass Insurance Co.
Bridge St., Belleville.

Fire, Life and Plate Glass Insurance.
Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual of Waterloo, Ont.
Lloyd's Plate Glass.
Home Life Association, Toronto.
North British Mercantile.
Farm and City Property insured in first-class, reliable companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation and transact general Real Estate business, and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle St., opposite Post Office and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.
'Phone 163.

Money Saved is Money Earned.
I can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co.
The Merchants' Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at a lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON.
Office—Bridge St.

THE FOUNDERED GALLEON.

BY

WEATHERBY CHESNEY, AND ALICK MUNRO.

COPYRIGHT, 1899, BY THE AUTHORS.

gone along it! Yes, for there on the stone were the groovings from the hobnails and a faint red streak from the copper toe cap.

"Run to earth at last! Cain ahoy!" shouted the undergraduate, as he hurried forward beneath the archway.

The long echoes of the cave howled the words back to him.

"Cain Laversha aho-o-o-o-y!" he repeated.

"Aho-o-o-o-y!" boomed the stone walls again, but no human voice answered.

"Poor chap! He's mebbe knocked himself senseless and doesn't hear us," suggested Henrietta, as she hurried along the narrow causeway of the cavern.

Once the archway at the entrance was passed direct daylight ceased and the cave was filled instead with a curious soft, green glow. The effect was ghastly; there were fantastic green shapes in stone on all sides; there were green, phantomlike fish swimming in the clear water, and there were green sea shrubs trailing up to its surface. Guthrie held out his own drawn fist in front of him. It was pale as a dead man's. There was an atmosphere of eeriness about the cave which made both of its explorers shiver involuntarily, and at the same time their first eager trot became insensibly reduced to a sober walk. But that indeed the failing green light made necessary.

He gave an involuntary start and stepped a pace backward.

The water channel curved somewhat, and the lazy impulses from the low swell of the lagoon did not penetrate far beyond the entrance of the cavern. In 20 yards their influence had ceased entirely and the quiet dark water looked like ice. There was a chill, too, in the air which added to this effect, and, coming straight from the hot glare without, both Guthrie and the woman felt it keenly.

The oppression of the cavern's eeriness increased as the light grew dimmer, and an inclination, almost overpowering, to turn tail seized upon the undergraduate. With a great effort he thrust it back and led the way on through the green, ghastly twilight, rubbing his hands together for warmth. A little way ahead the cave seemed to turn abruptly at right angles or perhaps to come to an end altogether, for at any rate it went no farther in its present direction. And yet there was no sign to be seen of the missing farmer.

A deep toned "Hist!" close at hand made the young man turn sharply.

The dark muzzle of a gun barrel hung steadily, like a round spot of ink in the green gloom, not ten inches away from his eyes.

He gave an involuntary start and stepped a pace backward. Henrietta was close behind him, and he bumped against her. The woman lost her footing and made a grab at him to save herself from falling into the water. As her fingers clutched him Guthrie felt himself being carried helplessly backward by her weight, and the next moment there was a splash as the pair of them met the cold water below.

As the green wave closed in gurgling bubbles over his head the young man heard a harsh laugh burst out and clang discordantly among the echoes of the cavern. With a flash of angry recollection he thought of his boast and realized that he had allowed himself to be trapped by the man with the bloody blister, after all.

Then the frantic clutch of an arm about his neck reminded him of a more pressing danger of the moment, for the woman's fingers had closed with the frenzy of a drowning grip upon his throat, and Guthrie knew that she could not swim a stroke.

CHAPTER XIX.

THE FOUR NEGROES.

There was a brief moment beneath the waters during which the gates of death seemed to swing wide open for the two members of the Eureka's crew. It was the sharp, agonized struggle in which a strong swimmer fights to release himself from the foolish clutching of another who cannot swim and who, with the blind, unreasoning instincts of self preservation, hampers his rescuer's efforts to save them both.

For a moment it seemed as though Guthrie would not be able to shake off the grip of Henrietta round his neck, but fortunately for them both his struggles to do so brought him suddenly into the shallows. In one of his convulsive throws he felt the bottom, and found that there was a flat topped bowlder beneath him, with less than four feet of water covering it. Getting his feet planted on this he first shook the woman off and then drew her up beside him and raised her head above the water. As soon as she felt firm ground under her Henrietta recovered her presence of mind, shook her shoulders like a retriever to get the water out of her hair and eyes and then began to look calmly and curiously about her to see what it was that had caused the undergraduate to back so suddenly down upon her and throw them both headlong into the brine.

Then for the first time Guthrie had leisure to remember the gun episode and looked up to see what sort of man might be who was at the butt end of the barrel which had startled him.

The path they had tumbled from was at the other side of the water channel from the submerged rock on which they were now perched, and standing at the edge of this path were four negroes—one with a gun in his hand, which he still kept leveled at the two involuntary bathers, the others with their hands stuck deep into the pockets of their white cotton breeches. None of the quartet had offered the slightest help while Guthrie and the woman were struggling in the water, and indeed it seemed to the young man as he looked at their faces that they had watched the scene out quietly in the hope, perhaps, that one or both of the bathers would get conveniently drowned. Their attitude of contemptuous noninterference suggested this idea irresistibly and the look of disappointment on their faces confirmed the grewsome suggestion of the six ostentatiously pocketed hands.

Guthrie shuddered inwardly as this conclusion was borne in upon his understanding, but none the less, with a quick flash of prudence, he determined to disguise his suspicion and put a bold face on the situation.

"What the mischief do you mean by standing quietly up there to watch two fellow creatures drown before your eyes?" he demanded indignantly.

A chuckle ran through the group, and after a pause of a few seconds the man with the gun replied. He was a tall, lean negro, with a face so sallow and fleshless that it looked almost like a skull. However, a pair of burning black eyes, goggling amid perfect lakes of white, showed that he was very considerably alive, and, standing in the eerie green light of the cave in that attitude of menace, he looked, to his questioner, a sufficiently ugly customer to have to tackle.

"The question rather is, What are you doing in our cave?" said he in perfect English and with a purity of accent which Guthrie had not expected to hear from a man of his color.

"We've missed one of our ship's company," answered the young man.

Again the three others, who seemed to act as a sort of chorus to the lean man, indulged in an amused laugh. But the spokesman kept his grim stare unrelaxed.

"Are there any more besides you two?" he asked.

"No," said Guthrie.

"Don't lie now," replied the man suspiciously.

The undergraduate retorted hotly that he was not in the habit of lying and asked again if they had seen his shipmate.

"What sort of man is he?" queried the spokesman. "Fat chap? Stolid sort of party, eh?"

Guthrie admitted with a smile that that sounded like him.

"Then Mr. Whatever's-your-name, you needn't hunt around any longer. Your man's here, and I'll tell you another thing, he showed more pluck than you when he got a gun barrel poked at him. He didn't even wink—stood like a tree."

"I believe you," returned the young man lightly. "He isn't the sort of man you could frighten easily. He's not excitable, you see—I am—that's just the difference. But I say, whoever you are, I wish you'd bear a hand and help us up on to dry land again. It's precious cold standing here between wind and water, and the lady can't swim, or I wouldn't ask you."

"The lady?" exclaimed the lean negro in surprise. "Why, so it is a woman! I'm sure I beg her pardon, but, in her man's clothes and in this dim religious light, I confess I hadn't tumbled to the fact that we'd got female company. You hear that, boys? Off with your toppers! We've got a lady paying us an afternoon call!"

Again the three negroes chuckled, and one of them made a remark in a low tone which called a smile from their leader.

"Here, bear a hand!" cried Guthrie, impatiently. "Don't I tell you we're cold?"

"Not so fast, young gentleman," replied the man with the gun. "On the whole I don't know why you shouldn't stay where you are. By your own showing your companion can't swim, and if I put a bullet through one of your fins you won't be able to help her or yourself either. It really strikes me as a very neat trap, you know."

"Come, I say, don't be a brute," retorted Guthrie, but he shivered slightly, for the lean man looked quite capable of being as good as his word.

"Exactly, my dear sir. That's just what I wish to avoid," explained the negro with a grin. "If I help you across here, I shall have to be a brute to one of my men by making him stand sentry over you to see that you don't bolt."

"You want to keep us, then? What for, pray?" asked Guthrie in a tone of surprise, which was, it must be admitted, to a great extent simulated.

"That's a trifle we won't discuss," said the other coolly. "Let it suffice that as you have poked your meddling noses in here unasked you've got to swallow the consequences. You didn't choose to drown one another when you had a decent chance put in your way. So now you must understand that you are prisoners. The only question is, Do you prefer to stay where you are, like a couple of seals with their flappers cut off, or would you rather come up here high and dry and give a promise, to cause no further trouble?"

"You're pinning me rather unfairly," said Guthrie.

"Look here, young man," returned the negro savagely. "I'm not going to stay here palavering. Are you going to come or are you going to stay? Settle quickly or maybe my gun may go off before you've made up your mind."

"We'll join you up there, thanks!"

"Ah, I thought you would! Then it is understood that neither you nor your sweetheart in the trousers will attempt

The young man hesitated for a fraction of a second, but there was no alternative. "I'll promise," said he sulkily, for he recognized that to resist further was hopeless. At present his adversary held all the trumps.

"Mind you don't break your word," said the man with the gun threateningly, "or I dare say some one will contrive to stick a bullet in your carcasses before you've got very far. George, get a brace of those paddles to make the lady a bridge."

George, one of the three, departed and in a minute returned with a couple of oars, whose ends he shoved out to the submerged rock. Henrietta swarmed up nimbly enough, and the undergraduate followed her.

"Now," said the lean man, "you can go up round this dark angle, and you'll find your shipmate there. You may chat with him if he's got a tongue. We can't find it."

The three negroes had taken their long sheath knives from their belts and stood now to attention. Guthrie and the woman marched past them in the direction which the leader had indicated and tried not to show by their manner that they found the situation an ugly one.

They did not find it so very dark round the angle, after all. There was a slab of smooth rock at the corner where the cave turned, and the green light was reflected on without much loss of intensity. They discovered the farmer sitting with his back to the rock wall. He recognized them with a microscopic nod, but as far as his face indicated seemed neither pleased to see them nor the reverse. He was a truly wonderful man. After that nod he did not appear to think it at all necessary to explain how he had tumbled into his scrape, and it was only by dint of patient cross questioning that Guthrie got the story out of him.

To give the tale piecemeal, as it was extracted, would be impossible, but this is the gist of it:

It seemed that when he felt the dry land beneath his feet once more, after the long weary months on shipboard, the love of the soil had taken a firm hold of him. This had indeed been no sudden feeling, for it will be remembered that when first the Eureka's people went ashore Cain Laversha alone sat him down and showed no inclination to scamper and frolic. But none the less the smell of the earth gradually found its way up his nostrils, and the sight of the greenery was slowly taken in by his little eyes, and by nightfall he fully understood that he was on his own mother earth again and loved her; also, as the restraining influence of Zusan Pierce was now some thousands of miles away, there came upon him the desire to poach. So he made his bargain with his friend Tom Jelly and slowly pushed his way inland. What manner of game he expected to find his questioner failed to gather, but the farmer admitted that he got disgusted with his sport before very long, perhaps because he found the scrub of bastard palm unexpectedly hard to push a passage through. So he bore away shoreward and came out on to the beach near the landing place and there plumped into the arms of the quartet of darkies.

Now, as these gentry, for some reason of their own, did not want their presence on the island to be reported aboard the ketch their only plan was to take the would be poacher along with them, and thus was the problem explained which had baffled the ingenuity of the two searchers to solve. This was the reason why the heavy farmer had faced the exertion of scrambling over those cruel rocks. He could not help himself: it was a case of needs must when the devil drives!

"I was druv to't zur," explained Cain Laversha, pathetically, "druv by the black niggers."

"Did they tell you why you were kept captive?" asked Guthrie.

"No, zur, nor I never thought of askin them."

"You didn't! Then I will!" exclaimed the undergraduate, and he went round the angle to where the men were stationed.

He put his question, and received in reply a sour order to hold his tongue or it would be the worse for him. He had given trouble enough already, he was told, by turning up at all.

"This way," said the tall man.

This was mysterious and hardly satisfying, but there was only one deduction to make from it. Whatever their game was, it boded harm to the ketch and her people.

Guthrie whispered this to Henrietta and the woman nodded. "They're after the gold, I expect, sir," said she. "We must just stop 'em!"

"But I've given my word for the pair of us not to try to escape from the cave."

"So you have, sir," was the reply, "and you couldn't help doing that same either, but you haven't given no word not to interfere in any hanky panky games against the ketch. We'd best lie low for the present and keep our eyes and our ears open to find out what the devilment is that they're after."

During the rest of the afternoon, till nightfall, there was no further move on the part of the negroes. They gave their prisoners food and then went back to their niche and went to sleep; at least some of them slept, if snores were to be taken as a proof of sleep, but the prisoners made no doubt that there was at least one pair of eyes wakeful enough to have squinted along a gun barrel if they had attempted a bolt.

The green light dimmed as the sun neared the water on the opposite side of the island, and before long the cave was in complete darkness. Still no signs were given of an intended move, and the snorers slept on undisturbed.

About an hour after sunset, however, a voice was heard bidding the prisoners stir their stumps, and, looking up, they saw the meager form of the tall negro standing at the angle of the cave with a ship's lantern in his skinny hand.

"Where are we to go to?" asked Guthrie.

"Come along with me, and you'll see," said the man. "And tell your mates to come too. I can't din any sense into the fat one."

As the negro had the butt of a pistol sticking from a side pocket of his loose cotton coat, the Eureka's people recognized that for the present they must do as they were told. Their chance, they hoped, would come later.

"This way," said the tall man as he led them to where a whaleboat lay snugly hidden in a natural dock of the stone. His three subordinates followed behind the prisoners, hanging closely on their heels, with sheath knives drawn suggestively round to their hips in readiness for instant use.

The whole party boarded the whaleboat, which was then punted out of the cave.

When they reached the lagoon, as the wind was fair for the direction in which they wanted to go, the leader had the mast shipped and a lug hoisted, and away she went free. They coasted along the eastern shores of Piper's cay, and then, threading a few reef channels, hauled their wind somewhat and bore up to another island of slightly smaller size that lay about a mile away. It was another of the group of three to which Piper's cay belonged. Toward this the leader steered her in through some intricate navigation confidently enough, though one or two nice bits of handling were required, and more than once a couple of oars had to be got out to leeward to make her look up to it. But at last she ran in straight toward the land, rounded a point and opened out just such another harbor as that which held the Eureka at the island which they had left.

Guthrie gave a cry of astonishment, for there before them, with her spars and rigging traced in strong black lines against the sky, lay a large schooner. A beautiful fairy ship she looked in the soft moonlight, but if she were so she had surely changed hands recently, for the four negroes, at any rate, did not belong to the number of the good spirits.

Henrietta gave a sharp glance at the graceful lines of the vessel they were approaching and then turned to the negro captain.

"So you're pirates, are you?" she grunted. "And that's your pirate schooner! Well, I will say that she's far too good for the likes of you."

CHAPTER XX.

THE SCHOONER'S HOLD.

Her steersman shot the whaleboat cleverly up alongside the schooner, which was moored fore and aft to trees on the shore. The lug sail was run down and the painter caught by a couple of men who appeared on the deck, negroes, too, like the others. The gangway was unshipped and passed out, and the people from the green cave boarded from the gunwale of their boat.

"Who've you got there, cap'n?" asked one of the men on the schooner, as the Eurekas stepped up on to the deck.

"Oh, some blundering fools," replied the lean captain, "who must needs shove themselves in our way when they weren't wanted! Now, you three," he continued, addressing his prisoners, "I haven't staterooms to give you and the fo'c'stle's full, so just turn down into the hold for the present. No, young man, you needn't bother to argue the question. Just shut your head and go quietly. You'll only get your skulls cracked if you make fools of yourselves over it."

A couple of sheath knives were out on the instant, gleaming brightly in the moonlight. The negroes were six—all big men and armed—and how many more there might be below there was no means of guessing. The undergraduate saw that resistance was hopeless and did as he was told.

There was a fixed iron ladder at the after combing of the main hatch, running straight up and down from the deck to the hold beneath. By this he descended and the other two after him. The schooner's people slid on a heavy grating and fixed it in its place with wedges. Then four pairs of shod feet and two shuffling pairs of bare ones could be heard making their way aft over the deck to the companion, and presently the murmur of voices in the cabin came to the prisoners in a dull drone through the quietness of the night.

"There be zomething live in this yer box," announced Cain, as a faint, rustling noise made itself heard in the hold. "Why, un's tortoises," he exclaimed after a brief, stertorous inspection, "zame as Zusan Pierce, her father got fur black beetles in the kitchen, only bigger."

"They're turtles, you oaf!" corrected Mrs. Jelly contemptuously.

The whole hold was paved with them, lying helplessly, belly uppermost. Some of them were quite still, but others, feebly waving their flappers in the air, were giving rise to the faint whispering sound which had attracted the farmer's attention.

"So that's what the schooner is doing here!" exclaimed Guthrie. "That explains it; she's turtle catching. Well, that's a harmless enough trade surely."

"If they sticks to it," added Henrietta significantly. "But this kidnaping of us three ha'n't nothing to do with turtles that I can see."

The steady drone of the conversation in the cabin was making itself heard through the after bulkhead, and at this moment it swelled out to a louder volume. There was some sort of dispute going on among the turtle catchers.

Guthrie skirmished along the floor of the hold among its impotent occupants till he came to the bulkhead. He found a lashed cask amidships and scrambled on to the head of it. Immediately in front of his nose was a faint glow of light. It came from a seam in the boarding from which the oakum had been started. Gently manipulating the calking with his fingers, he enlarged the slit to a hole two inches long by three-sixteenths wide and found that he could not only hear plainly, but see to a certain extent as well, although, as the bulkhead planking was thick, his view was necessarily a restricted one.

A white headed mulatto was reading from a scrap of paper. To the listener's amazement it was an accurate account of the foundered galleon enterprise, or, rather, all of it that could be known at the time when the Eureka left Bristol—the promoters' aims, the supposed amount of the treasure and the means by which it was hoped that it might be recovered. The extract had been copied from the Bristol Times and Mirror into some local West Indian paper whose name the undergraduate could not gather.

"Who've you got there, cap'n?"

"This is clear enough," said the mulatto, when he had read the cutting through, "but are you sure, cap'n, that the ketch at Piper's yonder is the same as this one?"

The lean negro with the burning eyes said, "Yes."

"You asked that fat lubber her name, did you?"

"Yes, and he said he didn't know, and I believe he spoke the truth; he looks fool enough for anything. But it didn't matter. I went down, night before last, to the place where they are lying and saw everything for myself. The fools had no anchor watch set, so I didn't have to hurry." And then he went on to give as minute a description of the little iron built ketch as the astonished eavesdropper himself could have furnished.

"And," concluded the negro captain, "I found her daily observations, too, scrawled up in pencil on the side of the companion. The reckoning showed that on the way out she had lain for 48 days in exactly the same spot. Hand me over the chart, George! There, that's the place where she put in the time. See? It's plain white paper; no land within 100 miles or more. You tumble to what that means?"

"Well, cap, what does it mean? Let's have your idea," said one of the negroes.

"It means," answered the black skipper slowly, "that they've got what they went for. Those 43 days were spent in raising the gold from the foundered Spanish galleon."

At this the rabble broke out into a noisy chatter, but the white headed old mulatto raised an authoritative hand for silence.

"It's no use all gabbling at once," he told them. "We have got to set about making a plan, sharp, or we shall have this haul slipping through our fingers. I don't suppose they'll be staying on at Piper's indefinitely. Well, I'm sorry for 'em, but"— He finished his sentence by a movement of his pipe stem across his throat.

The tall, gaunt captain leaped to his feet and brought his black fist down on to the table with a bang.

"No!" he shouted. "Not that! There may be two skippers aboard here practically when it comes to a job of this sort, but I'm rated master of this schooner's books, and whatever else I may give in to I'll hold out against that. I've told you before that I'm not overkeen on the stealing part of it, but the air of the islands seems to have made pirates of the whole lot of you, and so I can't help myself there. But—take it as you like—I draw the line at murder."

At this the babel broke out again. It seemed, indeed, to the anxious watcher that the black captain had some support, but it was obvious that the majority was with his white headed antagonist.

"As for stealing," said the mulatto fiercely, "who says it's stealing at all? Who gave the Eureka's people the old Spanish hulk to plunder? Tell me that! They've no more right to her treasure room than I have. In fact, if we come to that, not so much, for I've got good Spanish blood in me. Of course they won't hand over peaceably if they can help it, and it seems to me that the best plan would be to get the stuff under our own hatches, quiet them for good and then scuttle their clumsy ketch in deep water. She'll never be inquired for. If she isn't reported again, their friends in England will just say: 'Mad scheme. Come to grief. Served 'em right. Amen!'"

"I will have no murder done, I tell you," repeated the other firmly. "So, if that's your game you go without me. But scuttle their craft and maroon them on Piper's if you like. I won't say no to that."

The lean captain's eyes were gleaming like black diamonds. The mulatto evidently knew his man. He dropped the throat cutting scheme and started on another tack.

"I dare say you're right," he admitted sulkily. "Maybe it's best after all, boys, to leave the white folk alone, as the cap here wants us to. Little games of that kind, so I've heard, stick in the memory afterward and sometimes spoil a man's night's sleep. So we'll just manage without. We'll get what we want, maroon the white folk on Piper's cay, where nobody's likely to disturb them in a hurry, scuttle their ketch and then just up stick and be off ourselves. We can run across to Para. No? You're shaking your head, George? The Amazon, then? We can run right up into the heart of the Brazils. No questions asked there, boys, and with all the dollars we shall have the spending of there'll be as fine a time ahead as a man could wish for."

And then with ready negro eloquence

To be continued.

THE HOW AND WHY OF IT.

"Fruit-a-tives" are the parts of the fruit that do you good. Apples, Oranges, Figs and Prunes are pressed—the juices separated from the tough, woody fibre—and concentrated. Then—(and this is the secret of "Fruit-a-tives")—one more atom of bitter principle from the orange peels is forced into the concentrated fruit juices. By this process—one of the most remarkable achievements of the age—the juices are made stronger, and many times more active medicinally. Finest tonics and internal antiseptics are added, and the whole evaporated and pressed into tablets. "Fruit-a-tives" are the greatest tonic, laxative and blood purifying medicine ever discovered.

50c. a box. At all druggists.

Only a Little Cold often Develops into Catarrh.

Colds are dangerous things to trifle with. They hang on and on, and people keep putting off curing them, until that stuffy feeling in the nose proclaims that catarrh has developed. Stop the cold while it is only a cold. Japanese Catarrh Cure instantly relieves "cold in the head." The balmy, aromatic pomade soothes and heals the inflammed surfaces, clears the air passages, and arrests the development of the trouble. The treatment is so pleasant and so simple, that Japanese Catarrh Cure holds first place in thousands of homes throughout the Dominion.

Mr. Alex. McKea of New Westminster, B.C., writes:—"I was for some weeks suffering from a cold in the head, which was apparently developing into Catarrh. I purchased a box of Japanese Catarrh Cure and in less than two days the trouble entirely disappeared. I can highly recommend it: the first application relieves."

All druggists sell it at 50c. a box or six for $2.50.

The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., Limited, Toronto, Canada.

Dunlop's Rosery

96 Yonge St.

TORONTO

Dunlop's Choicest Flowers only dealt in.

Floral Designs for all occasions.

Flowers shipped to any point between Halifax and Calgary, and safe condition guaranteed.

Illustrated Price List on application.

100,000 Rose Trees in bloom.

JOHN H. DUNLOP

FLORIST

Long Distance Phone: Main 4790

Night and Sunday Calls Park 792

The use of a Barometer

The everyday convenience and usefulness of reliable barometers is becoming more and more recognized by Agriculturists and the general public.

A guaranteed Aneroid Barometer (made by Short & Mason, London, Eng.) will be sent prepaid by Diamond Hall for $6.50.

A complete treatise on "Weather Instruments for the Home" will be mailed to your address for 25c., or included free with any barometer.

RYRIE BROS.
LIMITED
134-138 YONGE ST.
TORONTO - ONT.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

REASONS WHY You should travel via C.P.R.

TRAINS at convenient hours to all points Atlantic to Pacific.

EQUIPMENT is up-to-date in every respect · built for comfort.

SLEEPING CARS have earned an enviable reputation for their luxurious appointments and modern conveniences.

DINING CARS are unequalled for excellence of service and attendance.

For booklets, train service, tickets, etc., call on nearest Canadian Pacific Agent.

Or write C. B. Foster, D. P. A., Toronto.

S. BURROWS,
C. P. R. Agent, Belleville.

SKATES

costing one dollar and upwards attached to shoes

FREE

if purchased at this store. We have a full line to choose from in plain and nickel

PLATED

goods. Hockey supplies of al kinds—sticks, pucks, shoes, etc

GREENLEAF & SON.

Cracker Charm

There is all the difference in the world between eating biscuits and biscuit eating. One may eat a biscuit and not taste it, but when you think of biscuit eating you think instantly of

Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas

Crisp, delicious and tasty. Absolutely and distinctly superior to any other make.

Say "Mooney's" to your grocer.

BUSINESS CARDS at The Intelligencer. Your name and address on 500 $1.00. a18-tf

The New Bovril Premium
"Little Lady Bountiful"

A beautiful gravure reproduction of Mr. Fred Morgan's charming Oil Painting, size 28½ inches by 19¾ inches, printed on fine plate paper 40x30 inches, with no advertising matter, is given Free to users of BOVRIL who save the coupons, one of which will be found over the neck of every bottle of BOVRIL.

This Bonus Picture must not be confused with cheap premium pictures. It is a work of art worthy a place in the most cultured home. The subject is extremely interesting.

On the grass in a charming woodland spot by a lake a mother and her three beautiful children have spread their picnic table cloth. Everything indicates wealth and health and happiness, the cake and fruit are served on choice china with snowy linen, and both mother and children are daintily attired. Standing apart and gazing with wondering, wistful eyes at the luncheon so temptingly spread, are a tiny girl and her tinier brother, barefoot and evidently less fortunate in worldly possessions. Prompted by her mother, the wee tot of the picnic party, with some of the best of the luncheon on a plate carried before her, is advancing toward the little ragged intruders, tendering with shy and gentle grace her offering. The little barefoot boy seems embarrassed yet delighted by this immediate prospect of good things and is shyly putting out a little brown hand to receive.

Altogether the picture is one of the most charming conceptions, and is sure to please and delight.

BOVRIL

Eight pounds of prime beef is concentrated in four ounces of BOVRIL

Bovril is prepared only by
BOVRIL LIMITED, LONDON, ENG., and MONTREAL, CANADA
By special appointment
Purveyors to His Majesty King Edward VII.

Save Coupon over neck of Bottle and secure this Picture.

SAFE INVESTMENTS

LOW EXPENSE

THE CARDINAL POINTS
—OF—
THE DOMINION LIFE
Head Office: Waterloo, Ont,
P. H. SIMS, S.B. BRICKER, HON. SENATOR McMULLEN
Vice-Presidents.
THOS. HILLIARD, President and Managing Director.
FRED HALSTEAD. Supt. of Agencies

LOW MORTALITY

HIGH AVERAGE INTEREST RATE

The Wonders of Smelling.

James Mitchell, who died in or about 1833 in the county of Narin, in Scotland, and was born blind on Nov. 11, 1795, recognized, says the World of Wonders, different persons by smelling. The famous Mr. Boyle mentions a blind man at Utrecht who could distinguish different metals by the different odors, and Martials records the case of a person named Mamurra who could tell by smelling whether copper was true Corinthian or not. Indian travelers have recorded that certain natives who habitually abstained from animal food have a sense of smelling which is so exquisitely delicate that they can tell from which well a vessel of water has been obtained. It has been related that by smell alone the negroes of the Antilles will detect the footsteps of a Frenchman from those of a negro. Marce Marel has left an account of a monk at Prague who could tell by smelling anything given to him who had last handled it. The guides who accompany travelers in the route from Aleppo to Babylon will tell by smelling the desert sand how near they are to the latter place.

Carlyle Corrected.

At a Royal academy dinner in London on one occasion several artists were expressing their enthusiasm about Titian. Carlyle and Thackeray were among the guests.

"His glorious coloring is a fact about Titian," said one man, striking the table to give emphasis to the remark.

"And his glorious drawing is another fact about Titian!" cried another artist.

And so they went on until Carlyle, who had been listening in silence to their rhapsodies, interrupted them by saying, with a slow deliberation which had its own impressive emphasis:

"And here I sit, a man made in the image of God, who knows nothing about Titian and cares nothing about Titian, and that's another fact about Titian."

Thackeray was sipping claret at the moment. He paused and bowed courteously to Carlyle. "Pardon me," he said; "that appears to me to be not a fact about Titian, but a fact, and a lamentable one, about Carlyle."

Sunday Work.

"Little boy," said the stern clergyman, "you should not be working on Sunday. What would your father say?"

"Why, pa's working too!"

"What is he doing?"

"Playin' the organ in yer church choir."

A Conceited Man.

Edith—Harry is the most conceited man I ever met.

Ethel—What makes you think so?

"Why, he first asserts that I am the most adorable woman in the world, the most beautiful, intellectual and in every respect a paragon and then asks me if I do not love him."

A Wise Man.

"I noticed after you left the house this morning you went back again. Don't you know that's unlucky?"

"Well, it would have been a good deal more unlucky for me if I hadn't gone back. My wife called me."

Pure Milk.

"Is this pure milk?" said the inquisitive lady customer.

"Yes," replied the milkman. "We sell the cream separately."

Dinner Sets

We have just received 16 Dinner Setts, in Blue, Pink, Peacock and Green, 98 pieces in sett, including large platter, fruit sett, butter-dish, bread and butter plates, etc.; regular price $7.00, we want a speedy clearance of these goods and will give you your choice for $5.00 per sett of 98 pieces.

Just think of it, only 5c per piece.

• • •

TOWELS AND TOWELLING.

We have just received our spring shipment of these goods.

Drop in and see our Bath Towels @ 7, 12 1-2, 15, 25c; we think they are the best value ever seen in town.

CHAS. N. SULMAN.

Marriage in Korea.

There is not much difficulty in marrying off a daughter in Korea. Where there are defects, such as feeble health, paralysis, deformities, etc., an expert intermediary who knows how to conceal them is employed. It is her business to make the girl presentable to the parents of the suitor. As the bridegroom does not see the bride until the day of marriage, when it is too late to recoil, he is obliged to make the best of the situation. In marrying Korean girls are not exempt from contributing to the support of the family. This applies to the grande dame as well as the humblest peasant. Ladies of rank who have become impoverished and are obliged to support themselves may earn a livelihood by knitting or rearing silkworms.

A Mother's Command.

William Brookfield, the English divine, used to tell this story: "The new bishop of New Zealand in a farewell and pathetic interview with his mother after his appointment was thus addressed by her in such sequence as sobs and tears would permit: 'I suppose they will eat you, my dear. I try to think otherwise, but I suppose they will. Well, we will leave it in the hands of Providence. But, if they do, mind, my dear, and disagree with them!'"

Propriety and Clothes.

The ladies of Lamu surpass those of all other nations in retiring modesty, for they not only hide their faces, but walk about under a small tent, which requires the assistance of a servant to carry it. It is not surprising to hear that they have a very bad reputation for propriety, for in Africa female respectability is in inverse ration to the quality of clothes worn.—Eliot's "East Africa."

Cheap Medicine.

The occidental physician is not without honor in the orient. The Calcutta Statesman tells how a doctor in a Bengal hospital had a bearskin doormat. In a few days it was plucked entirely bare. Whatever ailments the patients complained of, they regarded a few hairs from the doctor's mat as more curative than the medicines he prescribed.

Early Jewish Settlers of Newport.

The first Jewish sermon which was preached in America and has been published was delivered in the Newport synagogue on May 28, 1773, by Rabbi Hayyim Isaac Carregal. This was delivered in Spanish and was translated into English. Carregal was a most interesting personality. He appears to have come from Palestine and was on terms of intimacy with Ezra Stiles, the president of Yale college. The first Jewish club in America was formed in 1761 at Newport, with a membership limited to nine persons. Just before the outbreak of the Revolutionary war the Jewish population of Newport must have numbered nearly 1,000 souls. The war dispersed the community, and it never regained its importance. The Jews, for the most part, espoused the colonial cause and lost the greater part of their property when the town was captured by the British. A few returned to the city after the war, and in 1790 the congregation presented an address to Washington on the occasion of his visit to the city. Abraham Touro bequeathed a fund to the city of Newport to maintain the synagogue as well as the cemetery. This fund is still in existence, though no representatives of the original families now live in the city.

New York's Fishermen.

Every day through the spring and summer and autumn and almost every day in winter a boat leaves one of the East river piers bound for the deep sea fishing banks, says Bertha H. Smith in Four Track News. Every passenger on board is of that true democracy, the democracy of the rod and reel. Not death itself is more of a common leveler than the fishing rod, and who crosses the gangplank of this fishing steamboat leaves class distinction behind. The professional man, fleeing business for a day, the clerk with a holiday on his hands, the mechanic thrown into idleness by a strike, the invalid who finds the city irksome and longs for a sniff of the sea, old men, young boys and all ages and stages of mankind between may be seen in the stream of people that dribbles along the pier while the sun is yet dodging behind the Brooklyn housetops. The man who would go deep sea fishing must be up betimes, for it is a good three hours' run to the fishing banks.

A Bit of Australian Slang.

"Wallaby" is an Australian slang word, and it once puzzled an English secretary of state for the colonies, as it might well puzzle any one but an Australian. This minister was once visited by Sir Charles Gavan Duffy, and reference was made to a masterful Australian governor who had come into conflict with the colonial office. "I hear he has returned to an island off the coast and has surrounded himself with wallabies,' remarked the English statesman. "Yes," replied Sir Gavan, "I dare say he is making himself as comfortable as he can." "You surprise me," was the reply. "What must be the state of morality in a country where you make light of such a proceeding?" Sir Gavan had to explain that the society of kangaroos is not forbidden by the Decalogue.

Splendid Filth.

Captain E. S. Grogan, author of "The Nile as I Saw It," gives this description of a bit of scenery near the headwaters of the river of Egypt: "A long, slimy pool of putrefying reeds, where foul fish foregather and great pythons writhe and gorge themselves on hideous toads and slither; long, gleaming bands of gold, through labyrinths of fetid green and purple spume, where the fireflies dance, great butterflies flash, dragon flies glint and the suck-suck of swamp, the roar of huge bellied frogs, the cicada's scream, merge in a sad minor key; where in the ceaseless struggle between fruition and decay death wins."

A Fishing Spider.

A peculiar spider that is found in parts of South America, principally in the vicinity of Buenos Ayres, catches fish at certain seasons of the year. In a shallow part of the stream it weaves between the stones a double sided or funnel shaped net, into which, running upon the water, it drives little tadpoles, well known fishlike larvae of the frog. The shriveled husks or skins of these creatures, which lie strewn in great numbers about the spider's nest, show plainly that it thoroughly understands its business.

A Painful Dilemma.

Senior Partner—What are you looking so glum over? Junior Partner—Got a note from my wife that the pug is lost. Now, if I don't sympathize for her a whole lot she will say I am a cold blooded brute, and if I do sympathize she will suspect that I hired some one to steal the dog and am just condoling with her for a bluff.

Possession.

It so falls out that what we have we prize not to the worth while we enjoy it; but, being lacked and lost, why, then we rack the value. Then we find the virtue that possession would not show us while it was ours.

The Wrong Jam.

Haskell—What's Tommy crying for? Mrs. Haskell—Oh, the poor boy caught his finger in the pantry door. Haskell—H'm! He evidently didn't get the jam he was looking for that time.

From Bad to Worse.

"A few years after people gits too old to believe in Santy Claus," said Uncle Eben, "deys apt to stadt in believin' in race hoss tips, which is wuss."

There always is a sense of satisfaction in hearing abused those one dislikes.

When Sugar Rose

BY EDITH M. DOANE

Copyright, 1906, by C. H. Sutcliffe

"Don't forget that the matinee is at 2 o'clock—not 2:30. Are you sure you have your ticket?" queried little Mrs. Blake anxiously.

She stood at the top of the porch steps bidding her husband goodby, and her eyes traveled complacently over the well groomed figure standing, hat in hand, on the walk below. "The gray and black in that suit match your hair so well!" she said approvingly.

"According to that, I shall soon have to adopt white flannels," he laughed. "Yes, here is the ticket, 'Left Center, G 48, Orchestra.'"

"What? Thought I kissed you goodby," as two children rushed pellmell from the house and threw themselves rapturously upon him. Here's another, then, for good luck. Goodby everybody; see you at 2 o'clock."

Mrs. Blake followed the good looking figure with wifely approval. Perhaps he would turn around. She half wished he would—Cousin Margaret was so often on the lookout from her house opposite. But no—he had met Mr. Peene and was already talking earnestly as they rounded the corner. Cousin Margaret's husband always looked back and waved his hand all the way down, but then it was a family joke that Cousin Margaret had him so well trained he dared not do otherwise. "I am glad I married a man!" reflected little Mrs. Blake thankfully.

First to the kitchen for a talk with Kate, then to the two stores for the Saturday marketing, so like a lottery drawing to the average suburbanite. "He had fresh peas and new potatoes and spring lamb," said Mrs. Blake, returning with the fine triumph of one who had burned her financial bridge and bought not wisely, but too well, but she found Kate unresponsive.

"Nivver an egg aint yit, an' me a-waitin' on 'em since airly marnin' fer the bakin' of the cake," she muttered belligerently.

The marketing had consumed a good part of the morning. It took still longer to get the grocer on the phone and placate the belligerent Kate, and Mrs. Blake had not even begun to dress when the children emerged from Ellen's hands fairly radiating cleanliness in their crisp, white pique—that unwilling concession to "a treat" in town.

"Ellen, don't let them get soiled," cried Mrs. Blake agonizingly. "See that they get their luncheon and walk on slowly to the station. We must make that next train."

At quarter to 12 Thomas Blake, junior partner in the firm of Matthison & Co., sugar brokers, Wall street, consulted his watch, then closed his desk with a brisk little snap.

"I think I'll go now, Matthison," he said, glancing in at the door of the adjoining room. "Only fifteen minutes more. Besides, I am due to meet Mrs. Blake and the kids at the Hippodrome at 2 o'clock."

Mr. Matthison, a calm, quiet looking man, looked up from the letters he was signing. "Might just as well," he replied. "Business is as dead as a doornail. We will all get off by 12."

"Mr. Starbuckle wants to see one of the firm," interrupted an office boy laconically.

Blake nodded and entered the telephone booth. In a moment he shot out of the booth and into his partner's office, clever, alert, transformed by the whirl of abundant life that pulsed through his veins at the sudden demand upon it.

"Starbuckle has put up the price of sugar ten points," he announced briefly.

Matthison whirled around in his chair. "The deuce he has!" he ejaculated.

Blake pulled open his desk. "If you have any outside orders get them ready," he said, hurriedly seizing a memorandum. "I'll telephone these down." And he dashed again into the booth.

When he came out the office already reflected the changed condition of the market. The telephones were ringing, clerks busily sorted slips of paper or hurried from desk to desk, and a half dozen messenger boys tumbled up the steps and through the door.

"Get 'em all in?" queried Matthison.

"All but two. He balked at that three car order of Mercer & Swift's. Have to go down with them, I suppose."

"Go ahead. I'll tend to the telegrams."

Every sugar broker in Wall street was on the way to Starbuckle's office.

"That's right, my boy; get 'em all in!" shouted a jovial fat man with a friendly whack at Blake's back. "What keeps you down here, anyway? Supposed you were at the Hippodrome by this time."

Blake laughed. "Thought I'd accept your invitation to sail down the bay instead."

The fat one chuckled.

Once inside Starbuckle's office the little crowd of tense, earnest men paid scant attention to anything but the business at hand—a few words of memorandum hastily jotted down on a scrap of paper, then out again, hurrying along the busy street; back to the office, to the same tense absorption, the same impatient jingle of the telephones, the messenger boys still scrambling up the steps.

Blake placed the slips on Matthison's desk. "All in," he said briefly.

"Good," nodded the older man, and again the tense silence settled upon the room, broken only by the whir of the ticker and the shuffling steps of the messenger boys.

Finally Blake handed over his last telegram and leaned back in his chair with a sigh of relief. At the same time his partner shouted, "That's the end!" bringing his fist down on the desk with an emphatic thump.

By common impulse the two men rose, and their eyes met in quick satisfaction. In the lull the ticker clicked incessantly above the subdued hum of the clerks' voices.

Blake glanced at his watch. Three o'clock! A sudden vision of a little woman, flanked by two starched and immaculate children, sent him posthaste to the telephone. "The Hippodrome!" he shouted. "Give this message to the lady sitting next to G 48—left center—orchestra—G 48—left center," he repeated. The rest was lost in the returning shuffle of the messenger boys.

Blake returned to his desk and seized the telegram from the first boy. He shot a quick glance at the contents.

"Five hundred barrels—Brooks & Ross—Kansas City," he jotted down and handed the memorandum to a contract clerk.

He tore open the next envelope.

"Three hundred barrels—Holmes & Wilson—Duluth"—

"One thousand barrels—Reed & Nicol's—Milwaukee," and so on through all the long, hot afternoon, while from the room outside, above the hum of voices and clatter of quick steps, came the insistent clicking of the typewriter.

At 7 o'clock Matthison interrupted him. "Blake, what do you say to letting the boys go home and entering up the rest of these contracts ourselves?"

Blake nodded.

It was nearly 4 o'clock Sunday morning when little Mrs. Blake jumped suddenly to her feet and gazed at the familiar library with sleepy, startled eyes. Yes, she remembered now. Tom had telephoned at 8 o'clock and again at 11, and through the telephone she had caught the buzz of voices and thrilled in sympathy with that irresistible force that sends men forth to grapple with the world.

As the little clock struck 4 the first faint twitter of a bird's call mingled with a man's firm tread swinging briskly up the walk.

She flew to the door—to the porch—down the steps—to be caught and held tight in eager, infolding arms. "There is no doubt about that new dining room rug now," he laughed softly.

She glanced apprehensively across the street. What would Cousin Margaret say to a home coming at this unseemly hour? Then she drew herself up proudly and regarded her husband with happy, tender eyes. He was magnificent, she thought—transformed with the exultation of the conqueror. Cousin Margaret could have her hand waving, "Patience" playing, home staying husband. Thank heaven, she had married a man!"

Women and Mirrors.

German statisticians with no great burden of serious work on their shoulders have been calculating what part of a woman's life is spent in looking at herself in a mirror. She begins, as a rule, at six years. From six to ten she has a daily average of seven minutes. From ten to fifteen she devotes a quarter of an hour to her glass. At twenty she certainly spends thirty minutes daily admiring herself and when past twenty a whole hour. The statisticians are tactful enough not to say when a woman begins to take less interest in her personal appearance, but women more than sixty years old do not, they say, spend more than ten minutes daily at their mirrors. All this time reckoned up—it is a simple sum in multiplication—makes 7,000 hours, or about ten months, at the mirror. They then proceed to compare the time which a man—a German man—devotes to this occupation and come to the conclusion that his average is seven months.

The Breeding Stone.

There was a curious superstition which prevailed in Essex half a century ago. It was believed that certain stones possessed the power of breeding other stones. I remember being taken by a man of the upper laboring class to see a well known breeding stone which lay on the sward by the side of a lane in the parish of South Weald, near Brentwood. It was seemingly a water worn block of sandstone or possibly, I have since thought, of pudding stone, which would explain a great deal.

It was larger than a man's head, with a cup shaped cavity the size of a small orange, in which lay a pebble about as big as an acorn. I was told that this pebble continually grew larger and that if it were removed the breeding stone would begin to breed another. It was evident that the man firmly believed what he told me, and he got quite angry when I ventured to cast a doubt upon the story.—Notes and Queries.

A Daring Deed.

While the mutinous sepoys were attacking General Wheeler's intrenchments at Cawnpur a shot from their batteries blew up the contents of a two wheeled cart loaded with cartridges. It also set fire to the woodwork of the cart, which was standing in the place where the English ammunition was stored. Both the mutineers and the English saw that if the fire was not extinguished there would soon be a most disastrous explosion. The sepoy batteries therefore poured in a deadly stream of round shot to prevent the English from putting out the flames. A young lieutenant, Delaforse, unmoved by the concentrated fire of shot, threw himself under the blazing carriage, tore away the burning wood with his hands and, throwing earth upon the blazing brands, stifled the fire before it could spread to the ammunition. How he escaped the rain of bullets is incomprehensible.

PREACHERS' BLUNDERS.

Stories of Queer Mistakes Made In the Pulpit—Some Unconscious Humor —Bulls by Divines.

Each profession has its stock jokes, its stories innumerable, and to each belongs a flavor all its own. That the point of a jest lies not in the tongue of him who makes it, but in the ear that hears, is the testimony of the great dramatist. The doctor on his rounds and the judge upon the bench have both an audience ready and willing to accept as the highest wit the bon mots of the speakers, and there is no club gathering of men that does not acclaim one of its members as supreme in this respect, and are ready to yield due recognition of the gift.

There is, however, a vast amount of unconscious humor always floating about, and to those who perceive it the world is ever very amusing. It must be admitted that the blunders and jests clerical stand for some reason pre-eminent both in number and in mirth producing qualities. The reason, of course, is not far to seek, the very surroundings in which they occur the very upsetting of one's preconceived notions of reverence, all tend to cause a reaction in the ordinary mental equilibrium, and the simplest mistake or accident under such circumstances assumes the proportions of a huge comedy.

The divine who in drawing the attention of his congregation to a special communion service on the following Sunday informed them that "the Lord is with us in the forenoon and the bishop in the evening," is chronicle with praying for the children of his parish in these words: "And now, O Lord, bless the lambs of this fold, and make them meet for the kingdom of heaven." While a Scotch minister innocently, perhaps, hit the mark by telling his people, "Weel, friends, the kirk is urgently in need of siller, and as we have failed to get money honestly we will have to see what a bazaar can do for us."

There is a certain amount of excuse to be made for the young curate who, remarking that some people came to church for no better reason than to show off their best clothes, finished up as he glanced over his audience: "I am thankful to see, dear friends, that none of you have come here for that reason."

An Irish clergyman is credited with having concluded a powerful oration in this fashion: "My brethren, let not this world rob you of a peace which it can neither give nor take away." Which is coupled with the remark of a fellow country colleague who, in reasoning with a woman who had lost her faith in Christianity told her: "Well you will go to hell you know, and I shall be very sorry, indeed, to see you there."

But what can be said of the negro student, who, conducting the prayers at one of the great missionary colleges, said: "Give us all pure hearts, give us all clean hearts, give us all sweet hearts," to which the entire congregation made response, "Amen."

The giving out of church notices has often proved a pitfall for the unwary. "During Lent," said a rector lately, "several preachers will preach on Wednesday evenings, but I will not give their names, as they will be all found hanging up in the porch."

It was a rector who gave out a hymn beginning, "Awake, my soul, stretch every nerve," before his sermon, and a curate who read in the lesson for the day: "He spake the words, and cathoppers came and grasspillars innumerable," but it was at a young woman's Bible class that, when asked what hymn should be sung at the close they all with one accord chose "Where is My Wandering Boy To-night?"—Chambers' Journal.

The Tooth Offering.

In Scotland and many parts of England, and, indeed, throughout Europe, it is (or used to be) a popular custom when a tooth is extracted to put a pinch of salt on it and throw it into the fire. This is a survival of a remotely ancient practice, dating from the Gothic days of Sun worship, of which the fire is an emblem; and the action of burning a separated tooth was recognized as "a tooth offering." The alleged penalty for omission of the observance varied in different localities. In one it was said that the next tooth would be a "buck's" or a "dog's" tooth; or that the neglectful owner of the tooth would have to search for it after death in Hades, or that something else equally terrible would happen.

Apple Pips and Peelings.

Apples have long been invested by the superstitious with mystic influence, for the reason that they used to be regarded as the forbidden fruit of the Tree of Knowledge. An old Scottish belief is that if an apple-pip be shot from between thumb and finger its flight takes the direction from which the shooter's partner in life will come. Another, and more general, superstition is to peel an apple in one long unbroken strip of rind, which is then thrown over the left shoulder. If it falls unbroken to the ground the thrower's wedding will be soon, and if in falling it assumes the shape of an alphabetical letter, that letter will be the initial of the surname of the future spouse.

Polite As Ever.

A Frenchman who is staying at a hotel in Edinburgh asked at the cashier's desk for his bill, and was astonished to find it so large.

He felt that he had been plundered, but he paid the bill and asked to see the proprietor. The landlord came down in response to the call, beaming with smiles. The Frenchman rushed up to him, exclaiming:

"Ah, let me embrace you. Let me kees you!"

"But why do you want to embrace me, sir? I don't understand."

"Ah, saire, but look at this bill."

"Your bill? Yes, but what of it?"

"Vot of it? Why, it means zat I s'all nevaire, nevaire, see you again, saire." —London Answers.

Old Bows.

The last European engagement in which archery was employed was the battle of Leipzic, in 1813, when the Russians brought into the field a regiment of Bashkir Tartars, whose only weapons were bows and arrows.

THE SAVING POWER.

Unique Testimony of Mellville Trotter at the Torrey Meetings—A Barber's Revival Career.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—Mellville Trotter, of Chicago and Grand Rapids, was the memorable speaker at the conference of Christian Workers yesterday afternoon in Massey Hall. Mr. Trotter, who talks at a gallop, was announced as a lightning speaker, and justified his reputation. "He is a Reverend," remarked Dr. Torrey, "but he doesn't use it."

He was on the way to the lake to commit suicide, when he was led into the Pacific Garden Mission, at 100 East Van Buren street. This was on Jan. 19, 1897. He was a barber by trade, and next morning went to work. His nerves were all of atremble, and when Mr. Casey, the real estate dealer, came in to be shaved he declined to go into Trotter's chair. Trotter went into the back room and kneeling down prayed God to settle his nerves. If He could save him He could do that. He went back and shaved Mr. Casey. Mr. Casey gave him 25 cents that morning, and it struck him about noon that he had not wanted a drink all morning. He had never wanted one since.

Word in Grand Rapids.

"The hog that calls for swill was gone," he explained. "If you don't keep a hog you don't need swill." Mr. Trotter thought the swellest thing was to be an usher at the door to shoot people in, but he got to other work, and finally went to Grand Rapids. There were a thousand people, nearly all women, at his first meeting. He did not think he could talk to them, having nothing but slang, but three conversions were the result, all women. Two of them were now missionaries, and one was married, with two nice babies.

"If I was an old maid, I'd get converted. That's what Charlie Alexander says," he remarked. "People were longing for the Gospel," he proceeded. He had no trouble in drawing people to Christ. His trouble was in finding time to go after them. Going on with his mission work, he raised $4,200 for a building.

"And I couldn't spell theology on a bet," he remarked. "If you've got Jesus, He's a majority, and all the devils in hell and Canada can't touch you. The devil will get corns on his ribs crawling round trying to get you." He raised $2,500 one morning. "Talk about going! That was going!"

"I want to dedicate that thing out of debt," he told a man who asked him what was the matter. "How much do you want?" The amount was $2,300. "I'll give it to you," said the man.

"I just walked down that street touching my chin," was Mr. Trotter's account of his satisfaction. He was an ordained Presbyterian minister, and he told the conference about it.

A Theological Test.

"When they examined me the examination was a beaut."

"Are you converted?" was asked.

"You bet!"

"How do you know?"

"I was there." Then they appointed a committee of three of his friends, and they asked him was he a Calvinist or an Arminian.

"You can search me," was the reply; "but my dad's Irish." That was all the examination. The text on which he depended was II. Corinthians, v., 17, "The blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin."

In his first year he had 1,500 people on his hands, and he had known no more about the gospel than a crow knows about ping-pong.

"Don't hesitate to ask Jesus to help you. If He can take a poor, illiterate fellow like me, what can he not do with you? Get down at Jesus' feet. That's where you hear things," said Mr. Trotter. "If you trust Jesus you'll have the greatest time of your life. Canada's got to have a revival right out of this meeting. Surrender yourselves wholly to God," was his advice as the means of attaining it.

The Evening Meeting.

The evening meeting, announced for 6.30 was crowded to the doors and hundreds could not gain admittance. After a short song service Dr. Torrey gave an address on the great truth that there was a God.

To Kindle Revival Fire.

Hundreds of ministers and Christian workers from all over Ontario met in conference at the Metropolitan Church last night to pray for a great revival throughout Canada. Testimony was given by many persons to the saving power.

Dr. Torrey gave a short address on the principles of revival work. He and Mr. Alexander had not come to Toronto to save Toronto, but to kindle a revival fire here that would spread throughout the country. The great Welsh revival had started from a few meetings held in Cardiff, and was continuing right along.

Pastor Is Exonerated.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—By a vote of about four to one the congregation of the Walmer road Baptist Church decided last night to ask Rev. Oliver C. Horsman, their pastor, to withdraw his resignation placed in the hands of the deacons because of complaints of heresy.

Measure Your Friends.

"Did you ever amuse yourself," asks the London Gentlewoman, "on a wet Sunday afternoon by giving marks of appreciation or the reverse to all your friends and acquaintances? This is the method we employ: There are five heads—(1) looks; (2) manners; (3) abilities; (4) merit and (5) 'use'—and this fifth item often balances all the rest, for a person may quite likely possess nearly full marks for looks, manners, abilities and merit and yet be of no possible 'use' to oneself, while, vice versa, some person may be of great use, one may fancy their company, or they may have a knack of sympathy, yet be very deficient in manners or merit. The marks range from 0 to 20, and if you are quite conscientious in awarding your marks you will be surprised to find how the law of averages comes in and how much the sum total of one individual's marks resembles another."

Art thou in misery, brother? Then I pray be comforted. Thy grief shall pass away. Art thou elated? Ah, be not too gay. Temper thy joy. This, too, shall pass away.—Paul H. Hayne.

Overcoats Ordered Out of the House

Here's the first "toot" of our Overcoat Special———

Time's Up and the Coats Must Go

If you want a coat step lively, please.

If you knew we were giving away $5 bills you would come in for your share, wouldn't you? Well, it's just what we are doing, and sometimes we give away even more.

We are closing out our Overcoats.

We won't carry them over.

It certainly isn't good business to do so.

Our Overcoats are cut to the cost and often less.

Now Is the Time to Buy an Overcoat.

Copyright 1905 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

MEN'S SUITS

After the season's rush we find many lines of Men's Suits badly broken. These we are offering at greatly reduced prices.

Quick & Robertson

BELLEVILLE'S FOREMOST CLOTHIERS.

ESTABLISHED 1870.

30 p.c. Reduction

ON ALL

MANUFACTURED FURS

S. A. HYMAN & CO.,

MANUFACTURING FURRIER.

N. B. Highest cash prices paid for Raw Furs.

GLASSES THAT BEAUTIFY.

Eye strain causes that worn, worried look which mars otherwise beautiful features.

This can be removed by correct and up-to-date glasses.

Correct Lense.

Up-to-date Mountings.

Our neat Rimless Eye Glasses and spectacles please the most exacting.

T. Blackburn.

7 Sutherland Sisters. . .

Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner . .

THE IDEAL HAIR DRESSING'S

PRICE 50 CTS.

WATERS' DRUG STORE.

A BARGAIN IN CARDS.

Business and professional men will do well in examining the cards just imported by The Intelligencer Job Department. They are of superior quality and very cheap. We have them from $1.00 for 500 with name and address upwards. Eight sizes. tf of those with eye troubles this advertisement is inserted.

TO MEET THE EYE

It is our business to make eye tests, prescribe a cure for defective sight and to provide the necessary for the test; we charge nothing, if glasses are ordered here, and for the glasses our prices are only reasonable.

EYE GLASSES OR SPECTACLES.

ALEX. RAY.

Happy Enough...

Your family can be happy enough if they have goo health and they can be helped a long way on the road to health if your Plumbing is just right.

We keep up with the times, and our up-to-date skillful Plumbing work is worth a great deal to you.

JOHN LEWIS & CO.

BARGAIN PRICES IN SHIRTS

For a few days we will offer you a large assortment of $1.00 and $1.25 Shirts for:—

75c

te window display.

Chas. J. Symons

298 Front St. Shirts to Order.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

SOUTH AFRICAN BOYS' CHOIR.

Belleville people will be delighted to learn that the Kaffir Boys' Choir is again coming to this city. This Choir is undoubtedly the finest organization of its kind that has ever toured this continent. The singing of the boys, mostly in English, is marvellous and delightful, and the short talks on Africa by Mr. Balmer and Miss Clark are extremely interesting. They will appear in Bridge St. Church Sunday School Rooms, Thursday evening, Jan. 25. Admission 25c. 24-25

"HIS HIGHNESS THE BEY."

"His Highness the Bey," which comes to the Carman next Tuesday night, is novel in its treatment of a theme that admits the introduction of up-to-date witticisms and satirical quips of national interest bearing on relations with foreign affairs, while not at any time interfering with the thread of a well told and admirably acted comedy. The presence of American war correspondents, foreign diplomats and a score of comedy characters in a beleaguered Turkish port, keeps the action of the comedy at the highest tension throughout the two acts. The songs written by Joseph E. Howard, composer of "Good-Bye, My Lady Love," "Hello, My Baby" and scores of others, excel his other efforts in tunefulness, while the costuming and novel accessories are of the same high order, which has made other LaSalle productions unapproachable for beauty and action.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorized to refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

Permanent Paving For Front Street.

A CORRESPONDENT GIVES SOME INTERESTING INFORMATION, AND FAVORS ASPHALT FOR THE MATERIAL.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir, — Having noticed in your paper that the Council is considering the matter of paving Front street and as it will mean the expenditure of $20,000 to $30,000, it is to be hoped that the matter will be gone into thoroughly. This question of paving has been ever uppermost in the minds of the city engineers throughout the country, and as our men have not had anything to do with these patent pavements I presume they will seek eminent authority before proceeding with the matter.

In America the pavements now being laid are principally asphalt, brick, and stone block. But asphalt seems to be preferred to all others. The streets of the city of Washington, D.C., are all covered with asphalt. The borough of Brooklyn, N.Y., covered 280 miles of streets with asphalt last year, and as numerous other large cities have adopted asphalt it would seem that this kind of pavement should be favored by our people.

In first cost, asphalt and the best stone blocks generally rank high, but this is largely offset by their durability and low cost of repairs.

Brick pavements are very cheap in some localities, and if placed on good foundations they are sufficiently durable.

Wood may be cheap also, but unless specially treated it generally proves expensive to keep in repair and requires frequent renewals.

For ease of cleaning nothing can surpass asphalt, and it gives rise to less noise than either stone or brick. Brick is also easily cleaned and far quieter than stone blocks.

Stone is hard to clean and unpleasant to ride over.

Asphalt surfaces dry easily after a rain or sprinkling, and as Front street does not get the sun all day there is no pavement that will dry as quickly as the asphalt.

The cost of paving varies with local conditions, particularly in the depth and character of the foundations. Foundations are to pavements what floors are to carpets. Failure to recognize the importance of good foundations has been the bane of most American pavements. If the foundations yields through deficient drainage or bad material and workmanship the destruction of a pavement follows.

An asphalt pavement if well laid should last 15 to 20 years.

The cost of asphalt or granite blocks is in the neighborhood of $2.75 per yard, and of brick $1.75. The above price generally carries a guarantee of from 5 to 10 years. But some say that a contractor's guarantee is worthless.

Any pavement will need constant patching up and relaying in spots.

Since we are about to have a system of sewage installed it would be well to delay the paving until the trunk sewers are laid. Otherwise it would destroy a great part of the pavement.

The above prices do not include the cost of grading, draining and curbing.

Yours truly,

Belleville, Jan. 24. F.S.D.

THOSE ANNOYING BLACKHEADS.

External applications will never remove pimples or blackheads. Only by stimulating circulation and purifying the blood can it be done. For quick, sure release from these pests use Ferrozone; it drives all humors from the blood, makes the skin healthy, tones up the system. With the pure, nutritious blood made by Ferrozone it's impossible to suffer from any skin disease. You'll have a smooth, delightful skin, healthy color and beautiful complexion by using Ferrozone—and you'll feel immensely better as well. Fifty cents buys a box containing fifty chocolate-coated tablets at any drug store.

PERSONAL ....AND.... SOCIAL.

Mr. J. W. Pearce, M.P.P., of Marmora, was in the city to-day.

Mr Walter Patterson left to-day for New York city, where he intends to remain.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Streets, of Buffalo, are spending a few days in the city.

Mr. Robert Thompson, foreman of The Intelligencer news room, is confined to his home by sickness.

Miss Ethel and Miss Ruby Walton returned to the city yesterday after visiting at Tweed and Napanee.

Many in this city will regret to learn that Mrs. Warner, of Napanee, mother of Mrs. (Dr.) Eakins, has had a paralytic stroke.

Mr. Walter J. Andrews, of Ogdensburg, N.Y., arrived in the city today. He will act as United States Customs Inspector and will be located here permanently.

R. E. Huyck, Esq., barrister, of Cobourg, is a guest at the Quinte. Mr. Huyck, it will be remembered, refused a County Court Judgeship in one of the western counties.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

SPORTING NOTES.

There will be good fast ice at the rink to-night, and one of the speediest games of the season should result. The locals will have their work cut out to beat the husky Cobourgs, but it is a good many years since a Belleville hockey team lost a match on its own ice, and it is not likely the rule will be broken tonight. The home kids are in fine shape, and will go the distance at top speed. If they lose it will be because they are up against a better team. But they have not lost yet.

Referee Waghorne will be on the job again to-night, so everybody will have to play good, clean hockey. "Wag" has no superiors as referee. The home team had a splendid workout last night, and will be on edge when the bell rings this evening. Be there to cheer them on to victory.

Home and home games are being arranged with the Port Hope and Cobourg Intermediates, and hockey "fans" will see some brilliant games this winter yet. No attempt will be made to get on games with Peterboro; they might get the O.H.A. Treasurer to protest if they lost. There is no doubt that Belleville can put a husky bunch of intermediates on the ice right now, and the games with Cobourg and Port Hope should be productive of good sport.

The average weight of the Smith's Falls Federal League hockey team, on which Harry Brown, of this city, plays, is 157 lbs. A husky bunch.

Peterboro now has the championship of district No. 2, in the intermediate series of the O.H.A., Port Hope having defaulted all the scheduled games. Peterboro is now reaping its reward for helping to "queer" Belleville in years gone by. The Strattonville people have a bunch of "champions," and nobody to play against them. Serves 'em right.

The sporting editor of the Toronto Star has the following to say editorially; "Many people like junior hockey better than the other brand, and, to tell the truth, the youngsters put a vim and energy into their play which is sometimes lacking in the older and more experienced teams. The junior series is always very interesting in the O.H.A. The Kingston district will be between St. Georges, the city team, and the R.M.C. Cadets. The next group has a bunch of extra fine clubs. Cobourg leads the van, and a win to-morrow at Belleville will give them the district. Belleville, Port Hope and Picton are very clever teams, but lacking in experience. Great things are predicted for the Picton team if they can be held together for a year or two."

LACROSSE.

Noah and His Whiskers.

Of Noah Brusso, who is to box Marvin Hart at Los Angeles on February 23, a writer in The Detroit Times, says:

"Detroit remembers Brusso best of all as a lacrosse player, perhaps, and this was all on account of one little incident. Noah is an expert at the game, and his speed and aggressiveness make him an ideal player. His professional status was well known, however, and when some Detroit Canadians, in an effort to provide this city with a sport which would put baseball out of existence, organized a team, they wanted Brusso on it, but feared the consequences. To obviate the difficulty, they covered the fighter with a luxurious growth of whiskers, in order to disguise him from the pure amateurs who were coming over from some Canadian town to test the locals.

"It worked well and the game was at its height. Noah was coming down the field with the ball when the whiskers, loosened perhaps by the warmth of the fray, fetched away and fell on the hospitable ground. A wondering Canadian courteously picked them up and extended them to their owner on the point of his stick. The secret was out and the amateur standing of the lacrosse team representing this city received a bewhiskered stain, from which it is hardly recovered till this day. All facial appendages of the hirsute nature are now severely pulled before a Canadian team will play anything from Detroit."

COCK FIGHTING.

Peterboro Birds Were Winners.

Buffalo, N.Y., Jan. 25. — A big cocking main was pulled off near Buffalo early this morning at a resort near the Niagara County line. It was for one thousand dollars a side. Some ten thousand dollars changed hands. The main was between birds owned by F. P. Casey, of Waterford, Conn., and Mr. Graham, of Peterboro, Ont. Each side showed 15 birds and 12 pair fell in. The Canadian contingent almost swept the boards, as Peterboro won seven out of the nine battles fought, and the main.

Jail Notes

There are 15 at present confined in the jail, which is not a large number for this season of the year.

Yesterday two were liberated from the institution having served their terms.

The old man Burnham, who is in jail on the charge of perjury, will in all probability remain there until the Spring Assizes, which open on March 27th.

St. James Court, No. 593, Catholic Order of Foresters, will hold their annual ball on Monday evening, Feb. 26th, 1906, in their hall.

Judge Lazier is Dead.

PASSED AWAY UNEXPECTEDLY THIS AFTERNOON.

At 2.30 this afternoon Judge Lazier, senior Judge of Hastings County, passed away at the family residence, George street. An attack of pneumonia was the cause of death, which was not anticipated by the relatives and friends.

His Honor was in his 80th year and had occupied the position of judge since July 11th, 1872. An extended biographical sketch of the deceased will appear to-morrow.

CHURCH AND YOUNG MEN.

ADDRESSES AT THE EPWORTH LEAGUE CONFERENCE AT BOWMANVILLE.

Bowmanville, Jan. 24.—The Bay of Quinte Conference Epworth League convention, in session here, continues to increase in attendance and interest. Many more delegates arrived to-day.

Mayor Tait extended to the delegates most cordial greetings on behalf of the citizens. This morning the session opened with a prayer and praise service conducted by President E. A. Morden, of Picton. Mrs. Aikenhead, of Stouffville, was to have conducted the quiet hour, but was called away by a telegram announcing the death of her mother. Her place was taken by Rev. Dr. F. C. Stephenson, of Toronto. The reports of the Executive and representatives from the various districts were encouraging.

Dr. A. C. Crews, of Toronto, General Secretary, conducted a helpful round table conference. Miss Gertrude Creeper, of Hampton, presided at a practical and interesting conference on junior work. Miss Anna C. Wilson, of Newcastle; Rev. W. Higgs, of Wilfrid, and Miss M. Florence Adams, of Belleville, gave able addresses. Dinner was served to the delegates at the close of the morning's session and a pleasant social time spent.

President Morden addressed the convention in the afternoon, dealing with the great responsibilities, possibilities and encouragement of the work.

The afternoon and evening were largely given over to problems affecting the young man and the Church. Rev. W. Pomeroy Rogers officiated as chairman at the afternoon session, and asked Dr. A. C. Crews to introduce the subject.

The convention then had the privilege of listening to an address from Mr. Ivor Brock, of Toronto, who discussed in a practical way this great problem, illustrating his remarks with incidents from real life. The subject was continued by a discussion, first from the pastor's standpoint, introduced by Rev. F. W. White, of Grafton, and from a layman's standpoint, introduced by Mr. Fred R. Foley, of Bowmanville.

The Nominating Committee elected in the convention by ballot are:—Revs. S. F. Dixon, A. W. Coone, H. W. Foley, H. B. Kenney and L. S. Wight. The afternoon closed with a quiet hour, when Rev. Chancellor N. S. Burwash gave a searching and uplifting Bible study on "The Sermon on the Mount."

A house filled to the doors, chairs being placed in the aisles, intense enthusiasm, masterly addresses on practical subjects, a male choir and a devotional service conducted by young men, were features of tonight's meeting. Mr. Bert K. Farr, President of the Bowmanville Epworth League, conducted the opening service, then President Morden presided over a programme of rare excellence. Rev. R. Bamforth, B. A., Trenton, dealt in an eloquent way with the subject, "The Church needs the young men." A second phase of the subject, "The young man needs the Church," was taken up by Rev. H. B. Kenney, of Fenelon Falls, a Past President of the Quinte Conference League, an address that was virile, forceful and practical, and that probed the necessities of the soul that is in man. Mr. Geo. E. Deroche, LL.D., of Deseronto, an earnest successful worker among men, presented the subject in an able address from a layman's point of view.

The service closed by all joining heartily in singing the Glory Song, led by Rev. V. H. Emory.

The Bavarian is Safe.

Montreal, Jan. 23.—Mr. John T. Boyd, consulting marine engineer and surveyor, of Philadelphia; Captain Saunders, marine and ship surveyor, of New York, in the interests of the Underwriters' Association, who have an insurance interest of 80 per cent on the value of the Allan steamer Bavarian, ashore on Wye Rock, have paid a visit to the stranded steamer. The experts, who were assigned to make a survey of the ship and its position, proceeded down the river on board the Government ice breaker, Montcalm. They found the Bavarian lying in the same position as when she went on Wye Rock. She is surrounded by ice, and all round the ship is formed a sort of frozen ground some few feet thick, which acts as a natural fender to keep floating ice from crushing up against the ship's side. Messrs. Boyd and Saunders made a thorough inspection of the ship and its position, and feel thoroughly satisfied with its safety during the balance of the winter months, and also feel confident that the steamer can be floated from her precarious position next spring.

Weather Conditions.

The settled condition of the weather is indicated by the unusual high reading of the barometer to-day 37.10.

COLGATES

Cashmere Boquet and Violet

TALCUM POWDER

Shaving Stick and Barber's Soap, Monad Violet, Cold Cream, Sandal Wood and other fine

TOILET SOAPS.

GEEN'S DRUG STORE

CARMAN OPERA HOUSE.
S. B. Carman, Manager.

Tuesday, January 30.

Direct from Five MONTHS Run at La Salle Theatre, Chicago.

THE SHOW WITH MUSIC.

"HIS HIGHNESS, THE BEY"

A Musical Comedy in Two Acts. More Laughs and Music than ALL Others Combined.

Book and Music by Howard, Hough And Adams.

10 MUSICAL COMEDY STARS 10 AND 50 OTHERS

Including

THE FAMOUS BROILERS

And The Best Chorus on Earth.

Twenty Big Musical Numbers.

Gorgeous Scenery

Ten Positive Song Hits

Prices 25, 50, 75, $1.00 and $1.50.

The Quinte Laundry Co.

A new list of prices for household goods— 20c per doz.

MANGLE WORK IN LARGE LOTS AT SPECIAL PRICES.

Agents for British American Dyeing and Cleaning Co'y.
Front Street South.

Telephone 102.

HOSPITAL Entertainment in CITY HALL on Thursday & Friday, 25 & 26. Tea served. European plan 4 to 7 o'clock. Spinsters' Convention in evening. Admission 25 cents.

AFTER FIRE COMPANIES

KINGSTON WILL COMPLAIN TO ATTORNEY - GENERAL OF ALLEGED COMBINE.

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 24.—The City Council met to-day and talked over insurance premiums, but adjourned decision until the American companies are consulted as to rates. The Council further resolved to draw to the attention of the Attorney-General of Ontario the existence of a combine of insurance companies operating, as indicated by the experience of Kingston Council, adversely to the public interest by reason of the extortionate rates it imposes, and the prevention of free competition, by which the interests of the people may be safeguarded.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take "Laxative Bromo" Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c.

Y. M. C. A. Notes

Sunday at 4.20, Rev. Rural Dean Beamish will conclude his series of talks to men. His topic will be "The Power of Prayer." These talks have been particularly helpful and interesting, and Sunday promises the best of the series. Mr. Harry McKay will sing.

Rev. Mr. Blagrave will start on a series of Sunday afternoon meetings the second Sunday in February.

The business men's gymnasium class will be running full swing on Tuesday night.

WANTS TO KILL PEOPLE INCURABLY DISEASED

DRASTIC MEASURE BEFORE THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF OHIO— SENT TO A COMMITTEE.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 24.—Painless death for pain racked sufferers who have no chance for recovery and who desire to live no longer will be possible if the bill introduced yesterday in the General Assembly is passed. Under its provisions persons suffering from incurable diseases or from injuries from which there is no hope of recovery may be legally chloroformed to death or killed in any other painless way which physicians may design.

The measure was introduced by Representative Hunt, of Cincinnati, at the request of Miss Anna Hall, who has for years been a student of the subject. Her interest was aroused first by the illness preceding the death of her mother from cancer of the liver.

Miss Hall sat in the gallery of the House and witnessed the voting down of a motion to reject her bill. The vote was 78 to 22. She wept when she saw that her measure was to be received and sent to a committee.

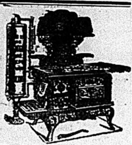
Miss Hall is a woman of wealth, and is a member of a highly respected Cincinnati family. Her father, who was an Arctic explorer, died a few years ago.

Daily Intelligencer.

TEMPTING, LUSCIOUS

CANDIES MADE FRESH DAILY.
Fresh Mixed Creams 20c lb.
Creamy Cream Peppermints 30c lb.
Creamy Wintergreen Creams 30c lb.
Chocolate Drops 20c lb.
Chocolate Drops 30c lb.
Chocolate Drops 40c lb.
Chocolate Greengage 50c and 60c lb.
Chocolate Pineapple 50c and 60c lb.
These are a few with many others we are making this week.

Chas. S. Clapp



The Happy Thought

Is the only range which has been made under one name for eighteen years, and is still the leader.

WM. McGIE,
Tel. 38. 11 Front St.

CHRISTMAS FLOWERS
A choice lot of Plants and Cut Flowers, Holly and Mistletoe.

COLLIP.

Better News—A FURTHER SLUMP IN MEATS.
—Beef Roast 3c, 10c, 12½c
— " Steak 10c, 12½c
— " Stew 5c, 6c,
—Round Steak .... 3 lbs. for 25c
—Lamb 8c, 10c, 12½c
—Pork 10c. 12½c
—Sausages .... 3 lb. for 25c
—GREEN.

PECK & WILLS.
Opposite Market. Successors to Walter Alford
Sash, Door and Blind Factory.
Dressed Lumber of all kinds.—Mouldings Store Fronts and Fittings, Stair Work Grilles, Mantles, Hardwood Pannelling bar Fixtures, &c.
Prompt attention given to custom work.
A call solicited.

PECK & WILLS.

Wedding Stationary

The Celebrated Eaton-Hurlbut manufacture, in cabinets of fifty invitations

$2.00

OTHER LINES AS WELL.

NEATLY PRINTED.

—AT—

The INTELLIGENCER
Job Department
Front St., Belleville.

Usually the man who worries over the country's difficulties lets his wife do the worrying for the family.

Clearing Out Sale

We have a line of Elite Enamelware, Blue outside White inside, this is the best Enamelware made. We find it too expensive for our trade and we have decided not to import many ore.

Our idea is to clear it out entirely, with this object in view, we would ask you to call on us any day this week, if in need of the best goods at prices that are far below 25% discount.

McINTOSH BROS.

RHEUMATISM

I will refund your money if it fails.
Price 25c.

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure seldom fails to relieve pains in legs, arms, back, stiff or swollen joints in a few hours. Positively cures in a few days. It does not put the disease to sleep, but drives it from the system. —MUNYON.

CURRENT AGAINST FRANCE.

Neutral Powers Lean Backward For Disinterested Equality.

Algeciras, Jan. 25.—The Moroccan conference, at its session yesterday, accepted all the articles of the report of the committee on contraband, relating to the prevention of the trade in contraband arms, and passed to the consideration of economic questions.

The confidential exchange now going on among the representatives of the powers in the Moroccan conference disclose the extreme difficulty of arranging an agreement that both France and Germany would accept.

The French delegates appear to realize that the current of the conference is against them, because neutral powers, such as the United States, lean toward the idea of disinterested equality rather than towards France's special geographical and historical paramountcy.

Waterloo Veteran Dead.

Detroit, Jan. 25.—Joseph Jaszembowsky is dead here, at the age of 115 years. He fought under Napoleon at Waterloo.

ELOPES WITH SISTER'S HUSBAND.

14-Year-Old Girl and Her Abductor Caught at St. Catharines.

St. Catharines, Jan. 25.—A few days ago Chief Parnell received word from Warsaw, N. Y., of the abduction of a girl, Susan McCulligan, by Floyd E. Eveningham. Yesterday Sheriff French of Warsaw and the assistant chief of Warsaw Springs, arrived here, having traced the pair in their flight.

The man was found at the International Hotel, where he had been at work for the past week. He realized what was wanted when he saw the officers and at once took the sheriff to the Broadway Block on St. Paul street, where he and the girl were living.

Evenlngham is 25 years of age. The girl is 14, and is a sister of the man's wife, who has lived with him from the time of their marriage, some few years ago, until the elopement.

The man and girl were as bold as had ever appeared in the Police Court, and seemed to take the matter as a joke and waived extradition proceedings.

FACES THREE CHARGES.

Carroll Goes For Trial—G. T. R. Disappoints Guelph.

Guelph, Jan. 25.—Edward Carroll, arrested for defrauding the public with bogus magazine bargains, was committed to stand trial on three charges of obtaining money from the public by false pretences: sending bogus cheques to The Globe and Mail and Empire: and and obtaining $20 from Guthrie Bros., Guyon, Que., by fraudulent means, operating under the name of Robert Duncan, machinist, London. A large number of letters addressed to "Elliott Bros." were opened at the Police Court and nearly all contained money. Over two hundred dollars will be returned to those who remitted.

The Grand Trunk Railway have refused to accept the order of the Railway Commission re the erection of a new passenger station in Guelph.

Morden Has Confessed.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—Morris Morden was brought from Hamilton yesterday by Detective Sockett. Morden confessed to having stolen a valise containing a quantity of jewelry, the propriety of Rev. D. M. Martin. Morden presented a diamond ring to his sister, and the sunburst to his mother. They live in Owen Sound and will return the goods at once. His uncle applied for bail, but Mr. Curry refused.

Five Years For Taberinto.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—In the Assize Court yesterday, A. R. Wilton was found guilty of obtaining goods from Ambrose Kent & Co. He pleaded guilty to the other charges. Justice Britton deferred sentence.

Dominico Taberinto was sent to the penitentiary for five years for fatally stabbing Amos Marlow.

Cedes Isle of Pines.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The Senate committee on foreign relations yesterday voted to report the treaty with Cuba, ceding the Isle of Pines to that republic. The treaty was not amended.

Six Saloons Raided.

Montreal, Jan. 25.—Six licensed saloons were raided yesterday morning in Maisonneuve by the police and eight slot gambling machines seized.

Bishop McEvoy Sees Pope.

Rome, Jan. 24.—The Pope yesterday received in private audience Bishop McEvoy of London, Canada.

16 SURVIVORS IN 154

Awful Death Toll of Wreck of Pacific Liner Valencia.

One of the Worst Marine Disasters on the Pacific Coast—Steamers Salvor and Czar Could Get No Nearer the Wrecked Valencia Than Three-Quarters of a Mile—Steamer Queen Stands By.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 25.—Only sixteen survivors of a total of 154 of the crew and passengers of the steamer Valencia is the sad record of one of the worst marine disasters on the Pacific Coast.

The steamer Salvor has arrived from the scene of the wreck at Klanaway Point, about five miles from Cape Beale, where the ship is lying with her stern high on the reef and her decks swept bare. At three-quarters of a mile no sign of a living person was discerned on board. In the rigging of the foremast was some dark huddled object, but whether a crude signal of distress or a piece of sail could not be ascertained.

The steamer Czar, after making as close an examination as possible at three-quarters of a mile, which was the nearest that even she dare approach the reef in the prevailing wind and sea, returned to the Salvor and Queen, the former heading for Bamfield, while the Queen stood by in the forlorn hope of picking up some castaway or bodies before relieved by the City of Topeka.

The 10 survivors, who are reported fifteen miles from Beale, reached that point via the difficult trail. So far as known they, with six in the boatswain's crew, 16 in all are all that are left of the crew of 60 and 94 passengers. When the Salvor left the locality of the wreck there was a strong southwest gale, and the rain was descending in torrents with cutting flurries of hail.

The sole survivors are: T. J. McCarthy, boatswain; Thomas Lawson, C. Brown, Thomas Shields, John Mark, W. Goslin, C. J. Miller, fireman; Assistant Supt. Sunker of Seattle, whose wife and two daughters drowned; D. Richley, fireman; Carl Sequel, first-class passenger for Seattle; Mike Hone, second-class for Seattle; Brown, second-class; Y. Hosada, Oakland, for Seattle; P. Campbell, who lost wife and 15-year-old daughter; B. E. Ledhouse, fireman; Albert Wells, U. S. Navy.

GEN. MATOS LOOKS FOR PEACE.

Former Adversary of Castro Certain Arrangement With France Is Near.

Paris, Jan. 25.—Gen. Matos, the former adversary of President Castro, in the course of an interview published here yesterday, expressed the opinion that serious complications would not ensue from the present difficulties between France and Venezuela. He considered that President Castro has done great work for the pacification of Venezuela and held the complete confidence of the people, which would be strengthened if the country was persuaded that there was no possibility of a conflict with France. Matos believes that with the assistance of the United States war will be avoided. In case of hostilities, the general asserted, Venezuela could mobilize 100,000 men, but he was certain that an arrangement was near at hand.

KILLED BY A TRAIN.

In Going Home From Work, Alex. Wilson Meets Instant Death.

Brockville, Jan. 25.—A few minutes after quitting work last evening in the Canada Carriage Co., an employe, Alex. Wilson, about 60 years of age, was instantly killed by either a train or light engine on the Grand Trunk Railway, across which Wilson had to pass to go home.

No one witnessed the accident, and the body was found by some fellow workmen, who followed Wilson out. His head was terribly crushed, and minor injuries inflicted on the body.

Wilson was an Irishman by birth, who lived nearly his entire life in Brockville. He was a stone mason by trade and married.

The matter will be the subject of a coroner's inquest.

Died From Exposure.

Wellandport, Jan. 25.—The unfortunate woman who was found about three miles north of this place on Sunday was buried in the cemetery here yesterday, according to the orders of the coroner, he having come to the conclusion that the deceased was not the victim of any foul play, but came to her death through disease and exposure. She is believed to be the wife of one Frank Hannigan, and her maiden name was Clara Sider of the Township of Wainfleet, Welland County.

Perish on the Prairie.

Fort Qu'Appelle, Sask., Jan. 25.—The report was brought here Tuesday evening to the N. W. M. P. that Rabbi Levine and Izzie Pecket of the Roumanian Jewish colony were lost on the prairie 25 miles north of here last Wednesday while going across country 3 or 4 miles to another house. They have likely perished.

100,000 See the Casket.

Montreal, Jan. 25.—It is estimated that 100,000 people, mostly women, visited the city council chamber yesterday to view the decoration and casket. The lid was removed at Levis on the way up from Halifax, and the attendants found Hon. Mr. Prefontaine so changed in appearance, so unrecognizable, in fact, that it was decided to definitely close the casket. The funeral to-day promises to be one of the most imposing pageants ever seen in Canada.

Mr. Ellis Leaves Commission.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—P. W. Ellis, who has been chairman of the hydro electric power commission, has resigned because he finds that pressure of private business forces him to. John Milne of Hamilton has been appointed to succeed Mr. Ellis on the commission, according to an announcement made at the Parliament buildings yesterday.

WRITS FOR CONSPIRACY.

Grocers to Be Prosecuted For Conspiracy to Raise Price of Sugar, Tobacco, Starch and Other Goods.

Hamilton, Jan. 25.—The long-delayed prosecution of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild will take place on Feb. 6.

The Crown Attorney has finished sifting the evidence and yesterday morning summonses were issued against H. C. Beckett and George E. Bristol of Hamilton, John I. Davidson of Davidson & Hay, Toronto; Thos. B. E. Scott, London; W. G. Craig, Kingston; Jos. F. Eby and Thos. Kinnear, Toronto.

The charge against these men is that between the years 1898 and 1905 they did conspire, combine, agree and arrange to enhance the price and unduly limit the production of sugar, tobacco, starch, canned goods, salt and cereals, did restrain and injure commerce, etc.

Tack Men Go For Trial.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—The tack men have been committed for trial, although yesterday W. N. Tilley, who appeared for the Canadian Tack Manufacturers' Association, succeeded in getting the conspiracy charge withdrawn as against two of his clients. Mr. Peck of Peck, Benny & Co. and Mr. Kinghorn of the Montreal Rolling Mills. Those committed for trial are: Messrs. Whitton of the Ontario Tack Co., Hamilton; McMaster of the Montreal Rolling Mills, Montreal; Blacklock of the Montreal Rolling Mills; Hardy, Jenkins, Woodhall, Burckhoff and Fry.

Joseph Phillips Remanded.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—The name of Joseph Phillips, manager of the York County Loan Co., was called in the Police Court yesterday morning, but he was again remanded for a week. Bail was renewed.

The First Iron Ship.

An iron boat was built in 1777 on the river Fosse, in Yorkshire. It was fifteen feet long and was made of sheet iron. In 1815 Thomas Jevons launched a small iron boat on the Mersey. It was built by Joshua Horton near Birmingham and fitted up at Liverpool and was the first iron boat that floated on salt water. The first iron steam vessel was built by the Horsley company for the river Seine and called Aaron Manby, after its projector. He took out a patent in France for iron steamships in 1820 and formed a society for the construction of such vessels. She was put together in London and took a cargo of linseed and iron castings to Havre and Paris. If, however, a Dutch tradition is to be credited the first iron vessel that ever floated was the famous Flying Dutchman herself. She was launched in 1657, and her fate was supposed to be a judgment on the impiety of those who violated the order of nature by making iron float.—London Graphic.

Drinks Carbolic Acid In Mistake.

Underwood, Jan. 24.—Early Monday morning Mrs. Jane Ralston, an old lady of 89 years took carbolic acid in mistake for cough medicine, with the result that she died an hour later.

No Lights At Brantford.

Brantford, Jan. 24.—Monday night the city was in total darkness on account of the high water at the power-house.

Piles Quickly Cured at Home

INSTANT RELIEF, PERMANENT CURE — TRIAL PACKAGE MAILED FREE TO ALL IN PLAIN WRAPPER.

Piles is a fearful disease, but easy to cure if you go at it right.

An operation with the knife is dangerous, humiliating and rarely a permanent success.

There is just one other sure way to be cured—painless, safe and in the privacy of your own home—it is Pyramid Pile Cure.

We mail a trial package free to all who write.

It will give you instant relief, show you the harmless, painless nature of this great remedy and start you well on the way toward a perfect cure.

Then you can get a full-sized box from any druggist for 50 cents, and often one box cures.

If the druggist tries to sell you something just as good, it is because he makes more money on the substitute.

Insist on having what you call for.

The cure begins at once and continues rapidly until it is complete and permanent.

You can go right ahead with your work and be easy and comfortable all the time.

It is well worth trying.

Just send your name and address to Pyramid Drug Co., 11677 Pyramid Building, Marshall, Mich., and receive free by return mail the trial package in a plain wrapper.

Thousands have been cured in this easy, painless and inexpensive way, in the privacy of the home.

All druggists, 50 cents. Write today for a free package.

DEATH OF DR. SHERATON

First Principal of Wycliffe College Dies From Overwork.

His Distinguished Career—Principal of Wycliffe College for Twenty-Eight Years—Won a Continental Reputation as an Authoritative Writer on Church Affairs—Some of the Works of Which He Was Author.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—Rev. Principal Sheraton, of Wycliffe College, died at his residence in Wycliffe College yesterday morning. He had been suffering from a nervous breakdown since the middle of December, when he had to discontinue his work.

His condition was not considered serious at first, but he grew gradually worse instead of better. A few days ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis. Since then he sank gradually till 7.45 yesterday morning, when he died.

A Notable Career.

Rev. Dr. James Paterson Sheraton was born in St. John, N. B., Nov. 22, 1841, and came of two generations of educationists. He received his education at the St. John Grammar School and was an honor graduate in classics and a gold medalist in natural science. He also studied theology at King's College, Windsor, N. S. In 1865 he was ordained and for 13 years performed mission work in New Brunswick. After this he became rector of Pictou, N. S. In 1877 he was appointed principal of Wycliffe College, Toronto. The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him in 1883 at Queen's College, and six years later he was appointed by Bishop Sweatman Hon. Canon of St. Albans' Cathedral. In 1896 the degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him at Toronto University. He was a director of Ridley College, St. Catharines, and a member of the committee appointed in 1895 on "Religious Instruction in the Public Schools." At Wycliffe Dr. Sheraton occupied the chairs of dogmatic theology and of literature and exegesis of the New Testament.

Work As An Author.

Principal Sheraton published numerous articles and reviews, chiefly theological, and pamphlets on "The Idea of the Church," "The Christian Ministry," "The Authority and Inspiration of the Scriptures," "The Lambeth Declaration About Church Union," "Christian Science," "Our Lord's Teaching Concerning Himself" and "The Higher Criticism."

His work as an expositor of the Sunday School Lessons is well known throughout Canada. At the time of his death he was engaged in enlarging and revising one of his works—"Our Lord's Teaching Concerning Himself"—for the American Tract Society, and in producing several articles for "Hastings' Dictionary of Christology." Dr. Sheraton stood among the world's great scholars, being placed in the forefront in the great army of theologians. As a Biblical apologist, he has stood an impregnable rock. In his few spare moments, in holidays in Muskoka, his recreation took the form of studies in botany, especially in ferns, and a perusal of his favorite Latin authors.

BILL TO KILL SUFFERERS.

Cincinnati Woman Proposes Painless Death For Incurables.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 25.—Painless death for pain-racked sufferers who have no chance for recovery and who desire to live no longer, will be possible if the bill introduced Tuesday in the General Assembly is passed. Under its provisions persons suffering from incurable disease or from injuries from which there is no hope of recovery may be legally chloroformed to death or killed in any other painless way which physicians may design.

The measure was introduced by Representative Hunt of Cincinnati at the request of Miss Anna Hall, who has for years been a student of the subject. Her interest was aroused first by the illness preceding the death of her mother from cancer of the liver.

Miss Hall sat in the gallery of the House and witnessed the voting down of a motion to reject her bill. The vote was 78 to 22. She wept when she saw that her measure was to be received and sent to a committee.

Miss Hall is a woman of wealth, and is a member of a highly respectable Cincinnati family. Her father, who was an Arctic explorer, died a few years ago.

EXCHANGE NO ROBBERY.

Ontario Government Wants Niagara Site For Petawawa Grounds.

Ottawa, Jan. 25.—The militia department is expressing annoyance at what they are pleased to term an attempt at sharp practice on the part of the Ontario Government.

About two years ago the Dominion Government sought a location for a training camp site. The Ross Government offered a site at Petawawa, on the Ottawa River, with such part of it as was owned by the Crown, as a gift. On this understanding the authorities accepted it in preference to a site similarly offered by the Quebec Government. Settlers at Petawawa were paid off, but now, it is said, the Whitney Government, before agreeing to hand over the property, wants the military property at Niagara in exchange. This property, it was intended to sell, and to devote the proceeds to the purchase of a camp ground around Lake Simcoe.

Flood Like a Waterspout.

Weston, W. V., Jan. 25.—A heavy wind and rainstorm, resembling a waterspout and causing damage to property that will reach several hundred thousand dollars, passed over the southeastern portion of this state Tuesday, flooding Cherry Holly and Elk Rivers, and carrying away bridges, houses and many million feet of valuable timber. Over 12 miles of the Holly River and Addison Railroad was completely washed away between Holly Junction and Webster Springs.

MAGIC

SODA

OR SALERATUS IS THE BEST.
E. W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
TORONTO, ONT.

British American Assurance Co.
Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co.
Western Fire Insurance Co.
Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Dominion Plate Glass Co.
Travellers' Accident Insurance Co.

CHANCEY ASHLEY
INSURANCE AGENT.
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Opposite Post Office. Belleville.

DR. W. H. ELDRED'S
LIQUID ELECTRICITY
The Magic Pain Reliever.
Electricity Cough and Consumption Cure.
See directions on boxes. For sale by
R. Templeton & Co.
Druggists, Belleville, Ont.
or D. P. Corey, General Agent,
202 Church St., Belleville, Ont.

British American Assurance Co.
Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co.
Western Fire Insurance Co.
Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Dominion Plate Glass Co.
Travellers' Accident Insurance Co.

CHANCEY ASHLEY
INSURANCE AGENT.
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Opposite Post Office. Belleville.

IMPORTED DIRECT
Pure Norwegian
Cod Liver Oil.
Best for Coughs, Colds and all Pulmonary Troubles.

DON. G. BLEECKER.
Phone 11.
Prescriptions carefully compounded.

Bargains in Ordered Clothing

As we are contemplating making some changes in our store will offer the following bargains.
25—$18.00 Tweed Suits at $15.00
40— 20.00 Tweed Suits at $16.00
30— 22.00 Tweed Suits at $18.50
30— 24 & 25 Tweed Suits at $20.00
$5.00 Trousers for $4.00
6.00 Trousers for $4.50
7.00 Trousers for $5.00
8.00 Trousers for $6.00
Up-to-Date goods made and trimmed same as at regular prices.—Terms cash.

ARTHUR McGIE, 300 Front St

POULTRY SUPPLIES

Fresh Eggs are in Demand—why not order some of the following lines and add to your supply—

MEAT MEAL
GROUND BONE
OYSTER SHELLS
MICA GRIT
INTERNATIONAL POULTRY SPICE
MYER'S POULTRY SPICE
HERBAGEUM
WHEAT, CORN, BARLEY.
COARSE CRACKED CORN
BUCKWHEAT &c.

J.C. Hanley & Co.
Telephone 214.

Another Snap for My Customers

DRESSED LUMBER

Flooring, Wainscotting, Ceiling, Clapboards.

C. P. HOLTON
Phone 112.

The first test of a truly great man is humanity.

The coming man is generally a good advertiser.

McLAUGHLIN CUTTERS
A Specialty.

The most up-to-date sleighs in style finish and material.

A full assortment at their warerooms OPPOSITE THE MARKET, FRONT ST., BELLEVILLE

Also full lines of:—

Robes, Harness, Blankets Rugs, Men's and Women's Fur Coats and Collars, &c.

Call in before you buy.
No trouble to show goods.

J. A. ROSE,
Manager Belleville Branch.

The Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.
Incorporated by Act of Parliament.
AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000

3 1-3 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on call.
4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.
Money to Loan upon favorable terms.
OFFICE—Bridge St., Belleville.
J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

BANK OF MONTREAL
ESTABLISHED 1817.
CAPITAL AND REST (All Paid Up
$24,000,000
(Twenty-four Millions)

Savings Bank Department.
Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.
A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch

G. A. Bennett,
Carpenter. Joiner. Builder.
WORKSHOP AND OFFICE,
Victoria Avenue,
(Next McCrodan's Grocery.)
Estimates furnished, work promptly and carefully executed; prices moderate.
— SPECIALIST ON —
Parquette and Hardwood Floors
Grills and Fireplace Mantels.
Building and House Repairs & Alterations.
Office and Store Fixtures, also Cabinet Work and Furniture Repairs.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No. 8.—12.45 a.m., Mail train, daily, except Monday.
No. 2—1.30 a.m. Fast train (Flyer), daily.
No. 16.—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m., daily, except Sunday.
No. 6—11.15 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4—12.06 p.m., Express, daily.
No. 12.—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5.—2.22 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.
No. 3.—4.02 a.m., Limited Express, daily.
No. 9.—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday. Leaving Toronto at 5.10 p.m., arrives in Belleville at 9.10 p.m.
No. 11.—11.08 a.m., Passenger, Daily, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 1.—1.40 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7.—5.03 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.15 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've.	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 163, Front St.

Genuine Scranton COAL
Prompt delivery. Well screened.
THE SCHUSTER CO.
Office, Bridge St.

The Daily Intelligencer.

THE VERY BEST COAL
All Sizes
Wood for the millions
Dry Pine, Hardwood cut and split.
C. C. LEAVENS

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL – LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL – CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 39 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, JANUARY 26, 1906. NO. 222

Stroud's delicious teas and coffees are the best that's all.

SINCLAIR'S

Great Removal Sale

IS NOW ON.

We Have Five

Persian Lamb Jackets

Which will be cleared at the following prices:

$145.00 Persian Lamb Coat	- -	Sale Price $108 75
135.00 Persian Lamb Coat	- -	Sale Price 101.25
100.00 Persian Lamb Coat	- -	Sale Price 75.00
85.00 Persian Lamb Coat	- -	Sale Price 60.75
65.00 Persian Lamb Coat	- -	Sale Price 50.75

25 P.C. Discount Off All Small Furs.

Ladies' Cloth Coats

HALF PRICE.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO.

Paid Him the Last Honor.

Funeral of Hon. Mr. Prefontaine an Imposing Spectacle.

Montreal Streets Along Which the Cortage Proceeded Were Black With People—All Traffic Was Stopped—Governor-General and Other Notables Who Were Present—A Salute of 17 Guns.

Montreal, Jan. 26.—Probably the most imposing state funeral ever witnessed in Montreal, was accorded the remains of Hon. Raymond Prefontaine here yesterday morning. The heads of the state and the church, the representatives of many foreign countries, the Ottawa and Provincial Governments, Parliaments, and in short, every branch of public life in the Dominion and provincial fields, were thoroughly represented.

Despite the cold wave, that rendered great coats necessary, the procession was a very imposing one, while the requiem mass sung by Mgr. Bruchesi was a gorgeous ceremony, the church being fairly ablaze with military uniforms, robed officials of state and the superb vestments of the clergy.

A guard of 1,000 infantry and 50 cavalry accompanied the procession, which was headed by the band of the 65th Regiment playing funeral marches.

Notables Who Were Present.

The Governor-General was represented by Col. Hanbury Williams and Capt. Newton, A. D. C. The Marine Department was officially represented by Lieut.-Col. Gourdeau, and many employes of the department. The Montreal Harbor Commissioners, shipping federation and pilots' corporation were present. All the members of the Dominion Cabinet were present except Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Frank Oliver. They marched in a body, headed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Hon. R. W. Scott, about 20 Senators and over 50 members of Parliament attended. The Quebec Cabinet, headed by Premier Gouin, and nearly all the members of both the Legislative Assembly and Legislative Council, the mayors and aldermen of Montreal and Ottawa, Mayor Coatsworth and Controller Ward of Toronto, Consul-General Nosse of Japan, Major Edwards, U. S. Consul, and Mr. Kleckzwoski, French Consul-General, were there.

Capt. Knowles and a detachment from the cruiser Canada marched alongside the coffin.

The Anglican church was represented by Ven. Archdeacon Norton.

Salute of 17 Guns.

The cortege left the City Hall about 9.30 and a salute of 17 guns was fired by a detachment of the Montreal Field Battery. The 65th Regiment provided the military guard of honor. The streets along which the cortege proceeded were black with people. Long before the procession arrived every point of vantage was seized and occupied. All traffic was stopped. It was as if the whole city joined in a spontaneous tribute of sympathy and sorrow.

The service in St. James' lasted until 11 o'clock, and at noon the last chapter was enacted on the snow-covered hillside in Cote des Neiges.

Service in London.

London, Jan. 26.—A requiem mass was celebrated in the Westminster Roman Catholic Cathedral yesterday in memory of Raymond Prefontaine, the late Canadian Minister of Marine and Fisheries. The Admiralty, War Office and Colonial Office were all represented at the service, Lord Tweedmouth, First Lord of the Admiralty, personally representing the navy. Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, the Canadian High Commissioner, and many other Canadians were present.

NO MERCY FOR REVOLUTIONISTS.

Being Shot Down Without Hesitation If They Bear Arms.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 26.—A lively storm of protest is flowing in against the summary execution of revolutionists, even if caught with arms in their hands, such executions being declared contrary to all forms of Russian law.

A despatch just received reports the execution of forty-five revolutionists in one village in Livonia Sunday last, under what the despatch calls the convenient fiction that they were shot while trying to escape.

An important conference of the revolutionary organizations was concluded Wednesday in Finland after several sessions lasting for two days. The conference decided to postpone all further revolutionary operations until March, when it was hoped by the delegates that the agrarian troubles would recommence.

Suicide Follows Shock.

Port Arthur, Jan. 26.—A double tragedy casts a gloom over the household of Thomas Arthur. Wednesday the dead body of his daughter, Mrs. Cameron, was found in a room at the King Edward Hotel. Her death came as a shock to her brother, Andrew, who, rendered temporary insane by grief, took a dose of poison and went to the room of his brother yesterday morning, where he dropped dead.

Will Lose His Fingers.

Galt, Jan. 26.—Stephen Moffat, farmer, of Beverley, had his hand caught in a gasoline engine and will lose the fingers.

Williams Co., Limited, shoe manufacturers, closed yesterday and will move the machinery to Brampton and merge with another business controlled there.

Editor Wins Libel Suit.

Calgary, Alta., Jan. 26.—The famous libel case of Dennis v. Edwards has been dismissed. The litigation grew out of a lengthy story in The Eye-Opener, which was alleged to have reflected on J. S. Dennis, assistant to Second Vice-President Whyte of the C. P. R.

Conspirators Expelled.

Port-au-Prince, Hayti, Jan. 26.—The Moniteur (official) yesterday published a decree of arrest and expulsion against five foreigners—three Frenchmen, a German and an Austrian—who have all been convicted of conspiring to disturb public order.

Says Latimer Must Go.

Calgary, Jan. 26.—Chief Justice Sifton declared yesterday afternoon it was his plain duty to send William H. Latimer, Philadelphia fugitive from justice, back to the States. He was remanded to the care of the Mounted Police for 15 days to enable him to appeal his case, which, his attorneys claim, will be done.

Drummer Is Fined.

Montreal, Jan. 26.—Harry Weill, a traveler for an English firm of wine merchants, was sentenced by Judge Choquette to pay fifty dollars for violating the law and soliciting orders for his firm without having previously paid the Quebec travelers' tax. This is the first fine imposed.

Snowslide Blocks C. P. R. Train.

Winnipeg, Jan. 26.—The Canadian Pacific transcontinental train from Vancouver is now two days late, having been delayed by an avalanche in the Rockies, in the locality of Illecillewaet.

The Ritchie Co., Limited. | The Ritchie Co., Limited.

Exstensive Alterations

Constantly increasing business necessitates further alterations and extensions to our already large store.

We are just closing the largest business year in our history which speaks louder than anything else could do to tell us that our efforts to serve the people of this district are being appreciated.

Our steady aim has been to supply the newest styles of goods from the most reliable makers in the world at the Lowest Possible Prices. This can only be accomplished by sending our buyers direct to the sources of supplies both in this country and in Europe (avoiding the profits paid to middle men by small dealers) the benefits of which are reaped by Our customers. Buying our goods For Cash and selling them for cash enables us to do business on a smaller margin of profits than if we were obliged to pay interest on purchase and make losses through selling on credit.

Workmen are now busy removing walls, stairways, partitions, etc., which will increase our room, light and comfort of our customers when trading. We intend to do bigger and better things during 1906 than in any previous year.

Sale of Remnants

This is clearing out time - all odds and ends must go in the next two weeks. Our stocks have been thoroughly searched out and on Thursday morning every department will have its quota of bargains—all marked at quick selling prices. Here is a partial list.

Towellings, Flannelette, Carpets, Prints, Laces, Linings, Table Linens, Ribbons, Silks.

Fur Specials

We are making special inducements on many of our Furs, to clear them quickly.

At the rate Furs of all kinds are advancing, these prices offer splendid investments.

—4 only Greenland Seal Coats, regular prices $38 to $40, to clear at $25
—A few sizes, in Ladies' Black Astrachan Coats, selling much below regular prices
—Bargaing in Ruffs, Stoles, Muffs, Caps, etc.

$10.00 JACKETS $3.95

Your choice of 30 Ladies' Colored Cloth Jackets

ALL THIS SEASON'S STYLES.

Regular Price $10.00 For $3.95

$10.00 Suits for $7.50

Here is something you cannot afford to miss. We are getting ready for inventory and stock must be reduced at once. On Tuesday morning we will place on sale 30 Men's Suits in Plain and Fancy Tweed, well sewn with silk and linen, up-to-date styles—sizes 36 to 44—regular price $10.00, for $7.50

$1.00 and $1.25 Shirts 75c

The season's selling has left behind about 84 of these Shirts, we therefore want them all out in two weeks and on Tuesday morning we place the balance on sale.

—100 Men's Shirts in stripe and spot, all sizes, large variety of patterns, regular price $1.00 and $1,25, for 75c

The RITCHIE Co., Limited

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON.

Remnants
Remnants
Remnants

Tuesday morning we will have all our Remnants measured up and out on the tables. There are lots of them. The close of the biggest sale in the history of our business has left us with a lot of ends. These odds and ends must all be cleared out before stocktaking. We are making price do the selling.

Dress Goods, Silks, Embroideries, Prints, Linens, Shirtings, Cottons, Sheetings.

A vast lot of other odds and ends all to be cleared at bargain prices.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

20 Per Cent. Discount
OFF ALL
Men's and Boys' Wool and Fleece Lined Underwear.

ROBINSON & THOMPSON.
Tailors & Furnishers.

25 Per Cent. Discount

Our entire stock of High-Class Manufactured Furs will be sold at a Great Sacrifice.

Sale commences Wednesday. Come early and secure first choice.

GEORGE T. WOODLEY.
Successor to Miss M. H. Herbert. Opposite Footbridge
Highest Prices Pa'd for Raw Furs.

The New Store.

Plenty of Bargains All Over The Store.

All winter goods have received marching orders.

MANTLES HALF PRICE.
FURS 25 p. c. to 30 p. c. DISCOUNT.
UNDERWEAR FOR LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, ALL REDUCED.
HEAVY DRESS GOODS REDUCED.

Come In—Look around, you won't be urged to buy.

Wims & Co
TERMS CASH.

THIS SPRING
We Purpose Making
INTERIOR DECORATIONS

A leading feature of our business and are prepared to furnish Expert Workmen to do all kinds of Painting, Graining, Finishing, Paperhanging, Etc., and will GUARANTEE perfect satisfaction in every instance.
We are adding thousands of rolls of the newest and most artistic Wallpaper from the leading American and Canadian manufactures, and will be pleased to show you these goods and to give an estimate for decorating one room or the whole house.

T. P. BROWN'S
Carpet, Curtain, Wallpaper Store and Picture Framing.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

Dissatisfaction and Grumbling.

Liberals who have some regard left for country and principle, are beginning to revolt, and protest against the policy of graft and extravagance which characterizes the Laurier Government, which is growing worse and worse daily.

In Wellington, Ontario, a short time ago, solemn protests were entered and demands made for a fulfilment of promises made before the elections.

The Liberal Association of the County of Huntingdon, in the Province of Quebec, have joined their brethren in the West and demand a wiser and more economical management of affairs by the Dominion Government.

These protests show that the revolt of Mr. Grant, the Government Whip, is based upon the growing dissatisfaction among the rank and file who think, and who are not hangers-on the skirts of the Government for favors.

Is it any wonder that thinking men, who, in the past have been guided by principle, should be shocked when they study the record of the Laurier Government since it assumed control of the affairs of the Dominion. A contemporary has epitomized a few of the misdeeds of the Government, truthfully declaring that "From the first day that Sir Wilfrid Laurier stepped into office until the present moment the exploitation of the treasury and of the public property for the benefit of politicians has been the chief work of the Administration."

And then a few instances of their misdeeds are given as follows:

The Crow's Nest deal was a grafting scheme.

The Yukon swindle was another rascality of the same type.

The Drummond deal there was impropriety in.

Everyone knows, the very food for our soldiers at the front was made the subject of a dirty steal.

The land operations of the Laurier Administration — the sale of $8 an acre land for $1 an acre— to friends who retail it at the higher figure is a scientific form of robbery.

The Yukon administration, under which great concessions have fallen to politicians, has been the scandal of the world, and, incidentally, a source of wealth to certain so-called Liberals.

The Grand Trunk Pacific, in the form in which it came from the Cabinet, is the basis for grafting operations that are calculated to continue for years, and are to make a large number of politicians rich.

Already the wealth has begun to flow from the treasury towards the party workers.

The commissioners to build the Government end of the road are drawing their $8,000 a year doing nothing, and are allowed a large staff to protect them from excessive labor.

Five millions have disappeared so far in this stupid, if not rascally, work.

The Intercolonial is honeycombed with graft. This dishonesty is so notorious that one of the party organs has confessed to it, and has said that there must be a change.

The official work of this Government is disgraceful.

Parliament contains men who get there by frauds such as those exposed in the recent ballot-box stuffing processes, of which some revelations have been made through Messrs. Shibley and Byron Lott.

All these operations cost money. Whence comes the wherewithal?

It is not paid by the members.

Mr. Monet, who refused to run at the last general election, intimates that it is derived from a central source, and that that source is the Government at Ottawa.

With a corrupt Government buying or stealing seats for servile legislators, it stands to reason that Parliament is badly constituted.

Members are on the make.

Walter Scott, who was lifted into the Premiership of Saskatchewan by the Ottawa men, has just testified that he expects to get $10,000 out of a railway charter he helped to pass.

All he did was to give the proposed road his assistance at Ottawa and he now regards himself as one of the sharers in the $100,000 that is to be paid to the promoters when the charter is sold. It is "easily-earned" money.

The situation at Ottawa is obviously different to what it once was. The public transaction carries a "rake-off" with it.

Some politicians get a share of this boodle, and a part goes to the machine which does the election work for the Government.

The machine evidently uses its proportion in the purchase or the stealing of seats which subservient men occupy, who vote for new steals, and observe silence with respect to scandals such as the doubling of the annual outlays. They also do a little work for themselves.

Mr. Scott's expected $10,000 indicates what that work is.

Here we have the Liberalism of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Liberalism it is called; rottenness it is.

That Liberals who are independent should protest is no matter for surprise. The thinking man cannot really allow such iniquity to pass unchallenged.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Did you see the Spinsters? They were great.

• • •

A tax on bachelors surely seems to be in order, after last night.

• • •

The heir to the Westinghouse millions is working in the airbrake plant in East Pittsburg as an apprentice. Pa is keeping the brakes on him all right.

• • •

A man milliner whose regular charge was $50 a hat is about to leave Pittsburg for good. Perhaps all the $50 people there have hats.

• • •

Five attractions in the city last night, and every one of them well patronized. That's going a trifle.

• • •

There couldn't have been anybody at home but Grandma and the baby.

• • •

The Intelligencer has received a card from Mr. Charles L. Rosevear, secretary of the Belleville Old Boys' Association of Toronto, which shows that body to be still very much alive. A meeting for the election of officers is to be held on the evening of January 30th, and there will be a programme and music. Here's hoping the Belleville Old Boys and Girls in Toronto have a good time next Tuesday night.

• • •

A Webster (Mass.) man won $2 by eating two dozen bananas in ten minutes. But he didn't spend the money for more bananas.

• • •

Patrons of the London theatres are complaining that there is no place to go for supper after the show. How some people do object to going home!

• • •

Hetty Green tried to pass a bad half dollar on a street car conductor and the news went all over the country. Anybody having dealings with her will be on the watch for that half. This is the penalty of being prominent.

• • •

A pet cat drove a champion bulldog howling from a New York restaurant. A dog should take its meals at home, anyway, instead of going to a restaurant.

• • •

A man was sunstruck in Pittsburg las Sunday. The steel mills had to close because of the heat. Ocean bathing was resumed at Coney Island. James O'Leary, of Chicago, has bet $1,100 that the temperature will not go to zero before the end of this month.

• • •

Of the wheat crop of 1905 in Manitoba and the Northwest, the C.P. R handled 46,163,000 bushels. What would be the state of affairs had the waterway scheme been successful?

• • •

The shareholders of the York County Loan recommended that the affairs of the company be administered by the shareholders instead of the liquidator. The shareholders are right. If wound up by a liquidator, the assets will be swallowed up in costs.

• • •

Marshall Field, who died a short time ago in Chicago, bequeathed to charities $25,568,000; $1,000,000 to his widow; $1,000,000 to a daughter, and the balance of his estate to his deceased son's heirs, to be kept intact until one of them reaches the age of 50. How must this residue of the estate is is not given. Poor Field, how miserable he must have been with so much money.

• • •

The British Aliens Act came into force on January 1st. No ship carrying more than twelve alien steerage passengers is allowed to land them at any but an immigration port. There are thirteen immigration ports; London, Cardiff, Dover, Folkestone, Grangemouth, Harwich, Grimsby, Hull, Leith, Liverpool, New-castle, Newhaven and Southampton.

• • •

In a recent address, Mr. J. P. Downey, M.P.P., declared that for the first time in many years the provincial revenue last year exceeded the expenditures. This statement having been called in question by the Brantford Expositor, which challenged Mr. Downey to justify it, the latter makes it good by a recapitulation of the totals taken from the public accounts for the five years since 1900. Mr. Downey shows that for that year the normal revenue not including timber bonus, was $3,556,475.64, and the expenditure $4,000,729.37—a deficit of $447,253.73. In 1901 the deficit was $144,171.16; 1902, deficit $281,588.51; 1903, deficit $763,023.20; 1904, deficit $803,352.76. In each of those years the normal revenue had been swollen by the sale of assets, which should not be reckoned in the total for the purpose of showing a surplus, since it is but the transference of one credit account to another—"a matter of bookkeeping." In 1905 there was a surplus of total receipts without including the bonus from timber sale. The normal revenue was $5,515,881, and expenditure $5,280,000, showing a balance on the right side of the ledger of $235,881. Of these figures Mr Downey challenges contradiction.

Don't Chap

Sore, chafed skin is an unnecessary trouble, for with a little care the skin can be kept soft and healthy all through winter's most trying weather; all you need is a bottle of WINTER CREAM and your skin comfort is assured. Apply a little of it before going out of doors or having hands in water. It is pure and wholesome and you'll like to use it.

2 Sizes — 15c and 25c.

SOLD ONLY AT
McKeown's DRUG STORE.

Late Judge Lazier.

BRIEF BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF THE DECEASED JURIST WHO PASSED AWAY YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Expressions of regret were general yesterday afternoon when it became known about the city that Judge Lazier had passed away. On Saturday, the 13th inst., His Honor was taken ill with an attack of pneumonia, and his condition a few days later became serious, but in the early part of this week improvement was such that relatives had hopes that his life would be spared. Yesterday about noon he became worse, and about 2.30 the end came.

Judge Thomas Appleby Lazier was the eldest son of the late Mr. Richard Lazier, and was born in the Township of Tyendinaga, Hastings County, on July 20th, 1826, being thus in his 80th year. After receiving a Public school education, Mr. Lazier attended Victoria University, from which institution he graduated. Desirous of entering the legal profession he came to this city and studied law with the late Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q.C., who afterwards became Chief Justice of Manitoba. His Honor was called to the Bar in the year 1864. He practiced in this city, being for some time a member of the firm of Lazier & Lazier. On July 11th, 1872, he was appointed Junior Judge of this county and upon the death of Judge Sherwood, in 1881, he was made Senior Judge. This position he filled from that time until death. Judge Lazier was a thorough, conscientious administrator of the law, and a man of high personal character. His position as Senior Judge made him one of the Police Commissioners of this city, and in this respect his counsel was considered of much value. His Honor was not a member of any secret society. He was for years a member of St. Andrew's Church, having been for many years one of the trustees.

In the year 1883 he was married to Miss Frances E. Hanckel, daughter of the Rev. J. Hanckel, of Charlottesville, Va., who with one son, Stuart, of Queen's College, Kingston, and Miss Rosa, at home, survive. Four brothers and one sister also survive. The brothers are Nicholas W. and Col. S. S., of this city; Stephen A., of Canifton, and Richard L., of California. The sister, Mrs. R. Elliott, resides at Los Angeles, Cal.

THOUSANDS DIE OF CONSTIPATION.

No condition causes so many incurable diseases as constipation. It not only prevents the kidneys from eliminating the poisonous wastes, but causes anaemia, stomach trouble and indigestion. Why won't you use Dr. Hamilton's Pills and get cured? This excellent medicine restores normal bowel action in one night. Thousands say so. Your system will be pure and clean, you'll be free from headaches, no more sour stomach—in short you'll have jovial spirits and perfect good health. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are sold everywhere, 25c a box. Get the genuine.

The coming man is generally a good advertiser.

Is Your Hair Sick?

That's too bad! We had noticed it was looking pretty thin and faded of late, but naturally did not like to speak of it. By the way, Ayer's Hair Vigor is a regular hair grower, a perfect hair restorer. It keeps the scalp clean and healthy. Sold for 60 years. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charge at less than twenty-five words.

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

WANTED.

A printer at once, male or female. Steady position. — The Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont. 123-d&wtf

The plan for "His Highness the Bey" will open on Saturday afternoon at 1.30. 25-2t

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED at Intelligencer office by J. D. Ford. Also at residence, Murney St.

The Ladies' Aid of Christ Church gave a tea and entertainment in Alberta Hall last night, which was well attended.

CHARGED WITH FRAUD.

PETERBORO MAN ARRESTED BY COUNTY CONSTABLE DUFFIN YESTERDAY.

For some days past High County Constable Duffin has been in search of one Maurice Croft, whose arrest was desired. Yesterday the Constable secured his man at Madoc, and he was brought to the city and placed in the County jail, but was shortly after liberated on substantial bail. Croft, whose residence is Peterboro, is accused of fraud, it being alleged that he, by false pretences, obtained some notes from Mr. J. C. Moore, of Hungerford township, and endeavored to negotiate the same. Mr. Carter, of Peterboro, offered bail for the release of Croft, which was accepted. The accused will have a preliminary hearing before the Magistrate a week from Monday next.

A MAYNOOTH FIRE.

FORCED RESIDENTS TO FORM A BUCKET BRIGADE TO FIGHT THE FLAMES.

At an early hour on Monday morning, the large frame hotel in the Village of Maynooth, known as the Fitzgerald hotel, was completely destroyed by fire. When discovered the flames had gained considerable headway, and nothing could be done to stay the progress of the devouring element. Mr. J. Lefleur, proprietor of the building, was a considerable loser, as but a few effects were saved. The inmates were fortunate in escaping injury. Mr. J. Roddy was the owner of the building and his loss is partially covered by insurance. Owing to other frame buildings being adjacent to the burned building the residents of the village had to form a bucket brigade to fight the flames.

Central Hastings Agricultural Society

The annual meeting of the Central Hastings Agricultural Society was held at Stirling on Wednesday, Jan. 17th. The auditors' report showed total receipts of $1,388.64, with expenditures of $1,343.38. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, W. T. Sine; First Vice-President, Robert Lanigan; Second Vice-President, B. R. Wright; Secretary, C. W. Thompson; Treasurer, T. H. McKee; Directors, A. Fargey, G. G. Thrasher, Robt. Reid, C. W. Thompson, U. Heath, J. A. French, John Kingston, P. G. Sharp and Jas. W. Haggerty; Auditors, James Haggerty and E. T. Williams.

On motion the salary of the Secretary was fixed at $40 and the Treasurer $20.

Examine our typewriter paper before ordering from Toronto and paying freight or express charges.

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

Fine to-day and on Saturday; slightly higher temperature.

OUR

assortment of choice Bon Bons and Chocolates was never more complete than it is this year.

Your Christmas Presents will not be complete without a nice box of our Candy, prices from 25c to $2.00 per box.

JAS. WALLACE & CO.

They will Adjust Themselves

to a wide range of circumstances — the eyes — will stand lots of hard work, and get along with very little attention.

When they do complain, it is usually the result of their being overworked. They are calling for a rest.

They ache, smart, burn, probably you are subject to headaches, which you never think of attributing to your eyes.

If you are bothered, call on us. We shall gladly inform you regarding their state, and there is no more THOROUGH or reliable examination to be had in Canada.

Angus McFee
'Phone 128.
The Store With the Big Clock

At Wallbridge & Clarke's
Marmalade Oranges
Pineapple Marmalade

COFFEE
WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE'S
DELICIOUS COFFEE.
Ground Daily. Electric Power
30 and 40c a lb.
COFFEE DEMONSTRATION
—AT—
Wallbridge & Clarke's
BRIDGE STREET.
come in and have a cup of delicious Coffee.

Huyler's New York Chocolates.
Extra Value in Tea.
Wallbridge & Clarke's Fine Indo-Ceylon Tea—30c lb.—4 lbs. for $1.00 in sealed packets.

EASY MONEY AT HOME
[illegible]
BIRD BREAD 10 CENTS.
[illegible]
COTTAM BIRD SEED, [illegible], Cal.

The Everstick Rubber
Is Light and Durable.
THEY WILL PLEASE YOU.
We can fit your boots with
RUBBERS or OVERSHOES.
VERMILYEA & SON

FRIENDLY WARNING.

No Need to be Alarmed about Stomach Troubles if you Use Mi-o-na

The most frequent affection of the stomach is catarrh, as the delicate membrane which lines the stomach is easily irritated by harmful food or over-eating. Keep a strict watch for the first symptoms of stomach trouble. Take this friendly warning in the spirit in which it is given and profit by it.

Shortness of breath, black specks before the eyes, furred tongue, dizziness, belching of gases or sour food, weakness and debility are all signs of catarrh of the stomach. There is no need to be unduly alarmed, for this disease can be cured by Mi-o-na. It is the only remedy that strikes at the root of the evil and actually cures the disease.

It does not contain opium in any form, acids, alcohol, or any other harmful drug or chemical. It is a pure remedy that heals the irritated mucous membrane, stimulates the solar plexus, and aids digestion.

Mi-o-na costs but 50 cents a box.

If you cannot obtain Mi-o-na of your druggist, it will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of price. Write us for advice on your case from a leading stomach specialist which will be sent free. The R. T. Booth Company, Ithaca, N. Y.

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage, 50c each insertion.

Death notice, 50c, or when funeral notices included, $1.00.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Weekly Intelligencer $1.00 a year; Daily Intelligencer $3.00 a year; strictly cash in advance.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E & J. Hardy & Co.'s office, 39 Fleet St., London, E. C.

Intelligencer

WANT ADS.

Advertisements under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for each insertion, and one cent for each additional word, 4 insertions, 75c; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales which will be published at two cents per word. Count 8 marks and figures as one word each.

WANTED.

Toolmakers. Only good men need apply. Canadian General Electric Co., Ltd., Peterboro, Ont. 26-3t

Wanted—To buy—a house in good repair, central, on east side of city. Address Box X, Intelligencer Office. j24?

Machine fitters and erectors wanted for heavy work. Box G, Intelligencer. m,w,f

By lady, plain table board with nicely furnished room. Will pay highest price. Address for two days. Miss Verne Shibley, Belleville, Ont. j22.2t

Traveller Wanted. Teas. House to house. Others clear Twenty Dollars weekly. Why not you? Alfred Tyler, London, Ontario.

FOR SALE.

House, on easy terms, a comfortable eight-roomed house on Victoria avenue. Apply Box 1054. 23-24

Wanted—A printer at once, male or female. Steady position.—The Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont. d&wtf

The Canada Life Assurance Co. want a good live agent for Belleville, Trenton, Madoc and vicinity. Applications and recommendations received by J. O. Hutton, Mgr. Canada Life Ass'n Co., Kingston. j8.tf

Wanted.—Agents to solicit subscriptions to The Weekly Intelligencer with their four magazine premiums—5 papers, all for one year, $1.00. Liberal terms. Good money for sharp canvassers. Get samples. Send for terms.—The Weekly Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont. o5d&wtf

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

Parliamentary Notice.

Monday, 26th February next, will be the last day for presenting Petitions for Private Bills.

Monday, 5th March next, will be the last day for introducing Private Bills.

Monday, 19th March next, will be the last day for receiving Reports of Committees on Private Bills.

CHARLES CLARKE,
Clerk Leg. Assembly, Ont.
j25-d24

EIGHTY-THREE THOUSAND cards of superior quality imported by The Intelligencer Job Department. These cards are the cheapest and best in Canada. Travellers, business and professional men should examine them.

County Council.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON SESSION.

Council resumed at 2 o'clock.

A deputation from the Township of Thurlow was present and many members addressed the Council.

Mr Moore said that a petition was presented to the Council asking them to reconsider the matter of building the new road at Corbyville. The majority who drive through that section of the country do not like where the proposed road will run, namely, near the Grand Junction track. The petition asks that the road be made further east than the one proposed.

Mr. Traverson spoke in support of the petition. The majority who drove that section of the county would prefer the road to remain where it is rather than to have it placed where it is proposed.

Messrs. J. Capp, N. Brintnell and others spoke in support of the petition and against the road being located so close to the track.

After the deputation had been heard the Warden informed them that the matter would be carefully considered by the Council before definite action was taken.

At this stage of the proceedings the Clerk announced that it was with regret that he had to inform the Council that Judge Lazier had passed away. His Honor had been faithful in the discharge of his duties and his loss would be severely felt.

Out of respect to the departed Judge the Council adjourned until 9 o'clock on Friday morning.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio., is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo. Ohio.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

PIPES NO ONE CAN SMOKE.

THEIR MANUFACTURE A TRADE IN WHICH THERE IS A MONOPOLY.

It would scarcely appear that a factory could build up a profitable trade in pipes which could not be smoked under any circumstances through the fact that the stems were made solid instead of hollow, but there is a factory in England which makes thousands of gross yearly. They are sold to the shooting galleries, where a pipe has always been found one of the cheapest and at the same time most satisfactory targets. One shrewd potter found that he could make the goods more cheaply by not piercing the stems and practically occupies that field all by himself.

The pasteboard safe and the sheet-iron vault is an industry not peculiar to America, though it finds most use here, and it is in Boston that "musical" instruments are manufactured, outwardly exact reproductions of cornets and other brasses, but which are sold much more cheaply, since their use is merely to pad out big bands with men who can not play. They are therefore not supplied with valves or reeds. One band is said to boast one-third dummy players.

Imitation soap, looking exactly like the real article, but made of clay, grease, scent and a little pink dye, is of Chinese origin, and the native clerks of China and India carry their pencils behind their ears in imitation of their Caucasian bosses, yet the pencils contain no lead, since they are carried only for ornament, the brush being used for all actual work.

WAIT FIVE MINUTES

and get Clark's Pork and Beans steaming hot. It makes a difference in the flavor. Very appetizing. Plain or with Chili or Tomato Sauce.

A BARGAIN IN CARDS.

Business and professional men will do well in examining the cards just imported by The Intelligencer Job Department. They are of superior quality and very cheap. We have them from $1.00 for 500 with name and address upwards. Eight sizes. tf

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorized to refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

The Warden's Supper.

ENJOYABLE AFFAIR AT THE WINDSOR HOTEL LAST EVENING—MANY ABLE SPEECHES.

For some years past it has been the custom for newly-elected Wardens of Hastings County to tender to the members of the Council and friends a banquet, and this year was no exception to the rule. The Warden-elect for this year, Mr. Robert Lancaster, last evening gave a banquet at the Windsor Hotel, which proved to be an enjoyable affair. Many were present and the addresses given were all that could have been desired. Mr. W. R. Aylsworth, County Clerk, occupied the chair and at his right sat the Warden, ex-Mayor Johnson and S. Masson; at his left Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Mr. S. Russell, County Registrar. The vice-chair was filled by Mr. A. Macfarlane, and about him were Messrs. W. P. Hudson, ex-M.P.P.; S. J. Dench, ex-Warden; C. M. Stork and Ald. Marsh.

After justice had been done to the bountiful spread provided, the following toast list was carried out:

"The King."—National Anthem by the company and a patriotic address by ex-Mayor Johnson.

"The Land We Live In."—Responded to by Messrs W. J. Moore and W. J. McCamon.

Song—The Maple Leaf by the company.

"British Empire."—Responded to by Messrs W. P. Hudson, ex-M.P.P., and H. K. Denyes.

"Parliament of Canada."—Responded to by Mr. J. M. Hurley, ex-M.P., and Sir Mackenzie Bowell.

"Legislative Assembly."—Responded to by Messrs. J. W. Pearce, M.P.P., and S. Russell, ex-M.P.P.

"The Farmers of Ontario and their Wives."—Responded to by Messrs. J. S. Dench, B. M. Mallory and C. W. Thompson.

"The Municipal Institutions of Ontario."—Responded to by Ald. Marsh, Messrs. H. G. Bleecker and Jas. Johnson.

Commercial and Banking Institutions."—Responded to by Messrs. C. M. Stork and J. K. McCargar.

"Learned Professions."—Responded to by Messrs. S. Masson and J. Best.

"Educational Interests."—Responded to by Messrs. J. Johnston and W. Morton.

"The Ladies." — Responded to by Messrs. A. S. White, W. Bonter, G. Nicholson and G. Weese.

"The Host and Hostess."—Responded to by Mr. Macfarlane, on behalf of Mr. L. Ketcheson.

Previous to adjourning Mr. Macfarlane referred to the irreparable loss the county had sustained by the death of Judge Lazier. He was an honored citizen of Belleville, a credit to the judiciary of the province and a gentleman in every sense of the word.

The Oddfellows' orchestra was present, and during the evening enlivened the proceedings by the rendering of a number of selections.

At a seasonable hour the gathering broke up by the singing of the National Anthem.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

THE KAFFIR BOYS' CHOIR.

A large audience was present in Bridge St. Sunday School rooms last night to hear and thoroughly enjoy the concert given by the Kaffir Boys' Choir, the members of which, it may be explained, are African aborigines, black as the ace of spades, and none of whom would take first prize in a beauty show, but they could and did sing in a most entrancing way. The concert given last night was much better than the one given by the Kaffir Choir on its last appearance in this city. The personnel of the choir, too, has been almost entirely changed. One little chap, less than five years old, fairly captured the audience, who applauded and encored him till he must have been tired. Other members of the choir were all good, and they sang many standard songs and choruses in a way which spoke volumes for the patience and skill of their instructors. Some of the marching songs rendered were very inspiring, indeed, and several sacred melodies and camp meeting choruses pleased and impressed the audience greatly. Addresses were given by Mr. Balmer and Miss Clarke, who have charge of and instruct the children. They told of how the boys were secured in Africa and afterwards educated, many of them speaking several languages. The entertainment was a wonderful exhibition of what patience and kindness can do. The concert, taken altogether, was most entertaining, pleasing and instructive.

"HIS HIGHNESS THE BEY."

"His Highness the Bey," which comes to the Carman next Tuesday, is the work of two University of Chicago students, and the music was evolved by Joseph E. Howard one of the most noted and successful song writers of the last decade. Frank Adams and Will Hough, the librettists, already had acquired local fame through the witty and sparkling playlets written by them for fellow collegians and produced at the University. They were induced to attempt more ambitious efforts by the LaSalle management and scored a triumph in their first comedy. The critics of the Chicago newspapers were unanimous in their praise of the comedy, and predicted future honors for these young men. Astute theatrical managers have secured options on their future work and their second effort has already made an emphatic hit in the same theatre, which seems to bear out the predictions of the critics.

MRS. MARY GREGOVICH

Of Philipsburg, Montana, Tells How She Was Cured of Dandruff.

Mrs. Mary Gregovich, of Philipsburg, Montana, under date of Nov. 26, 1899, writes: "I had typhoid fever this summer, consequently was losing my hair terribly, and my head in places was perfectly bald. Newbro's Herpicide had just come into use in Philipsburg, and the doctor strongly recommended it to me. After 3 or 4 applications my hair stopped falling out, and is coming in again quite thick. I used to be troubled greatly with dandruff, of which I am now quite cured." Kill the dandruff germ with Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. J. S. McKeown, special agent.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Belleville winter races have been declared off.

The Picton kids gave Port Hope a hard game last night, only losing by one goal on Port Hope ice.

A game of baseball was played at Woodstock, Ont., yesterday afternoon. It was a good game, too, the score being 7 to 6.

The poor old Toronto Marlboros are like the label on the bottle this season. They were downed 14 to 1 by the Argonauts last night. The Dukes seem to be all in.

Frank McGee will take his old place at centre on the Stanley Cup team, and Harry Smith will move to left wing. The Ottawas' forward line will then be the real goods. With McGee centre, Westwick rover, Alf. Smith right wing, and Harry Smith left wing, the Ottawas are quite satisfied with Trustee P. D. Ross' ruling that Stanley Cup game must be played during the last week in February and the first week in March.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take "Laxative Bromo" Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c.

The Canadian Hog Raising Industry.

Investigations by the Live Stock Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture into the alleged shortage of hogs have shown that for some months past the supply of bacon hogs in Canada has been falling off. Even before the order was issued debarring packers from importing United States hogs to be slaughtered in bond, difficulty was experienced by Canadian packers in procuring sufficient hogs. The amount of the shortage during the summer and fall is indicated by the fact that packers claim to have been able to secure only from 30 to 50 per cent. of the capacity of their factories Hog raisers, on the other hand, claim that the production is considerably nearer the normal than would appear from the statements of the packers. It is, they say, partly an increase in packing house capacity rather than a decrease in hog raising. In some of the dairying sections the supplies are reported to be very little, if any, below the normal, while in other districts the shortage is placed at about 20 to 25 per cent.

Enquiries as to the cause of the shortage brought from packers and producers a variety of replies. The packers claim that for the past three years or more the competition between buyers of hogs has been so keen that top prices have been paid continuously, and that these prices have been high enough to give a profit to the producer. They claim, therefore, to be at a loss to understand why there is a shortage at this time. Speaking from the standpoint of the producer, well informed authorities claim that the price has not been as uniformly high as it should have been. At times of the year when the packers anticipated heavy runs, prices dropped to a point where no profit was left to the feeder. This, they claim, took place last season, when sows would be bred for the supplies of the fall just past, and as coarse grains were high and labor scarce at that time many brood sows were sent to the market.

Again it is argued that the majority of packers have not encouraged the production of hogs of the bacon type and weight. For a number of years improvement in the hog stock of the country made satisfactory progress, but during the past season at least the producers of the ideal sort have received no encouragement to continue their good work; a flat rate has been paid for good and bad alike. The hogs fit only to compete with the low price American stock brought quite as much as the sort that competes with Irish and Danish bacon for the highest place on the British market.

Whatever may be the extent of the shortage or the real cause of it, the fact remains that unless producers and packers grapple in sympathetic co-operation with the situation, Canada's valuable bacon industry, which has cost years of strenuous effort to build up may become seriously demoralized.

In 1890 there were only two packing houses in the export trade with a weekly capacity of some 3,000 hogs, while in 1905 the weekly capacity of the 21 packing houses in operation was some 50,000. While this limit has not been reached within from 10,000 to 15,000 hogs weekly, according to the season, the output from Canada has reached about $15,000,000 annually or 20 per cent. of the total quantity of bacon imported by Great Britain. To jeopardize so valuable an industry would be nothing less than a national calamity.

If the farmers who have been in the habit of raising hogs will accord the bacon industry a steady, persistent support begotten of the knowledge the hog raising pays year in and year out, the future has very large possibilities for the Canadian bacon industry. Canadian bacon having won a place on the British market commanding respect, as it increases in quantity and improves in quality, will undoubtedly become a daily necessity of the British consumer. That it may occupy this enviable position both farmer and packer must co-operate, the farmer by producing a steady supply of the right class of hogs, the packer by paying a fairly uniform price from month to month and from year to year, and he must give value per pound according to the quality of the product he receives. Let each do his part and there will be little trouble about the supply of hogs for keeping the factories going at a normal capacity. What appears to be most needed at the present time is that relations of confidence be restored and maintained between packer and farmer through fair dealing and intelligent co-operation. With these and an appreciation on the part of the producers of the possibilities of the industry, hog raising cannot fail to be one of the most profitable branches of Canadian agriculture.

LIVE STOCK BRANCH,
Dominion Department of Agriculture.

WANT PRESENT LIQUOR LICENSE LAW AMENDED.

PETITION TO THE GOVERNMENT FROM THE BAY OF QUINTE EPWORTH LEAGUERS.

Bowmanville, Jan. 25.—The third days' session of the Bay of Quinte conference of the Epworth League convention passed a resolution directing that the following memorial be sent to Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary:

"The Bay of Quinte conference of the Epworth League biennial convention, representing nearly eight thousand members, unanimously requests the Provincial Government to so amend the liquor license law that on the presentation of a petition signed by a reasonable percentage of electors of a municipality the clerk shall arrange for the vote of the electors and declare the results."

A Bible study by Chancellor Burwash, the reports of committees, and a discussion on memorials and resolutions, and a quiet hour to close the session conducted by Rev. A. W. Coone, S.T.L., Milford, were other features of this morning's session. A resolution was passed recommending that the President visit every district league at the time of convention or circuit rally. Systematic Bible study and attention to the great missionary problems that confront the Church were recommended, also providing in the constitution for the election of a fifth Vice-President, who will take charge of the junior work.

The afternoon session consisted largely in the discussion of methods of work, a conference on organization, and summer schools, district missionary organization, and a conference on missionary advance movement. The work of the five missionaries who represent the various districts were discussed. Among those who took part were: Rev. A. H. Foster, Smithfield; Rev. D. E. Johnston, South Dummer; Miss Olive Johnston, Frankford; Miss M. M. Moment, Orono; Rev. A. M. Irwin, B. D., Canton; Rev. D. R. Clare, Selwyn; Mrs. Webster, Lindsay; Mr. T. G. Bell, Sidney Crossing; Rev. W. A. Bunner, Norham.

Mr. J. M. Denyes, B. A., Whitby, gave a splendid address upon "Our Privilege," dealing with it from the standpoint of responsibility and duty to advance the missionary movement. Rev. H. W. Foley, B.D., Bayside, presented the report of the Missionary Committee, which advocated, among other things, a missionary for every district; that circuits, districts and appointments take up the subject of missionaries in the west; that the Missionary Board be asked to set aside a second missionary for the Bay of Quinte conference, the district or districts that can do so first undertaking his support.

The following officers were elected by ballot: Hon. President, Rev. W. Jolliffe, B.C.L.; President of the Conference, Peterboro; President, Rev. S. F. Dixon, Wooler; Vice-Presidents, Rev. L. S. Wight, B.A., B.D., Tyrone; Rev. D. E. Johnston, B.A., South Dummer; Mr. Fred R. Foley, Bowmanville; Miss M. M. Moment, Orono, and Miss F. Adams, Belleville; Secretary, Rev. A. W. Coone, Milford; Treasurer, Miss Maude Nugent, Millbrook; Conference Representative on Epworth League Board, Mr. E. S. Morden, Past President, Picton.

To-night an immense congregation filled every part of the conference church and chairs occupied the aisles. The Bowmanville choir gave a song service, the new officers were introduced, and the President, Rev. S. F. Dixon, took the chair and addressed the convention briefly, after earnest parting words from Mr. E. A. Morden, Rev. R. Duke, of Selby, Rev. G. T. Bishop, D.D., of Lindsay, and Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, of Toronto, were the other speakers.

NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS.

FURNISHED BY J. R. HEINTZ & CO.'S LOCAL OFFICE.

New York, Jan. 26

STOCK	Op'g	Close
Atchison	94	94¼
B.& O	115⅞	116⅛
C. O	61½	61⅜
C.P.R.	174⅞	173⅞
Erie	49⅞	49⅜
do pref	82½	82½
C. G. W	23	22⅜
Ills. C.	178	178⅞
K. T.	39½	39⅜
L & N.	153⅞	153⅞
Soo	158	158⅛
Loop	104⅞	104⅛
N Y C	152⅞	152⅛
Nor	92⅞	93
O W	53⅛	56⅛
Penn	145⅞	146⅛
R I	24½	24⅞
Reading	154⅞	152½
St. Paul	189⅞	189⅞
Sou Pac	70⅛	70
Sou. Ry	41⅜	42¼
Union Pac	157⅞	157⅛
Texas	38⅛	38⅜
Wab.	25⅜	25⅞
do pref	46⅞	47½
W C pref.	61	61⅛
B.R.T.	91⅜	93⅜
Met.	123⅞	125
Manhattan	161⅛	162
T. W.	119⅞	119⅞
A. C. P.	111	111⅛
Alo.	74¼	76⅜
Sugar	151⅛	151
P. O.	101⅞	100
U. S. Steel	44⅜	45⅜
do pref	111⅛	112
W. U.	93¼	93
A. F.	47	46⅞
C.F.I.	81⅜	82½

May wheat opened at 85⅞ closed at 85⅞
July wheat opened at 84 ; closed at 84
May corn opened at 44⅞ ; closed at 44½
July corn opened at 41⅞; closed at 41⅞
May Oats opened at 31½; closed at 31⅞
Jan. pork opened at 14 05; closed at 14.05

STOCKS, BONDS, GRAIN, PROVISIONS, ETC.

J.R. Heintz & Co.

Established, 1879.

Members New York Consolidated Stock Exchange, New York Produce Exchange

Branch Office—52 Bridge St.
'Phone 80

Where Marriage Pays.

"Married people have the best of it in ocean traveling," said a sea captain, "for they have a stateroom to themselves. People traveling alone, unless they are willing to pay a good deal extra, have to sleep in the same room with strangers, an unpleasant thing.

"Some of these lone travelers, to secure privacy, pay extra fare. Others—many, many others—try to secure privacy by giving us lies instead of money.

"One man will tell the chief steward that he has an intolerable snore. Another will say he is subject to epileptic attacks, wherein in the small hours he becomes a shrieking and dangerous maniac. Another will say that in the throes of acute seasickness from the beginning of the voyage to the end he fills the cabin day and night with dismal noises.

"No matter. They all have to share their staterooms with strangers. The only way out of it is to plank down the coin."

Origin of Bonfires.

Bonfires are a survival of the rites of Baal and Moloch. When Christianity ruled old ways and customs could be abolished, and so the heathen, still hankering after the ancient deities, but half controlled by pope or bishop, made their bonfires on the eve of St. Peter or St. John. One use of bonfires in the not so far distant past was as a means of disinfection. In his "History of the Plague" Defoe tells of bonfires in London streets. There is reason to suppose that in kindling such fires there was still a remnant of superstition left. It was in a measure a sacrifice to Baal. As to the excellence of the method of making fires to drive away a plague the benefit would be questionable. Anyhow it may be dwelt upon as the earliest effort made toward cremation, for it was of some slight use when an infected neighborhood could get fire and was reduced to ashes. But, then, the remedy might have been worse than the disease.

The Ring.

"The ring of sincerity was in his voice when he told me of his love."

"It should have been in his hand. A ring in the hand is worth two in the voice."

Good For Evil.

Mrs. Gawker—The coal man left his bill; but, John, he has given us short weight. Gawker—Well, I'll give him long wait.

He who murmurs against his condition does not understand it, but he who accepts of it in peace will soon learn to comprehend it.

The Last Word.

Bobby—Is every word in this dictionary, pa? Peckley—Oh, no, my child. Every little while a new word comes into the language. Bobby—What's the latest word, pa? Peckley—Your ma will tell you. She always has the last word.

One Way to Look at It.

"A man always gets on easier by taking his wife's advice."

"Yes," answered Mr. Meekton. "When things turn out badly there isn't so much said."

A Few Facts for Women

About Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets

These tablets are the prescription of a distinguished specialist in women's diseases.

They are compounded for the special needs of women alone.

They embody the results of the very latest medical discoveries.

They contain ingredients recently discovered that no other remedy contains.

They are a compound remedy, that is, they contain something for every organ of the female system.

They are purely vegetable, and unlike the liquid preparations contain neither alcohol nor opium.

There are six dozen tablets in one box, enough for an extended treatment.

They Make Healthy Women.

GLASSES THAT BEAUTIFY.

Eye strain causes that worn, worried look which mars otherwise beautiful features.

This can be removed by correct and up-to-date glasses.

Correct Lense.

Up-to-date Mountings.

Our neat Rimless Eye Glasses and Spectacles please the most exacting.

T. Blackburn.

7 Sutherland Sisters. . .

Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner . .

THE IDEAL HAIR DRESSING'S

PRICE 50 CTS.

WATERS' DRUG STORE.

D8

The Dupligraph

Complete Cabinet with three tablets foolscap size, $10.00.

Single Dupligraph Trays foolscap size, $4.00.

The Dupligraph is the simplest, cleanest, quickest and cheapest duplicating machine on the market. It will reproduce exact fac-simile copies of an ordinary type-written or pen-written original at the rate of 50 in five minutes, and requires no expensive supplies. No stencil, roller, silk or wax paper; no trouble, dirt or washing. You simply write whatever you desire in the ordinary way on ordinary paper, and the Dupligraph does the rest.

Write for circulars and samples of work.

For sale in Belleville by PENMAN & SPRANG, Sole Manufacturers, Head Office, 22 Yonge St. Arcade.

New Telephone Directory

The Bell Telephone Company of Canada, Limited, is about to publish a new issue of the Official Telephone Directory for the district of Eastern Ontario, including the town of Belleville.

Orders for new connections, changes of name, changes of street address, or duplicate entries, should be handed to local manager at once.

C. D. DYKE,
LOCAL MANAGER.

WHAT CAUSES SNORING.

When asleep people that snore breathe through the mouth instead of the nostrils, which are choked with catarrh. Just use "Catarrhozone" before retiring and you'll quickly cure the snoring habit. By destroying the cause of catarrh and healing the membranes Catarrhozone makes a complete cure in every case; it cleans the nostrils, stops the discharge and prevents dropping in the throat in a few minutes. Nothing so pleasant or certain to cure snoring, catarrh or colds as Catarrhozone—that's worth remembering.

Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum

Cures Coughs

GRAY'S SYRUP does that one thing, and does it well. It's no "cure-all," but a CURE for all throat and lung troubles.

GRAY'S SYRUP OF RED SPRUCE GUM stops the irritating tickle—takes away the soreness—soothe and heals the throat—and CURES COUGHS to stay cured.

None the less effective because it is pleasant to take.

25 cts. bottle.

The Man Who Knows

"Maple Leaf" Rubber Quality

Has No Desire to try other MAKES.

Are the Lightest

AND LAST THE LONGEST

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES—Belleville. Napanee & Trenton.

MELCHER'S

RED CROSS

CANADIAN GIN

The only Gin MATURED FOR YEARS in Bonded Warehouses, and bottled under Government Supervision.

BOIVIN, WILSON & CO., Montreal.
DISTRIBUTORS.

SAFE INVESTMENTS

LOW EXPENSE

THE CARDINAL POINTS
—OF—
THE DOMINION LIFE

Head Office: Waterloo, Ont,
P. H. SIMS, S.B. BRICKER, HON. SENATOR McMULLEN
Vice-Presidents.
THOS. HILLIARD. FRED HALSTEAD.
President and Managing Director. Supt. of Agencies

LOW MORTALITY

HIGH AVERAGE INTEREST RATE

ICE CREAM SODA

We are serving Ice Cream Soda this winter as well as the Ice Cream.

A delicious drink we are serving now is a Chocolate Soda, made from Lowney's Gold Medal Chocolate.

It is manufactured by an improved process which preserves all the nutritive qualities of the Cocoa Bean and makes a delicious drink either in a soda or hot chocolate.

Ed. F. Dickens.
CATERER

The Intelligencer Bindery

Makes a specialty of Ledgers, Journals, Cash Books and all Descriptions of Blank Account Books.

TIMELY TOPICS.

BE A SPORT.

Don't be stingy with your money;
Do not hide your roll away
Just as though you thought you'd never
Draw another cent of pay.
Do not fear you'll die of hunger,
Though you sometimes may be short;
Loosen up on some occasions,
Be a sport.

Do not pull away forever
On your ancient pipe;
Dig down deep and find a nickel
For a long, dark "snipe."
If you're walking with a lady,
'Twould be going some
To throw down at least a penny
For some gum.

When you're going to a party
With a lady at your side,
Do not walk; a dime will purchase
Both of you a street car ride.
When you pass an ice cream parlor
All at once enthuse,
And invite her to have something—
Maybe she'll refuse.

When a gentleman is airing
Some of his pet views—
Wants to bet two cents to bluff you
Take him if you lose.
Throw your money round real reckless
In some swell resort;
Buy yourself a bright red soda,
Be a sport.

• • •

This was not a good year for Mr. Donald MacMaster to try to capture an English constituency from the Liberal party. The Liberal tide is running in.

• • •

A despatch from Texas tells of an aeronaut falling two thousand feet from his balloon. The sender of the news thoughtfully adds that the aeronaut was killed.

• • •

A mixture of autumn, winter and spring,
Is the luck of our glorious clime,
With a dash when these other season's fail
Of the good old summer time.

• • •

Collier's Weekly of New York has reached the conclusion that Vancouver is destined to be the largest city in Canada. In the opinion of the editor of Collier's, Canada will eventually have more trade and communication with Asia than with Europe. The rest follows.

• • •

In the Department of Agriculture at Washington they have a machine which smokes tobacco like a man. We hope they will invent a machine that will smoke cigarettes and then make it unlawful for anyone else to smoke them.

• • •

A Buffalo paper says church attendance has fallen off considerly since people began living in flats. The probability is that after a person has passed a winter in a "steam heated" flat he does not want to be delivered from any warmer place.

• • •

There are still 25,000,000 acres of land suitable for agriculture in Ontario that are yet unbroken. According to the report of Mr. C. A. James, Deputy-Minister of Agriculture, there are only 13,000,000 under cultivation. It is quite evident that farming possibilities in Ontario have not yet reached their limit.

• • •

The new French President, Clement Fallieres, is the grandson of a blacksmith and the son of a petty clerk in a French village. He is not a Parisian aristocrat but a French peasant, one of that class of people remarkable for thrift and orderly industry. It is quite evident that France is turning away from the aristocratic traditions whose extravagances brought about revolutions, to the saner ideals of equality and equal chance before the law for all the people.

• • •

A new cure for a cold is reported from Germany. It consists of a mixture of cocaine, paranephrine and water applied on cotton to the nose. It arrests secretions and cures the cold usually by several applications.

• • •

It is estimated that 70,000 people take their own lives every year in Europe, 11,000 of which fall to Germany. During the past ten years the number of self-murders in Germany has been 113,545. This is almost three times as many as there were soldiers killed outright in the Franco-Prussian war in 1870-71.

• • •

The latest novelty in vegetables is a black potato, which has been sent to a well known seed merchant of London. This eccentric tuber came from the Congo, and is said to have an excellent flavor. It is specially recommended for ornamental cookery and in salads.

Teething Time

means endless suffering for baby without

Menthol Worm Remover

It eases the pain—prevents the stomach from becoming upset—makes the bowels move regularly—and brings sound, refreshing sleep. 25c. a box—at all druggists.

The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., Ltd., Toronto, Can.

The Story of a Story

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

Copyright, 1905, by Ruby Douglas

"Let's move into the shade," Helen suggested.

Melville thought this a pity, for the sun had been doing its level best—not unsuccessfully—to discover unsuspected tints in her gold brown hair, but, of course, he said nothing, and shifted the garden chair within the shadow of a big acacia.

The girl toyed for a few moments with the two long pins in her lingerie hat. Then she leaned slightly forward and pressed the ends of her fingers together, a pretty little way she had when she was seriously interested.

"What were you writing awhile ago, Tom, when I interrupted and asked you to play tennis? I'm afraid you weren't giving your story a happy ending, you looked so tremendously blue and sad. Do you know, I was thinking of that look of yours all through the game, and"—

"You made some mighty good backhanded strokes across the court, Helen," said he, a bit irrelevantly, picking up her discarded hat and fanning her with it.

"Come, now," the girl said softly, touching him never so lightly on the coat sleeve, "tell me about it, won't you?"

"Well, you see," he answered with a genial smile, "I was a bit perplexed just then when you found me. I've presented my characters a problem—and they can't solve it."

"Ethical?" questioned Helen, pointing a copper colored tennis shoe and gazing at it demurely.

"If ethics is the philosophy of conduct, yes, decidedly it's ethical," returned he promptly. "But don't let's talk shop, please. I'm sure it will bore you."

"What are they like, your characters? And what is it you've given them to solve?" she said cheerily. "Is it so very difficult?"

"The man in the story," he began hesitatingly, fixing his eyes straight on the top of a tall pine tree, "is a pretty decent sort of chap. He has a good name—the descendant of a long line running back a number of generations without getting out of alignment, you know. He has fair ability, energy, ambition and all that, with a position that secures him just about enough money to live on. And the girl in the story"—Melville cleared his throat.

"And the girl?" demanded Helen.

"Well, when they were children the girl and he had played together with mud pies and seesaws in their back gardens. Their mothers had been college chums, you see, but the father of the child in kilts died and left his son nothing but his unblemished name, while the father of the little girl kept on growing daily more and more like Croesus."

"When they grew up did they still care for each other, your boy and your girl?" asked Helen in a low voice. She was giving his recital her keenest attention.

"The man loved the girl," he answered in a voice that seemed inappropriately grave. "He loved her so much—but it's enough for our purpose to say that he loved her."

Helen shot a furtive glance of inquiry at him from under her thick lashes, and her eyes looked like a purple black cloud that has in its heart the forked lightning, but he was gazing down the vista of trees, so she said merely:

"And the girl loved the man?" He started.

"He—he wasn't sure," said Melville. "He was sure she liked him; otherwise—otherwise she wouldn't have spared him so much of her time and been so sweet to him in lots of ways, but"—

"But he didn't know whether she loved him!" cried Helen. "If he was made of big, manly stuff, as somehow I fancied from your description he was, couldn't he have found out easily enough?"

"You see," began Melville, "here was the girl's money. People would think"—But Helen interrupted him with fine scorn:

"So your worthy hero was afraid of 'what people would think.' And so he kept the door of his heart locked tight, and all the time the girl might have been there starving just outside. She might have been, oh, so hungry for him to open to her and bid her to come in. But 'what people would think,' forsooth, had more weight with him than the girl's possible hunger! Pshaw, Tom! A beautiful hero you've made!"

The little wave of color that surged over the delicate, proud purity of Helen's face cut Melville like a knife. So lovely, so near, so far! She had her velvety purple eyes on the distant hills. She seemed fathoms away from him, and he wanted her so keenly!

He looked at her for fully a half minute, finding her good to look at; then a thrush burst out into an exquisite trill just over their heads and hopped from one branch to another. As it hopped it moved the acacia leaves, opening a chasm in the dome of green.

"Oh, look, Tom! Too late now!" she cried, with animation. "You did not look up in time, but it was there a second ago, the 'sunbeam straight like a finger.' You see, having to give you back your copy of Swinburne, I learned a few of the verses I liked best first."

But Melville was in no mood for talking Swinburne, nor any other poet, however great. He picked up his hero's thread where she had dropped it.

"I've got past that point in my story, Helen—the point where the man hesitated because he was afraid of the money. I was about to say that he had made up his mind to risk the unfavorable construction people might put on his apparent boldness, but another and far greater difficulty awaited him. That was the ethical problem which was perplexing me and making me hesitate when you found me."

"And, please, what was this new difficulty?" she said musingly.

"I didn't say it was new—only, the other matter finally having been met squarely, the other reasons why the man hesitated to tell the girl of his love assumed more formidable proportions than ever. You see," Melville went on deliberately, "here was a girl who, naturally enough, lived the life that was lived by the people of her particular little world. She spent much of her time in ways that were, to the man, hopelessly pointless, vapid and mentally weakening. It hadn't spoiled her, but for himself he knew he couldn't live that life, not even for her dear sake, and how could he ask her to give it up?"

"Maybe the girl"— Helen began, but Melville hurried on as though fearful that if he were stopped he might not say it.

"You see, too, he wasn't sure of his ability to hold her. Suppose, even though she were brave and sweet enough to give up the things he couldn't share, that a longing for the old, smart, gay things from which he had taken her should come harking back little by little? Could any tragedy"—

"Maybe the girl," interrupted Helen again, "did these vapid, wearisome things because she'd nothing better to do. If he'd asked her and if she loved him, I think the girl would have said"—

"Yes, yes, Helen! What would she have said?" Melville's heart was thumping so loudly that in order that she might not hear it he beat a tattoo on the arm of the garden chair.

Helen seemed to consider an hour. When she answered at last, her voice had a ring of sweet gravity in it; but, somehow, to Melville it seemed very, very far away.

"I believe," she said simply, "that if she loved him really she'd have said, 'The door of your heart is locked, and I'm not sure that any one is at home; but, oh, if any one is, I'd like so much to shut the world out—and to come in and stay with you—always.'"

Melville took his hand from his eyes sharply. At that moment he saw Helen as she was.

"Helen, Helen!" he cried, leaping to his feet. "That man was I, and the girl"—

"Yes," she answered tremulously, while her heavy lashes covered the tears in her purple eyes, "I'm—sure—that's what the girl would have said."

Melville placed his hand under her little dimpled chin and looked down closely into the velvety purple depths. What he saw there made him drop on his knees beside her.

"Sweetheart," he said, with brusque emotion, "the door of my heart can never be closed again with you outside. Won't you come in?"

He Let It Drop.

After the battle of Sharpsburg General Jackson, happening to ride in the rear of Early's division, found the men scattered for miles along the road, some executing dance steps, some crying, others singing gay songs or psalm tunes. Early had tried to reduce the ranks to their usual orderly condition, but had not succeeded. Finally an orderly rode up and handed him a dispatch from General Jackson:

> Headquarters, Left Wing.
> Sir—General Jackson desires to know why he saw so many stragglers in rear of your division today.
> A. S. PENDLETON.

After reading this communication the grim old soldier got a piece of paper and wrote the following reply:

> Headquarters, Early's Division.
> Captain—In answer to your note, I think it probable that the reason why General Jackson saw so many of my stragglers today is that he rode in rear of my division. Respectfully,
> J. A. EARLY.

General Jackson let the investigation drop.

The Life of a Salmon.

Salmon never eat during the spawning season. When they pass from salt water into fresh water in search of a nesting place they are very fat, having stored up a food supply for the coming months of struggle, for that is what the spawning season always is. They spend three or four months in fresh water, exploring and fighting over the places they find. Meanwhile, as they do not eat, their alimentary canals seem to wither up from disuse. And when at last the spawning season is over, the actual time, barring nest hunting, being from ten to fourteen days, the fish are so exhausted from the struggle, lack of food and the effort of reproduction that death is inevitable. The life of a salmon is spent in the perpetuation of its kind, but to the credit of each is an average of 5,000 eggs.—New York Herald.

Flowers That Shoot Like Guns.

Birds and insects carry seeds about almost as busily as the wind. The rough and hairy coats of quadrupeds often capture the burs of the plant they come in contact with and carry them for thousands of miles. Rivers and all running waters perform a similar use. Multitudes of plants are found growing upon their banks, the seeds of which have been brought by the current from distant localities, and, being stranded when the water is low, they find at once an anchorage and a suitable place for growth. There are plants even that jerk and dart out their seeds like shots from tiny guns for the purpose of scattering them. Touchmenots and cardamines form quite a miniature artillery when ripe, discharging their little batteries with a vigor that is quite comical.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

For The Winter
GO TO CALIFORNIA, MEXICO OR FLORIDA.

"The land of Summer's sunshine"

TOUR OF ALL MEXICO

Leaving Toronto on Jan. 29th
covering all points of interest.
Special reduced rates.

Mount Clemmens "Mineral Baths" and St. Catherines Mineral Springs, delightful resorts for those who need a rest. Best of hotel accommodation.

For tickets and full information call on
H. C. THOMPSON,
Town Agent.
T. H. COPPIN,
Depot Agent.

Hotel Belleclaire

Broadway and 77th Street,
New York.

Seventh Avenue, Amsterdam Ave. and West 72th St. Cars pass the door.
Luxurious rooms for permanent and transient guests.
Restaurant a Feature.
Exquisite Palm Room.
Art Nouveau Cafe.
Royal Hungarian Orchestra.

"Most Artistically Beautiful Hotel in the World." Can offer few single rooms, with bath, beautifully furnished, suitable for two people, $60 per month.

TRANSIENT RATES:
One Room, with bath..........$2.50 per day
Parlor, Bedroom, with bath, $3 and $5 per day
Parlor, 2 Bedrooms, with bath, $5 and $7 per day
Every improvement known to modern ingenuity.
Write for our magazine, "The Hotel Belleclaire World."
MILTON ROBLEE, Proprietor.

HOTEL TOURAINE

Delaware Ave. & Johnson Park
BUFFALO, N. Y.

A modern, high-class and convenient stopping place, offering every accommodation for the comfort and pleasure of transient guests. Moderate prices.

Harry C. Griswold, Proprietor.

NEW YORK CENTRAL
& Hudson River R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST

		Daily except Sunday
Lv. Belleville (G. T. R		1.59 a.m.	noon
Arr. Kingston	"	3.25 a.m.	1.25 p.m
Lv. Kingston (steamer)		5.00 a.m.	2.00 p.m
Arr. Cape Vincent (str.)		7.00 a.m.	4.00 p.m
Mondays only
Lv. Cape Vincent N.Y.C.		7.15 a.m.	4.50 p.m
Arr. Watertown	"	8.10 a.m.	5.50 p.m.
Arr. Oswego	"	11.59 a.m.	9.12 p.m
Arr Syracuse	"	12.13 p.m.	9.33 p.m
Arr. Rochester	"	2.28 p.m.	....
Arr. Utica	"	12.26 a.m.	9.00 p.m.
Arr New York	"	5.48 p.m.	7.12 a.m

Convenient train service in opposite direction
Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

• • •

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10, while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C.R.R. of New Jersey, cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from H. S. Folger, N.Y.C. agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
General Pass'r Agent,
New York.
A. H. SMITH, General Manager,
New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

BRUSHES

The high standard of Boeckh goods has led to imitations which are claimed to be "as good as Boeckh's." While this is an assurance of the excellence of Boeckh's Brushes, the imitations are usually very inferior and prove poor value. See that you get

Boeckh's

Business Directory.

MUSICAL

W. H. SPOONER,

Associate of Trinity College, London, Eng. Organist of St. Thomas' Church, receives pupils for Pianoforte, Organ, Vocal and all branches of Theoretical Music. Apply at studio, Coleman St., or by letter, P. O. 932.
56-6md

MEDICAL.

McLEAN CAVERLY, M. D., C. M., M. C. P. S. O.

Office, at residence, No 90 West Bridge street. Office hours 8 to 10 a.m.; 1 to 2, and 7 to 8 p.m. No regular office hours on Sundays. Telephone 325.

JONH J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.C. O. S., England.

Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. WILSON,
J. M. Wilson. D. D. Wilson,
Located in Dr. Lockridge's old office, opposite Wallbridge and Clarke's, Bridge street, Belleville, jy13-d & wly

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT,

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, &c., Belleville.
Office—9 Campbell Street.
Malcolm Wright, J. Franklin Wills.
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B.C.L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for City of Belleville.
Office—City Hall.

PORTER & CARNEW,

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices—Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 67.
E. Guss Porter. Wm. Carnew.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,

Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office Bridge St., Belleville.
Money to Loan.—Private Funds at lowest rates. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario, and for the Merchants Bank of Canada.

NORTHRUP & ROBERTS,

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public.
Offices—North Bridge St., opposite Post Office, Belleville, Ont.
Solicitors for Bank of Montreal.
Money to loan at 5 per cent.
W. B. Northrup, K. C., M. P.
jy27-d&wtf A. A. ROBERTS.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
(Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q. C.)

Barrister, Solicitor Conveyancer, etc Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent. on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire, Life, Accident and Plate Glass
INSURANCE AGENCIES.
The Guardian
Ins. Co. of North America,
Quebec and Metropolitan Fire Co's.
Insures farm and city property at lowest rates.
Canadian Railway Accident Ins. Co.
Office Campbell St., Belleville, Ont.
R. W. ADAMS.

THOMAS STEWART,
INSURANCE AND REAL ESTATE.

Agent Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society, Scottish Union & National Insurance Co., North British & Mercantile Insurance Co., London & Lancaster Insurance Co., Dominion of Canada Guarantee & Accident Co., Equitable Life of New York, New York Plate Glass Insurance Co.
Bridge St., Belleville.

Fire, Life and Plate Glass Insurance.

Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual of Waterloo, Ont.
Lloyd's Plate Glass.
Home Life Association, Toronto.
North British Mercantile.

Farm and City Property insured in first-class, reliable companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation and transact general Real Estate business, and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan.

W. P. HUDSON, office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle St., opposite Post Office and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.
'Phone 163.

Money Saved is Money Earned.

I can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co.
The Merchants' Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at a lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON.
Office—Bridge St.

THE FOUNDERED GALLEON.

BY

WEATHERBY CHESNEY,
AND ALICK MUNRO.

COPYRIGHT, 1899, BY THE AUTHORS.

the old man drew a picture. It was a luscious tale of sensual delights and the speaker used the most lurid pigments in painting it. The old scoundrel knew his audience, and he depicted a black man's earthly paradise.

"No more turtle turning," he told them; "no more work, unlimited grub and unlimited rum. The days to be spent in basking in a grass hammock under a tropical sun, the nights"— And so he went on until all the waverers of his audience were won over and even the hot eyed captain himself allowed a faint smile of longing anticipation to flicker over his skull-like face. And as he listened to the old villain's eloquence Guthrie realized that the men would have been bigger saints than they looked if they had been able to resist it.

After the pith of the cabin council was over the young man slid down from his perch and reported to Henrietta in a low tone all that he had heard.

"Did they say when they mean to make the attempt?" asked Mrs. Jelly.

"Tomorrow night."

"Oh, they do, do they? I somehow don't seem to think that they will, sir."

"What do you mean?" asked Guthrie eagerly. "Have you a plan?"

"No; can't say that I have. But we'll find one I dessay."

"If we don't," cried the young man, "I don't see what's to stop them from working their will on the Eureka! They know we don't set an anchor watch."

Mrs. Jelly chuckled. "They know that, do they?" said she. "Well, it strikes me that that may turn out a fortunate bit of knowledge for them as is aboard the ketch just now. You don't see how? Now, look here, sir. Dr. Tring ain't no sort of fool, be he! Well, and didn't you hear what he said when we showed him that blood marked oar on the beach a dozen or so of hours ago? No fear; there'll be an anchor watch set aboard the Eureka tonight right enough and every other night, too, till she sails clean away from these murdering islands. Now, the schooner's folk expect to catch the doctor and the cap'n napping, but I'm thinking they'll get a bit of a surprise when they try."

"Maybe, but I don't see that that mends the matter," objected Guthrie; "in fact, it makes the case worse if anything. If there is resistance, there will be bloodshed. There are no firearms on board the Eureka, and every one of these cutthroat niggers is armed to the teeth. Besides, now that that hoary headed old mulatto has worked them up to the proper pitch, they won't be in the mood to stick at trifles. The gaunt captain tries to restrain them now, but if his blood was up in a fight I wouldn't trust even him very far."

"Well, sir, we must do something ourselves to keep 'em busy," said Mrs. Jelly decidedly. "The trouble is I can't think of anything. Can you?"

"If we had powder, we might blow a hole in the schooner."

"But we haven't got the powder nor nothing else either, barring live turtles, and I don't see that we could make much of an explosion with them. Think of something else, sir."

Guthrie kept silence for a moment pondering, but no plan would come to him. The quiet of the hold was broken by the loud breathing of Cain Laversha, who was lying on his back among the turtles snoring like a steam force pump, and under the circumstances the undergraduate found those healthy snores wildly irritating. They were aggressive, insistent. He could fix his mind on nothing else but them.

"Give that clod a kick and wake him!" he cried irritably.

The farmer was roused and stretched himself noisily.

"Perhaps Cain might give us an idea," suggested Mrs. Jelly, though without much hope in her tone.

Free Treatment for Sick Kidneys

WRITE FOR GIN PILLS.

If your have suffered for years with kidney trouble—if you know your kidneys are sick, but have not been able to find anything that will help you—or if you suspect that you have kidney disease, write for a sample of GIN PILLS, the pills that cure. We don't ask you to spend a single penny, or promise to spend any. Simply take the box of pills which we send you free of charge. We leave it to you whether or not you will take any more after the sample box is gone.

RAT PORTAGE, October, 1905

I was troubled for about two years with kidney trouble, so common among railway men. I doctored in the regular way and took a great deal of medicine, but received no benefit. My fireman recommended Gin Pills, and I am pleased to state that after taking the first box I got relief, and while I am not taking them regularly, if I feel any indications of a return of the trouble, a few doses puts me all right again.

CHAS. SIMMONS, C.P.R. Engineer.

This letter is the experience of hundreds. They try doctors and drugs without relief, but they find the cure for their trouble in GIN PILLS. Take advantage of our generous offer. Mention in what paper you saw this, with your name and address, and we will send you, absolutely free of charge, a sample box of GIN PILLS. They are sold by all druggists at 50c a box, or 6 boxes for $2.50.

THE BOLE DRUG CO. • WINNIPEG, Man.

"Try him," said Guthrie.

Henrietta began in a low voice to give the farmer an account of the situation, but his ears seemed at the moment to be preternaturally dull and he constantly interrupted her with a hoarse, whispered "What?" that boomed through the hold like a rain squall. The woman cut her tale as short as she could.

"Now, Cain, what are we to do?" asked Guthrie when she had finished.

The farmer shook his head slowly from side to side, yawned heavily, but did not answer.

"Think, man!" exclaimed the undergraduate testily.

"I can't, zur," said the man in such a whisper that the turtles began to rustle afresh at the sound of it.

Then Mrs. Jelly took him in hand and tried him with Zusan Pierce. She reminded him that Zusan would take it badly if he never returned to her and none of the Santa Catarina's treasure fell to her share, and then, with the cunning of one who knew, she drew a vivid picture of the lady's sharp tongued wrath. There was an inconsistency in this somewhere, but that he would not be there to feel his sweetheart's wrath did not seem to occur to the farmer. He roused himself from his habitual lethargy and shook his big head pitifully to the tune of, "That 'u'd be tarrible, 'Enrietta, tarrible!"

"It would; you're right," said the undergraduate, stifling his inclination to laugh. "Just think of it! Your throat cut, and Zusan's purse unreplenished and her marriage finger still unhooped! Now come, Cain; pull yourself together and tell us a way out of the difficulty!"

"I reckon, zur," said the farmer with awful deliberation, "us ought to cloimb up atop of the zeilin first."

CHAPTER XXI.

ON DECK.

By "cloimbin up atop of the zeilin" Mr. Laversha implied that they should commence operations by getting out on deck—an excellent piece of advice, no doubt; half the battle, in fact, if only they could do it. But, with a view to doing just that thing, Guthrie had examined and tested the grating over the hatch half a dozen times already and had satisfied himself of nothing but the unbreakable strength of their jail. The farmer's suggestion, therefore, did not rouse the enthusiasm which he seemed to look for.

"Doan't you think that there be a good plan, zur?" asked the plotter proudly, fumbling for Guthrie's arm and imprisoning it in his huge paw.

"Beautiful!" replied the young man; "if there was any way of doing it."

"Oh, as to that," said the farmer, with an unconscious tightening of his grip, "let me zee what I can do. I once lifted the trapdoor of our straw loft wi' a truss of hay zettin on the top of un." Then he started a ponderous chuckle, which seemed to pass through his huge frame and up Guthrie's arm in slow, heavy jerks.

"You're amused!" said the undergraduate testily. "What's the joke now?"

"Abel, he tried that there trapdoor, and he couldn't shift un an inch. Tarrible hard man, my brother Abel be, zur, but not zo strong as I!"

Guthrie shook off the farmer's hand with an angry gesture. "Confound your reminiscences!" he exclaimed. "Bring them out at another time if you like, but heave that grating off the trapdoor first, if you think you can manage it."

Cain rose clumsily to his feet and stood still for a minute irresolutely. "I hope," he said slowly, "you doan' take what I said about Abel in bad part. I meant no offense, zur."

Furious though he was at the man's slowness, Guthrie found this appeal altogether too much for his gravity.

"No, you idiot, no!" he laughed. "But you are wasting time, and every moment's precious. That's all; now burtle!"

"Muster Guthrie, I be glad"—

The undergraduate put his shoulder unceremoniously under the apologist's ribs and gave him a heave toward the foot of the ladder.

"Go on," he said, "and talk afterward."

Laversha steered his way with stolid caution among the turtles, reached the iron ladder and put one big hand on a rung. Then he bent his head back and gazed upward for such an unconscionable time that Guthrie felt like kicking him from sheer impatience. But at last he began to ascend, testing every rung before he trusted his weight upon it, and, in the course of what seemed to his two watchers ages, he reached the top—that is to say, his head came up against the grating with what would have been a bump if his speed had allowed of such a thing. Then he detached one hand cautiously and laid it against the obstruction.

He did not appear to use force, but the part of the grating which he touched began to bend slowly upward. But it was evidently too strong to break, for after a minute the strain was taken off.

"It's too much for him!" exclaimed the undergraduate, and the gleam of hope that had been brightening in him fled again.

But Cain was not discouraged by one failure. With slow deliberation he placed both his paws on the becket, inside the combing, and raised his feet another rung to get a stronger purchase.

That put him in a somewhat bunched up position, with his fat neck bent forward and the crown of his skull pressing against the woodwork. He took a big, sighing breath and straightened himself.

"Look! Look!" cried Mrs. Jelly, in a loud whisper of admiration.

A ripple passed along the thighs of the farmer's trousers and up the back of the tight fawn colored overcoat. The grating bent and something splintered. Then he drew back, as if to gather his strength for the supreme effort.

A clumping of booted feet was heard coming along the deck above.

With unfinished deliberation the strong man returned to the charge, and this time the grating gave. Guthrie caught a glimpse of a dim outline approaching along the deck and shouted to the farmer to hurry. One of his massive hands was clapped out on to the combing. The negro saw it, lifted his heavy boot and stamped on it. For all the damage he did he might as well have trodden on a coil of rope. But he brought about a phenomenon which no member of the Eureka's crew had ever witnessed before. He roused the Somerset man's slow temper and made him show what was real activity.

He was out on deck in four seconds and went for his negro assailant, bellowing like an angry bull. He picked the man up, as any one else might have picked up a doll, and flung him like a full corn sack at one of his dusky mates, who was just popping up through the companion to see what all the noise was about.

Something clattered on the deck planks and lay glistening in the moonlight. It was a nickel plated revolver. Mrs. Jelly rushed across and picked it up, while Guthrie slammed to the doors of the companion and swung over the bar which lay ready to fasten them.

Cain was standing beside him, swinging his arms about like flails and bawling a throaty challenge to any one who cared to hear it.

"Stow that bellowing," cried the young man, "and see no one gets out here! I'm going forward."

It had occurred to him that there might be others of the schooner's crew in the fore peak, and as there was no immediate use for them on deck just now he pelted forward and Mrs. Jelly with him. As it turned out, they were just in time. A sleepy fellow had just poked out his head and was gaping with astonishment at what he saw. With the impulse of the moment Henrietta popped the small end of the nickel plated revolver fairly into his open mouth, and the man tumbled back whence he had come, yelling murder at the top of his voice.

He picked the man up as any one else might have picked up a doll.

As no less than three other voices were heard asking, "What the blazes is up?" there was no time for dawdling. Over went the hatch. On went the two hasps over their corresponding staples. And then, to make sure that no hard negro skull repeated the Cain Laversha trick and burst the hatch up from below, they lugged over a heavy kedge anchor on to the top of it and added about a score of fathoms of chain cable which happened to be ranged on deck, till that small entrance way to the depths below was buried under fully half a ton of rusty iron.

As they were in the middle of this handiwork a sharp yell of pain came from astern. Guthrie sang out to ask if Cain wanted any help. The farmer bawled back, deliberately enough, that he was all right; that they were to go on with what they were doing till it was finished, and then to come and see something "cur'ous."

So when the forecastle was secured they went and found Cain sitting squarely on a corner of the after skylight. The other corner of the lid was cockled up and, peering down through the gloom, Guthrie made out something white and round. It was the head of the old mulatto whose eloquence had fired the others and who had proposed that they should leave no living witnesses of their villainy.

"Nipped un like a ratten i' a gin!" quoth Cain, with a chuckle.

The mulatto had been making a dash for the deck through the skylight and had got caught by the sudden sitting down of 20 stone of flesh. That was what the yell of pain had meant.

It was an uncomfortable position, no doubt, but there was no time then for moralizing about the appropriateness of the retribution. Some one was pounding vigorously from within at the folding doors of the companion. The fellows would be out again in another minute if they were not stopped.

"Sharp here, Henrietta! We must take them as they come out!" cried Guthrie.

He looked round for a handspike or something heavy with which to hit the first head that got through the splintered door, but his eye lighted on an object which made him change his mind. It was a huge barrel, with a sawhorse lying beside it and some sawed wood. The barrel was full and not easy to move, but with frantic efforts the two Eurekas managed to get it over on to its bilge and roll it athwart the entrance of the companionway just as one of the panels splintered out completely. Then they got the sawhorse and laid it on its side, chocking the barrel with it so effectually that no force from within could dislodge it.

After this was done they gave themselves a moment's rest to decide what was to be done next, for events had moved so quickly and in such an unexpected course during the last few crowded minutes that there had been no time to form any definite plan of action. Now that the schooner's people were caged there was no immediate hurry, but the interval during which they might hope to keep the negroes out of the action must necessarily be short. The furious assaults which were being made upon their various barricades from the inside told them that. But in the meantime Guthrie thought that something more might be done in the way of retaliation and so cast about for a way of doing it.

Cain Laversha was still sitting complacently on the end of the skylight, holding the old mulatto's head in its trap. He was enjoying the situation thoroughly and looked as though he would be quite happy to sit there till it was time to go away for his next meal. But the unwonted excitement of a few minutes back seemed to be producing a reaction—in fact, the farmer looked decidedly plethoric.

Henrietta went aft to the taffrail. The whaleboat was riding to a slack painter astern. The woman drew her up and passed her along to the gangway.

"We'd best be getting away now, sir, I'm thinking," she said to Guthrie. "It won't be healthy aboard this schooner when the niggers get out."

"Wait a minute," answered the young man. "We haven't finished our job yet. How long do you think it will be before the vermin eat their way out again?"

"Happen an hour—happen less if they use axes. But, asking pardon, sir, is there anything to gain by waiting to see 'em get out? We can be half way to the Eureka in the time, and seeing as how we shall be making use of their only boat they can't follow us."

"That's just it," was the eager reply. "That's just what I'm thinking of! We shall have their boat, of course, and swimming's fortunately out of the question because of sharks. But, don't you see, they'll have the schooner! What's to hinder them from laying her up alongside the Eureka as soon as she puts to sea, or, for that matter, even before she leaves Piper's? Now, that's what I should like to prevent."

"It's a fact," admitted the woman. They'll have the schooner, and ten to one they'll do just what you say, sir, and we can't prevent 'em from doing it either, if they wants to, that I can see. We shall just have to make a fight of it when they come."

"But we can't fight them! We have no firearms and they have, but we can stop them!" cried the undergraduate. "You see that saw? Well, we'll stop them with that! Here, Cain!" he shouted. "Can you keep that white haired old ruffian safe for another half hour?"

"I think I can, zur," returned the farmer confidently. "I'll just zet here quiet, like thikky. I zuppose he'll have to boide too."

"Have you managed to arm yourself with anything?" was the next question.

"No," admitted Cain, "but I'll soon do that, zur."

With a great effort and with the deliberation of a man to whom hurry was a vanity, he straightened out a yellow gaitered leg, dived deep down into a long trousers pocket and produced a clasp knife. He opened it with his teeth and showed a blackened blade some four inches in length. Then he spat copiously into the hollow of his palm, gripped the knife handle and extended his arm with a slow, sawing motion.

"I be dang'rous man to tackle, zur, when I got blood up," said he solemnly.

Guthrie burst into a laugh. The notion of any one being tardy enough to let that knife be stuck into him was funny, but then he remembered the ox-like strength of the fist at the back of it, and came to the conclusion that he pitied the man who fell foul of its blow.

"Come on, Henrietta," said he. "Cain's all right, I fancy. Now I'll show you what a crosscut saw will do!"

CHAPTER XXII.

THE BALANCE OF THE GOLD.

Captain Colepepper was pacing the deck of the Eureka and watching anxiously for the daylight to come. The captain was nervous and irritated and showed it in the unwonted jerkiness of his gait. His crew had certainly been giving him a good deal of trouble lately by their various adventures on Piper's cay, and a kind of superstitious dread of the sinister influences of his piratical ancestor's island headquarters had taken hold of the skipper's mind. The run of ill luck which had dogged the Eureka's people ever since their arrival seemed to him more than the chances of the game warranted.

"Confound that farming lout!" he muttered as he leaned on the bulwark and watched for the signs of the coming morning in the sky. "Ten to one he's got himself into a scrape with his poaching foolishness, and Henrietta and Guthrie with him. Confound Piper and his island too! There seems to be a blight on the place."

A faint brightening in the east showed where the day was coming. The clear parts of the sky took on a thin blush of purple, and the scattered clouds caught fire on the horizon and burned like furnaces on the water line. Then the conflagration of the heavens spread up and up, while the stars still winked down undimmed from the zenith. Then with a rush the light came, and it was day.

Dr. Tring came out from the companion way and took his stand beside the skipper.

"We'd better have the boat out soon," said he, "and go and look for them."

Captain Colepepper nodded and then made an impatient gesture.

"Yes," he grumbled irritably, "and likely as not come to grief ourselves! The spirit of that blackguard ancestor of mine seems to haunt the place like a malevolent genius. There's no other way of accounting for it. I begin to think the whole island is accursed."

Dr. Tring did not answer. His gaze was fixed on a point of the reefs about a mile to the eastward.

"Got your glass with you, Colepepper?" he asked presently.

The captain handed him his binocular, and the doctor, after a minute's close scrutiny of the moving thing in the distance which had attracted his attention, returned the glass to his companion.

"What do you make of it?" he asked.

The captain took a long look. "It's a boat," said he, "with two people in it."

"Yes; Guthrie and Henrietta, aren't they? But I don't see the farmer."

"There's something in the stern," pronounced the captain. "Looks like a man. Yes; he sat up just now. It's that lubber Cain, and he's got a white thing round his head."

"Sure?" asked the doctor in a tone of relief.

"Certain. Wonder what's the matter with him!"

"Tumbled over a pebble and broken his crown, I dare say—the lumbering idiot!"

"But where, in the name of all that's unaccountable, have they got a boat from?"

"Can't say, but I dare say the man with the blood blister may have something to do with it. Colepepper, doesn't it strike you that they may have had a skirmish and that the farmer may have got damaged in a fight with the owners of the boat?"

"By Jupiter, yes!" cried the captain excitedly. "We'll take the jolly and go to meet them. The others may be hurt too. Here, you Spiedernichel, just go and tell my daughter to come and steer us!"

"That's right, Colepepper," commented the doctor, with a sage nod of his head; "thoughtful of you. She has been just as anxious as any of us about the truants. She was out of her bunk an hour ago asking if there was any sign of them. Quite right that she should have a chance of welcoming them."

"I'll give that young man a piece of my mind, though," declared the captain fiercely, "if I find he's been playing the fool again. His talent for getting into scrapes is just a trifle too pretty for my notions of discipline."

But when the tale of the night's work came to be told in the little cabin of the Eureka half an hour afterward the captain forgot all about this intention of his. The three auditors heard Guthrie's account of the conflict with the schooner's negro crew with different feelings, it is true, but the idea of blaming any one of the actors (except perhaps the big farmer, for having been the first cause of the scrape) did not occur to them. And even Cain Laversha was freely pardoned in view of the good work which he had done on board the schooner. Captain Colepepper followed the tale with an appreciation of the telling points of the conflict so keen and sympathetic that there was no room for any thought of blame. Dr. Tring sat with wrinkled brows and bunched up shoulders weighing the chances of peril still to come from the turtle catchers, and Dolly hung on the narrator's every word with an interest which, in its perfect want of self consciousness, forgot how much of her heart it betrayed.

"I wanted to cripple them as effectually as possible," the young man was saying, "and I didn't see that I could do so better than by relieving them of one of their masts."

"You did that?" exclaimed Captain Colepepper admiringly. "How the thunder"—

"Sawed it through a couple of feet above the deck," explained Guthrie. "They'd left a crosscut saw lying about, and that gave me the idea. Henrietta and I did it between us, and it took us the better part of an hour."

"Slackened up the port rigging, tautened the starboard, and then laid into the starboard side of the stick with the saw, I suppose?" cried the eager captain.

"No; the other way round," was the answer, "but it's the same thing, of course. That mast was a piece of the best Memel pine, I may tell you, and I [illegible] shouldn't say the teeth of the saw were good for much when at last it did come down. The heel of it cut the bulwarks to the deck level as it fell."

"Which mast did you tackle?" asked the doctor.

"Foremast."

"H'm! Then I don't see that we're safe from them yet. They can bend a foresail in front of the mainmast and be nearly as good as before."

"Yes," said Guthrie, with a laugh, "I dare say that's what they'll do eventually. But it won't be today or tomorrow or for a good many days to come. You see, after we'd got the mast overboard Henrietta went round with a hatchet and cut every rope and stay that the iron would go through. It'll take them a good week of more honest toil than they're used to before they can set so much as a pocket handkerchief."

"Young man," said Dr. Tring, "you're not half the fool that I've sometimes thought you!"

At this the undergraduate rose and bowed, and Miss Colepepper gave a strange little laugh, which caused the doctor to glance at her sharply and then to exchange a smile and a shrug with the young lady's father. Dolly, becoming suddenly conscious of this telegraphic demonstration, blushed.

The captain took a long look.

"What did you do with Cain's prisoner, the white headed mulatto?" asked Captain Colepepper.

"Shoved him down where he came from and then put the scuttle butt on the top of the skylight to take the place of Cain's 20 stone pressure. Cain wasn't at all keen on letting him go, mind you, and, when I asked him what he wanted to do with him, gravely suggested that there were the police."

"That farmer's a genius!" pronounced the doctor. "How did he get hurt, by the way?"

"I'm afraid that was rather my fault," admitted Guthrie. "After we'd left the schooner it suddenly occurred to me that I'd heard that turtle soup was pretty good feeding and I thought I'd like to taste it. So we rowed back again, and Cain went down into the hold and lugged a big fellow up in his arms and tumbled him into the bottom of the boat. Now this didn't take very long, but it was just long enough to give the niggers time to finish the job they'd been busy at for the last half hour or so. We were about 30 yards off for the second time when the side of the companion burst out bodily, and the mulatto whose head Cain had been looking after was the first to make the deck. He had a pistol and he just blazed away at us. Most of the shots went wide, fortunately, but one of them took the tip off Cain's ear. I don't think it hurt him much, but when he saw the color of his own blood—well, you should have heard his yell! He just rolled down into the bilge and moaned that he was going to die and that Zusan Pierce would never see him no more. Henrietta and I could hardly stick to our oars for laughing, though we weren't by any means out of range of the mulatto's popgun yet. The funny part of the thing is that the man's no coward really; his behavior on the schooner's deck proved that. But that warm, gory trickle down the side of his head seemed to upset him completely."

"He's not the only one of you that has had a lucky escape, in my opinion," said the captain seriously. "Now you go to your bunk, young man, and take your watch below. I guess you want it."

The captain and the doctor went on deck and for some little time paced the planks in earnest conversation. The skipper made no secret of his fear that the schooner's people would find some way of attacking them if they remained much longer at Piper's cay, and his partner agreed with him. If they had not had Dolly on board, they might perhaps have felt inclined to let the negroes make their attack and do their best to give them a warm reception when they came. But without firearms and with the girl to think of there was no disgrace in running away from an encounter if they could do so.

"How much longer will it take to get the ketch into trim?" asked the doctor presently.

"She's most ready now," answered the captain. "If we're not interrupted today, I can heave anchor by noon tomorrow."

"What about the boat?"

"The schooner people's boat, you mean? I don't feel like taking her away. My ancestor of the cay did enough stealing for one family, I take it. We'll knock a hole in her and leave her on the beach here. Then, if they like to bring the schooner round to fetch her, they can. Now I'll go and see about forging ahead with out repairs. I'm getting anxious to be back again at the rifling of the Santa Catarina's money box before we drop into any more scrapes."

"So am I," agreed Dr. Tring. "And, by the way, Colepepper, I don't know exactly how closely you have been watching your crew lately, but I venture to prophesy that when it comes to the dividing of that Spanish gold there are two of our junior partners who will want to have their shares lumped together."

The captain drummed his heel for a minute on the deck planks and then turned sharply to his companion.

"You think so, doctor?" said he. "Well, d'you know, the same notion has occurred to me too! And I don't think," he added slowly, after a short pause, "that I shall say no to it either. Guthrie's a good lad, and I'll admit that I've taken a liking to him."

On the next day the shore fasts which held the Eureka were cast off, and she was towed out into the open lagoon. Then the doctor turned pilot again, and she stood out with a fair wind toward the opening between the reefs. As she passed the other island Tom Jelly pointed out a couple of dark faced, white clad figures watching her progress from a headland. Dolly promptly ran the red ensign up to the peak and dipped it three times in salute.

"Oh, come, I say, young woman, that's rather hard lines, isn't it?" expostulated the pilot.

"Not a bit of it, doctor!" was the indignant answer. "They richly deserve that we should crow over them. Besides, I've no sympathy with pirates!"

"Shade of Nicholas the First, hear your descendant!" cried Dr. Tring as he signed to the skipper to give her another point.

The Eureka ran out through the reefs under easy canvas, not by the way she had come in, but by a shorter and easier channel to the leeward, and then, with a fresh, whole sail breeze filling her sails, made once more for the unbeaconed spot of the ocean where, in the safest of all banks, the balance of the Spanish gold was waiting for them. On the third day out from Piper's cay the captain announced that, according to his observations, she was as near as might be lying dead over the foundered galleon, the old Santa Catarina. The ketch therefore was once more converted into a diving bell and dropped down on to the floor of the ocean.

They did not, however, hit off the precise spot again at the first attempt. In fact, five journeys back and forth to the surface were required before they found even a part of the sea floor which they knew. But on the sixth dip they sank almost directly on to the top of their Golconda, and after that the rest was easy. No one grumbled at the tedium of their work in the bowels of the sea now, for each one knew that the reward was sure, and that knowledge made them find a pleasure even in the turning of that awful crank which in the earlier search for the sunken treasure had been to them such a work of woe.

When once they had located the treasure room again, three journeys were all that were necessary to empty it, and when they pumped their way to the surface for the last time the Eureka carried in her hold and on her decks gold and silver to the value of a million and a half of English money.

The dismantled masts and rigging were set up again, and Captain Colepepper gave the joyful order for the sails to be bent once more for home. The work was nearly finished when a sharp cry of dismay from Henrietta made all hands look up in sudden alarm.

"The pirate schooner!"

A strange looking vessel, a schooner with but one mast, was rapidly coming up before the wind. Captain Colepepper gave one glance at her and then bawled to all hands to hurry for their lives and they'd escape the rascals yet.

But the negroes were bringing a strong breeze up with them, and before the Eureka had time even to slip her sea anchor the schooner had hauled her wind a cable's length away. A boat is the urine. Where there is a constant desire to urinate—when the urine is hot and scalding—it means Bladder Irritation. If the urine is cloudy, highly colored, or offensive—it indicates Kidney Trouble.

(To be continued.)

The Human Barometer

Heed the danger signals. Take

Bu-Ju

THE GENTLE KIDNEY PILL

"Bu-Ju" stimulates and strengthens the weakened, clogged, overworked Kidneys to healthy action—and heals and soothes the irritated bladder. "Bu-Ju" cures. We guarantee it and you can get your money back if "Bu-Ju" disappoints.

All druggists have "Bu-Ju" or will get them for you.

THE CLAFLIN CHEMICAL CO. LIMITED
WINDSOR, ONT.

GILLETT'S

HIGH GRADE

CREAM TARTAR

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

SOLD IN PACKAGES AND CANS.

Same Price as the cheap adulterated kinds.

E. W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
TORONTO, ONT.

Dinner Sets

We have just received 16 Dinner Setts, in Blue, Pink, Peacock and Green, 98 pieces in sett, including large platter, fruit sett, butter-dish, bread and butter plates, etc.; regular price $7.00, we want a speedy clearance of these goods and will give you your choice for $5.00 per sett, of 98 pieces.

Just think of it, only 5c per piece.

• • •

TOWELS AND TOWELLING.

We have just received our spring shipment of these goods.

Drop in and see our Bath Towels @ 7, 12 1-2, 15, 25c; we think they are the best value ever seen in town.

CHAS. N. SULMAN.

By the Shuttle Train

By NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH

Copyright, 1905, by McClure, Phillips & Co.

Varied and multiple as the summer sands are the means which the fates presiding over love affairs employ to bring the one man and the one woman together.

It was the shuttle train that has its terminus at the Fifty-eighth street elevated station, where Sixth avenue ends its devious journey past wholesale warehouses and small shops and department stores, with a brief dip into the gayeties of theaters and dance halls in the frivolous Thirties, and Central park begins its spreading progress through the city's heart, that brought about the determining moment in the lives of Madge Rowan and John Cleverley.

The interference of this particular agent was the more remarkable because the lives of the two persons most concerned with it had till a few months before been lived more than 2,000 miles away.

It was in February that the pretty daughter of the most prosperous physician in a thriving Colorado town had bidden a tearful farewell to the fond father and mother who had at last acquiesced in her desire to go east to develop her artistic talent.

The talent found its chief expression in fluffy impossibilities masquerading as Easter chickens and other seasonable novelties, with which she decorated menu cards, to the infinite admiration of her many friends.

Her art, therefore, had brought her to New York. And it was art, likewise hers, that had brought John Cleverley. For, though the two had been boy and girl sweethearts together, the sudden development of Miss Rowan's artistic genius had apparently absorbed all her sentimental impulses, and before leaving Colorado she had told Cleverley that she could never marry him.

She had not been a month in town before the young man made his appearance at her Fifty-eighth street studio with a more or less plausible story of having been sent east by his firm to look up an important case.

Art had languished during that first month, when visits to unsympathetic dealers had convinced Miss Rowan of the dearth of the demand for dinner cards, and the cordiality of the auburn haired, paint bespattered vision that greeted Cleverley when he climbed the five flights to her studio augured well for his hope of taking her back with him to Colorado. But the day after his arrival she had actually succeeded in selling a dozen menu cards, and again Cupid drooped his diminished head under Art's overshadowing wing.

So furiously did Miss Rowan apply herself to her profession under the impetus that it was only after much persuasion that she consented to spend an afternoon at the beach the Saturday after Cleverley's arrival.

"You know, Jack," she had said, "you haven't the responsibilities that I have. It is natural for you to want to go about and see things, but I've just started a new pond lily menu series, and I must have it finished tomorrow night. And the studio must be cleaned tomorrow afternoon anyway."

But as Cleverley looked unconvinced and rueful she added contritely: "Well, I'll go this once. But don't you come here, for everything will be in such a mess. I'll meet you at the Fifty-eighth street elevated station at 3 o'clock."

And to this arrangement, after some argument, Cleverley was forced to acquiesce.

On Saturday the fact that she knew she would have to refuse Jack Cleverley for the last time lent a pleasing melancholy to Miss Rowan's preparations for the afternoon. As a concession to Cleverley she determined to wear the rather barbaric necklace of topazes and Cripple Creek gold which had been his last birthday offering to her, and she therefore sought it in the little jewel box, which had not been taken from its place of concealment in the bottom of her trunk since her arrival in New York.

Her surprise when she discovered, after a search that was at first perfunctory, then earnest and finally frantic, that it and, indeed, all her jewels were gone was a splendid testimonial to her belief in her adopted city.

But fact, relentless, immutable, must ever triumph over illusion, and in fifteen minutes Miss Rowan had realized that all the pretty little trinkets she had collected since infancy had indeed been stolen. In the face of such unforeseen disaster she stood alone, inexperienced, in a strange city. And for a young woman in the full enjoyment of an independent career her first thought was a singularly impracticable one—she must tell John Cleverley all about it, and he would get them back!

But first she would summon the landlady, the stout person inhabiting unpenetrated depths below, who called so regularly to collect the rent, and declare her loss. There was a theory that this mysterious person might be reached by bell and speaking tube. But ten minutes of frenzied blowing and ringing sent Miss Rowan plunging down the five flights to the basement for more tangible consolation than the mocking silence which answered her afforded.

Now, Miss Rowan's landlady—whose landlady does not?—played the races. And she generally lost. When Miss Rowan confronted her with the tale of her stolen jewelry she had lost very heavily on the first race.

As a result in the next five minutes Miss Rowan learned what she had never doubted, that Mrs. O'Brien kept a "respectable house," that her colored maid, engaged the day before without references, was the "most honest and God fearing woman she had ever known" and a "perfect lady," that no jewels had been stolen, that investigation would doubtless show that if they had really disappeared Miss Rowan herself had "pawned" them, and that if she dared cast such an aspersion upon an honest widow trying to make a respectable living all the reporters in New York would be called in and she would rue the day that she and her worthless truck ever came out of Colorado.

Under this onslaught, which she was not experienced enough to trace to its bibulous origin, poor little Miss Rowan blanched, wilted and finally rushed from the house. And it was only after she had walked several bewildered blocks that she awoke to the realization of her appointment with John Cleverley at 3 o'clock. A glance at her watch told her that it was already ten minutes after the hour, and she hastened her steps, more with the idea of at once unburdening herself of her troubles than with an attempt at punctuality. As she turned up Sixth avenue she was surprised to notice a dense crowd gathered at the terminus of the elevated structure. But, following their uplifted gaze, her pulses halted tensely at the sight that met her eyes. Slanted toboggan fashion from the terminus of the Fifty-eighth street track the wreck of what had been the rear car of the shuttle train topped perilously in midair, prevented from plunging into the thoroughfare below by the weight of the other cars that still held it to the track.

The wreck of the large frame bumper at the end of the line lay strewn along the trolley tracks below, and under the suspended peril 500 yelling, excited people surged and clamored. For one moment Miss Rowan did not grasp the significance of the scene.

But the next, the hour, the possible significance of the event to her smote her with sudden alarm. What if John Cleverley had been on board that train? No thought of any other victim of the wreck marred the pure selfishness of the sudden fierce awakening of love in her heart. With blanched face and wide, excited eyes she rushed into the crowd.

"What is the matter? When did it happen?" she gasped at the first curious onlooker that barred her progress.

"Train jumped the track. Shot past the station. Broke over the bumper. Fifty people injured. Roosevelt hospital," he explained, with terse importance.

"What time?"

"Oh, around five minutes to 3 o'clock."

And thus was the last doubt in the young woman's excited mind dispelled.

The image of Cleverley injured, bleeding—dead, perhaps—rose suddenly and was as suddenly blurred by the quick blinding rush of tears. Scarcely knowing what she did, she jumped into a hansom and gave a brief direction to Roosevelt hospital.

Then, leaning back against the cushions, wholly oblivious of the frankly staring pedestrians on the avenue, all the newly awakened emotions of her nature found their outlet in passionate sobbing. What happened in the next hour, thronged with visits to hospitals and police stations, with frantic telephone calls to Cleverley's hotel and to his address in a downtown office, Miss Rowan does not remember to this day, for at the end of the search, when she thought that only the morgue lay unexplored and she plunged despairing up the five long flights that led to her studio, it was all blotted out by one luminous incident—the opening of the studio door by Cleverley himself.

Even Cleverley admits that what she said then doesn't matter. It is doubtful if she knows, but he had never explained anything to Madge Rowan, with her two arms about his neck and her cheek warm and wet against his own, before, and his remembrance is naturally blurred.

"Why, of course I was on that train," he explained, "but I got off at Fifty-eighth street station with all the other passengers. It was only in switching for the downtown trip that the rear car backed against the bumper and the rotten wood gave way and toppled the car over. Some of the train hands were hurt, but—why, you dear little girl, you poor little girl—don't!" For Madge was sobbing passionate relief upon his shoulder.

Then quietly, when he had calmed her, she told him the story of the afternoon, beginning with the lost necklace and ending with her wild ride in search of him, and at the end she said shyly, humbly:

"You didn't know I was such a little fool, did you?"

And Cleverley, bending over her, kissed the warm tears from her drooping lashes.

"I always hoped you were," he murmured.

Olden Time Couriers.

Carrying messages in olden times called for much ingenuity. "Nothing in the world," wrote Herodotus, "is borne so swiftly as messages by the Persian couriers." They had over a hundred stations, each a day's journey from the other, and a regular service of riders carried messages to and fro at the rate of from sixty to a hundred miles a day. They had their "through couriers," too, for in the case of a specially confidential message the text was tattooed upon the shaven head of a man, whose hair was allowed to grow before he began his journey, so that his letter might be concealed until he reached his goal, where, of course, he would be reshaved.

An Ounce of Prevention

By SUSIE BOUCHELLE WIGHT

Copyright, 1905, by G. T. Vlakniakkio

"Now, Tom, dear," said little Mrs. Ellis, handing him a cup of coffee, "I have something serious to say to you."

"Yes?" Mr. Ellis' tone was notably absentminded. He was looking at the alluring curve of her soft white arm. She had the cunningest way of giving her big sleeves a twitch to keep them out of the way as she passed anything at table, and this morning the sleeve was a great silken one embroidered with Japanese iris. However, for her own good her husband had not told her all her attractions for him. Not knowing his train of thought, she observed only the preoccupation in his tone. This confirmed her in the wisdom of her determination, but it also gave her a queer little disposition to let down the corners of her mouth.

"Well, it is only this, Tom," she proceeded, her eyes studiously avoiding his. Preoccupation in his tone was bad enough; to recognize it in his eyes would be intolerable. "You see, we have been staying so closely together since the wedding, now three whole months. Aren't you just a little afraid we are overdoing the devoted? When I see so many married couples who are just as happy away from each other, or more so, I dread the time"— Her lip quivered, but this time Mr. Ellis was giving his attention to the smooth whiteness of her neck. He did not answer, and in a moment she went on in a steadier voice, "You remember the 'ounce of prevention,' dear?"

"Worth a pound of patent medicine, isn't it?" he replied frivolously, and when she proceeded gravely her voice had shaded down to actual wistfulness.

"For fear, Tom, that our happiness should lose some of its tone in such constant association as ours I have been thinking that maybe it would be better not to see each other quite so often. I couldn't bear to see that you were growing tired of me"—

"Her infinite variety," he began to quote, but she interrupted him with a lift of the kimono clad arm that set his thoughts adrift again. "We must consider the subject seriously, dear," she said softly and plaintively. "Suppose we plan deliberately to keep new to each other by taking some of our pleasures away from each other."

"Goodness, Betty!" he exclaimed. "I thought we were married in order to enjoy ourselves together."

"We did, but see how people get after a few years! The Thomases, now, for instance—how different they are! And yet I am old enough to remember that they were perfectly selfish together at first. There are the Ripleys too. They are congenial and apparently the best of friends, but Mrs. Ripley doesn't seem to mind at all that her husband spends the greater part of his time away from her. It is only that I dread such a phase in our life."

He looked at her in surprise. Who would have thought her capable of such serious consideration of a life problem—this pretty creature of sunshine and smiles? Just then a thought popped into his mind. Suppose she were already getting tired—just a little bored with him! It would be like her to contrive some tactful way of telling him. And then Betty had been a belle; there had been a score of fellows dancing attendance upon her, even up to the very day of the wedding. Perhaps she was feeling dull, and no wonder, with such a poor stick as he as her only companion, even if she did love him as she professed. He pondered a few moments, making a great sacrifice, while trivially engaged in sipping his fragrant breakfast coffee. When he spoke his tone was cheerful.

"Well, Betty darling," he remarked, "that had not occurred to me until you spoke, but you are right. There is danger of overdoing the devoted, and we mustn't get tired of each other—we just must not! I have not been to the club—not since the wedding. I will go there to dinner this evening, and you must accept one of your numerous invitations. You have Dolly to go with you, and I will send a carriage to be at your disposal for the evening."

"Yes," acquiesced Betty in a small voice, keeping her eyes upon her plate. She had not expected her ideas to be adopted with so little protest, and it was not cheering to find herself so correct in her forethought.

He looked at her sharply for a moment, then came over to her side of the table and kissed her goodby most affectionately. She longed to tell him that it would seem like a month for him to be gone until late that evening before she should see him again, but no—if he was already feeling the pull of the silken chain that bound them together she must not let him know that she was aware of it. She sprang merrily up, went with him to the door, chattering about this and that, as though her every thought was not of the evening that was going to be so lonely without him. When he turned back at the corner for a last look the wave of her small hand was positively hilarious.

The day crept by. At first her impulse was to remain quietly at home for the evening, but he was going to the club, and she must not be behind him in carrying out the plan.

She accepted Mrs. Ripley's invitation to hear Nordica with her. In the afternoon she dressed and went to a tea, wasted some hours over a visit to her dressmaker and when evening finally came she arrayed herself for the sacrifice. It was no fun at all to fluff out her golden hair when there was no one there but Dolly to remark upon the effect, and then Dolly was painfully matter of fact. She would wear the violet silk with the yellow lace cascades, even if there was nobody there to tell her it was the prettiest dress that ever a pretty woman wore. It was a sort of solemn satisfaction to be making herself lovely without the encouragement of an admirer sitting over in that big chair, his knee over the arm and a cigar in his mouth, but at the mental picture she smothered an irrelevant sob. Dolly looked at her acutely.

"I—believe I am about to take cold," faltered the little mistress mendaciously. "My—my throat feels so queer."

When she entered the box and threw her great white cloak in a luxurious heap in the chair behind her, Mrs. Ripley glanced over her with a look of decided approval.

"You were never prettier, Betty," she whispered, "and then it is so sensible of you not to be foolish about having Tom Ellis dangling after you everywhere you go."

"That is what we agreed only this morning," said Betty in a burst of confidence, and then she grew suddenly silent.

Her eyes, sweeping the crowded house, had fallen upon Tom Ellis in a group of men down near the footlights. As the moments went on she began to feel aggrieved that he did not even glance toward the Ripley box, although he surely had known of the invitation. She was glad when the music began, because her throat still had that queer feeling, and her lips wanted to tremble. Nordica's superb presence and her singing failed for the first time to absorb Betty's attention. She would not look again at that group down near the stage, but she could not keep from seeing them in her mind's eye. She was glad there were others in the box who felt like talking. She did not want Mrs. Ripley to regard her too closely after the drop of the curtain. The hum of conversation began in a moment, and she half turned toward those near her, seeming to listen, although she heard not a word. Still she would not look below her.

"Boo!" came a frivolous exclamation at her shoulder, and she started violently. The rich blood surged into her face. She did not need to see whose hand was resting on her arm.

"Why, Betty Ellis," cried one gay voice, "you don't mean to tell me you are actually blushing over Tom, you ancient married woman, you! The blushes are for the buds."

"Then they are for Betty," said Tom gallantly. "What rosebud ever looked sweeter than she does this minute?"

"Tom!" she remonstrated, and he laughed and sat down beside her.

When the others were absorbed in themselves again he whispered to her: "Forgive me, Betty, if I bored you by coming. I just couldn't help it. I had forgotten all about the Ripley invitation until I saw you in the box. I came along just to be doing something."

"Don't," she begged, and the eyes that were lifted to his were full of tears. He covered her hand a moment with his and waited; then, when she had slyly wiped the moisture from her lids and had swallowed that troublesome lump, she whispered: "I was just mistaken after all. I don't believe in preventive measures like this. We are not tired yet. Let's just wait until we are."

"Done, Betty!" he agreed rapturously. "You are so sensible!"

"Sensible!" interrupted Mrs. Ripley, turning quickly at the word, which had drifted to her ears. "Isn't she so, Tom? I was just telling her a little while ago that she was most remarkably so."

The two accepted the unmerited praise unblushingly and looked at each other with a happy laugh.

Stories From Java.

In Java the European "resident" of a government station is a very important personage, to whom great homage is rendered by the natives. A story is told of one resident who was thrown out of his dogcart while descending a hill. He had barely recovered from the stunning fall when he caught sight of his secretary—who had been following in his own carriage—coming bounding down the steep road like a big India rubber ball, rolling over and over in the dust. "Hello, have you been upset too?" asked the resident. "No, resident," sputtered the fat little secretary, scrambling to his feet again, "but I thought if the resident leaps I leap too."

During a cholera scare another resident invited a widow to remove to a high hill as a precaution against the disease. She, however, said that she thought her time to die had come, and as her husband had been a person of importance in his lifetime she asked only for the inestimable privilege of having her grave dug next to the resident's own.—Chicago News.

The Cunning Girl.

Once upon a time there was a cunning little girl who had three strings to her bow or three beaux to her—but you may state it as you please—and she treated them so shrewdly that each one thought he was the own and only. She was a very cunning little girl, was she not? Yes, but after a time each one of the three began to nurture a dark suspicion that he was being played with, and so they went away and began to go with Susan Boggs and Mary Jones and other girls, and now the cunning little girl is an old, old maid, who feels very sorry that she was so cunning, and this is all there is to the story except the—

Moral.—Cunning little girls who play with the fire too long may find in the end that they have less flames than they had when the fire was brightest.—San Francisco Call.

A Dancing Girl

By Martha McCulloch-Williams

Copyright, 1905, by P. C. Eastment

"I wish"— Miranda said, then stopped, sighing. She was so little used to having her wishes come true.

Miranda loved color and light and music. Somewhere in her pedigree there must have been a strain of tropic blood, else how account for her desires any more than for her silky black hair, her liquid black eyes, her fine olive skin touched with scarlet? Her dancing as well was wholly untaught, untimed save by the sweep of the wind, the lulling patter of raindrops on the cottage roof. She danced only when she thought herself alone. Her grandfather, the minister, thought dancing of any sort a deadly sin.

He had a heart kind and true, this bent, white haired old gentleman, and truly loved his one grandchild. It was his creed, not himself, which forced him to deny her the things her youth craved. He did not understand her any more than he had understood his wife, her grandmother, who had died, leaving behind a baby girl that grew up the feminine counterpart of its father.

It was a queer, a piteous jest of fate that gave her, a woman born for the missionary cause, such a piece of quicksilver as Miranda for a daughter. How the girl came by the quicksilver except through the grandmother was a puzzle of heredity. Her father was a missionary, meek in all things except regarding his chosen work. There he had a lion's heart, a Spartan's endurance. Thus Miranda had been left behind when her parents went to the far east. That was ten years back—so long ago they were little more to her now than memories.

Miranda picked up her mother's latest letter. The paper was thin, the writing fine and crabbed, but she was able to read an account of the dancing girls in one of the heathen temples. After the third reading she shut her eyes. Her mother had dwelt feelingly upon the horror, the impiety of it all, but somehow there had crept between the lines enough of the east to bewitch the reader. She seemed to see it all—the crowd, the lights, the wreaths of smoking incense, the figures swaying in time and tune. And as she thus saw mentally there came to her a longing not to be resisted to dance, dance, dance, the night away.

It was evening. Her grandfather was away at a special service in his mission chapel. She had been left behind to finish some slight household tasks. Half a mile down the street the Brixton fancy ball was in full blast. She had a card to it—one she had not dared to display. Now, insanely, she made up her mind to go—notwithstanding her formal regrets. She would not go as Miranda Acton—rather as a dancing girl from a world unknown.

Her mother had sent home a complete outfit to be sold at the Twelfth Night St. Barnabas fair. With shaking hands she huddled herself into it, then looked at herself in the glass. The effect startled her, but it convinced her there must be further disguise. She caught up her water colors, gave herself a dusky complexion, carmine cheeks and heavy black lashes. She stained her arms, her ankles, her bare throat.

By the time it was done the clock was striking 10. In half an hour her grandfather would be home. For a minute she hesitated, then, almost before she knew it, she had goloshes over her sandals, and, well wrapped in her long mackintosh, was out in the street.

Presently she found herself in the Brixtons' library. She had crushed through a great multitude of figures nearly as much out of the common as her own. She remembered, too, having dropped a frightened courtesy to stately Mme. Brixton, who had stared at her, then smiled a kindly welcome, and let her slip away in the crowd.

The band was playing. In the room beyond all sorts and conditions of folks whirled madly about. Miranda glanced at them and shrank back. They were dancing two and two—she could only dance alone—and dance she must. The stealing music said so beyond peradventure. The library was empty. Half unconsciously she began to foot it over the polished floor, weaving back and forth, bending, swaying, balancing upon one foot, arms up, arms down or extended as though in entreaty.

On, on, on, she bent and swayed, now stamping one tiny foot, now pirouetting with untaught grace, unconscious that two pairs of eyes watched her from the ambush of heavy curtains swung across a deep window seat. They were masculine eyes—Tom Brixton and his city friend, just back from globe trotting, had found harbor there. They gazed spellbound at Miranda, then breathlessly at each other.

"It is a miracle," Tom whispered at last, "one that shows how blood will tell. I know our dancer. She's old Parson Carter's granddaughter, the prettiest girl in the county. Let's go out and take possession of her. We understand, but if the others saw—my! There would be a kettle of fish!"

"Be still! It is sacrilege to think of stopping her," Landon, the city friend, said, breathing hard, "and it would be worse sacrilege to let her stay here. Can't you see her, dancing on a floor of men's hearts?"

Tom broke from his hold with a little uneasy laugh.

At the sound Miranda stopped, panic stricken, blushing so deeply her rouge showed pale. "You—you'll help me get away—back home—I—I had to come," she panted.

Tom took her hand kindly and put his arm half about her. Then in through the door came the old minister in his rusty black coat, the picture of stern, yet benignant, amaze until he caught sight of his granddaughter. Then a wave of wrath swept him into speech.

"Miranda, I came to pluck you a brand from the burning—but, oh, you wanton! You have made it certain you will burn for this in everlasting fires."

He swung upon his heel, but turned back, saying dully, "I shall be waiting when you choose to come—home."

Miranda sprang toward him, but Landon restrained her. "You will only make things worse," he said. "Listen! Tom Brixton will vouch for me—that I mean you no harm in what I say. Let me take you away—to the city. It is the place for such as you. Here life will be a burden to you and those around you. There you may be happy and famous and rich."

"Let's get out of this," Brixton said, opening a locked door that led to his father's office and drawing the minister and Landon within it. Miranda followed them, moving like one in a dream. There were low, earnest words, whose import she did not catch, then somehow she was whisked off to the parsonage.

She did not sleep that night. Next morning she was on a train speeding cityward, wondering if she ever should see her native town again.

Miranda must have been born under a specially lucky star, for she was permitted to come back seven years later to the succor of those she had left behind. Her parents had come home, all their strength and use sapped by the cruel east, to rest, they said; to die, said those about them.

Parson Carter was in little better case. New men, methods, measures had crowded him from the place he loved so well. Now, for two years past Miranda's bounty had maintained him. He knew the source of it, although he never mentioned her name. She was no mere dancer, but an actress who had conquered her place in the world. Landon had lived up to his word—he had made her rich and famous, albeit he had been unable to make her love him.

Why, he could not understand. Tom Brixton might possibly have enlightened him. It was Tom who kept Miranda in touch with what went on in the little brown cottage, and when he said simply "Come!" she knew something of what to expect.

But not all. No fancy could paint for her the mother face, wan and full of mother longing, or show the father, thin and bowed, with yet something of soldier fire in his faded eyes. Grandfather Carter was pitifully aged. The good man had lived so sparely he was almost bloodless.

Miranda came in to them, not a creature of silk and lace, but in the same stuff frock she had worn upon her outgoing. As she looked from one to another her heart rose in her throat. Instinctively she ran and caught her mother in her arms, kneeling to lay her head upon the thin breast and sob out, "I am never going away again—if you will let me stay."

"No, she isn't going, whatever you say," Tom interposed. He was a common sense person and knew things were getting too tense. "I've been waiting for her long enough—all of seven years. Now I mean to have her, whether or not it's by your leave."

"Take her, although she is not ours to give. We were the deserters," Mrs. Acton said, while the two ministers laid their clasped hands upon Miranda's head, saying with choked voices, but in a happy key: "Amen! Amen!"

She Didn't Put It Out.

An old lady of his flock once called upon Dr. Gill with a grievance. The doctor's neckbands were too long for her ideas of ministerial humility, and after a long harangue on the sin of pride she intimated that she had brought a pair of scissors with her and would be pleased if her dear pastor would permit her to cut them down to her notions of propriety.

The doctor not only listened patiently, but handed over the offending white bands to be operated upon. When she had cut them to her satisfaction and returned the bibs it was the doctor's turn.

"Now," said he, "you must do me a good turn also."

"Yes, that I will, doctor. What can it be?"

"Well, you have something about you which is a deal too long and which causes me no end of trouble, and I should like to see it shorter."

"Indeed, dear sir, I will not hesitate. What is it? Here are the scissors; use them as you please."

"Come, then," said the sturdy divine, "good sister, put out your tongue."—London Mail.

Out of the Barrel.

A Boston steamship man was a witness of this incident: A liner was unloading at one of the Charlestown docks. A cook's helper, a small and very black negro, was leaning over the rail. A large hogshead of molasses came creaking up on the end of the chain and swung unsteadily to and fro. Finally, with a smash, it struck the rail and broke into bits, molasses flying everywhere. There was a wild cry, and from the wreckage came the negro, soaked from head to foot and entirely unrecognizable. He danced madly about and shouted like nothing human. A little Irishman, in overalls, regarded the apparition for a moment with mouth open awe, and, a light breaking on him, he shouted: "Moike! Fer the love er hivin! Moike! Will yez see phat came out of the barrel uv merlasses!" It took the combined efforts of the superintendent and his assistants to convince Pat that he hadn't discovered a new stowaway method.

LADY TALBOT WINS OUT

Husband Sick, Spoke For Him, Got Increased Majority.

Libs. and Laborites Clash Over Another Conservative Gain In Scotland—Five Out of Ten Russellites, the New Irish Party, Defeated Already—Former Secretary to Mr. Chamberlain Defeated—Standing of Parties.

London, Jan. 26.—(C. A. P.)—A clash between Liberals and Labor has resulted in another Conservative gain in Scotland yesterday. In contrast to the comparative harmony between these parties in England, there has been open strife in Scotland. Two other Conservative gains in the north are attributed to this cause. However, the Liberal sweep continued last night, two more gains appearing in the few returns received. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman now has behind him over half the House. From the sixty seats yet to be heard from he will build up a substantial majority over Conservatives, Labor men and Nationalists.

A Conservative Gain.

The Conservatives scored their gain in the Goven division of Lanarkshire, their majority being 128. Robert Duncan polled 5,229 votes, H. S. Murray, Liberal, 5,096, and J. Hill, Labor, 4,212.

The Liberals scored a notable gain in the neighboring division of Patrick, where J. Barker Smith, an ardent tariff reformer, and former secretary to Mr. Chamberlain, who was elected in 1900 by 2,203, was defeated by Robert Balfour by 1,517. Espousing free trade did not save Sir Hugh Stewart in East Renfrewshire, his last Conservative majority of 1887 being changed to a minority of 95 by Robert Laidlaw, Liberal.

Coningsby R. Disraeli, who attained notoriety during his campaign by using the King's seal in his literature, and who is a nephew of the illustrious statesman of that name, lost the Altringham division of Cheshire, which has been Conservative since 1885. William J. Crossley, the Liberal candidate, was elected by 2,649.

Where Labor Figured.

Labor figured in two other seats in Northeast Lanarkshire. The polls stood: H. A. Findlay, Liberal, 6,436; Hon. Hugh F. Elliott, Conservative, 3,848; J. Robertson, Labor, 4,858. In the Keighley division of Yorkshire, John Brigg, Liberal, polled 5,322; W. M. Ackworth, Conservative, 3,229, and W. T. Newlove, Labor, 3,102.

The Liberals also hold the Harborough division of Leicestershire, Lehmann being elected by 1,998.

Returns have not yet been received from South Tyrone, where the fate of T. W. Russell, the leader of the new Russellite party in Ireland, was decided yesterday. Five out of ten Russellities nominated have already fallen. If the leader is elected, he will be the first. The future of the new party does not seem bright.

Standing of the Parties.

The standing of the parties last night was: Liberals, 342; Labor, 44; Conservatives, 143; Nationalists, 82.

Gains: Liberals, 191; Labor, 34; Conservatives, 11; Nationalists, 1.

A notable victory for the Unionist cause was secured by Lord Talbot in the Chichester division of Sussex. He was ill during the campaign, and his place on the platform was taken by Lady Talbot. His majority of 412 in the bye-election of last year has been increased to 1,174.

Balfour Gets a Seat.

Rt. Hon. J. A. Balfour has accepted an invitation to come forward as Unionist candidate for the City of London, in place of Hon. Allan Gibbs, who resigned in his favor.

The new Foreign Secretary, Sir Edward Grey, is returned for Berwick-on-Tweed, with a majority increased from 785 in 1895 to 2,240. Col. Ivor Herbert, former general commanding the Canadian forces, went in for South Monmouthshire, carrying the seat with a majority of 1,287. The Conservative member, Col. Morgan, was unopposed at last election.

The new House of Commons already contains 13 Jews, with several constituencies to be heard from. This is a larger number than previously recorded.

McMaster On the Causes.

Montreal, Jan. 26.—The following is a cable, in part, received yesterday from Donald McMaster, K.C., defeated candidate for the British Parliament:

"The Liberal sweep is attributed mainly to the false cry of alleged Chinese slavery in the Transvaal, which took deep root in the provinces and was insufficiently appreciated by the Unionists leaders and the London journalists. The same cause operated powerfully in all the Lancashire divisions and the Manchester disaster was the commencement of a landslide that gathered the Irish vote to the Liberal candidates, and the labor vote supported Liberals where no labor candidate was in the field.

"All these forces operated against me in Leigh, which is the banner Radical division of the kingdom, never represented by a Conservative. In addition, I was only three weeks in the field, while my opponent was here as many years. There was no organization and no time to organize properly. Notwithstanding, however, the enthusiasm aroused by the meetings was tremendous. I never saw it equalled in Canada, and though defeated I polled a larger vote than was ever polled by a Conservative.

"The conflict left no scars, and I am delighted with my experience among the Lancashire people."

New State Bill Passed.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—The House passed the statehood bill yesterday by a vote of 194 to 150. The bill as proposed provides that Oklahoma and the Indian Territory shall constitute one state under the name "Oklahoma," and that Arizona and New Mexico shall constitute one state under the name "Arizona."

Drinks Aconite by Mistake.

Fort Francis, Jan. 26.—An Italian laborer named Czovery was poisoned by drinking aconite in mistake here Wednesday evening. He died four hours later.

Overcoats Ordered Out of the House

Here's the first "toot" of our Overcoat Special——

Time's Up and the Coats Must Go

If you want a coat step lively, please.

If you knew we were giving away $5 bills you would come in for your share, wouldn't you? Well, it's just what we are doing, and sometimes we give away even more.

We are closing out our Overcoats.

We won't carry them over.

It certainly isn't good business to do so.

Our Overcoats are cut to the cost and often less.

Now Is the Time to Buy an Overcoat.

Copyright 1905 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

MEN'S SUITS

After the season's rush we find many lines of Men's Suits badly broken. These we are offering at greatly reduced prices.

Quick & Robertson

BELLEVILLE'S FOREMOST CLOTHIERS.

ESTABLISHED 1870.

30 p.c. Reduction

ON ALL

MANUFACTURED FURS

S. A. HYMAN & CO.,

MANUFACTURING FURRIER.

N. B. Highest cash prices paid for Raw Furs.

The Best Yet the Very Best

AND YOU ALWAYS GET GOOD THINGS AT SCANTLEBURY'S.

We have to-day, just this day, prepared a dozen BARGAIN TABLES the choicest BARGAIN TABLES you have yet seen anywhere—

Cost has not been considered. These bargain tables are prepared just to close out everything in china and fancy goods preparatory to our arrangements now under way for our Wall Paper season ahead.

During this week of BARGAIN TABLES we have also classified our pictures into Bargain departments—or wall Bargain Tables — and they are remarkably interesting.

We will add to the above bargains all this week everything in books in the rear store at 25c each — books worth 50c to $1.00 for 25c [illegible]mber.

C. B. Scantlebury.

Designer, Decorator, etc.

Wall Paper this week at 25 per cent. discount.

Happy Enough...

Your family can be happy enough if they have goo health and they can be helped a long way on the road to health if your Plumbing is just right.

We keep up with the times, and our up-to-date skillful Plumbing work is worth a great deal to you.

JOHN LEWIS & CO.

MANY EYES

require the assistance of glasses very early in life. Neglect to provide these frequently results in total or partial blindness.

AS A TEST COSTS NOTHING

why not have the condition of your eyes tested scientifically?

If special glasses are required we can make them at a moderate figure. If ordinary glasses will suit we sell them at very low prices.

ALEX. RAY.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

BUSINESS CARDS at The Intelligencer. Your name and address on 500 $1.00. a19-tf

BARGAIN PRICES IN SHIRTS

For a few days we will offer you a large assortment of $1.00 and $1.25 Shirts for:—

75c

See window display.

Chas. J. Symons

298 Front St. Shirts to Order.

PERSONAL ....AND.... SOCIAL.

Miss Bessie Pearce, of Marmora, is the guest of Mrs. F. P. Thompson, West Bridge St.

Major A. A. and Miss Saely, of Quebec, are in the city, the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Farley.

Mr. Archibald G. Parker has been appointed manager of the Brantford branch of the Bank of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Row, of Sidney, are visiting their daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Caverly of this city for a couple of weeks.

DIED.

LAZIER. — Thomas Appleby Lazier, Senior Judge Co. of Hastings. Born 24 July, 1820, died 25 Jan'y., 1906. Funeral Sunday afternoon. Services at St. Andrew's Church at 2.30.

MARRIED.

REID — FARNHAM. — At the residence of the bride's father, on Wednesday, January 24, 1906, by Rev. Thos. P. Steel, Canifton, Mr. Ephraim L. Reid, of Toronto, to Susan Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Farnham, of Canifton.

A Good Man Gone.

Mr. J. W. Turner passed away this afternoon at his late residence, College Hill. Deceased had been seriously ill for some time and his demise was anticipated. A more extended notice will appear to-morrow.

Spinsters' Convention Was a Huge Success.

ANCIENT AND MODERN LADIES CONTRIBUTED TO THE GAIETY OF A LARGE AUDIENCE IN THE CITY HALL LAST NIGHT — SOME OF THE FEATURES OF A MOST ENTERTAINING AFFAIR.

An unique and altogether charming entertainment was that given in the City Hall last night, in aid of the Hospital. As everybody knows, when the ladies of Belleville undertake anything, they never use half-measures. Everything is done up strictly to His Majesty's taste, and last night was no exception to the rule. When an Intelligencer man entered the Hall shortly before eight their was already a good crowd present, and people were coming in fast. The hall was beautifully decorated. There was a fish pond, which was well patronized; also a fancy goods stall and flower booth. Sweet music was playing at intervals, and "all went merry as a marriage bell." The piece de resistance of the evening's doings, of course, was the Spinsters' Convention. Everybody was on tip-toe with excitement, and when the fair Spinsters, one by one and in couples, came out on the stage they were very warmly received, indeed. The demure Spinsters, dressed in the garb of "ye olden time," with cork-screw ringlets, etc., made a very pretty and unique picture, and caused much merriment among the audience. The members of the "Young Ladies' Single Blessedness Club," as they were called, looked as though they would turn many a man's hair grey prematurely in the sweet by-and-by.

Those who constituted the Club and the characters they represented were as follows:

President, Mrs. Leach, as Josephine G. Green.

Secretary, Mrs. Waters, as Rosella Abigail Hague.

Miss Bawden, Calamity Jane Higgins.

Miss Price—Rachel Rebecca Sharp.

Miss Crothers — Tiny Short.

Miss Stork — Jerusha Matilda Spriggs.

Miss R. Stork — Patience Desire Mann.

Miss Davey—Sophia Stuck Up.

Miss Mackie—Julietta Long.

Miss Spangenberg—Betsy Bobbitts.

Miss MacLean—Charity Long Face.

Miss Berry — Cleopatra Bell Brown.

Miss Sills — Penelope Gertrude Doolittle.

Miss Caldwell—Polly Jane Spratt.

Miss Webster—Violet Ann Nuggles.

Miss Vermilyea—Mehitable Mix.

Miss St. Charles — Cynthia Ann Snivagins.

Miss Price—Eliza Ann Hathaway.

After the delectable company had taken their seats, the President, in a few timely remarks, opened the convention by briefly referring to the object of the club. Its object could, she said, be summed up in one word, and that word was "Man."

The Secretary was called upon to read the minutes of the last meeting, and these were of such a character as to cause much merriment. A detailed account, amounting to $2.25, for a number of boxes of face powder, was resented by some of the members and a motion was both carried and lost that the bill and powders be placed upon the shelf.

After some discussion the minutes as read were confirmed.

Miss Elise Ann Hathaway was called upon to sing the song of greeting and the spinsters joined in the chorus. This number was certainly amusing by the manner in which it was rendered, and especially in the chorus. The voices were most discordant and to the writer it seemed that each person was singing something different from that intended to be rendered.

A paper on "Woman's Rights" was read, and it was a document that set forth most explicitly what woman's rights should be. This paper was debated and finally adopted.

Miss Bawden came forward and sang a solo entitled "A Dream," which was beautifully rendered and heartily received.

Miss M. Stork sang a solo entitled "No One to Love."

Miss M. Vermilyea sang "Where O Where is my Little Dog."

Master Jack Denmark, dressed as a negro, sang a lullaby.

Misses Madeline Shanklin and Myrtle Lazier danced, and recitations by Miss J. Bonisteel and little Miss Gwen Ross closed the programme for the evening.

The pleasing entertainment was brought to a close by the "Remodeller" Mr. W. C. Mikel appeared upon the platform. When the spinsters learned that he was able to transform them into any character they desired he was surrounded and each and every one was anxious to become a character entirely opposite from that which they were assuming. The machine was supposed to be an invention of our townsman, "Yankee" Curtis. The Spinsters were called upon separately and were compelled to give their ages, which ranged from 20 to 62 years, and some of them, by their dress, certainly looked it. Following are some of the transformations which the spinsters desired:

Jerusha Matilda Spriggs, aged 52 years, desired to be made a fairy, and behold a fairy came forth!

Tiny Shorts wished to be made twins, and these were produced.

Rachel Rebecca Sharp wished to be a prima donna and behold one came forth after a few turns of the machine.

Mehitable Mix desired to be an elocutionist, and one came forth and recited.

At the conclusion of the programme refreshments were to be obtained by those who desired.

Mrs. S. S. Lazier was convenor of the committee which got up the very successful affair, and was most untiring in her efforts to make it the success it was. The other ladies of the committee deeply regret that the demise of Judge Lazier made it impossible for the convenor to be present last evening.

The entertainment will be repeated this evening.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

HOCKEY.

Yesterday's Record.

O. H. A. Senior.
Argonauts	14	Marlboros	1
O. H. A. Intermediate.
Berlin	8	Guelph	2
Milton	8	Marlboros	3
*Brockville	8	S. F. Strathcona	1
O. H. A. Junior.
Belleville	6	Cobourg	4
*Kingston	4	R. M. C.	1
*Midland	4	Victoria Harbor	2
Port Hope	4	Picton	3
International League.
*Michigan Soo	6	Houghton	1
Pittsburg	3	Calumet	2

*Played Wednesday.

Belleville Played the Husky Cobourgs Off Their Feet Last Night.

Another good thing went wrong last night (from a Cobourg point of view) when the husky and speedy bunch from up west, who came down here loaded up with all sorts of coin and confidence, got their bumps from the plucky and aggressive local boys. The Cobourgs were touted as being so good that they probably would not lose a game this season, and to tell the truth it looked a few times last night as though they were not going to lose one here, but the local kids, playing with a vim and aggressiveness that would have enthused a dead man, almost, stuck manfully to their checks, checked back like race horses, and in the end played the speedy and skilful visitors to a standstill, winning by 6 to 4 in a game which has not been equalled in interest and excitement for many a long day in this city. It was immense, and if you are a hockey lover and were not there to see it and lose a couple of lungs shouting for the great little home team — well, it's up to you to go out behind the barn and kick yourself. The local boys were in great form. Individually and collectively they put up the game of their lives. If they had only struck that gait early in the season! The O.H.A. junior championship would have come this way, sure. Hats off to the plucky Belleville kids! They showed themselves to be the Real Article last night, and that's no sweet-scented fairy tale. But don't imagine they didn't have their work cut out. That Cobourg aggregation, if anybody asks you, would make any intermediate team in this district shed their coats to beat 'em. They skate and shoot like veterans, as, indeed, most of them are, and have a box of tricks which they work to the limit. How, then, did the Belleville boys beat them. Just, as we remarked before, by sheer aggressiveness and splendid condition. They stuck to their checks like glue, were coming all the time and were always ready to take a chance. Every man on the local team was at his best; they were tuned up to play in the key of G, and would surely have given the Stanley Cuppers a run for it last night, if the latter had been their opponents. There is no exaggeration in saying that the Belleville team last night, though the same players were on it, shaped up fully 50 per cent. stronger than in the game with Picton. It is not necessary to mention any names. Suffice it to say that the defence was immense, and the "flying squadron" worked in a way that made even their warmest admirers open their eyes. And the Cobourgs! Well, the Cobourgs lived right up to their advance notices. There was not a weak spot on their team. They have a grand defence, and their forward line play together like clockwork sometimes. Only the hard work and wonderfully speedy checking back of the Belleville forwards kept them from scoring a whole lot of goals, for quite often they broke away like race horses and went down four abreast, but before they reached shooting distance the "thin red line" would overtake them, skate into their combination and the puck would go back. Referee Waghorne was very strict. He had the local boys going to the fence for offences which looked like trifles, but perhaps, if they had not been nipped in the bud, the trifles might have grown larger. "Wag" gave both sides an even break, but the locals seemed to be most unfortunate in coming under his eye. Many of their offences looked like unintentional trips, but quite a few were penalized for loafing off-side, a hockey crime which some of the Cobourgs had down to a science, and got away with every time because they were wise and did not do it so openly as the locals. There was a large crowd in the rink when the boys faced each other this way:

Cobourg goal.
Flesch.
Moffatt.
Smith
Robertson
Doheny White Mc Nichol
Weller Allen Burke
Spangenberg
Connolly
Pepper
Phillips
Belleville goal

They were off with a rush, and for some little time the play was in Belleville territory. The visitors were playing together and the locals were sticking to them closer than their sweaters. There was a groan from the crowd as "Wag" stopped the trouble and sent Spangenberg to the fence. Other groans came as three other Belleville men followed him inside of five minutes. Cobourg scored the first, after having much the best of the play. The locals had not yet steadied down. Belleville tied the score on a long shot from centre, and the crowd went wild when the third goal also came to us after the home kids had quite held their own in the play. Score 2-1 in our favor. The fourth went to Cobourg, after a dashing piece of play on the part of their cover, and they also got the fifth, though the bulk of the play was in the home team's favor, but the Cobourg defence was doing great work. Half time came with the score 3-2, the visitors having the long end.

When the second half opened the play was even for some time. McNichol, of the Cobourgs, was hurt and had to retire for a time, Burke going off to even up. Fully two-thirds of the second half was played with six men a side, quite often, indeed, with less than that, for on no less than three occasions two Bellevillians were roosting on the fence. It was no pink tea function now. The locals realized that it was now or never, and they were on top of the Cobourgs all the time, while the big crowd stood on tiptoe and "rooted" like wild men. It was surely a terrible night at sea, and the visitors began to look as though they were going to be shipwrecked. "Tie the score," shouted the crowd, and the home team did so. You could hear the cheers up at the station—the police station, to be strictly truthful. Score 3—3. Cobourg got the seventh in a peculiar way. Somebody in the gallery at the southeast corner dropped a stick on the ice and a Belleville player threw it up to him. He had to make two tries. To do so he had to be temporarily out of the play. It only took a few seconds, but that was long enough to let the Cobourgs come out of a scrimmage with the puck. Their line went down four abreast, and the seventh goal went to Cobourg. Score 4—3 in favor of the visitors. There was only about ten minutes to play. McNichol and Burke were back in the game now, and the lads from up west were putting up a desperate fight to hold their lead. Weller came to the fence for two minutes, and things did not look any too rosy. But you never can tell. "Your time's up," said the penalty timer, and Weller dashed into the fray and tore off about the most spectacular stunt of the evening. He got the rubber near his own goal, passed two Cobourg men by boarding the puck, sidestepped the cover point and banged the sphere into the net past the point and goal-tender. The score was tied again. There was a chance yet. Belleville got the next on a long shot of Connolly's, and defeat was staring Cobourg in the face. The locals were surely outplaying them now, and the play was nearly all in the visitors' territory. The tenth goal went to the home team, a low swift shot glancing off the Cobourg goal-tender's pads into the net. Score 6—4 in favor of Belleville. Could the boys hold their advantage? Surely they would if they could stay on the ice. Allen and Phillips, the Belleville goal-tender, were on the fence together, and there was about two minutes to play. But Cobourg could not score. Robertson was taken with cramps. The pace had been too fast for the visitors. Belleville was pressing Cobourg hard when the time-keepers jumped out to the ice amid a scene of wild enthusiasm. The home kids had won by 6 to 4.

Shots on Goal.

Pepper was certainly hot stuff last night.

Connolly promises to be a star defence man.

Phillips in goal is strictly all right.

Spangenberg, Allen, Weller and Burke, for their size, are, judging by their last night's form, as good junior forwards as ever shaped up on local ice, and that's saying something.

The Belleville team, if it sticks together, should reach the finals next year.

The "flying squadron" has only one fault—it is a little too fond of mixing things up.

Referee Waghorne likes a ladylike game. He should face the puck on a doyley every time.

Cobourg has a cracker-jack team. If they beat Port Hope in Port Hope, and win this group, they will go a good way before any other team heads them off.

But we are hoping that Port Hope will win. Then, if we beat Picton in Picton, there will be a three-cornered tie. Belleville should have a good chance in that case.

Twenty-five men were ruled off, seventeen Bellevilles and eight Cobourgs. Here is the honor roll: Spangenberg 1, Weller 4, Allen 5, Pepper 3, Burke 3, Phillips 1; Robertson 3, White 1, McNichol 1, Smith 1, Doheny 2.

The officials were: Timers—Cobourg, Thomas McIntosh; Belleville, W. Burke. Goal umpires—Cobourg, Thos. Mulhall; Belleville, "Doc" Trualsch.

COLGATES

Cashmere Boquet and Violet

TALCUM POWDER

Shaving Stick and Barber's Soap, Monad Violet, Cold Cream, Sandal Wood and other fine

TOILET SOAP.

GEEN'S DRUG STORE

The Quinte Laundry Co.

A new list of prices for household goods—20c per doz.

MANGLE WORK IN LARGE LOTS AT SPECIAL PRICES.

Agents for British American Dyeing and Cleaning Co'y.

Front Street South. Telephone 102.

THOSE ANNOYING BLACKHEADS.

External applications will never remove pimples or blackheads. Only by stimulating circulation and purifying the blood can it be done. For quick, sure release from these pests use Ferrozone; it drives all humors from the blood, makes the skin healthy, tones up the system. With the pure, nutritious blood made by Ferrozone it's impossible to suffer from any skin disease. You'll have a smooth, delightful skin, healthy color and beautiful complexion by using Ferrozone—and you'll feel immensely better as well. Fifty cents buys a box containing fifty chocolate-coated tablets at any drug store.

Wedding Bells.

ADAMS—HUBBS.

On Wednesday evening, the 24th inst., a wedding took place at the parsonage, Rednersville, when Rev. R. M. Pope performed the ceremony that made Ernest Adams, of Picton, and Miss Effie Hubbs, of Rednersville, man and wife. The usual custom of partaking of a wedding supper after marriage was reversed, the supper was enjoyed along with the immediate members of the bride's family, after which the young couple quietly visited the parsonage, and Mr. Pope completed the contract. The bride is a most estimable young lady, esteemed and beloved by all who know her. For several years she was organist and leading soprano singer in the Rednersville choir, and by her many charming and excellent traits of character made herself both popular and highly esteemed by a host of friends. The groom is well-known throughout the county and is highly respected. On returning from the bridal tour the happy couple will take up their home in Picton, where their many friends will wish them a long and happy married life.

REDUCED TO FIFTY CENTS.

Our complete stock of soft front shirts, regularly sold at seventy-five cents and one dollar. Desirable patterns and well assorted sizes. Sale price 50c.—QUICK & ROBERTSON.

THE SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA NEW TRAIN—BEST ROUTE.

The Los Angeles Limited, electric lighted, new from the Pullman shops, with all latest innovations for travel comfort, leaves Chicago 10.05 p.m. daily, arrives Los Angeles 4.45 p.m. third day via Chicago, Union Pacific & North-Western Line and the Salt Lake Route. Pullman drawing-room and tourist sleeping cars, composite observation car, dining cars, a la carte service. For rates, sleeping car reservations and full particulars, apply to your nearest agent or address, R. H. Bennett, 2 East King St., Toronto, Ont. j13-20-27-f3

CARMAN OPERA HOUSE

TUESDAY. JANUARY 30, 1906.

Direct from 5 Months Run at La Salle Theatre, Chicago.

.... THE SHOW WITH MUSIC ....

"HIS HIGHNESS THE BEY."

A Musical Comedy in Two Acts. More Laughs and Music than All Others Combined.

Book and Music by Howard, Hough & Adams

10—MUSICAL COMEDY STARS—10

and 50 OTHERS, Including THE FAMOU BROILERS and Best Chorus on Earth.

Twenty Musical Numbers. Georgeous Scenery. Ten Positive Song Hits.

PRICES—25, 50, 75, $1.00 and $1.50.

Daily Intelligencer.

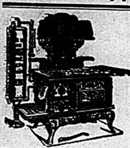
TEMPTING, LUSCIOUS

CANDIES MADE FRESH DAILY.

Fresh Mixed Creams	20c lb.
Creamy Cream Peppermints	30c lb.
Creamy Wintergreen Creams	30c lb.
Chocolate Drops	20c lb.
Chocolate Drops	30c lb.
Chocolate Drops	40c lb.
Chocolate Greengage	50c and 60c lb.
Chocolate Pineapple	50c and 60c lb.

These are a few with many others we are making this week.

Chas. S. Clapp



The Happy Thought

Is the only range which has been made under one name for eighteen years, and is still the leader.

WM. McGIE,

Tel. 38. 11 Front St.

CHRISTMAS FLOWERS

A choice lot of Plants and Cut Flowers, Holly and Mistletoe.

COLLIP.

Better News—A FURTHER SLUMP IN MEATS.

—Beef Roast	3c, 10c, 12½c
— " Steak	10c, 12½c
— " Stew	5c, 6c,
—Round Steak	3 lbs. for 25c
—Lamb	8c, 10c, 12½c
—Pork	10c, 12½c
—Sausages	3 lb. for 25c

—GREEN.

PEOK & WILLS.

Opposite Market. Successors to Walter Alfor

Sash, Door and Blind Factory.

Dressed Lumber of all kinds.—Mouldings Store Fronts and Fittings, Stair Work Grilles, Mantles, Hardwood Pannelling Bar Fixtures, &c.

Prompt attention given to custom work.

A call solicited.

PECK & WILLS.

Wedding Stationary

The Celebrated Eaton-Hurlbut manufacture, in cabinets of fifty invitations

$2.00

OTHER LINES AS WELL.

NEATLY PRINTED.

—AT—

The INTELLIGENCER

Job Department

Front St., Belleville.

Usually the man who worries over the country's difficulties lets his wife do the worrying for the family.

Apollinaris

"THE QUEEN OF TABLE WATERS."

Bottled only at the Apollinaris Spring, Neuenahr, Germany, and Only with its Own Natural Gas.

CASTRO TELLS WHY.

Declares Charge d'Affaires, M. Taigny, Violated Diplomatic Etiquette.

Caracas, Monday, Jan. 23, via Port of Spain, Trinidad, Jan. 26.—In reply to a request sent him to-day by the Associated Press correspondent for a statement of Venezuela's attitude concerning the Franco-Venezuelan question, President Castro immediately telegraphed as follows from Maraicay:

"You can transmit to the Associated Press the following: 'Mr. Taigny, the French charge d'affaires at Caracas, not only violated diplomatic etiquette, as is proved by the fact of his presenting a protest against the Venezuelan Government when the French Cable Co. was calmed and had been almost arranged with, but the protest has brought the disagreeable situation between France and Venezuela to the point of a rupture of friendly relations.

"Then, not content with this, he having been deprived by his Government of the diplomatic character with which he was invested in Venezuela, violated as a French citizen the laws of the Port of La Guaira by embarking on a French liner, whereupon the Venezuelan Government, in order to avoid new difficulties, and after its police had been treated contemptuously, resolved not to permit Taigny to re-land. Cipriano Castro."

CONFER IN PRIVATE.

Moroccan Conference Optomistic Over French and German Chances.

Algeciras, Jan. 26.—Spain at yesterday's session of the Moroccan conference presented the draft of a convention providing for a better return of taxation in Morocco, and also for the creation of new revenues. The conference, after some discussion, expressed the opinion that nothing should be proposed for Morocco which may modify the basis of the present organization of that country, or be in contradiction with the habits of the Moroccan people regarding land taxation.

Herr Van Radowitz, head of the German mission, and M. Revoil, chief of the French delegation to the Moroccan conference, had yesterday for the first time a lengthy private meeting which was much commented upon as a move forward in the adjustment of the Franco-German difference. Although the results were not disclosed the meeting produced a distinct feeling of optimism among the delegates.

Some of the ambassadors have expressed the opinion that these direct Franco-German exchanges might contribute to averting a crisis in the conference.

Breach of Alien Labor Law.

Toronto, Jan. 26.—A fine of $50 without costs was yesterday morning imposed upon H. Holman Evans, manager of the Union Life Insurance Co. for a breach of the alien labor act. John Alfred Fookes, whose home is in Boston, said that he answered an advertisement inserted in The Boston Sunday Globe by the Union Life Insurance Co. for a first-class French-Canadian canvasser. He arranged to meet Mr. Evans at a hotel there, and an agreement was closed whereby he was to come to Toronto and work at a salary of $15 and a commission.

Gave His Life For Two Boys.

Boston, Jan. 26.—After arousing the other inmates of a burning building William A. Carey lost his life in South Boston late Wednesday night. He discovered the flames in his apartment on the second floor of a three storey wooden building on Fifth street, and rushed to the third floor, where he warned two boys named Courtney. The boys escaped, but after the flames were extinguished, the firemen found Carey's body in the boys' room.

Nationalize the Harbors.

Winnipeg, Jan. 25.—J. A. Ashdown, millionaire hardware man of the firm of J. H. Ashdown & Co., gave a comprehensive address before the Canadian Club yesterday afternoon, on the Dominion's transportation problems. He urged the necessity of nationalizing the harbors of Fort William, Port Arthur, Depot Harbor and Midland, and came out in favor of Government ownership of railways.

Cockfighters Fined.

Grimsby, Jan. 26—The final act of the "cocking main" at Grimsby, Jan. 2, was enacted here yesterday afternoon, when some forty individuals appeared on summons before Police Magistrate Forbes. The sports were divided by the magistrate into three classes, viz.: cockfighters, bettors and spectators. The accused all pleaded guilty, and were fined in sums varying from five to thirty-five dollars and costs.

Clearing Out Sale

We have a line of Elite Enamelware, Blue outside White inside, this is the best Enamelware made. We find it too expensive for our trade and we have decided not to import many ore.

Our idea is to clear it out entirely, with this object in view, we would ask you to call on us any day this week, if in need of the best goods at prices that are far below 25% discount.

McINTOSH BROS.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Closed Unchanged, Chicago Lower—Live Stock Markets—The Latest Quotations.

Thursday Evening, Jan. 25.

Liverpool wheat futures closed to-day unchanged to ¼d lower and corn futures ¼d lower.

At Chicago May wheat closed ⅝c lower than yesterday; May corn ¼c lower and May oats ⅛c lower.

Grain—

WINNIPEG OPTIONS.

The following were the closing quotations yesterday at this market: Jan. 76½c, May 79⅝c, July 80⅞c.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

	May.	July.
New York	90¾	89¾
Detroit	89¾	85¾
Minneapolis	83¾	85¾
Duluth	83½	85
St. Louis	83¾	81¾
Toledo	88¾	86

TORONTO PRODUCE MARKET.

Wheat, spring, bush	$0 73 to	$....
Wheat, fall, bush	0 75	0 78
Wheat, red, bush	0 74	0 78
Wheat, goose, bush	0 70	....
Barley, bush	0 50	0 51
Oats, bush	0 39½	0 40
Rye, bush	0 74	....
Peas, bush	0 75	....
Buckwheat, bush	0 53	....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Liverpool, Jan. 25.—Wheat—Spot nominal; futures quiet; March, 6s 11½d; May, 6s 9⅛d.

Corn—Spot steady; American mixed, new, 4s 3½d; American mixed, old, 4s 8½d; futures quiet; Jan., 4s 3½d; March, 4s 2⅞d; May, 4s 2⅞d.

Lard—American refined in pails quiet, 39s 6d.

Flour—St. Louis fancy winter steady, 8s.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, Jan. 25.—Butter—Irregular; receipts, 5000; western imitation creamery extras, 21c to 21½c; do. firsts, 19c.

Cheese—Steady, unchanged; receipts, 1116.

Eggs—Steady, unchanged.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Hogs and Cattle Still Easy in U. S. Markets.

London, Jan. 25.—Cattle are quoted at 10½c to 11½c per lb.; refrigerator, 7½c to 8½c.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the city market were reported as being 87 cars, composed of 765 cattle, 948 sheep, 1200 hogs and 80 calves.

Butchers.

There was a little brisker demand owing to outside buyers and better butcher weather. Picked lots of choice sold at $4.25 to $4.40 and there were few of these. Loads of good, $3.90 to $4.15; fair to good at $3.60 to $3.90; good cows at $3.25 to $3.60; common cows at $2.50 to $3; canners at $1.50 to $3 per cwt.

Feeders and Stockers.

There was a limited supply, but the demand also was limited with the report of Harry Murby, who devotes the best part of his time looking after this part of the trade. Mr. Murby bought about 100 stockers and feeders at following prices: feeders, 1100 lbs. each, at $4 to $4.12½ per cwt.; 1000-lb. feeders at $3.75; 900-lb. feeders at $3.50; 800-lb. feeders at $3.40; and stockers at $3 to $3.25.

Milch Cows.

There was a good trade in milch cows and springers during the week. On Wednesday and Thursday about 50 cows changed hands at $30 to $60 each, but few brought the latter price, the bulk going from $40 to $50 each, that is, of the best. More good cows are wanted.

Veal Calves

About 80 veal calves found ready sale at $4 to $7 per cwt., the bulk going at $5 to $6 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

The sheep and lamb trade is as brisk as ever, with prices firm as follows: Picked lots of ewe and wether lambs sold at $6.75 to $7 per cwt.; mixed lots sold at $6.50; export sheep at $4.50 to $4.75, altho one of two choice lots brought more money; export bucks, $3.75 to $4 per cwt.

Hogs.

Mr. Harris reports prices firm, but unchanged at $7 per cwt. for selects, $6.75 for lights and fats, $4 to $5 for sows and $2.50 to $3.50 per cwt. for stags.

Pork Prices Up.

Hamilton, Jan. 26.—The price of pork jumped up to $9.25 per cwt. on the Central Market yesterday morning.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, Jan. 25.—Cattle—Receipts, 150 head; steady; prime steers, $5.35 to $5.50; shipping steers, $4.60 to $5.25; butchers', $4.35 to $5.10; heifers, $3.50 to $4.75; cows, $2.50 to $4.25; bulls, $2.50 to $4.35; stockers and feeders, $3.50 to $4.30; stock heifers, $3 to $3.25.

Veals—Receipts, 100 head; active; $5.25 to $9.

Hogs—Receipts, 3200 head; slow; 5c lower; heavy, $5.82½ to $5.85; mixed, Yorkers and pigs, $5.85 to $5.90; roughs, $4.90 to $5.15; stags, $3.25 to $4.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 4400 head; active and steady; lambs, $6.25 to $7.75; yearlings, $6.50 to $6.75; wethers, $5.50 to $6; ewes, $5.25 to $5.50; sheep, mixed, $3 to $5.65; western lambs, $7.25 to $7.65.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, Jan. 25.—Beeves—Receipts, none and nothing doing in live cattle. Exports to-day, 840 cattle and 4200 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 267; veals and barnyard calves nominal; western calves lower; sales at $3.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 2062; sheep nominal; lambs slow but not quoted lower. The few sales were at $7.75 to $7.85, with no strictly prime or choice sold.

Hogs—Receipts, 2014; feeling a trifle easier; no sales reported.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Cattle—Receipts, 6000, dull; common to prime steers, $3.40 to $6.40; cows, $3 to $4; heifers, $2.25 to $5; bulls, $2 to $4; calves, $3 to $8; stockers and feeders, $2.40 to $4.60.

Hogs—Receipts, 40,800; 10 cents lower; choice to prime heavy, $5.45 to $5.52½; medium to good heavy, $5.40 to $5.45; butchers' weights, $5.45 to $5.50; good to choice heavy mixed, $5.40 to $5.45; packing, $5.15 to $5.45.

Sheep—Receipts, 15,000; dull; prices weak; sheep, $4.50 to $5.85; yearlings, $6 to $6.50; lambs, $6.50 to $7.65.

Smallpox in Sembra.

Sarnia, Jan. 26.—Smallpox has broken out in school section No. 17, Sombra. Three cases are reported. The school is closed and pupils are quarantined.

Too Many Wolves.

Winnipeg, Jan. 26.—Owing to the increase of wolves in Manitoba, the provincial bounty will be increased.

Edmonton's Advance.

Edmonton, Jan. 26.—This city has decided to take over, own and operate the street car lines.

PICKED UP A LIFE RAFT

19 More Survivors of Ill-Fated Valencia Saved.

Thirty-Four in All Saved Out of a Total Passenger and Crew List of 154—Acts of Heroism on Board—Most of the Passengers Met Their Fate Like Men—A Passenger's Graphic Story.

Seattle, Wn., Jan. 26.—A special representative of the Post Intelligencer wires from Port Angels at 3.30 a. m. yesterday that the rescue ship City of Topeka picked up a life raft at one o'clock Wednesday afternoon, six miles off Cape Beale, with 20 survivors of the Valencia on board. The men were in a pitiable condition and almost dead from exposure. The rescued are: G. D. Harden, passenger; M. Tarpey, quartermaster; P. O'Brien, waiter; W. Raymond, messman; W. D. Johnson, coal passer; J. C. Eagles, fireman; C. F. Leeman, Frank Lehn, first freight clerk; Jos. McCaffery, passenger; J. Welch, waiter; A. Hawkins, passenger; P. Peterson, second officer; J. Podden, waiter; J. Johnson, third cook; C. L. Allison, passenger from St. Paul; John Cigodas, fireman; Thos. Garrick, first assistant engineer; G. Willis, passenger; P. Primer, fireman; W. Doherty. They were half frozen and practically unconscious from exposure.

A Terrible Sea.

A terrible sea was running. One minute the raft was poised on top of a wave, and the next it would be lost from view in the gully formed by the mountainous breakers.

The sight of the poor creatures on the raft brought tears to the eyes of the sailors on the vessel. In the stern of the raft sat an old man with snow-white hair and pallid features, who held on bravely to his place. Three other men were lying in a senseless heap in the rear, washed by every swell and retained solely by the bodies of the other men, who were closely packed. Time and time again great seas swept over them, sending a shudder through the onlookers, who feared to see them swept away. The work of rescuing them was dangerous. The men were too exhausted to even tie a rope about themselves.

Weak and Helpless.

When the raft was sighted a cry went up from the steamer's deck. Orders were shouted and men on the raft screamed and called fruitlessly for aid. For a minute it looked as though the old man with grey hair was gone when the raft gave a sudden lurch, but the prompt work of Mate Burke and his men finally got him on deck. This man was no sooner safe when another fainting form was swept away and was only rescued by quick work on the part of the boat's crew. The next man to be swept from the raft managed to grasp a line and cling to it until he was hoisted half way up the ship's side, when his strength gave out and he fell back. He was picked up by the boat.

The raft put out from the wreck Wednesday morning on sighting the steamer Queen, and attempted to reach her, but before they could get within sighting distance the vessel put about and headed to the strait.

Pitiful Tales.

When the Topeka hove in sight the raft was once more manned and again put forth. The survivors told terrible tales of the wreck of the vessel. When they left the ship there were about 90 people on board, most of them clinging to the rigging. Men, women and children were being swept by every sea. As soon as the men got aboard Dr. B. F. Whiting, assisted by two nurses and members of the crew, hastily administered stimulants and put them to bed.

A Passenger's Story.

The survivors say most of the boats were smashed to splinters when they were lowered. Two of the lee boats were capsized shortly after launching. One escaped the breakers and put to sea with about eight or nine people aboard.

The following is the story of G. Wilets, one of the passengers and one of the men rescued from the raft: "The ship struck at 12.07 on the morning of Tuesday, Jan. 23.—I was on deck at the time, smoking a cigar, and was looking at my watch when the first crash came. In an instant all was excitement. There were the shrieks of the frightened men and women, the wail of little children, and the hoarse orders of the officers of the ship. The vessel reeled like a drunken man, slid over the reef and struck again.

"The command to back her off was given and she went astern at full speed, but it was too late. The water was pouring in like a mill race. The wind swung the vessel's stern to the beach and her head to the waves. This saved many lives, as she was then swept back to the shore, and struck again in such a position that she remained partially above the water and on an even keel.

Not Time For Prayer.

"Every wave now washed clear over her and many people who hastily rushed on deck, went to their deaths without time to murmur a prayer.

"The order was given to get out the boats. Two of them on the weather side were launched and were smashed like egg shells as soon as they struck the water. Then came the attempt to get out the lee boats.

"Purser O'Farrell took charge. Four women and a number of men went into the boat. I do not know how many, but she was practically full. Just as they were lowering the other, the davits broke, and the stern of the boat fell to the water, while the bow hung in the air.

Sight of An Agonized Face.

"Every one was precipitated into the sea and swept away in an instant. For a second or two I caught a glimpse of an agonized face, then another, and yet another, as they were washed by me. The waves dashing over the ship swept the deck loose and every swell lifted it. We clung to the rigging and deckhouse. Then an attempt was made to get a line ashore. A fireman named Cigales agreed to swim ashore. He was in the water fully half an hour, but was unable to make the beach. The ship struck in a bad spot. She is directly at the foot of a precipitous bluff that comes sheer to the water's edge. One man was swept ashore and succeeded in landing on a small rock. We shot a line to him and he tried to climb the cliff, but fell and was [illegible] before our eyes."

Mr. Wilets closed his story thus: "Capt. Johnson lost his bearings and ran the ship ashore. It was a dark and stormy night, and nothing could be seen. The ship struck while running full speed. We all thought we were to the southward of Flamry. There were many deeds of heroism and many acts of cowardice, but on the whole the people behaved well, and met their fate like men."

Former Torontonian a Victim.

St. Catharines, Jan. 26.—Among the first-class passengers on the Valencia were Adam Frederick Rolph, a son of Joseph T. Rolph of Rolph, Smith & Co., Toronto. Mr. Rolph is a brother-in-law to Mrs. A. M. Watts of this city. In 1892 he married Miss Edith F. Pongdestre of Toronto. He was returning to his home in New Westminster, having been on a visit to relatives in San Francisco.

One a Buffalo Man.

Buffalo, Jan. 26.—Walter C. Neale, who is numbered among the lost of the Valencia, is a Buffalo man, who went from here to Seattle, Wash., to enter the service of a telegraph company.

Wife Lost on Clallam.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 26.—Donald Ross, one of the passengers drowned on the Valencia, lost his wife on the Clallam when she was wrecked two years ago.

Survivors' Sore Straights.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 26.—The nine survivors of the Valencia at Darling River telegraph hut are reported from Bamfield to be in a deplorable condition, being overcome by exhaustion and fatigue, that they are unable to stand, much less to make their way along the trail to the nearest place of shelter. One has a sprained ankle, the others are without boots and exhausted, several with their feet raw and bleeding from walking to Darling River over the rocks. It is impossible for them to reach Bamfield or Cape Beale, even could they cross the flooded Darling River, in their present condition. They have no provisions other than those provided by a party of three, which went to them from Bamfield with a small supply Wednesday.

Test the many merits of

MOGUL

Egyptian Cigarettes

Cork tips

15c per box.

CHARGES ALL DENIED.

President of North American Life Replies to Mr. J. J. Harpell.

Toronto, Jan. 26.—The criticism of the North American Life Assurance Co. with Mr. J. J. Harpell has been responsible for came to a head at the annual meeting of the company yesterday. The critic was given ample opportunity to repeat what he has already said, and to quote the Government blue-books.

An answer was given by the president to these charges, which were all denied point blank and an explanation given as to the differences between the statements published to the policy-holders and those printed by the Government.

Mr. Harpell did not appear to have a supporter among the sixty people present, but he did have some very severe opponents, who would probably have said harder things still than what were uttered if they had not been stopped by the managing director.

Manitoba Varsity Will Sell Lands.

Winnipeg, Jan. 26.—As a result of the representations made by a delegation of the executive of the union of municipalities of the province, the Manitoba University council at a meeting yesterday afternoon decided to place on the market their entire endowment consisting of over 150,000 acres of land. The property is located in practically nine municipalities.

Engine Strikes Trolley Car.

London, Jan. 26.—While crossing the G.T.R. tracks opposite the Tecumseh House, about 7.30 last night, the Victoria, a special street car, was struck by a westbound G.T.R. freight killing the car conductor, Jepsom Moore, instantly. Seven passengers in the car escaped with a severe shaking up. Moore was 35 years old and is survived by a widow and four children.

Famous Boy In Grey Dead.

New York, Jan. 26.—Gen. Joseph Wheeler, the famous Confederate cavalry leader and a brigadier general of the United States army since the war with Spain, died yesterday afternoon at the home of his sister, Mrs. Sterling Smith, in Brooklyn. The body will be interred in Arlington National cemetery, near Washington.

Fourteen Lives Lost.

Poteau, Indian Territory, Jan. 26.—Fourteen lives were lost in the explosion Wednesday in slope No. 4 of the Witteville mine. The explosion was caused by fire damp. Sixteen men were at work when the explosion occurred, but two men nearest the entrance were able to make their escape.

Shades of His Famous Sire.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Stephen Decatur, great-grandson of Commodore Decatur, first-class United States naval academy was yesterday dismissed from the navy, in conformation with the sentence of the court-martial on the charge of hazing.

More Anarchists Arrested.

Monongahela, Pa., Jan. 26.—Constantine Levi and Petro Foracika, alleged secretaries of the anarchistic organization, whose headquarters at Baird were raided early Tuesday, were arrested yesterday near West Elizabeth, Pa.

First Train Through Tunnel.

Iselia, Northern Italy, Jan. 26.—The first passenger train carrying notabilities, and officials, passed through the Simplon tunnel yesterday amidst artillery salutes.

Theatre Destroyed.

Antwerp, Jan. 26.—The Scala theatre has been completely destroyed by fire. Two firemen were injured.

POULTRY SUPPLIES

Fresh Eggs are in Demand—why not order some of the following lines and add to your supply—

MEAT MEAL
GROUND BONE
OYSTER SHELLS
MICA GRIT
INTERNATIONAL POULTRY SPICE
MYER'S POULTRY SPICE
HERBAGEUM
WHEAT, CORN, BARLEY.
COARSE CRACKED CORN
BUCKWHEAT &c.

J.C. Hanley & Co.

Telephone 214.

British American Assurance Co.
Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co.
Western Fire Insurance Co.
Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Dominion Plate Glass Co.
Travellers' Accident Insurance Co.

CHANCEY ASHLEY

INSURANCE AGENT.

Issuer of Marriage Licenses.

Opposite Post Office. - Belleville.

DR. W. H. ELDRED'S

LIQUID ELECTRICITY

The Magic Pain Reliever.

Electricity Cough and Consumption Cure.

See directions on boxes. For sale by

R. Templeton & Co.

Druggists, Belleville, Ont.

or D. P. Corey, General Agent,
202 Church St., Belleville, Ont.

British American Assurance Co.
Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co.
Western Fire Insurance Co.
Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Dominion Plate Glass Co.
Travellers' Accident Insurance Co.

CHANCEY ASHLEY

INSURANCE AGENT.

Issuer of Marriage Licenses.

Opposite Post Office - Belleville.

IMPORTED DIRECT

Pure Norwegian

Cod Liver Oil.

Best for Coughs, Colds and all Pulmonary Troubles.

DON. G. BLEECKER.

Phone 11.

Prescriptions carefully compounded.

Bargains in Ordered Clothing

As we are contemplating making some changes in our store will offer the following bargains.

25—$18.00 Tweed Suits	at	$15 00
40— 20 00 Tweed Suits	at	$16 00
30— 22.00 Tweed Suits	at	$18.50
30— 24 & 25 Tweed Suits	at	$20.00
$5 00 Trousers for		$4.00
6.00 Trousers for		$4.50
7.00 Trousers for		$5.00
8 00 Trousers for		$6.00

Up-to-Date goods made and trimmed same as at regular prices.—Terms cash.

ARTHUR McGIE, 300 Front St

Another Snap for My Customers

DRESSED LUMBER

Flooring, Wainscotting, Ceiling, Clapboards.

C. P. HOLTON

Phone 112.

McLAUGHLIN CUTTERS

A Specialty.

The most up-to-date sleighs in style finish and material.

A full assortment at their warerooms OPPOSITE THE MARKET, FRONT ST., BELLEVILLE

Also full lines of :—

Robes, Harness, Blankets Rugs, Men's and Women's Fur Coats and Collars, &c.

Call in before you buy.

No trouble to show goods.

J. A. ROSE,

Manager Belleville Branch.

The Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

Incorporated by Act of Parliament.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL

$5,000,000

3 1-3 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE—Bridge St., Belleville.

J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

BANK OF MONTREAL

ESTABLISHED 1817.

CAPITAL AND REST (All Paid Up

$24,000,000

(Twenty-four Millions)

Savings Bank Department.

Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch

G. A. Bennett,

Carpenter. Joiner. Builder.

WORKSHOP AND OFFICE,
Victoria Avenue,
(Next McCrodan's Grocery.)

Estimates furnished, work promptly and carefully executed; prices moderate.

— SPECIALIST ON —

Parquette and Hardwood Floors
Grills and Fireplace Mantels.
Building and House Repairs & Alterations.
Office and Store Fixtures, also Cabinet Work and Furniture Repairs.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No. 8.—12.45 a.m., Mail train, daily, except Monday.
No. 2—1.30 a.m. Fast train (Flyer), daily.
No. 16.—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m., daily, except Sunday.
No. 6—11.15 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4—12.06 p.m., Express, daily.
No. 12.—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5.—2.22 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.
No. 3.—4.02 a.m., Limited Express, daily.
No. 9.—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday. Leaving Toronto at 5.10 p.m., arrives in Belleville at 9.10 p.m.
No. 11.—11 08 a.m., Passenger, Daily, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 1.—1.40 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7.—5.03 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.15 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've.	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.20 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	2.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 183, Front St.

Genuine Scranton COAL
Prompt delivery. Well screened.
THE SCHUSTER CO.
Office, Bridge St.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL — LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL — CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 39 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, JANUARY 27, 1906. NO. 224

THE VERY BEST COAL
All Sizes
Wood for the millions
Dry Pine, Hardwood cut and split.
C. C. LEAVENS

Stroud's delicious teas and coffees are the best that's all.

SINCLAIR'S

Great Removal Sale

IS NOW ON.

We Have Five

Persian Lamb Jackets

Which will be cleared at the following prices:

$145.00 ~~Persian~~ Lamb Coat	Sale Price $108 75
135.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price 101.25
100.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price 75.00
85.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price 60.75
65.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price 50.75

25 P.C. Discount Off All Small Furs.

Ladies' Cloth Coats

HALF PRICE.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO.

Navy is Free to the Colonies.

Tweedmouth Says Thus Britain Could Best Show Her Love.

No Returns Yet Received From Friday's Contests—Cabinet Ministers Are Interested—Standing of the Parties—Only Nine Contests Now Remain and It Will Be All Over by Monday Night.

London, Jan. 27.—"Some people insist upon the necessity of a contribution from the Colonies for support of the navy; for my part I should be quite prepared to give the protection of the British navy to the Colonies as a free gift." So said Lord Tweedmouth, First Lord of the Admiralty, at a dinner in Edinburgh last night. He declared their existence as a nation rested on the navy. The sea divided us from foreign countries, and also bound us to that quiverful of younger nations sprung from our loins. He thought they could best show their love by offering them the protection of the navy.

Although polling took place in twenty-eight seats yesterday no returns were received last night. These included important contests, among which were the seats of R. B. Haldane, and H. H. Asquith, Cabinet Ministers, and Walter Long's second effort in Dublin. Only nine contests now remain, of which five take place on Saturday, and one on Monday, while the polls of Glasgow and Aberdeen and Edinburgh and St. Andrew's University remain open for some days. In the universities free trade Conservatives are opposing tariff reformers.

Standing of the Parties.

Liberals, 355; Labor, 44; Conservatives, 149; Nationalists, 82.

Gains being—Liberals, 193; Labor 34; Conservatives, 12; Nationalists, 1

This shows the number of Conservatives in the House to be the smallest in history.

It is a unique fact that the Whitby division of Yorkshire, which figured as a Conservative gain yesterday morning was the sixth seat won by the Liberals during the bye-election last year to go back to Conservative. This fact is pointed to by the Conservatives in support of the "swing of the pendulum" theory as an explanation of the result.

The Morning Post urges the Conservatives to reconstruct the party on the lines of tariff reform, the "only definite constructive policy the opposition finds ready to stand." It points out Mr. Balfour is accepting the seat of a pronounced tariff reformer in the City of London, and regards this as evidence of his determination to accept this policy.

Member-Elect Dies.

Thomas Higgins, who was Thursday elected Nationalist member in North Galway, was found dead in his hotel at Tuam yesterday, possibly as a result of the excitement of election acting on a weak heart. He was one of the most militant Nationalists in west of Ireland, and had many conflicts with the police. He was imprisoned under the Crimes' Act during Arthur J. Balfour's tenure of the chief secretaryship of Ireland.

The seat was last held by Col. Nolan.

The twenty returns from the polls yesterday give the Liberals a gain of seven seats in England, and one in Scotland. The Unionists captured back again Whitby in Yorkshire, won from them at the bye-election in 1905 by 345 votes. Sir A. Acland Hood, Conservative whip in the Balfour Government, was returned at a reduced majority. Lionel Walter Rothschild, Unionist, has been re-elected for the middle division of Buckinghamshire, though with a reduced Unionist majority by one-half.

Attitude of the Times.

The Times defines its attitude toward the new Government and admits that a term of opposition will do the Unionists good. It points out that its own traditional policy has been to support all Governments in foreign affairs and national defence, and then proceeds, but with regard to the Colonies the outlook is less clear. They, like the great imperial interests mentioned, ought to remain outside the arena of party warfare. Unfortunately they have been dragged into it to a lamentable extent and sometimes upon the lowest of all grounds—that of mere personal jealousies or antipathies. We can only hope that the responsibility of office will enable the men in power to put aside entirely the prejudices engendered by party strife, and to treat colonial questions with the same sobriety and far-seeing statesmanship which is recognized as essential in foreign affairs. The touchstone in this matter will be the manner in which the new Government deals with the Transvaal.

Fisher Butts In.

Montreal, Jan. 27.—Hon. Sydney Fisher, speaking before the Mackenzie Club last evening, declared that he was almost glad that the British electorate had declared that they had decided not to give a preference to the Colonies. Canadian products had a profitable market as it was.

On Hunt for Water.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—Emperor William has commissioned Herr Von Uslar, the chief Government official of Apendrare, Schleswig-Holstein, to proceed to German Southwest Africa and find subterranean springs by means of a divining rod.

Loss in Montreal Fire.

Montreal, Jan. 27.—The damage by fire in the building at the corner of St. James and Victoria square Thursday afternoon is estimated at between $80,000 and $90,000; covered by insurance.

Dr. W. J. Early Dead.

Owen Sound, Jan. 27.—Dr. W. J. Early, one of the best known physicians in Owen Sound, died at his home here Thursday. He has been practicing in Owen Sound since 1893.

The Hamilton Plumbers.

Hamilton, Jan. 27.—The Crown Attorney expects to proceed with the charge against the plumbers next Monday, and to complete it before the end of the week.

Sails Under Sealed Orders.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 27.—Capt. Marks and the officers of the battleship Dominion, who hurried back from Montreal owing to the receipt of a cablegram from the Admiralty, reached here Thursday night by special train. The contents of the cablegram have not been made known. The battleship sails this morning under sealed orders.

Manitoba Conservatives Meet.

Carberry, Man., Jan. 27.—The first provincial Conservative convention, representing all party organizations in Manitoba, opened at Carberry yesterday. In the afternoon Hugh John Macdonald, president, gave an address on the present condition of the party and the outlook for the future.

Walton Goes Down.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—Judge Britton yesterday imposed a sentence of nine months in the Central prison on A. [illegible] Walton, who victimized several firms and also got a letter of introduction from Senator Cox.

The Ritchie Co., Limited. The Ritchie Co., Limited.

Exstensive Alterations

Constantly increasing business necessitates further alterations and extensions to our already large store.

We are just closing the largest business year in our history which speaks louder than anything else could do to tell us that our efforts to serve the people of this district are being appreciated.

Our steady aim has been to supply the newest styles of goods from the most reliable makers in the world at the Lowest Possible Prices. This can only be accomplished by sending our buyers direct to the sources of supplies both in this country and in Europe (avoiding the profits paid to middle men by small dealers) the benefits of which are reaped by Our customers. Buying our goods For Cash and selling them for cash enables us to do business on a smaller margin of profits than if we were obliged to pay interest on purchase and make losses through selling on credit.

Workmen are now busy removing walls, stairways, partitions, etc., which will increase our room, light and comfort of our customers when trading. We intend to do bigger and better things during 1906 than in any previous year.

Sale of Remnants

This is clearing out time - all odds and ends must go in the next two weeks. Our stocks have been thoroughly searched out and on Thursday morning every department will have its quota of bargains—all marked at quick selling prices. Here is a partial list.

Towellings, Flannelette, Carpets, Prints, Laces, Linings, Table Linens, Ribbons, Silks.

Fur Specials

We are making special inducements on many of our Furs, to clear them quickly.

At the rate Furs of all kinds are advancing, these prices offer splendid investments.

—4 only Greenland Seal Coats, regular prices $38 to $40, to clear at $25
—A few sizes, in Ladies' Black Astrachan Coats, selling much below regular prices
—Bargains in Ruffs, Stoles, Muffs, Caps, etc.

$10.00 JACKETS $3.95

Your choice of 30 Ladies' Colored Cloth Jackets

ALL THIS SEASON'S STYLES.

Regular Price $10.00 For $3.95

$10.00 Suits for $7.50

Here is something you cannot afford to miss. We are getting ready for inventory and stock must be reduced at once. On Tuesday morning we will place on sale 30 Men's Suits in Plain and Fancy Tweed, well sewn with silk and linen, up-to-date styles—sizes 36 to 44—regular price $10.00, for $7.50

$1.00 and $1.25 Shirts 75c

The season's selling has left behind about 84 of these Shirts, we therefore want them all out in two weeks and on Tuesday morning we place the balance on sale.

—100 Men's Shirts in stripe and spot, all sizes, large variety of patterns, regular price $1.00 and $1,25, for 75c

The RITCHIE Co., Limited

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON.

Remnants Remnants Remnants

Tuesday morning we will have all our Remnants measured up and out on the tables. There are lots of them. The close of the biggest sale in the history of our business has left us with a lot of ends. These odds and ends must all be cleared out before stock-taking. We are making price do the selling.

Dress Goods, Silks, Embroideries, Prints, Linens, Shirtings, Cottons, Sheetings.

A vast lot of other odds and ends all to be cleared at bargain prices.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

20 Per Cent. Discount

OFF ALL

Men's and Boys' Wool and Fleece Lined Underwear.

ROBINSON & THOMPSON.

Tailors & Furnishers.

25 Per Cent. Discount

Our entire stock of High-Class Manufactured Furs will be sold at a Great Sacrifice.

Sale commences Wednesday. Come early and secure first choice.

GEORGE T. WOODLEY.

Successor to Miss M. H. Herbert. Opposite Footbridge

Highest Prices Paid for Raw Furs.

The New Store.

Plenty of Bargains All Over The Store.

All winter goods have received marching orders.

MANTLES HALF PRICE.

FURS 25 p. c. to 30 p. c. DISCOUNT.

UNDERWEAR FOR LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, ALL REDUCED.

HEAVY DRESS GOODS REDUCED.

Come In—Look around, you won't be urged to buy.

Wims & Co

TERMS CASH.

THIS SPRING

We Purpose Making

INTERIOR DECORATIONS

A leading feature of our business and are prepared to furnish Expert Workmen to do all kinds of Painting, Graining, Finishing, Paperhanging, Etc., and will GUARANTEE perfect satisfaction in every instance.

We are adding thousands of rolls of the newest and most artistic Wallpaper from the leading American and Canadian manufactures, and will be pleased to show you these goods and to give an estimate for decorating one room or the whole house.

T. P. BROWN'S

Carpet, Curtain, Wallpaper Store and Picture Framing.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

F[illegible] CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

The Magistracy.

There seems to be a doubt in the minds of some people as to who are and who are not Magistrates. It has been stated that gentlemen who were on the Commission of the Peace prior to Confederation are not affected by the issue of a new Commission, but remain magistrates for life. Where the authority for this statement is to be found, we have failed to discover.

The Act respecting the appointment of Justices of the Peace, R.S.O. of 1897, cap. 86, sec. 5, provides that when a new general Commission of the Peace is issued, all, and such like former general commissions shall become absolutely revoked and cancelled.

Upon enquiry we find that the instructions sent from the Provincial Secretary's Department to the Clerk of the Peace, here, contained this clause: "As the Commission herewith supersedes all former Commissions you will be good enough to inform the gentlemen heretofore on the Commission of the Peace for your County who are not re-appointed by the present Commission that they are no longer competent to act."

These facts sets the question at rest as to who are and who are not magistrates.

TIMELY TOPICS.

With the Spinsters' Convention and the County Council both over things will be dull now.

• • •

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., tells his Bible class that a lie is never justified. It is much better to sidestep, as Mr. Rockefeller's pa's partner does.

• • •

A Chicago Sunday school teacher has discovered that she was robbed by members of her class. She evidently did not teach them thoroughly enough.

• • •

A Peterboro paper is publishing a lot of letters alleged to be received on the question "Should a young man marry on $16 a week?" It is a pretty safe bet that many young men in Canada double up on less. This would have been a splendid topic for the Spinsters' Convention.

• • •

There must be great competition for civic offices in Bancroft, when the following munificent salaries are paid: The clerk gets $25, assessor $12, treasurer $25, constable and sanitary inspector $50.

• • •

A sporting paper recommends a certain way of avoiding the bites of a dog however savage. All one has to do is to stand perfectly still and hold one's hand out. The dog, says the writer, will take the hand into his mouth but will not bite it. But what guarantee have we that the dog knows this.

• • •

The Bancroft Times deals in this flippant way with municipal affairs; "The village council has purchased a piano, and it is said the reeve is taking music lessons. Next time we attend a meeting of this august body we expect to find the reeve executing a symphony in B minor, and his colleagues wrestling with a 25 mill tax rate."

• • •

At a recent exposition in the United States the management put "doctors' buggies" and "hearses" in the same compartment of the transportation building. Visitors were left to speculate whether this arrangement was due to accident or to a sense of humor.

• • •

Emperor Bill's calling cards are six inches long and four inches wide. He probably got the idea from the menu card in his favorite restaurant.

• • •

A London magistrate, sentencing a man on his 144th appearance in court, observed that it was a very gross case. A dignified court should be above such things.

• • •

NEED A BODY?

(Puck.)

If a body meet a body
Putting up a bluff,
Need a body call a body
For his bunch of stuff?
Everybody who can do it's Putting up a front,
And he wins the game who makes a
Base hit of a bunt.

• • •

Factory Site Wanted

—ALSO—

Reliable Local Representative

To manage preliminary work in connection with establishing a subsidiary plant in Belleville. One or two acres required with switching facilities. Address all communications to CHARLES F. ROLAND, "Parent Representative," St. Catharines, Ont.

27-t3

A letter from one of the most high-minded citizens of Prince Albert, who has looked carefully into the election corruption in the northern section of Saskatchewan, describes it as the most shameful plot that was ever hatched in Canada, beside which the exploits of Lott's pale into significance. It is charged that several of the men connected with the plot are in the pay of the Ottawa Government.

• • •

The Mail and Empire gives the following tit-bit re the Intercolonial Railway management. Here are the deficits, including capital outlays, scored on the Intercolonial Railway during the past ten years:

1896.	Conservative rule	$ 314,610
1897.	Liberal rule	209,425
1898.	Liberal rule	392,736
1899	Liberal rule	809,441
1900.	Liberal rule	1,510,987
1901.	Liberal rule	4,500,000
1902.	Liberal rule	4,433,770
1903.	Liberal rule	2,089,174
1904.	Liberal rule	2,781,607
1905.	Liberal rule	6,480,881

• • •

The "Can't you Forget Something Party" is to the fore again. Mr. Fielding could not remember things when questioned before a judge about the facts of his recent election for Shelburne and Queen's. Mr. Hunt, the Liberal member for Compton, developed very marked symptoms under like circumstances only a couple of months ago. Though the political doctors are not yet agreed on the matter, it is held by some that the germ of what may almost be called an epidemic may be traced to the "Can't you forget some things" request of that immaculate statesman Stratton, sent abroad during the Gamey investigation of a couple of years ago.

• • •

Fielding, having given his evidence, attempted to have the case thrown out of court, through his counsel, on the ground that the time within which action should have been taken upon the petition in question having elapsed, the examination which had just been concluded was futile and of no effect. The case, he held, had lapsed. Counsel for the petitioner, objected, holding that it was foreign to the subject of the present enquiry. So the case stands. Anything rather than let the facts come to light.

• • •

Semi prohibition. A bill has been introduced and passed in the House of Representatives at Washington, providing that Oklahoma and the Indian Territory shall constitute one State under the name of "Oklahoma," and that Arizona and New Mexico shall constitute one State under the name "Arizona." Should the terms of admission be ratified by the residents of these territories, their respective State constitutions must contain clauses prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors and plural marriages. This is to hit the Mormons. The constitution of Arizona must prohibit the sale of liquor to Indians forever, and that of Oklahoma for twenty-one years.

These Prohibition Clauses will be about as effective as were those inserted in the Bills giving territorial government to the Northwest, which was nil.

• • •

Our country cousins miss the snow, but they seem to get into town on Saturday, just the same.

• • •

The latest cure for a sore throat is to tie a red herring round the neck before going to bed. Being cured himself, the herring should cure others.

• • •

Another subscription to the Help the Hospital fund brings the total up to $1608.00. But it should be more. Send in your mites, good people. We ought to have $2000 at least.

• • •

Don't Chap

Sore, chafed skin is an unnecessary trouble, for with a little care the skin can be kept soft and healthy all through winter's most trying weather; all you need is a bottle of WINTER CREAM and your skin comfort is assured. Apply a little of it before going out of doors or having hands in water. It is pure and wholesome and you'll like to use it.

2 Sizes — 15c and 25c.

SOLD ONLY AT

McKeown's DRUG STORE.

Peterboro called in New York experts to examine into and report on her water supply, and they recommend a new dam and a sand filter at a total cost of $180,000. The average Peterboro man will smile at the idea of spending that much money on water.

AN INTERESTING RELIC

COPY OF A KINGSTON, N. Y., PAPER WHICH IS OVER ONE HUNDRED AND SIX YEARS OLD.

Mr. William Curtis, of this city, shows us a copy of the Ulster County Gazette (vol. 2, No. 88), published at Kingston, Ulster County, New York, on Saturday, January 4, 1800. As might be surmised, it is a quaint old sheet, but in a very good state of preservation. Some of the advertisements are interesting. One of them offers for sale a sawmill, also a stout, healthy active Negro wench. Apply to John Schoonmaker, at Rochester, N.Y. The inside of the paper contains an account of the burial of General George Washington, who departed this life on December 14th, 1799, at the age of 68 years. The rules are turned, and the small sheet of four pages of four columns each has quite a funereal appearance.

The news is also given of battles between the Austro-Russians and the French, which, it is stated, was clipped from London papers of October 20, 1799.

An account is also given of the capture of two Spanish frigates, having on board upwards of three millions and a half of dollars, which were taken by British ships of war and towed safely into Plymouth.

One comical ad. appears, written in rhyme. It will bear reproduction; Luther Andres & Co. have this day Been opening goods both fresh and gay.

He has received near every kind
That you in any store can find
And as I purchase by the bale
I am determined to retail
For ready pay a little lower
Than ever have been had before
I with my brethren mean to live
But as for credit, shall not give
I would not like to rouse your passions
For credit here is out of fashion
My friends and buyers one and all
It will pay you well to give a call
You always may find me by my sign
A few rods from the house divine.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take "Laxative Bromo" Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c.

THE SPINSTERS' CONVENTION

HAD ANOTHER MOST SUCCESSFUL SESSION LAST NIGHT.

The ladies who were in charge of the entertainment which was held on Thursday and Friday nights, in the City Hall, in aid of the Hospital, are, and have reason to be, very well pleased with the results. The financial returns, we are informed, are very good. Last night the Spinsters held their second convention, and the entertainment provided was practically the same as on Thursday evening. There was a large audience present, and everybody, of course, was delighted. Miss Maclean acted as hostess, in a charming way, on both evenings.

To-day's Market

The market to-day was largely attended, and in some cases prices were a little lower, notably with eggs and butter. The former sold at 20 cents per dozen and the latter at 21 to 23c per pound. In other respects there were no changes of note. A considerable quantity of dressed poultry was offered for sale, but there were no changes in prices.

Our quotations are as follows:

Eggs—20 to 21c.
Hay—$7.50 to $8.00.
Fall wheat—75c.
Spring wheat—75c.
Barley—38 to 42c.
Oats—34c.
Rye—64c.
Buckwheat—50c.
Timothy—$1.50.
Clover—$7 to $8.
Alsike—$4 to $6.
Butter—21 to 23c.
Dressed Hogs—$7.50 to $8.00.
Live hogs—$6.00 to $6.50.
Dressed beef—$4.00.
Dressed beef, hind—$5 to $5.50.
Chickens—50 to 80c pair.
Broilers—45c to 70c per pair.
Butchers' trimmed hides—8 1-2c to 9
Rough hides—8c to 8 1-2c.
Mutton—6 to 7c lb.
Horse Hides—$2 to $2.50.
Veal hides—8c per lb.
Deakins—70c to 75c.
Pelts—80c to $1.00.
Tallow, rough—1 1-2c to 2c.
Tallow, rendered—3 1-2c.
Wool—22c.
Potatoes—90c to $1 bag.
Apples—60c per bag.
Sheep skins—60c to 65c.
Geese—$1 to $1.50.
Ducks—$1 to $1.50
Turkeys—$1.50 to $3.50.

A BARGAIN IN CARDS.

Business and professional men will do well in examining the cards just imported by The Intelligencer Job Department. They are of superior quality and very cheap. We have them from $1.00 for 500 with name and address upwards. Eight sizes. tf

Is Your Hair Sick?

That's too bad! We had noticed it was looking pretty thin and faded of late, but naturally did not like to speak of it. By the way, Ayer's Hair Vigor is a regular hair grower, a perfect hair restorer. It keeps the scalp clean and healthy. Sold for 60 years. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charge at less than twenty-five words.

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

WANTED.

A printer at once, male or female. Steady position. — The Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont. 23-d&wtf

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED at Intelligencer office by J. D. Ford. Also at residence, Murney St.

The funeral services of the late Judge Lazier will be held at 2.30 tomorrow afternoon at St. Andrew's Church

PERSONAL ....AND.... SOCIAL.

Mr. John Boyd, who has been at Millbank for some time, has returned to the city.

Miss Stella Barber left to-day to visit friends in Montreal and Ottawa.

Misses Mabel Vermilyea and Jennie Boulsteel last evening took part in an entertainment at Camden East.

Miss Lillie Reid, who has been spending the last two months with her sister, Mrs. W. L. Holley, returned home to Toronto to-day.

Ex-Ald. Lewis Grills, of this city, is seriously ill at Toronto where he went a few days ago to consult a specialist. His many friends will learn this with regret.

We are pleased to state that Mr. Robert Tannahill, a popular employee of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal, remains here as acting manager.

Mr. Geo. Moore, of this office, who is at a Battle Creek, Mich., sanitarium in search of health, writes to relatives in this city that he is much improved and hopes to leave the institution entirely cured.

WHAT CAUSES SNORING.

When asleep people that snore breathe through the mouth instead of the nostrils, which are choked with catarrh. Just use Catarrhozone before retiring and you'll quickly cure the snoring habit. By destroying the cause of catarrh and healing the membranes Catarrhozone makes a complete cure in every case; it cleans the nostrils, stops the discharge and prevents dropping in the throat in a few minutes. Nothing so pleasant or certain to cure snoring, catarrh or colds as Catarrhozone—that's worth remembering.

Died in California

Word has been received in the city announcing the death of Mr. A. E. Bagnall, which occurred yesterday at Riverside, Cal. Deceased was for a considerable time a resident of this city, being engaged as accountant in the Merchants' Bank here.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

Light to moderate winds, fine today and on Sunday, with a little higher temperature.

OUR

assortment of choice Bon Bons and Chocolates was never more complete than it is this year.

Your Christmas Presents will not be complete without a nice box of our Candy, prices from 25c to $2.00 per box.

JAS. WALLACE & CO.

They will Adjust Themselves

to a wide range of circumstances — the eyes — will stand lots of hard work, and get along with very little attention.

When they do complain, it is usually the result of their being overworked. They are calling for a rest.

They ache, smart, burn, probably you are subject to headaches, which you never think of attributing to your eyes.

If you are bothered, call on us. We shall gladly inform you regarding their state, and there is no more THOROUGH or reliable examination to be had in Canada.

Angus McFee

Phone 128.

The Store With the Big Clock

At Wallbridge & Clarke's

Marmalade Oranges

Pineapple Marmalade

COFFEE

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE'S

DELICIOUS COFFEE.

Ground Daily. Electric Power

30 and 40c a lb.

COFFEE DEMONSTRATION

—AT—

Wallbridge & Clarke's

BRIDGE STREET.

Come in and have a cup of delicious Coffee.

Huyler's New York Chocolates.

Extra Value in Tea.

Wallbridge & Clarke's Fine Indo-Ceylon Tea—30c lb.—4 lbs. for $1.00 in sealed packets.

EASY MONEY AT HOME

[illegible]

BIRD BREAD 10 CENTS.

and "CANARY vs. CHICKENS," [illegible] Address

COTTAM BIRD SEED, [illegible] St., London, Ont.

The Everstick Rubber

Is Light and Durable.

THEY WILL PLEASE YOU.

We can fit your boots with

RUBBERS or OVERSHOES.

VERMILYEA & SON

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage, 50c each insertion.

Death notice, 50c, or when funeral notices included, $1.00.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Weekly Intelligencer $1.00 a year; Daily Intelligencer $3.00 a year; strictly cash in advance.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E & J. Hardy & Co.'s office, 29 Fleet St., London, E. C.

Intelligencer

WANT ADS.

WANTED.

Men, horses with harness and boys for Leavens' Ice-house, foot of Foster avenue. Come prepared to work.

New Chinaman wishes situation as cook. Can give good references as first-class cook. He has had experience as cook in hotels, boarding-houses and private houses, and has always given first-class satisfaction. For further information apply Lee Chu, Bridge St. 1t

Toolmakers. Only good men need apply. Canadian General Electric Co., Ltd., Peterboro, Ont. 26-3t

Wanted—To buy—a house in good repair, central, on east side of city. Address Box X, Intelligencer Office. j24-2t

Machine fitters and erectors wanted for heavy work. Box G, Intelligencer. m,w,f

By lady, plain table board with nicely furnished room. Will pay highest price. Address for two days. Miss Verne Shibley, Belleville, Ont. j22-2t

Traveller Wanted. Teas. House to house. Others clear Twenty Dollars weekly. Why not you? Alfred Tyler, London, Ontario.

FOR SALE.

House, on easy terms, a comfortable eight-roomed house on Victoria avenue. Apply Box 1054. 23-2t

Wanted—A printer at once, male or female. Steady position.—The Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont. d&wtf

The Canada Life Assurance Co. want a good live agent for Belleville, Trenton, Madoc and vicinity. Applications and recommendations received by J. O. Hutton, Mgr. Canada Life Ass'n Co., Kingston. j8-tf

Wanted.—Agents to solicit subscriptions to The Weekly Intelligencer with their four magazine premiums—5 papers, all for one year, $1.00. Liberal terms. Good money for sharp canvassers. Get samples. Send for terms.—The Weekly Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont. o5d&wtf

ROBBIE BURNS' BIRTHDAY

WAS JOYFULLY AND FITTINGLY CELEBRATED BY MEMBERS OF CAMP ROB ROY ON THURSDAY EVENING.

That the memory of Robbie Burns is dear to all who love the heather hills of Bonnie Scotland is in evidence every 25th of January, not only by the extra number of bonnets and the cherished sprig of heather, but by the little extra burr and the warm hand grip of Scot wi' Scot as they meet each other on each recurring anniversary of his birth; and as the day wanes and the "nicht" comes on, true Scots love to gather together and enjoy the season, as they well know how to do. This the members of the local camp of the Sons of Scotland proceeded to do after the installation of their new officers last Thursday evening.

The chair was occupied by the newly-installed Chief, Mr. T. C. Forrester. Speeches eulogistic of the Ploughman Poet, given by several of the newly-installed officers, were followed by Scottish airs on the flute by the Chieftain, Scottish songs, readings, recitations, reels, strathspeys, hornpipes and the Highland fling by artists in each; and neither last nor least, but here and there all the way through, the enthusiasm was raised to highest pitch by the stirring tunes on the bag-pipes, by Bro. Wm. McIntosh, Camp Piper, and by Mr. Donald Campbell, lately of Inverness, Scotland.

The ability of the members of Camp Rob Roy, S.O.S., to entertain their friends on St. Andrew's night is well-known to many of us, but when they undertake to entertain themselves there is nothing like a Burns nicht.

To call to their minds the hill and heather,
The land of the mountain, the lake and the river,
The land of the plaidie, the kilt and the feather,
The land of their forefathers—Scotland forever.

"CANADIAN" RUBBERS

"The mark of quality" on "Canadian" Rubbers means the highest rubber excellence. "Canadian" Rubbers have the quality that alone stands the changeable Canadian climate.

THE CANADIAN RUBBER CO OF MONTREAL LIMITED

THE MARK OF QUALITY.

To-morrow's International Sunday School Lesson.

DEN TEXT IS "PREPARE YOUR HEARTS UNTO THE LORD, AND SERVE HIM ONLY."

(By William T. Ellis.)

Most of the biographies, like that of Carl Schurz, which is now running in one of the magazines, give large space to the preparation period of a life. Boyhood is esteemed worthy of several chapters. So is the early environment. Likewise the school days and the varied influences that led up to the public career. Not so in the greatest Biography of them all. There is a brief vision of the Babe, then a fleeting glance of the twelve-year-old boy—and then eighteen unrecorded years.

That long, character-fraught silence, when the Boy grew to manhood in Nazareth and acquired knowledge of many other things besides the carpenter's trade, was abruptly and dramatically broken. This lesson tells the story.

A SENSATIONAL PREACHER.

Two great characters were in preparation for their work at this time, and they were cousins. The first, in point of age, for he was six months older than Jesus, was John, the son of Zacharias and Elizabeth, whose birth had been attended by signs and wonders. He had been trained in solicitude. The most picturesque character in the New Testament, he was the wilderness man, the successor to Elijah, and the last of the Old Dispensation prophets. Jesus got His equipment by close association with men; John walked apart from men. Jesus came eating and drinking; John was a hairy ascetic, with none of the gloss of civilization about him. Amid the desolations of the desert he had communed with God and received His message.

Suddenly he burst forth as a fearless, flaming preacher of repentance and righteousness. Even ears dull by the sound of much preaching hearkened to his vital note. He was a voice in a world full of echoes. Imitations abounded; he was an original. Then, as now, the secret of big or little congregations is ultimately with the message and the man. Every empty church needs but a John the Baptist to fill it.

He was a sensational preacher, was John. He talked for the times. His words had to do with present things. Every class was touched on its tenderest spots by this knife-tongued evangelist. The man who tries to bring practical righteousness to pass is bound to be called a sensationalist; yet all the while the preaching and teaching to be condemned is what which does not awaken any sensations.

A GREAT HERALD OF A GREATER.

John called himself a herald. He was merely a preparer. He blazed the way for One Who Was to Come. Some saw him as the divinely-promised fore-runner, the messenger who should go before the face of the Messiah.

His business was to cry aloud for straight paths. The Lord cannot walk a crooked way; every man who expects to keep company with Christ must straighten out the devious turnings and twistings of his life. In John's view, repentance, restitution, righteousness were closely associated with regeneration. He temporized not a moment with the powerful grafters who wanted to keep their ecclesiastical relations correct. In plain speech that often was scorching, he characterized the sins of his time that society had long condoned. And the John the Baptist note is being heard afresh in this day, to the purging of the churches and the consternation of the wicked.

With all his popularity and power, John knew himself to be only a subordinate; he was a second-place, but not a second-rate man. He was an evangelist who never became puffed with a sense of his own importance. There was no strutting or posing of vanity, such as made offensive the conduct of John Alexander Dowie, who recently claimed to be John the Baptist, come again. The heart of John's message was, "He must increase, I must decrease."

A MAN AS A FINGERBOARD.

This uncouth, rough-spoken, hairy child of the wilderness, with his cloak of camel's hair and his diet of locusts and wild-honey, was really a great man, even judged by contemporary standards alone. Greatness is not dependent upon outward appearances or circumstances. Beecher might wear his hair over his shoulders, but wearing their hair long never made his score of imitators great.

John's greatness lay in doing well his own work. Happy is he who knows himself. To understand one's real place and work in life, though it be but a minor place, and to be conscious of one's limitations, is really a truer success than to be maintaining a station for which one is not fitted. John was not the Christ, he knew he was not, and he would not let flatterers cajole him into taking a place which was not his. To be a fingerboard was John's mission. He had only one ambition—to point men to "The Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world." This was his work and he desired no other. He sincerely felt himself to be unworthy to unloose the sandals of the Coming One. His humility was not a pose, he was not even conscious of it, for as a shrewd man once said, "You can't be humble and know it."

THE STOOPING OF THE MIGHTY.

A pupil may be greater than his teacher, and yet be taught of him. John was merely the announcer of the Messiah, yet to him, in spite of his own reluctance, it was given to baptize the Sinless One. It came to pass on a day as John stood by the bank of the Jordan preaching his old, old, old message of repentance, which set men's hearts to quaking and turned them into ways of right living, that among the gathering throng was One whose appearance suddenly broke the thread of the preacher's sermon. He had been telling of the Coming One, whose baptism would be no mere symbolism, but with the Holy Spirit. Then, as he caught sight of Jesus on the river bank, whither the latter had come from His home in Nazareth, he startled all his hearers by crying, "Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world."

Then came to pass a marvel. Jesus, John's superior and master, insisted on being baptized also. Why? He needed not this cleansing sign of the sinful. No, but He coveted kinship with the sinner. His purpose was to identify Himself with His fellow-men. He took upon Himself all obligations that would serve as ties of brotherhood, and would show His complete oneness with mankind. "It became Him," Dr. A. E. Dunning aptly translates the Scripture, "to do all right things." In the fullest possible degree He wanted to put Himself under the law. He stooped with the sinner that He might conquer sin. The footprints of Jesus may be found in all the common way that humanity walks.

WHEN THE HEAVENS OPENED.

The event was one of extraordinary significance. It marked the beginning of the public ministry of Jesus. All of His own thirty years of living and of John's preaching culminated in this moment. If ever a demonstration was warranted, this was the occasion. We hold a great celebration every time a new ship is launched; here was the entrance into the sea of His public work of the long-expected, completely-prepared life of the Son of Mary.

Rare and marvellous was the observance of that great hour. The eternal realms could not keep silent any more than they could when the Babe was born at Bethlehem. So as Jesus came up out of the water the heavens were rent asunder. In the form of a dove the Holy Spirit descended upon Him—divine reality of which the baptism with water had been but a type. And surely Jesus, no less than every other servant of the Father, needed the supernatural enabling of the mighty incomprehensible, but near and realized Spirit of God.

Furthermore, God gave attestation to the character of the baptized One—His divine credentials, as it were. Out of the heavens came the voice: "Thou art my beloved Son, in Thee I am well pleased." With the approval of the Father and the help of the Spirit, the Son thus entered upon the three years of service that was to effect the redemption of the race.

OPINION OF THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT ANALYST.

I hereby certify that I have analyzed Wilson's Invalids' Port and find it contains the best of Natural Port Wine and Extract of Cinchona Bark as its chief principles. These active principles are blended in the proper proportion to act as an excellent appetizer and a most agreeable tonic and fortifier.

Provincial Government Analyst.

30a

THOSE ANNOYING BLACKHEADS.

External applications will never remove pimples or blackheads. Only by stimulating circulation and purifying the blood can it be done. For quick, sure release from these pests use Ferrozone; it drives all humors from the blood, makes the skin healthy, tones up the system. With the pure, nutritious blood made by Ferrozone it's impossible to suffer from any skin disease. You'll have a smooth, delightful skin, healthy color and beautiful complexion by using Ferrozone—and you'll feel immensely better as well. Fifty cents buys a box containing fifty chocolate-coated tablets at any drug store.

The Dupligraph

Complete Cabinet with three tablets foolscap size, $10.00.

Single Dupligraph Trays foolscap size, $4.00.

The Dupligraph is the simplest, cleanest, quickest and cheapest duplicating machine on the market. It will reproduce exact fac-simile copies of an ordinary type-written or pen-written original at the rate of 50 in five minutes, and requires no expensive supplies. No stencil, roller, silk or wax paper; no trouble, dirt or washing. You simply write whatever you desire in the ordinary way on ordinary paper, and the Dupligraph does the rest.

Write for circulars and samples of work.

For sale in Belleville by

PENMAN & SPRANG,
Sole Manufacturers,
Head Office, 22 Yonge St. Arcade,

EIGHTY-THREE THOUSAND cards of superior quality imported by The Intelligencer Job Department. These cards are the cheapest and best in Canada. Travellers, business and professional men should examine them.

Newbro's Herpicide

Your hairs WILL talk! It doesn't matter how much you try to silence them with heavy veils and broad hats, the ends of the hair will stick out and call to every passer-by, "See how dull and brittle we are! She neglects us shamefully."

Every woman should have beautiful and abundant hair, for nature lavishly rewards those who labor intelligently to preserve and beautify it.

Is your hair oily or sticky? Is it dull or lusterless? Have you dandruff? If so, you should use Newbro's Herpicide at once. It kills the germ or microbe that causes dandruff and falling hair, after which, the hair will grow as nature intended. It stops the itching of the scalp almost instantly and gives assurance of a cure from the very first application. It contains no oil or grease, and is unsurpassed for its daintiness. It makes the hair light and fluffy and gives it a silken gloss.

Send 10c. in stamps for sample to THE HERPICIDE CO., Dept. L, Windsor Ont.

J. S. McKEOWN, - - Special Agent.

Free to You, My Sister

Free to You and Every Sister Woman Suffering from Woman's Ailments

I will mail, free of any charge, my home treatment with full instructions to any sufferer from woman's ailments. I want to tell all women about this cure—you, my reader, for yourself, your daughter, your mother, or your sister. I want to tell you how to cure yourselves at home without the help of a doctor. Men cannot understand woman's sufferings. What we women know from experience we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is a safe and sure cure for Leucorrhoea or Whitish Discharges, Ulceration, Displacement or Falling of the Womb, Profuse, Scanty or Painful Periods, Uterine or Ovarian Tumors or Growths, also pains in the head, back and bowels, bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, hot flashes, weariness, kidney and bladder troubles where caused by weaknesses peculiar to our sex.

I want to send you a complete ten days treatment entirely free to prove to you that you can cure yourself at home, easily, quickly and surely. Remember that it will cost you nothing to give the treatment a complete trial, and if you should wish to continue, it will cost you only about 12 cents a week, or less than two cents a day. It will not interfere with your work or occupation. Just send me your name and address, tell me how you suffer if you wish, and I will send you the treatment for your case, entirely free, in plain wrapper, by return mail. I will also send you free of cost, my book "WOMAN'S OWN MEDICAL ADVISER," with explanatory illustrations showing why women suffer, and how they can easily cure themselves at home. Every woman should have it, and learn to think for herself. Then when the doctor says—"You must have an operation," you can decide for yourself. Thousands of women have cured themselves with my home remedy. It cures all, old or young.

To mothers or daughters, I will explain a simple home treatment which speedily and effectually cures Leucorrhoea, Green Sickness and painful or irregular menstruation in young ladies. Plumpness and health always result from its use.

Wherever you live, I can refer you to ladies of your own locality, who know and will gladly tell any sufferer that this Home Treatment really cures all women's diseases, and makes women well, strong, plump and robust. Just send me your address, and the free ten days treatment is yours, also the book. Write to-day, as you may not see this offer again. Address

MRS. M. SUMMERS
Box No 1. Windsor, Ont.

The Ladies' Class in Physical Culture at the Y.M.C.A. will be reopened on Friday, Jan. 26, at 4.30 p.m. A full course in recreative body-building exercises will be given.

Dinner Sets

We have just received 16 Dinner Setts, in Blue, Pink, Peacock and Green, 98 pieces in sett, including large platter, fruit sett, butter-dish, bread and butter plates, etc.; regular price $7.00, we want a speedy clearance of these goods and will give you your choice for $5.00 per sett, of 98 pieces.

Just think of it, only 5c per piece.

• • •

TOWELS AND TOWELLING.

We have just received our spring shipment of these goods.

Drop in and see our Bath Towels @ 7, 12 1-2, 15, 25c; we think they are the best value ever seen in town.

CHAS. N. SULMAN.

GILLETT'S

HIGH GRADE

CREAM TARTAR

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

SOLD IN PACKAGES AND CANS.

Same Price as the cheap adulterated kinds.

E. W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
TORONTO, ONT.

RHEUMATISM

I will refund your money if it fails.

Price 25c.

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure seldom fails to relieve pains in legs, arms, back, stiff or swollen joints in a few hours. Positively cures in a few days. It does not put the disease to sleep, but drives it from the system. —MUNYON.

GLASSES THAT BEAUTIFY.

Eye strain causes that worn, worried look which mars otherwise beautiful features.

This can be removed by correct and up-to-date glasses.

Correct Lense.

Up-to-date Mountings.

Our neat Rimless Eye Glasses and Spectacles please the most exacting.

T. Blackburn.

7 Sutherland Sisters. . .

Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner . .

THE IDEAL HAIR DRESSING'S.

PRICE 50 CTS.

WATERS' DRUG STORE.

New Telephone Directory

The Bell Telephone Company of Canada, Limited, is about to publish a new issue of the Official Telephone Directory for the district of Eastern Ontario, including the town of Belleville.

Orders for new connections, changes of name, changes of street address, or duplicate entries, should be handed to local manager at once.

C. D. DYKE,
LOCAL MANAGER.

Tomatoes stimulate the healthy action of the liver.

THE maxim of many housewives is, "When in doubt blame the flour." This is unfair.

If your baking goes wrong, investigate—find the cause. Look to your stove, your yeast, your baking methods.

If you succeed in pinning the trouble down to the flour—if you clear yourself—then take up the flour question in dead earnest.

Consider that flour, to be successful from a baking standpoint, must be fine to produce light bread or pastry, pure to make that bread or pastry wholesome, and rich in nutriment to make it nourishing.

The good housewives all over the country are learning that has these three qualities in the greatest degree.

Ogilvie's Royal Household

Ogilvie's Royal Household is milled by the most modern methods, purified by the only process that makes for absolute purity and made only from Manitoba Hard Wheat which contains the highest percentage of nutriment.

Royal Household Flour, in competent hands, never disappoints. Your grocer will guarantee this and gladly furnish the flour.

Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Limited
Montreal.

51

"Ogilvie's Book for a Cook," contains 130 pages of excellent recipes, some never published before. Your grocer can tell you how to get it FREE.

The Man Who Knows

"Maple Leaf" Rubber Quality

Has no Desire to try other MAKES.

Are the Lightest

AND LAST THE LONGEST

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES—Belleville. Napanee & Trenton.

ICE CREAM SODA

We are serving Ice Cream Soda this winter as well as the Ice Cream.

A delicious drink we are serving now is a Chocolate Soda made from Lowney's Gold Medal Chocolate.

It is manufactured by an improved process which preserves all the nutritive qualities of the Cocoa Bean and makes a delicious drink either in a soda or hot chocolate.

Ed. F. Dickens.
CATERER

The Intelligencer Bindery

Makes a specialty of Ledgers, Journals, Cash Books and all Descriptions of Blank Account Books.

TIMELY TOPICS.

FAMOUS GLORY SONG.

When all my labors and trials are o'er
And I am safe on that beautiful shore,
Just to be near the dear Lord I adore,
Will thro' the ages be glory for me.

Chorus—

Oh, that will be glory for me,
Glory for me, Glory for me,
When by His grace I shall look on His face,
That will be glory, be glory for me.

When by the gift of His infinite grace,
I am accorded in Heaven a place,
Jus to be there and look on His face,
Will thro' the ages be glory for me.

Friends will be there I have loved long ago,
Joy like a river around me will flow;
Yet, just a smile from my Saviour, I know
Will thro' the ages be glory for me.

* * *

An Illinois physician says coal gas will prevent consumption. It all depends on the amount you take.

* * *

The practice of the cultivation of whiskers by the Russian soldiery is not without its good points. It is said nearly every Jap who participated in the late war, has a mattress of his own now.

* * *

After the glowing picture of Mars as painted by the French astronomer, it's plain that the recent mild spell was caused by the mercury endeavoring to climb up to that planet.

* * *

If this reported improvement in the construction of battleships continues, all a nation will have to do when war threatens will be to start building a battleship, to defeat the other fellows.

* * *

The United States leads the world in railway mileage, also in railway accidents, also in railway watered stock.

* * *

Just the same we maintain that there will be more cold than we will know what to do with before roses bloom again.

* * *

It is also possible that the women do not vote because, there being no looking glasses in most of the booths a woman can never tell whether or no she has got her ballot on straight.

* * *

The Emperor of Germany has had to take out a shooting license the same as the commonest of his subjects. It is understood that his Imperial brother the Czar complains that there is a lot of unlicensed shooting being done in his empire.

* * *

It has been estimated that in 1904 travellers abroad from the United States spent $190,000,000 in foreign lands, and a conference of western business men has been called to meet to-day at Salt Lake City to discuss ways and means of diverting part of this outlay into American channels. The great difficulty in the way is the superiority of historic associations to natural scenery as a means of arousing human interest.

* * *

Judging by the following, from the Vancouver World, that city must be pretty nearly an earthly paradise. The bright sunshine, the clear, bracing air; the warm days and delightfully cool nights; the distant mountains covered with virgin robes of immaculate whiteness; the absence of snow and ice on the lowlands; the long train of cars laden with passengers and freight, arriving and departing hourly; the great ships entering and clearing at the customs house; outdoor industries prosecuted without a moment's interruption; the green grass growing in the fields and gardens, and tender plants raising their heads to bathe in the rays of the mid-winter sun — such is the picture that presents itself to the eye and captivates the senses of all in this favored city.

* * *

If, as may easily be supposed, this winter proves to be one in fifty in the matter of mildness, the men of to-day who live to tell, half a century from now, about this unusual season will no doubt be regarded as a little lower than the teller of fishing or hunting stories. However little they may exaggerate, they will likely be quietly but plainly disbelieved. Would it not be well, therefore, remarks an esteemed contemporary, for the proper authorities to give out sworn statements on all true weather stories which the observatory records will not cover? Such a course would free many a man, years hence, from being charged with prevarication. While this weather continues it is easy enough to believe the stories of winter ploughing, summer waists, robins and other things unusual in winter, but it will be another matter to have oneself believed when this winter is a thing of the past and the thermometer indicates thirty below. One may doubt even his own memory at such a time, and authenticated weather stories would therefore then be doubly valuable. There are those who will fail to see the value of this suggestion, but look how much easier it would be, were proofs at hand, to believe the oldest inhabitant's statement that in 1832 he "slept all winter" 'thout no bedclothes and the skeeters bit fearful!"

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

FEW PEOPLE KNOW HOW USEFUL IT IS IN PRESERVING HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics, in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says, "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefitted by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

SANTAL-MIDY
Standard remedy for Gleet, Gonorrhea and Runnings IN 48 HOURS. Cures Kidney and Bladder Troubles.
MIDY

RUSS TOWNS IN FLAMES

Kwirila Revolutionists Fight a Regular Battle.

Several Severe Encounters With the Troops Reported in the Caucasus—Mutiny Has Broken Out Among Reserve Men, Who Are Thoroughly Undisciplined, at Vladivostock—Clamoring for Transportation Home.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 27.—Railroad communication with the Caucasus generally has been restored. The revolutionists of Guria and Mingrelia are retiring to the mountains, obstinately resisting the advance of the troops. The revolutionists who were driven from Kwirila rallied Thursday and fought a regular battle, advancing on the troops. Other severe encounters are reported. Several towns besides Kwirila are in flames.

A revolution has broken out in Northern Caucasus. The mountaineers around Ekaterinodar have risen and are making frequent forays. A large detachment of Cossacks have been sent to restore order.

Advices from Ekaterinoslav, South Russia, say that the inhabitants of several villages in that vicinity have been rioting and engaging in various excesses, making it necessary to employ artillery to subdue them.

Government Is Relaxing.

The Government has been relaxing its repressive measures since Jan. 22. Many of the persons arrested have been released and the right of assembly will be restored.

According to advices received here, a mutiny has again broken out at Vladivostock. No details are available, the censorship being operative over press and private telegrams. But a report that Gen. Selvinoff, the commander of the army corps here, has been wounded is confirmed.

The War Department officials are unable to give particulars of the seriousness of the mutiny, which is due to the reserve men, who are thoroughly undisciplined, and are clamoring for their immediate transportation home, though the Government has given them precedence over the trans-Siberian Railroad, in addition to chartering all the available steamers.

Killed Wrong Man.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 27.—Col. Prosorovski, chief of the gendarmerie at Penza, East Russia, has been informed by the local revolutionary organization that the recent murder of Col. Lisovski, commanding the 78th Infantry division, by members of the organization was a blunder. He had been mistaken for Col. Prosorovski, and the organization has now notified the latter that the error will shortly be rectified.

ASKED TO ENTERTAIN.

Yankee Editors Coming to Write Up Our Cities.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—Notifications from the National Educational Association of United States were received yesterday at the City Hall, the Board of Trade and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, informing them that this association would visit Canada in the spring, and asking that the city, the Board of Trade and the C. M. A. entertain them when in the city in return for extensive editorial writing on pertinent subjects in Canadian cities.

Starting on June 24 with about 400 members they will represent newspapers in every state in the Union.

The party will visit Detroit, Chicago, and running through Eastern Canada will visit Toronto, Ottawa, Kingston, Montreal, Quebec, and all other points on the route where arrangements can be made.

MAY WALK AFTER 20 YEARS.

Operation Performed in Detroit Which Medical Men Will Watch.

Detroit, Jan. 27.—Twenty years ago Arthur J. Dunn of Chatham, then a boy 12 years of age, was pinned to the ground by the breaking of a circus tent pole and his spine so badly injured that he has not since then had the use of his legs.

Yesterday he was operated upon at St. Mary's Hospital, Detroit, and parts of the vertebrae pressing against the spinal chord were removed.

It is confidently believed that he will regain the use of his legs and the ability to walk.

May Expropriate "Bell."

Winnipeg, Jan. 27.—The first step in the Government's telephone program was revealed yesterday by a notice of motion by Hon. Colin Campbell, Attorney-General, that he will, on Monday night, move to refer the whole matter to a select committee, composed of members from both sides of the House. It is believed the Government will make known the general lines of their policy then. The House is being flooded with petitions asking for Government ownership of the telephone systems of the province. It is thought that the Ministry will introduce a measure to buy out the Bell Telephone people, and will provide for expropriation, if they do not consent.

Sheep Thieves Busy.

Galt, Jan. 27.—Sheep thieves made a haul at the McClure homestead, Beverley, Thursday night, getting away with six valuable lambs.

ARTIFICIAL LEGS

Established in 1860, an advantage of 44 years solid practical experience. This is why we make THE BEST LEG ON RECORD.

AUTHORS & COX.
35 A. CHURCH ST., TORONTO.

We should be careful about taking things as they come. Many a man has got into jail just that way.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

For The Winter
GO TO CALIFORNIA, MEXICO OR FLORIDA.
"The land of Summer's sunshine"

TOUR OF ALL MEXICO
Leaving Toronto on Jan. 29th covering all points of interest.
Special reduced rates.

Mount Clemmens "Mineral Baths" and St. Catherines Mineral Springs, delightful resorts for those who need a rest. Best of hotel accommodation.

For tickets and full information call on

H. C. THOMPSON,
Town Agent.
T. H. COPPIN,
Depot Agent.

Hotel Belleclaire
Broadway and 77th Street,
New York.

Seventh Avenue, Amsterdam Ave. and West 79th St. Cars pass the door.
Luxurious rooms for permanent and transient guests.
Restaurant a Feature.
Exquisite Palm Room.
Art Nouveau Cafe.
Royal Hungarian Orchestra.

"Most Artistically Beautiful Hotel in the World." Can offer few single rooms, with bath, beautifully furnished, suitable for two people, $80 per month.

TRANSIENT RATES:
One Room, with bath $2.50 per day
Parlor, Bedroom, with bath, $3 and $5 per day
Parlor, 2 Bedrooms, with bath, $5 and $7 per day
Every improvement known to modern ingenuity.
Write for our magazine, "The Hotel Belleclaire World."

MILTON ROBLEE, Proprietor.

HOTEL TOURAINE
Delaware Ave. & Johnson Park
BUFFALO, N. Y.

A modern, high-class and convenient stopping place, offering every accommodation for the comfort and pleasure of transient guests. Moderate prices.

Harry C. Griswold, Proprietor.

NEW YORK CENTRAL
& Hudson River R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST
Daily except Sunday

Lv. Belleville (G. T. R.		1.39 a.m.	noon
Arr. Kingston	"	3.25 a.m.	1.25 p.m.
Lv. Kingston (steamer)		5.00 a.m.	2.00 p.m.
Arr. CapeVincent (str.)		7.00 a.m.	4.00 p.m
Mondays only
Lv. CapeVincent N.Y.C.		7.15 a.m.	4.50 p.m.
Arr. Watertown	"	8.10 a.m.	5.50 p.m.
Arr. Oswego	"	11.59 a.m.	9.12 p.m.
Arr Syracuse	"	12.13 p.m.	9.33 p m
Arr. Rochester	"	2.28 p.m.	....
Arr. Utica	"	12.20 a.m.	9.00 p.m.
Arr. New York	"	5.48 p.m.	7.12 a.m.

Convenient train service in opposite direction

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10, while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C.R.R. of New Jersey, cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from H. S. Folger, N.Y.C. agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
General Pass'r Agent,
New York.
A. H. SMITH, General Manager,
New York.
G. O. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

REASONS WHY You should travel via C.P.R.

TRAINS at convenient hours to all points Atlantic to Pacific.

EQUIPMENT is up-to-date in every respect built for comfort.

SLEEPING CARS have earned an enviable reputation for their luxurious appointments and modern conveniences.

DINING CARS are unequalled for excellence of service and attendance.

For booklets, train service, tickets, etc., call on nearest Canadian Pacific Agent

Or write C. B. Foster, D. P. A., Toronto.

S. BURROWS,
C. P. R. Agent, Belleville.

Business Directory.

MUSICAL.

W. H. SPOONER,

Associate of Trinity College, London, Eng. Organist of St. Thomas Church, receives pupils for Piano forte, Organ, Vocal and all branches of Theoretical Music. Apply at studio, Coleman St., or by letter, P. O. 932.
56-6m

MEDICAL.

McLEAN CAVERLY, M. D., C. M., M. C. P. S. O.

Office, at residence, No 99 West Bridge street. Office hours 9 to 10 a.m.; 1 to 3, and 7 to 8 p.m. No regular office hours on Sundays. Telephone 325.

JONH J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.C. C. S., England.

Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. WILSON,

J. M. Wilson. D. D. Wilson,

Located in Dr. Lockridge's old office, opposite Wallbridge and Clarke's, Bridge street, Belleville.
jy13-d & wly

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT,

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, &c., Belleville.

Office—9 Campbell Street.

Malcolm Wright. J. Franklin Wills.

Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B.C.L.,

Barrister, &c.

Solicitor for City of Belleville.

Office—City Hall.

PORTER & CARNEW,

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.

Offices—Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.

'Phone 67.

E. Guss Porter. Wm. Carnew.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,

Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office Bridge St., Belleville.

Money to Loan.—Private Funds at lowest rates. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario, and for the Merchants Bank of Canada.

NORTHRUP & ROBERTS,

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public.

Offices—North Bridge St., opposite Post Office, Belleville, Ont.

Solicitors for Bank of Montreal.

Money to loan at 5 per cent.

W. B. Northrup, K. C., M. P.

jy27-d&wtf A. A. ROBERTS.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,

(Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q. C.)

Barrister, Solicitor Conveyancer, etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent. on easy terms upon good land security.

Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire, Life, Accident and Plate Glass

INSURANCE AGENCIES.

The Guardian

Ins. Co. of North America,

Quebec and Metropolitan Fire Co's.

Insures farm and city property at lowest rates.

Canadian Railway Accident Ins. Co.

Office Campbell St., Belleville, Ont.

R. W. ADAMS.

THOMAS STEWART,

INSURANCE AND REAL ESTATE.

Agent Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society, Scottish Union & National Insurance Co., North British & Mercantile Insurance Co., London & Lancaster Insurance Co., Dominion of Canada Guarantee & Accident Co., Equitable Life of New York, New York Plate Glass Insurance Co.

Bridge St., Belleville.

Fire, Life and Plate Glass Insurance.

Liverpool & London & Globe of England.

Waterloo Mutual of Waterloo, Ont.

Lloyd's Plate Glass.

Home Life Association, Toronto.

North British Mercantile.

Farm and City Property insured in first-class, reliable companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation and transact general Real Estate business, and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan.

W. P. HUDSON, office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle St., opposite Post Office and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.

'Phone 163.

Money Saved is Money Earned.

I can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.

The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co.

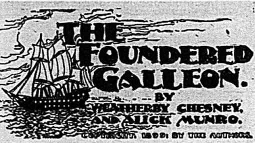
The Merchants' Fire Ins. Co.

The Equity Fire Ins. Co.

are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at a lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.

H. FREEMAN KETCHESON.

Office—Bridge St.



THE FOUNDERED GALLEON.

BY WEATHERBY CHESNEY, AND ALICK MUNRO.

COPYRIGHT 1899: BY THE AUTHORS.

was lowered—the whaleboat which they had left on the beach at Piper's cay—and eight negroes tumbled into her, leaving only the helmsman on their own vessel.

Under six oars the boat came rapidly on. The lean, hot eyed captain and the white headed mulatto were standing up in her stern, with pistols leveled in their hands. Half a dozen boat's lengths off the rowers rested on their oars.

"Ketch ahoy!" shouted the mulatto, showing his white teeth in an evil grin. "We've come for our share of that gold you've got. Now, gentlemen, if you're sensible you'll hand over quietly and we won't hurt any of you—except the big, fat chap; I owe him one on my own account. If you're foolish I'd point out to you that there are two of us here with pistols and those pistols are leveled straight at that pretty young woman's heart at the present moment, and, as we haven't forgotten how she dipped the ensign to us the other day, I shouldn't trust too much, if I were you, to the chance of the said pistols missing fire. You were precious funny when you thought you'd got the better of us, weren't you? Well, I guess it's our turn to do the smiling business now!"

CHAPTER XXIII.

HOME AGAIN.

The Eureka was in the Bristol channel once more, flying for a pilot off Cardiff. Dolly and Guthrie were on deck, standing side by side and watching the press of shipping in the channel. They had many things to say to one another just now, these two, for the great adventure had been carried through to its hoped for termination at last and now the future was calling for its plans.

What, then, had become of the turtle schooner and her thievish crew?

For the second time Cain Laversha had routed them, and by the mere force of his enormous muscles had saved the situation when it seemed to be most desperate. While the white headed mulatto was uttering threats of vengeance, the drift had carried the whaleboat within a short 80 feet of the ketch's side. Cain Laversha had been below when the schooner was first sighted, busy packing away the few remaining cylinders of oxygen, which, now that all the undersurface work was over, would no longer be needed. The commotion on deck had passed unnoticed, or, if he was conscious that something unusual was afoot, that did not strike him as giving any cause why he should not go on with the piece of work on which he was engaged.

Now, it so happened that there was one cylinder more than would go into the chest into which Dr. Tring had told him to put them, so Cain took this one in his arms and made his way up on deck with it, to ask for further instructions regarding its disposal. He emerged from the hatch just as the mulatto had finished the speech with which the last chapter ended.

Now, this mulatto, unfortunately for himself and for his companions' hopes, was a man of quick temper. No sooner, therefore, did he catch sight of the burly farmer than in a flash of ungovernable fury he remembered the uncomfortable night which he had spent on board the schooner, with his neck pinned in the skylight by the immovable mass of Cain's 20 stone of flesh. With a hot, rasping oath, he diverted the aim of the pistol which he had told the Eurekas was pointed dead at Dolly's heart, and fired instead at his old adversary, point blank.

The bullet whipped off Cain's cap. The farmer felt the wind of it, looked up in surprise, saw the white headed old ruffian whose shot some days ago had shredded off his ear, and with a roaring bellow of rage hurled the heavy iron cylinder he was carrying.

The cylinder struck one of the thwarts of the whaleboat, exploded with a dull shock and blew the bottom out of her. In three seconds the eight negroes were struggling in the water. "Lower away the jolly!" cried Captain Colepepper.

It was done, and Tom Jelly and Henrietta were just going to tumble down into her.

"No!" roared the captain. "Stay on deck. Bend a rope to the painter and push her out to them with a boat hook. They can all swim, it seems, and the explosion doesn't appear to have stunned any of 'em, strange to say. Let 'em scramble into her themselves. Hold on to the rope, though. Don't let her get out of your hands, whatever you do!"

The eight negroes managed to scramble into the boat one by one, while Captain Colepepper leaned over the side and covered them with the little nickel plated revolver which was one of the trophies of the former encounter. The negroes' own pistols were half way to the bottom of the ocean by this time, so they were powerless.

"Now, you black vermin," said the captain savagely, "if a single man jack of you so much as makes a move to cast that painter off, I'll put a bullet through him. Threatened to shoot my daughter, did you? Now, I'm just going to give you a free tow for half a dozen miles and then cast you off to make the best of your way back to that pirate ship of yours. I'll have to make you a present of my boat to do it in, unfortunately, but as the farmer has smashed up your own, which was a better one, I won't grumble at that. All hands make sail on the Eureka! I'll see to these gentry myself."

Captain Colepepper leaned over the side and covered them.

Half an hour later the captain gave orders to cast the boat off, and a couple of oars were thrown overboard to the negroes. By nightfall the single remaining mast of the schooner was dropped below the western horizon, and the Eureka's people were done with her and her piratical crew forever. This was the second occasion during the trip on which Cain Laversha was known to have lost his temper, and the occurrence was duly noted in the ketch's log as one of the phenomena of the voyage.

• • • • • • •

And now the Bristol pilot was in charge, and the Eureka was standing board and board up the great estuary of western England.

"Dolly," remarked the undergraduate presently after a short pause, "have you forgotten a bargain which we made some weeks ago?"

The girl shot a shy glance at him and then looked away.

"No, Alan," she whispered in the softest little tone of shyness.

"Well, are you ready to ratify it?"

"How?"

"Be my wife."

Dolly laughed gayly. "Your memory fails you, I think, Mr. Guthrie," said she. "That wasn't the bargain at all!"

"No? What was it, then, I'd like to know?"

"Father's in the cabin—alone, I think," murmured Dolly inconsequently.

But the young man understood. He imprisoned the girl's hand for a brief moment and gave it a squeeze. Then he turned away and marched boldly down into the cabin.

What Captain Colepepper's answer was likely to be may be gathered from a recollection of a certain conversation between him and Dr. Tring on the last morning but one at Piper's cay.

THE END.

Revenge.

He—I only married you out of pique.

She—I knew it. That was why I accepted you.—Philadelphia North American.

Three Vessels Ashore.

Bristol, Eng., Jan. 24.—Three vessels, the Bristol liner Exeter City, from New York; the British steamer Trevioland and the British steamer Faithful ran ashore in a bunch in the River Avon yesterday during a dense fog. They remain fast, but are in no immediate danger.

KELPION

It's a Healing Ointment

25 Cents.

Why tax the system with drugs to cure a purely local blemish?

KELPION, a stainless Iodine ointment, externally applied will remove all

Eruptions of the Skin,
Inflammations of the Tissue,
Irritations of the Membrane,
Enlargements and Morbid Growths,

No matter how long standing the conditions may be.

ASK YOUR PHYSICIAN.
BUY FROM YOUR DRUGGIST.

601

Geo. Brown & Co., Toronto.

The Madness of Private Ortheris

By RUDYARD KIPLING.

Oh! Where would I be when my froat was dry?
Oh! Where would I be when the bullets fly?
Oh! Where would I be when I come to die?
Why,
Somewheres anigh my chum.
If 'e's liquor, 'e'll give me some;
If I'm dyin, 'e'll 'old my 'ead,
An 'e'll write 'em 'ome when I'm dead.
Gawd send us a trusty chum!
—Barrack Room Ballad.

My friends Mulvaney and Ortheris had gone on a shooting expedition for one day. Learoyd was still in hospital, recovering from fever picked up in Burma. They sent me an invitation to join them and were genuinely pained when I brought beer—almost enough beer to satisfy two privates of the line—and me.

"'Twasn't for that we bid you welkim, sorr," said Mulvaney sulkily. "'Twas for the pleasure av your comp'ny."

Ortheris came to the rescue. "Well, 'e won't be none the worse for bringin liquor with'm. We ain't a file o' dooks. We're bloomin Tommies, ye cantanbris Hirishman, an 'ere's your very good 'ealth!"

We shot all the forenoon and killed two pariah dogs, four green parrots, sitting, one kite by the burning ghaut, one snake flying, one mud turtle and eight crows. Game was plentiful. Then we sat down to tiffin—"bull mate an bran bread," Mulvaney called it—by the side of the river and took pot shots at the crocodiles in the intervals of cutting up the food with our only pocketknife. Then we drank up all the beer and threw the bottles into the water and fired at them. After that, we eased belts and stretched ourselves on the warm sand and smoked. We were too lazy to continue shooting.

Ortheris heaved a big sigh as he lay on his stomach with his head between his fists. Then he swore quietly into the blue sky.

"Fwhat's that for?" said Mulvaney. "Have you not drunk enough?"

"Tott'nim Court road, an a gal I fancied there. Wot's the good o' sodgerin?"

"Orth'ris, me son," said Mulvaney hastily, "'tis more than likely you've got throuble in your inside with the beer. I feel that way mesilf whin my liver gets rusty."

Ortheris went on slowly, not heeding the interruption:

"I'm a Tommy—a bloomin, eight-anna, dogstealin Tommy, with a number instead of a decent name. Wot's the good o' me? If I 'ad 'a' staid at 'ome, I might 'a' married that gal an kep' a little shorp in the 'Ammersmith Igh—'S. Orth'ris, Prac-ti-cal Taxi-dermist.' With a stuff' fox, like they 'as in the Haylesbury dairies, in the winder, an a little case of blue an yaller glass heyes, an a little wife to call, 'Shorp!' 'Shorp!' when the doorbell rung. As it his, I'm on'y a Tommy—a bloomin, Gawd forsaken, beer swillin Tommy. 'Rest on your harms—'versed. Stan' at—hease; 'shun. 'Verse—harms. Right an lef'—tarrn. Slow—march. 'Alt—frent. Rest on your harms—'versed. With blank cartridge—load.' An that's the end o' me." He was quoting fragments from funeral parties' orders.

"Stop ut!" shouted Mulvaney. "Whin you've fired into nothin as often as me, over a better man than yoursilf, you will not make a mock av thim orders. 'Tis worse than whistlin the dead march in barricks. An you full as a tick, an the sun cool, an all an all! I take shame for you. You're no better than a pagin—you an your firin parties an your glass eyes. Won't you stop ut, sorr?"

What could I do? Could I tell Ortheris anything that he did not know of the pleasures of his life? I was not a chaplain nor a subaltern, and Otheris had a right to speak as he thought fit.

"Let him run, Mulvaney," I said. "It's the beer."

"No! 'Tisn't the beer," said Mulvaney. "I know fwhat's comin. He's tuk this way now an ag'in, an ut's bad—ut's bad—for I'm fond av the bhoy."

Indeed, Mulvaney seemed needlessly anxious, but I knew that he looked after Ortheris in a fatherly way.

"Let me talk, let me talk," said Ortheris dreamily. "D'you stop your parrit screamin of a 'ot day, when the cage is a-cookin 'is pore little pink toes orf, Mulvaney?"

"Pink toes! D'you mane to say you've pink toes under your bullswools, you blandanderin" —Mulvaney gathered himself together for a terrific denunciation—"schoolmisthress! Pink toes! How much Bass wid the label did that ravin child dhrink?"

"'Tain't Bass," said Ortheris. "It's a bitterer beer nor that. It's 'omesickness!"

"Hark to him! An he's goin home in the Sherapis in the inside av four months!"

"I don't care. It's all one to me. 'Ow d'you know I ain't 'fraid o' dyin 'fore I gets my papers?" He recommenced, in a singsong voice, the funeral orders.

I had never seen this side of Ortheris' character before, but evidently Mulvaney had and attached serious importance to it. While Ortheris babbled, with his head on his arms, Mulvaney whispered to me:

"He's always tuk this way whin he's been checked overmuch by the childher they make sarjints nowadays—that an havin nothin to do. I can't make ut out anyways."

"Well, what does it matter? Let him talk himself through."

Ortheris began singing a parody of "The Ramrod Corps," full of cheerful illusions to battle, murder and sudden death. He looked out across the river as he sang, and his face was quite strange to me. Mulvaney caught me by the elbow to insure attention.

"Matther? Ut matthers everything! Tis some sort av fit that's on him. I've seen ut. 'Twill hould him all this night, an in the middle av ut he'll out av his cot an go rakin in the rack for his 'coutermenta. Thin he'll come over to me an say: 'I'm goin to Bombay. Answer for me in the mornin.' Thin me an him will fight as we've done before—him to go an me to hould him—an so we'll both come on the books for disturbin in barricks. I've belted him, an I've bruk his head, an I've talked to him, but 'tis no manner av use whin the fit's on him. He's as good a bhoy as ever stepped whin his mind's clear. I know fwhat's comin, though, this night in barricks. Lord send he doesn't loose off whin I rise for to knock him down. 'Tis that that's in my mind day an night."

This put the case in a much less pleasant light and fully accounted for Mulvaney's anxiety. He seemed to be trying to coax Ortheris out of the "fit," for he shouted down the bank where the boy was lying:

"Listen, now, you wid the 'pore pink toes' an the glass eyes! Did you shwim the Irawadi at night, behin' me, as a bhoy shud, or were you hidin under a bed, as you was at Ahmed Kheyl?"

This was at once a gross insult and a direct lie, and Mulvaney meant it to bring on a fight. But Ortheris seemed shut up in some sort of trance. He answered slowly, without a sign of irritation, in the same cadenced voice as he had used for his firing party orders.

"Hi swum the Irawadi in the night, as you know, for to take the town of Lungtungpen, nakid an without fear. Hand where I was at Ahmed Kheyl you know, an four bloomin pathans know too. But that was summat to do, an I didn't think o' dyin. Now I'm sick to go 'ome—go 'ome—go 'ome! No, I ain't mammy sick, because my uncle brung me up, but I'm sick for London again; sick for the sounds o' 'er, an the sights o' 'er, an the stinks o' 'er—orange peel an hasphalte an gas comin in over Vaux'all bridge; sick for the rail goin down to Box'Ill, with your gal on your knee an a new clay pipe in your face. That, an the Stran' lights where you knows ev'ry one, an the copper that takes you up is a old friend that tuk you up before, when you was a little, smitchy boy lyin loose 'tween the Temple an the dark harches. No bloomin guard mountin, no bloomin rotten stone, nor khaki, an yourself your own master, with a gal to take an see the humaners practicin a-hookin dead corpses out o' the Serpentine o' Sundays. An I lef' all that for to serve the widder beyond the seas where there ain't no women an there ain't no liquor worth 'avin, an there ain't nothin to see, nor do, nor say, nor feel, nor think. Lord love you, Stanley Orth'ris, but you're a bigger bloomin fool than the rest o' the reg'ment an Mulvaney wired together! There's the widder sittin at 'ome with a gold crown'd on 'er 'ead, an 'ere am Hi, Stanley Orth'ris, the widder's property, a rottin fool!"

His voice rose at the end of the sentence, and he wound up with a six shot Anglo-Vernacular oath. Mulvaney said nothing, but looked at me as if he expected that I could bring peace to poor Ortheris' troubled brain.

I remembered once at Rawal Pindi having seen a man, nearly mad with drink, sobered by being made a fool of. Some regiments may know what I mean. I hoped that we might shake off Ortheris in the same way, though he was perfectly sober, so I said:

"What's the use of grousing there and speaking against the widow?"

"I didn't!" said Ortheris. "S'elp me Gawd, I never said a word ag'in 'er, an I wouldn't—not if I was to desert this minute!"

Here was my opening. "Well, you meant to, anyhow. What's the use of cracking on for nothing? Would you slip it now if you got the chance?"

"On'y try me!" said Ortheris, jumping to his feet as if he had been stung.

Mulvaney jumped too. "Fwhat are you goin to do?" said he.

"Help Ortheris down to Bombay or Karachi, whichever he likes. You can report that he separated from you before tiffin and left his gun on the bank here!"

"I'm to report that—am I?" said Mulvaney slowly. "Very well! If Orth'ris manes to desert now an will desert now, an you, sorr, who have been a friend to me an to him, will help him to ut, I, Terence Mulvaney, on my oath, which I've never bruk yet, will report as you say. But"—here he stepped up to Ortheris and shook the stock of the fowling piece in his face—"your fistes help you, Stanley Orth'ris, if ever I come across you ag'in!"

"I don't care!" said Ortheris. "I'm sick o' this dorg's life. Give me a chanst. Don't play with me. Le' me go!"

"Strip," said I, "and change with me and then I'll tell you what to do."

I hoped that the absurdity of this would check Ortheris, but he had kicked off his ammunition boots and got rid of his tunic almost before I had loosed my shirt collar. Mulvaney gripped me by the arm.

"The fit's on him; the fit's workin on him still. By my honor an sowl, we shall be accessory to a desertion yet; only 28 days, as you say, sorr, or 56, but think av the shame—the black shame to him an me!" I had never seen Mulvaney so excited.

But Ortheris was quite calm, and, as soon as he had exchanged clothes with me and I stood up, a private of the line, he said shortly: "Now! Come on. What nex'? D'you mean fair. What must I do to get out o' this 'ere hell?"

I told him that if he would wait for two or three hours near the river I would ride into the station and come back with 100 rupees. He would, with that money in his pocket, walk to the nearest side station on the line, about five miles away, and would there take a first class ticket for Karachi. Knowing that he had no money on him when he went out shooting, his regiment would not immediately wire to the seaports, but would hunt for him in the native villages near the river. Further, no one would think of seeking a deserter in a first class carriage. At Karachi he was to buy white clothes and ship, if he could, on a cargo steamer.

Here he broke in. If I helped him to Karachi, he would arrange all the rest. Then I ordered him to wait where he was until it was dark enough for me to ride into the station without my dress being noticed. Now, God in his wisdom has made the heart of the British soldier, who is very often an unlicked ruffian, as soft as the heart of a little child in order that he may believe in and follow his officers into tight and nasty places. He does not so readily come to believe in a "civilian," but when he does he believes implicitly and like a dog. I had had the honor of the friendship of Private Ortheris, at intervals, for more than three years, and we had dealt with each other as man by man. Consequently he considered that all my words were true and not spoken lightly.

Mulvaney and I left him in the high grass near the river bank and went away, still keeping to the high grass, toward my horse. The shirt scratched me horribly.

We waited nearly two hours for the dusk to fall and allow me to ride off. We spoke of Ortheris in whispers and strained our ears to catch any sound from the spot where we had left him. But we heard nothing except the wind in the plume grass.

"I've bruk his head," said Mulvaney earnestly, "time an ag'in. I've nearly kilt him wid the belt, an yet I can't knock thim fits out av his soft head. No! An he's not soft, for he's reasonable an likely by natur'. Fwhat is ut? Is ut his breedin which is nothin, or his edukashin which he niver got? You that think you know things, answer me that."

But I found no answer. I was wondering how long Ortheris, on the bank of the river, would hold out and whether I should be forced to help him to desert, as I had given my word.

Just as the dusk shut down and, with a very heavy heart, I was beginning to saddle up my horse we heard wild shouts from the river.

The devils had departed from Private Stanley Ortheris, No. 22,639, B company. The loneliness, the dusk and the waiting had driven them out as I had hoped. We set off the double at and found him plunging about wildly through the grass, with his coat off—my coat off, I mean. He was calling for us like a madman.

When we reached him, he was dripping with perspiration and trembling like a startled horse. We had great difficulty in soothing him. He complained that he was in civilian kit and wanted to tear my clothes off his body. I ordered him to strip, and we made a second exchange as quickly as possible.

The rasp of his own "grayback" shirt and the squeak of his boots seemed to bring him to himself. He put his hands before his eyes and said:

"Wot was it? I ain't mad, I ain't sunstrook, an I've bin an gone an said, an bin an gone an done * * * Wot 'ave I bin an done!"

"Fwhat have you done?" said Mulvaney. "You've dishgraced yourself—though that's no matter. You've dishgraced B comp'ny, an, worst av all, you've dishgraced me—me that taught you how for to walk abroad like a man whin you was a dhirty little, fish backed little, whimperin little recruity—as you are now, Stanley Orth'ris!"

Ortheris said nothing for awhile. Then he unslung his belt, heavy with the badges of half a dozen regiments that his own had lain with, and handed it over to Mulvaney.

"I'm too little for to mill you, Mulvaney," said he, "an you've strook me before, but you can take an cut me in two with this 'ere if you like."

Mulvaney turned to me.

"Lave me talk to him, sorr," said Mulvaney.

I left, and on my way home thought a good deal over Ortheris in particular and my friend Private Thomas Atkins—whom I love—in general.

But I could not come to any conclusion of any kind whatever.

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

Almost its greatest use is to prevent sickness. ABBEY'S SALT keeps you so well, that there is no chance of Stomach, Liver and Bowels going wrong. It is the ounce of preventation that is worth tons of cure.

AT DRUGGISTS, 25c AND 60c A BOTTLE

BABY'S TONGUE TELLS.

Little tongues that cannot talk tell mothers just as plainly that their owners are not well. When baby's tongue is white, or coated, or yellow, especially toward the root, it is a sign of stomach trouble, indigestion, cold or feverishness. Baby's Own Tablets act like magic in curing these and the other minor ills of babyhood and childhood. They are as good for the new-born baby as for the well-grown child. Absolutely safe and absolutely harmless. Mrs. C. F. Kerr, Elgin, Ont., says: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine I have ever used for stomach and bowel troubles and destroying worms. I could hardly feel safe without the Tablets in the house." Sold by all medicine dealers, or by mail, at 25 cents a box, by writing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CASTRO TELLS WHY.

Declares Charge d'Affaires, M. Taigny, Violated Diplomatic Etiquette.

Caracas, Monday, Jan. 23, via Port of Spain, Trinidad, Jan. 26.—In reply to a request sent him to-day by the Associated Press correspondent for a statement of Venezuela's attitude concerning the Franco-Venezuelan question, President Castro immediately telegraphed as follows from Maralcay:

"You can transmit to the Associated Press the following: 'Mr. Taigny, the French charge d'affaires at Caracas, not only violated diplomatic etiquette, as is proved by the fact of his presenting a protest against the Venezuelan Government when the French Cable Co. was calmed and had been almost arranged with, but the protest has brought the disagreeable situation between France and Venezuela to the point of a rupture of friendly relations.

"Then, not content with this, he having been deprived by his Government of the diplomatic character with which he was invested in Venezuela, violated as a French citizen the laws of the Port of La Guaira by embarking on a French liner, whereupon the Venezuelan Government, in order to avoid new difficulties, and after its police had been treated contemptuously, resolved not to permit Taigny to re-land. Cipriano Castro."

CONFER IN PRIVATE.

Moroccan Conference Optomistic Over French and German Chances.

Algeciras, Jan. 26.—Spain at yesterday's session of the Moroccan conference presented the draft of a convention providing for a better return of taxation in Morocco, and also for the creation of new revenues. The conference, after some discussion, expressed the opinion that nothing should be proposed for Morocco which may modify the basis of the present organization of that country, or be in contradiction with the habits of the Moroccan people regarding land taxation.

Herr Van Radowitz, head of the German mission, and M. Revoil, chief of the French delegation to the Moroccan conference, had yesterday for the first time a lengthy private meeting which was much commented upon as a move forward in the adjustment of the Franco-German difference. Although the results were not disclosed the meeting produced a distinct feeling of optimism among the delegates.

Some of the ambassadors have expressed the opinion that these direct Franco-German exchanges might contribute to averting a crisis in the conference.

A Strange Survival.

It is illegal to sing, hum or whistle the "Dead March" outside of a church or a cemetery. At one time this law was very strictly enforced, and even today a soldier found guilty of singing or otherwise rendering the famous march other than at a military funeral would be severely censured.—London Household Words.

His Art.

Mrs. Syllie—My husband takes a deep interest in art. Mrs. Oldar—You surprise me. Mrs. Syllie—Well, it was a surprise to me, but I heard him telling Jack Rownder last night that it was a good thing to study your hand before you draw.

CATARRH

The true Cause and the true Cure.

How and why "Fruit-a-tives" completely eradicate this disease from the system.

Catarrh means inflammation. Ordinary catarrh is inflammation of the nose cavity opening into the throat. This cavity receives all the air going to and from the lungs. Food and drink passes through it to the stomach. And the prime cause of catarrh is indigestion.

Because indigestion means an irritated stomach. This irritation spreads to the throat and nose. Belching gas keeps up the inflammation. The blood is impure and badly nourished. And nine times in ten, there is Constipation and poor skin action.

The only way to cure Catarrh is to cure the cause of catarrh. Digestion must be improved — inflammation in stomach soothed—blood purified—and the liver strengthened so it will give up enough bile to make the bowels move regularly every day.

Fruit-a-tives or Fruit Liver Tablets will always cure Catarrh of the throat and nose because these marvellous fruit tablets cure indigestion—sweeten the stomach—and eradicate all impurities from the blood by its stimulating and invigorating action on liver, bowels, kidneys and skin.

Leave sprays, atomisers, powders and snuffs alone. Take "Fruit-a-tives" regularly—be careful of your diet—and catarrh will soon be a thing of the past.

One 50c. box of "Fruit-a-tives" will prove how effectively these tablets relieve catarrh—and will do you so much good that you will gladly continue the treatment until cured.

50c. a box or 6 boxes for $2.50. Sent prepaid on receipt of price, if your druggist should not have them.

FRUIT-A-TIVES LIMITED, OTTAWA.

Celery for rheumatism and neuralgia.

FAMOUS PEOPLE

BY FANNIE M. LOTHROP

Photo by Gauvin & Gentzel, Halifax

MARSHALL SAUNDERS

The Popular Canadian Author.

If the temperature of an author's popularity can be measured by the thermometer of sales, then surely the most popular writer in Canada is Miss Marshall Saunders, whose "Beautiful Joe" has sold 400,000 copies, and been translated into Swedish, German and Japanese.

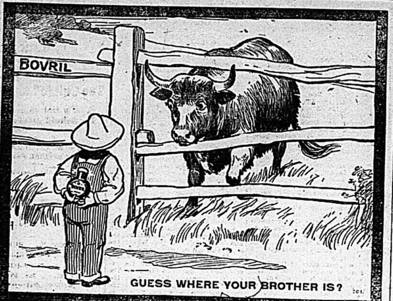
At her grandfather's house in Milton, Nova Scotia, Miss Saunders was born in 1861, the daughter of a clergyman, and a descendant of the John Alden immortalized in verse by Longfellow. Her early days were spent in the beautiful land of Evangeline where the very air seems redolent of romance and historic memories. When she was six the family moved to Halifax, and there she received the foundation of her education in private and public schools until fifteen, when she was sent to a boarding school in Scotland and thence to France to put some finishing touches to her education.

On her return to Nova Scotia she taught school for a time and then drifted into literature. Her first short story brought forty dollars, but she soon realized that real success could not be plucked like a rose in a garden; she must pay the price in years of observation, study, training and practice. She spent several years in foreign travel, as a post-graduate course in experience, and then returned to Nova Scotia, ready for the serious work of her life.

In 1894 the American Humane Educational Society offered a prize of $200 for the best story illustrating kindness to dumb animals. Miss Saunders determined to compete for it. She spent six months in writing a story, the background of which was largely autobiographic and the spirit pervading it her own intense love for animals, the silent appeal of their helplessness finding ever a sympathetic echo in her heart. The committee of award in giving the prize to her book "Beautiful Joe," said: "the author has genius, heart and insight. It is an admirable story and should have an immense sale and become a standard for all libraries," and yet this sweet, sympathetic study of dog life, despite its splendid endorsement, went begging among the publishers for six months before it was accepted, Miss Saunders having availed herself of the privilege of forfeiting the prize money and retaining her manuscript.

When published, it gave her a place in the very front rank of writers of animal stories. Her "Tilda Jane," a simple, natural, pathetic yet humorous story, adds a new character to the charming literature of childhood. In her ambitious novel "Rose à Charlitte," she gives a delightful portrayal of the life of the Acadians in the historic country around St. Mary's Bay, a realm of idyllic romance, where trials and sorrows seemed to sanctify and purify the people to higher things.

Entered according to Act of the Parliament of Canada, in the year 1905, by W. C. Mack, at the Department of Agriculture



BOVRIL
GUESS WHERE YOUR BROTHER IS?

"Red Feather" Tea
Quoth Uncle Sam, "I hate to see
Them Canucks get the draw on me.
This here Red Feather Tea's immense—
Makes U.S. feel like thirty cents.
I'll hike to Ottawa," says he,
"And coax for reciproci-tea."
"A Treat from Ceylon."
ONE PRICE—40 CENTS
Red Feather

VARICOCELE CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy and Kergan, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. He wrote them and got the New Method Treatment for me. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

HENRY C. LOCUST.

HAS YOUR BLOOD BEEN DISEASED?

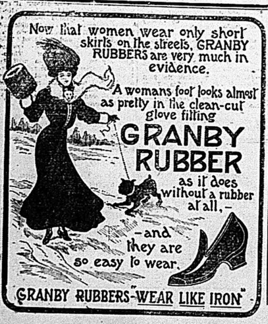
BLOOD POISONS are the most prevalent and most serious diseases. They sap the very life blood of the victim and unless entirely eradicated from the system will cause serious complications. Beware of Mercury. It only suppresses the symptoms—our NEW METHOD positively cures all blood diseases forever. YOUNG OR MIDDLE AGED MEN.—Imprudent acts or later excesses have broken down your system. You feel the symptoms stealing over you. Mentally, physically and vitally you are not the man you used to be or should be. Will you heed the danger signals?

READER Are you a victim? Have you lost hope? Are you intending to marry? Has your blood been diseased? Have you any weakness? Our New Method Treatment will cure you. What it has done for others it will do for you. CONSULTATION FREE. No matter who has treated you, write for an honest opinion Free of Charge. BOOKS FREE—"The Golden Monitor" (illustrated) on Diseases of Men.

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT. PRIVATE. No names on boxes or envelopes. Everything confidential. Question list and cost of treatment FREE for Home Treatment.

DRS. KENNEDY & KERGAN

Cor. Mich. Ave. and Shelby St., Detroit, Mich.



Now that women wear only short skirts on the streets, GRANBY RUBBERS are very much in evidence.
A womans foot looks almost as pretty in the clean-cut glove fitting
GRANBY RUBBER
as it does without a rubber at all,—
—and they are so easy to wear.
GRANBY RUBBERS—WEAR LIKE IRON

RETIRED AMBASSADOR DEAD.

Rt. Hon. Sir Edward Thornton Passes Away at 89 Years.

London, Jan. 27.—Sir Edward Thornton, the former British Minister at Washington, died in London yesterday afternoon after a lengthy illness.

Right Hon. Sir Edward Thornton, G. C. B., and Count de Cassilias of the Kingdom of Portugal, a title conferred on his father by King John VI., was born July 13, 1817. He entered the diplomatic service in 1842, as an attache at Turin, went to Mexico in 1845, and was Secretary of the Legation there in 1851. After special service on the River Plate, and in New Granada, Uruguay, the Argentine and Brazil, he became envoy and Minister to Portugal, and in 1867 he succeeded Hon. Sir Frederick Bruce at Washington. He was sworn of the Privy Council in 1871, and appointed Ambassador to St. Petersburg in May, 1881, and to Constantinople in December, 1884. He retired twenty years ago.

Big Mining Merger.

Montreal, Jan. 27.—Arrangements were completed yesterday morning for the most important mining consolidation that has ever taken place in the history of Canada's mineral development, including all the old Gooderham-British Columbia interests (acquired by the C. P. R.), the C. P. R. Trail Smelter properties and other mining interests in British Columbia. The capital stock of the new concern, which will be known as the Canadian Consolidated Mines, Limited, is $5,500,000, divided into one hundred dollar shares. It is expected that all details of the new consolidation will be completed within three weeks.

Hapgood Didn't Libel Deuel.

New York, Jan. 27.—An unusually sensational trial came to an end yesterday when a jury in the criminal branch of the supreme court reported that Norman Hapgood, editor of Collier's Weekly, was not guilty of criminal libel. The case had been on trial several weeks. The charge against Mr. Hapgood was brought at the instigation of Justice Deuel of the court of special sessions.

Excommunicates Nine Priests.

Winnipeg, Jan. 27.—Archbishop Serahim, who claims to be head of what is known as Greek Independent Church, yesterday afternoon issued an order excommunicating nine of his clergymen. He claims they organized a congregation without consulting him, and have also not shown proper respect to his authority.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Cattle—Receipts, 2400; slow and dull; common to prime steers, $3 to $6.40; cows, $3 to $4.40; bulls, $2 to $4; calves, $3 to $8; stockers and feeders, $2.40 to $4.00.

Hogs—Receipts, 30,000; steady to 5c lower; choice to prime, heavy, $5.45 to $5.50; medium to good, heavy, $5.40 to $5.45; butchers' weights, $5.40 to $5.50; good to choice, heavy, mixed, $5.40 to $5.45; packing, $5.15 to $5.45.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 8000; slow; sheep, $4.50 to $6; yearlings, $6 to $6.50; lambs, $6.50 to $7.65.

Stanley Spencer Is Dead.

London, Jan. 27.—Stanley Spencer, the aeronaut, died at Malta yesterday while on his way home from India.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

The Anniversary of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church of Canada at BRIDGE ST. METHODIST CHURCH.

Sermons at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. by the Rev. W. J. Sparling, B.A., of Kingston, President of the Montreal Conference.

Special music by large choir, assisted by choir of boys.

2.30—Sunday School missionary meeting. Welcome to Rev. Mr. Sparling.

Strangers in the city, students at colleges and all other visitors welcome at this church. Open every day in the week.

1876. 1906.

30th Anniversary of HOLLOWAY ST. METH. CHURCH.

Rev. R. H. Leitch, Pastor.

10 a.m.—Classes and Jr. League.

Pastor's topics—11 a.m., "Thirty Years' Revival"; 7 p.m., "Revival Grace and Glory."

2.30 p.m.—S. S. session of special interest to old and young.

Monday evening, 8 p.m., Senior E. L. of C. E.

Wednesday evening, 7.30, people's prayer and praise service.

Welcome extended to visitors, students and strangers.

EMMANUEL REFORMED EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Victoria Avenue, between Church and Pinnacle Streets.

Rev. A. M. Hubly, Rector.

Divine service morning and evening.

Morning Sermon—"Individual Responsibility."

Evening sermon—"The Christ that Paul Preached."

Sunday School and Bible Classes at 3 p.m.

Y.P.S.C.E. meeting Monday evening at 8.

Prayer and praise service Wednesday evening at 8.

VICTORIA AVE. BAPTIST CHURCH,

Cor. Victoria Ave. and Pinnacle St.

Rev. Chas. H. Emerson, M.A., Pastor,

Residence, 231 John St.

Morning—"Cynicism and Its Cure."

Evening—"A Fast Young Man." A special sermon to young men.

Sunday School at 3 p.m.

The pastor's Bible class for adults meets at 3 p.m.

Men's prayer meeting, Sunday, 6.30 p.m.

Strangers will be cordially welcomed. Seats free.

THE TABERNACLE METHODIST CHURCH.

Church Street.

Rev. George Brown, Pastor.

Morning service at 11.

Sabbath School, 2.30 p.m.

Evening service at 7.

Epworth League Monday night at 8.

Prayer meeting on Wednesday night at 8.

The public cordially invited to all of these services.

JOHN ST. PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. A. H. Drumm, Pastor.

Residence—15 Alexander Street.

Sunday services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Morning subject—"Job's Vindication and Restoration."

Evening subject—"The Rich Man in Torment and Lazarus in Abraham's Bosom."

2.30 p.m.—Sunday School and Bible Classes.

Young People's Guild, Monday at 8 p.m.

Mid-week service Wednesday at 8 p.m.

All are welcome.

ST. ANDREW'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Rev. R. S. Laidlaw,

Residence "The Manse," George St.

Services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

The Pastor will preach at both services to-morrow.

11 a.m.—"Our Breed from God."

7 p.m.—"Noah, the Preacher of Righteousness."

Sabbath School and Men's Bible Class at 3 p.m.

Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

CHRIST CHURCH.

(Anglican.)

Coleman St.—Across Footbridge.

Rector—Rev. R. C. Blagrave, B.A.

Holy Communion 8 a.m.

Morning prayer and litany at 11.

S. S. and Bible class by the Rector at 3.

Evensong at 7 o'clock.

Subjects—a.m., "Demonism"; p.m., "Corruption in Business Methods; the Loan Shark."

Midweek service on Wednesday night at St. George's.

Seats free; visitors welcome.

BETHEL HALL.

Front St., over D. V. Sinclair & Co.'s

Christians gather to the name of the Lord Jesus Christ.

—Sunday—

The Lord's Supper, 11 a.m.

Sunday School, 3 p.m.

Gospel preaching, 7 p.m.

Happy at Last

Her Husband no longer gets Intoxicated—Samaria Tasteless Remedy Cured Him.

This lady says: "For the first time since I have been married I can be happy and content—my husband is cured of his bad habit of drinking. Several months ago you sent me a free sample of your remedy at my request, and without my husband's knowledge I gave it to him in his tea and food. I then got a full treatment and gave it regularly. It is wonderful, and I cannot sufficiently thank you for the blessed change it has brought to my home."

Free Package and pamphlet giving full particulars, testimonials and price sent in plain sealed envelope. Correspondence sacredly confidential. Address: THE SAMARIA REMEDY CO., 45 Jordan Chambers, Jordan St., Toronto, Canada.

SIR GILBERT CRITICIZED

BRITISH COLUMBIA MAN OBJECTS TO SOME OF HIS STATEMENTS REGARDING THIS COUNTRY.

The following letter appears in The Toronto Globe;

To the Editor of The Globe: Being a subscriber to The Canadian Magazine for some time past, and taking a personal interest in its advancement, I was astonished on receipt of the December number to find published an article written by Sir Gilbert Parker, entitled, "Canada After Twenty Years." I take exception particularly to Sir Gilbert Parker's statements with reference to Canadian commercial morality, Canadian finance and Canadian political life. Our commercial morality, he states, "he does not believe is as high as it was twenty years ago, and the farmer has shared in the tendency to moral decline." As to Canadian finance, he says, "once Canadian finance was above suspicion," and, with regard to our political field, he practically charged Canadian politics with having bribery and indirect and direct corruption existing within its folds. I take exception to these statements, and I do not think he is competent to pass opinions upon Canadian matters of either a political or domestic nature, and, even if he was, he certainly should base his statements on sounder evidence than he has undertaken to give in the article in question. I do not know exactly how old Sir Gilbert may be, but if you take off twenty years from his present age, I think it will be seen at once that twenty years ago Sir Gilbert was not of an age to really intelligently understand much about Canadian matters, either political or domestic, and, even if he was of the age, I doubt if he was in Canada long enough after he grew to manhood to gather the information necessary to qualify him to write as he has. I have unbounded faith in the possibilities of Canada, and, with the national instincts that are within the hearts and wills of her citizens, Canada is bound to become a great country and field for emigration, which heretofore has not been surpassed, and as a Canadian I do not propose to let go unchallenged the statements made by a gentleman who, I feel satisfied myself, is more imbued with English ideas and English patronizing ways than he is with true Canadian instincts. I understand Sir Gilbert is a member of the British House of Commons and lives in an English environment, and at the same time poses as a great Canadian. If I might offer a suggestion to Sir Gilbert it would be to come and live amongst Canadians and become a factor in their progress and advancement, which if he did would soon demonstrate to a certainty how far astray he is in the statements he has made. It is all very well to perigrinate in the swell how-do-you-do sort of way to Canada and talk of desiring to bring along the balance of the Imperial House of Commons "to see the promise of the land," which would be awfully jolly, you know, but if they all returned and published statements as recklessly as Sir Gilbert has, I would prefer the dear chaps would stay away.

There seems to be an egotism surrounding Sir Gilbert, reading between the lines of his article, which perhaps is responsible for the absurd statements made by him.

E. M. N. WOODS,

Late Registrar of the Supreme Court and Stipendiary Magistrate, Atlin, British Columbia.

NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS.

FURNISHED BY J. R. HEINTZ & CO.'S LOCAL OFFICE.

New York, Jan. 27

Stock	Op'g	Close
Atchison	94⅞	93¾
B. & O.	116⅞	116½
C. O.	62½	61⅞
C.P.R.	174¼	173
Erie	49¼	49⅜
do pref	82⅝	82⅜
C. G. W.	22⅜	22⅜
Ills. C.	177⅞	177⅜
K. T.	39⅛	38¾
L. & N.	154¼	154⅛
Soo
Sop	....	....
N Y C	104⅜	103⅛
Nor	152⅜	151⅛
O W	92⅞	91⅞
Penn	59⅜	56⅜
R I	146	145⅛
Reading	24⅝	24⅛
St. Paul	152⅞	140
Sou Pac	159¼	157⅜
Sou. Ry	70⅜	69⅞
Union Pac	42⅝	41⅜
Texas	157⅜	155⅛
Wab.	38½	37⅜
do pref	26	25⅛
W C pref	....	....
B.R.T.	....	....
Met.	93⅞	93½
Manhattan	125¼	124⅜
T. W.	....	..
A. C. P.	119⅞	119⅞
Alo.	111⅛	111⅛
Sugar	75⅜	74⅝
P. O.	151⅛	149⅞
U. S. Steel	105	97⅛
do pref	45	44⅝
W. U.	113	112
A. F.	93⅜	93⅜
C.F.I.	47	45⅜
	82⅜	75⅜

STOCKS, BONDS, GRAIN, PROVISIONS, ETC.

J. R. Heintz & Co.

Established, 1879.

Members New York Consolidated Stock Exchange, New York Produce Exchange

Branch Office—52 Bridge St.

'Phone 80

THE SOUL OF THE KITCHEN
A SOUVENIR RANGE
A happy kitchen means often a happy home. All kitchens are happy when the SOUVENIR RANGE is used
Of simple construction and handsome appearance.
SAVES TIME, TROUBLE, AND COAL BILLS.
THE DIRECT DRAFT DAMPER ALLOWS PERFECT & EASY CONTROL
The Gurney, Tilden Company
Manufacturers Limited
Hamilton Winnipeg Toronto Vancouver Montreal
Our personal guarantee as well as that of the makers goes with every stove.
We have Souvenir Ranges on view.

W. McGIE, BELLEVILLE, ONT.

You Get Extract of Beef, Not Water

when you buy Armour's Extract of Beef.

Armour's Extract of Beef is highly concentrated. Its strength, is its economy. Use only ¼ the quantity of Armour's that you do of ordinary Beef Extracts and Fluid Beef.

A two ounce jar of Armour's goes as far as an eight ounce bottle of Fluid Beef. You add the water yourself.

Armour's Extract of Beef will restore the rich juices to yesterday's roast. It will give that rich beefy flavor and color so much to be desired in soups, gravies, sauces and all made over dishes. Sold by all druggists and grocers.

IT'S GOOD BEEF TEA!

ARMOUR LIMITED, - - TORONTO.

Armour's Tomato and Beef Catsup is the best. Sold by all Grocers.

Leading All Competitors

KING EDWARD VII. SCOTCH.

Greenlees Brothers Distillers, Argyleshire.

SAFE INVESTMENTS

THE CARDINAL POINTS —OF— THE DOMINION LIFE

LOW EXPENSE

LOW MORTALITY

Head Office: Waterloo, Ont.

P. H. SIMS, S.B. BRICKER, HON. SENATOR McMULLEN Vice-Presidents.

THOS. HILLIARD. President and Managing Director.

FRED HALSTEAD. Supt. of Agencies.

HIGH AVERAGE INTEREST RATE

Fourteen Lives Lost.

Poteau, Indian Territory, Jan. 26.—Fourteen lives were lost in the explosion Wednesday in slope No. 4 of the Witteville mine. The explosion was caused by fire damp. Sixteen men were at work when the explosion occurred, but two men nearest the entrance were able to make their escape.

Shades of His Famous Sire.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Stephen Decatur, great-grandson of Commodore Decatur, first-class United States naval academy was yesterday dismissed from the navy, in conformation with the sentence of the court-martial on the charge of hazing.

More Anarchists Arrested.

Monongahela, Pa., Jan. 26.—Constantine Levi and Petro Fornelka, alleged secretaries of the anarchistic organization, whose headquarters at Baird were raided early Tuesday, were arrested yesterday near West Elizabeth, Pa.

First Train Through Tunnel.

Isella, Northern Italy, Jan. 26.—The first passenger train carrying notabilities, and officials, passed through the Simplon tunnel yesterday amidst artillery salutes.

Assistance Not Necessary.

"Help! Help!" cried the man who was being robbed.

"Calm yourself," said the highwayman. "I don't need any assistance."

Between two evils choose neither; between two goods choose both.—Edwards.

Theatre Destroyed.

Antwerp, Jan. 26.—The Scala theatre has been completely destroyed by fire. Two firemen were injured.

SKATES

costing one dollar and upwards attached to shoes

FREE

if purchased at this store. We have a full line to choose from in plain and nickel

PLATED

goods. Hockey supplies of al kinds—sticks, pucks, shoes, etc

GREENLEAF & SON.

Job Printing.

ENVELOPES.—Bond, Laid, Wove or Manilla, sizes 7 and 8, printed with your business address, from $1.25 to $3.00 per 1000. A large range of business and calling cards—ladies' and gentlemen's—all prices. Programmes and all kinds of printing at most reasonable rates at The Menu Cards, Toast Lists, Invitations, Intelligencer Job Department.

Overcoats Ordered Out of the House

Here's the first "toot" of our Overcoat Special——

Time's Up and the Coats Must Go

If you want a coat step lively, please.

If you knew we were giving away $5 bills you would come in for your share, wouldn't you? Well, it's just what we are doing, and sometimes we give away even more.

We are closing out our Overcoats.

We won't carry them over.

It certainly isn't good business to do so.

Our Overcoats are cut to the cost and often less.

Now Is the Time to Buy an Overcoat.

Copyright 1905 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

MEN'S SUITS

After the season's rush we find many lines of Men's Suits badly broken. These we are offering at greatly reduced prices.

Quick & Robertson

BELLEVILLE'S FOREMOST CLOTHIERS.

ESTABLISHED 1870.

30 p.c. Reduction

ON ALL

MANUFACTURED FURS

S. A. HYMAN & CO.

MANUFACTURING FURRIER.

N. B. Highest cash prices paid for Raw Furs.

The Best Yet the Very Best

AND YOU ALWAYS GET GOOD THINGS AT SCANTLEBURY'S,

We have to-day, just this day, prepared a dozen BARGAIN TABLES the choicest BARGAIN TABLES you have yet seen anywhere—.

Cost has not been considered. These bargain tables are prepared just to close out everything in china and fancy goods preparatory to our arrangements now under way for our Wall Paper season ahead.

During this week of BARGAIN TABLES we have also classified our pictures into Bargain departments—or wall Bargain Tables — and they are remarkably interesting.

We will add to the above bargains all this week everything in books in the rear store at 25c each — books worth 50c to $1.00 for 25c Remember.

C. B. Scantlebury.

Designer, Decorator, etc.

Wall Paper this week at 25 per cent. discount.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

Happy Enough...

Your family can be happy enough if they have good health and they can be helped a long way on the road to health if your Plumbing is just right.

We keep up with the times, and our up-to-date skillful Plumbing work is worth a great deal to you.

JOHN LEWIS & CO.

MANY EYES

require the assistance of glasses very early in life. Neglect to provide these frequently results in total or partial blindness.

AS A TEST COSTS NOTHING

why not have the condition of your eyes tested scientifically?

If special glasses are required we can make them at a moderate figure. If ordinary glasses will suit we sell them at very low prices.

ALEX. RAY.

BUSINESS CARDS at The Intelligencer. Your name and address on 500 $1.00. a18-1f

BARGAIN PRICES IN SHIRTS

For a few days we will offer you a large assortment of $1.00 and $1.25 Shirts for:—

75c

See window display.

Chas. J. Symons

298 Front St. Shirts to Order.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

HIS HIGHNESS THE BEY.

Speaking of the above attraction, which comes to the Carman next Tuesday evening, the "Peterboro Examiner says: "His Highness the Bey," Hough, Adams and Howard's bright musical satire, was presented at the Grand to a large and fully satisfied audience last night. The production was one of the best in the comic opera line seen here for a long time, and the amusing contretemps kept the audience in a hilarious state from start to finish. The musical numbers were of a catchy, sparkling nature. The chorus was composed of pretty and well-trained girls, and libretto written by Hough and Adams was clever and original. The presentation was marked by pretty scenic effects and handsome costumes.

THE SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA NEW TRAIN—BEST ROUTE.

The Los Angeles Limited, electric lighted, new from the Pullman shops, with all latest innovations for travel comfort, leaves Chicago 10.05 p.m. daily, arrives Los Angeles 4.45 p.m. third day via Chicago, Union Pacific & North-Western Line and the Salt Lake Route. Pullman drawing-room and tourist sleeping cars, composite observation car, dining cars, a la carte service. For rates, sleeping car reservations and full particulars, apply to your nearest agent or address, R. H. Bennett, 2 East King St., Toronto, Ont. j13-20-27-f3

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorized to refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

County Council.

FRIDAY MORNING SESSION.

Council resumed at 9.30, Warden Lancaster presiding.

A petition numerously signed was presented asking the Council to reconsider the matter of changing the road at Corbyville. The petition alleges that the proposed new road is too close to the Grand Junction Railway.

The petition was referred to the Road and Bridges Committee;

Moved by Mr. Morton, seconded by Mr. Dryden, that the Executive Committee for the year be composed of the Warden, and Messrs. A. Macfarlane, A. Kirk, W. G. Farley and G. Nicholson.—Carried.

A motion prevailed that the Warden be empowered to sell a lot on Burton street, which belongs to the County, for $50—Carried.

Mr. Macfarlane stated that the auditors' report for 1905 was now ready, and it showed the County to be in a very satisfactory state as far as the finances were concerned. The finances of the County had been well managed. He moved that the report be adopted and the Clerk be instructed to have 500 copies printed.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Bonter, and unanimously adopted.

On motion the Council went into committee of the whole on by-laws, Mr. Nicholson in the chair.

A by-law to appoint an auditor of the administration of Justice account, and High School Trustees, was read. Mr. W. R. Aylesworth was appointed as an auditor. The High School Trustees appointed were as follows; For Stirling, Jas. Boldrick; for Madoc, Wm. J. Moore; for Deseronto, Dr. Vandervoort; for Trenton, E. Dench. All these trustees are elected for a term of three years.

The by-law was read a second time.

The committee rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again — Granted.

Mr. Macfarlane gave notice of a by-law defining the duties of the special committee re House of Refuge.

On motion the Council went into committee of the whole on Roads and Bridges, Mr. Rogers in the chair.

A request was made that a portion of the road be assumed as a County gravel road in lieu of that portion of the road leading from the northern part of the 3rd concession of Huntingdon to the 7th concession, known as the Junction road.

After some discussion upon this matter a motion prevailed that it be left over until the June session for further consideration.

A communication was read from the Climax Road Machinery Company, of Hamilton, in reference to the County procuring from them any machinery needed.

Mr. Denyes stated that one of the crushers was played out and he thought that the County needed another.

Mr. Macfarlane spoke in support of the County having two crushers in order to do the work necessary. He moved that another crusher be purchased, and the purchase be entrusted to the Executive committee.

Mr. Morton seconded the motion which was carried after some discussion.

The petition from a number of ratepayers of Thurlow in reference to the proposed new road at Corbyville was taken up.

Mr. Bonter moved, seconded by Mr. Best, that no action be taken in the matter.

Mr. Macfarlane said that no doubt the petitioners were earnest in their efforts in this matter, but he thought the Council should adhere to the road proposed.

Mr. Nicholson stated some were of the opinion that other sidings and switches would be built, but Mr. Bird had informed him that such would not be the case.

Mr. Denyes said that this was an important matter. He was, at the time the Council visited the locality, in favor of the change being made and the road being located where it was contemplated, but a large petition had been presented against the road being placed where it is proposed. He moved, seconded by Mr. Farley, that the prayer of the petition be granted.

Upon a vote being taken the motion to take no action upon the petition was carried.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON SESSION.

Council resumed at 2 p.m.

The Ways and Means committee resumed. Mr. Dryden in the chair.

An account of $10 from Drs. Mather and Farrell, of Tweed, for examination of a lunatic, was passed.

A petition asking that Mr. Trudeau, of Stoco, be allowed to peddle in a portion of Hungerford without a license was considered.

Mr A. Kirk asked if Mr. Trudeau would be liable if he went out and solicited trade and the next day delivered the goods. Mr. Trudeau was a resident of Hungerford.

The Clerk replied that Mr. Trudeau came within the by-law and would have to take out a license.

Mr. Rogers moved, seconded by Mr. Best, that no action be taken on the petition.—Carried.

A motion prevailed that the usual annual grant of $25 be paid to each of the Farmers' Institutes of the County.

The following accounts were passed;

Intelligencer Co.	$65.25
T S. Carman	14.35
Joshua A. Lang	41.25
S. Masson	69.37
T. Ketcheson	2.00
Cherry Press	3.75
J. C. Hanley	1.50
J. W London	20.35
Municipal World	138.71
G. T. R. freight	1.15
J. C. Lake	6.75

The Clerk was instructed to procure copies of the Municipal World for each member of the Council.

A communication was read asking the Council for a contribution towards the free consumptive hospital at Muskoka.

Mr. Denyes said it was a worthy institution and patients from this County were being treated there.

Mr. Bonter spoke in support of the institution and a grant being given.

A motion prevailed that a grant of $20 be given the institution.

Moved by Mr. Best, seconded by Mr. Cornell, that the usual grants be given to the Townships north of Madoc village, as follows; Limerick, $210, Tudor and Cashel $210, Wollaston $210, Faraday $210, Dungannon $210, Mayo $210, Carlow $210, Monteagle and Herschel $250, Bangor et al $250, Bancroft village $100. Also a special grant of $25 on a road known as Graham's road.

Messrs. Bonter, Cornell and the Warden spoke in support of the motion, which passed.

Mr. Sullivan, Reeve of Sidney township, addressed the Council asking for aid for some settlers who reside on Anderson's Island, which is situated on the Trent river in the northwest part of the Township. The residents asked for assistance to erect a bridge about 60 feet long. He thought the County should give a grant of $200.

Mr. Scott, a member of the Township Council, endorsed what Mr. Sullivan said. He felt confident the Township Council would assist in building a bridge.

Mr. Cornell asked how many residents there were on the island and how much land there was.

Mr. Sullivan said he did not know how many families there were, but that there were about 1000 acres of land, some not being tillable.

Mr. Denyes was surprised that the Township of Sidney had not built this bridge years ago. He did not see how the County could give any assistance this year, owing to so many demands being made on the finances of the County.

Mr Nicholson said the residents of the island had a hardship to bear. He moved that a grant of $150 be made towards the building of a bridge

Mr. Vandervoort spoke in support of the motion and seconded it.

Mr. Macfarlane said that the County did not give grants towards building bridges such as asked for. He did not see how the Council could break this rule and he would have to vote against the motion.

Mr. Rogers moved in amendment that a grant of $100 be made.

Messrs. Denyes and Cornell considered that this was establishing a bad precedent.

Mr. Nicholson withdrew his motion to support the amendment, which was defeated, only five members voting for it.

A motion prevailed that the usual grants to poor school sections in the northern portion of the County be made and a special grant of $25 to school sections No. 7, McClure Township, and No. 5 section in Dungannon township.

The Treasurer was instructed to pay the requisitions of the County Surveyor.

Police Magistrate Bedford, of Deseronto, sent a communication to the Council asking that he be paid a salary of $400 per annum by the County.

The Clerk stated that Mr. Bedford was an efficient and painstaking official.

Mr. Dryden spoke in support of giving Mr. Bedford an annual grant

Mr. Bonter was not in favor of giving the amount asked for or any other sum.

Mr. Macfarlane said that Mr. Bedford was doing work which Mr. Flint formerly did. Mr. Bedford should have a grant. This matter might be left over for the present and the salaries of the various magistrates of the County adjusted later on.

A motion prevailed that Mr. Bedford be paid $100 per year commencing with the 1st of January.

The committee of the whole on communications resumed Mr. Macfarlane in the chair.

On motion the Solicitor was instructed to secure the title to the Henderson property, upon which the House of Refuge will be erected.

WAIT FIVE MINUTES

and get Clark's Pork and Beans steaming hot. It makes a difference in the flavor. Very appetizing. Plain or with Chili or Tomato Sauce.

Help the Hospital.

Before Acknowledged, $1,533.00

ADDITIONAL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Grand Trunk Library and Reading Room	$25.00

FUNERAL.

The funeral of the late Mr. J. W. Turner will take place from his late residence, Park St., Monday morning, Jan. 29, at 10.30, to the Belleville cemetery. Services at the house at 10 o'clock.

MARRIED.

ADAMS—HUBBS.—On Jan. 24, 1906, at the Methodist parsonage, Rednersville, by the Rev. R. M. Pope, Mr. Ernest C. Adams, of Picton, to Miss Effie May Hubbs, of Rednersville.

REDUCED TO FIFTY CENTS.

Our complete stock of soft front shirts, regularly sold at seventy-five cents and one dollar. Desirable patterns and well assorted sizes. Sale price 50c.—QUICK & ROBERTSON.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

HOCKEY.

Yesterday's Record.

O. H. A. Senior.
Berlin	4	Galt	3
O. H. A. Intermediate.
Goderich	14	Seaforth	4
London	7	Clinton	4
Markham	7	Port Perry	5
Paris	2	Ingersoll	0
Simcoe	9	Brantford	5
Barrie	6	Newmarket	5
O. H. A. Junior.
Woodstock	4	Watford	1
Intercollegiate, Senior.
Varsity	10	McGill	6
Intercollegiate, Intermediate.
Varsity	4	McMaster	2
R. M. C.	8	Queen's	5
Oxford-Waterloo League.
Ayr	8	Plattsville	7
Northern League.
Wingham	16	Palmerston	5
Manitoba League.
Kenora	4	Winnipeg Vics.	3
Professional League.
*Houghton	4	Mich. Soo	2

*Played Thursday.

Dry Goods vs. Tinware.

In the early part of last evening a hockey match was played between teams representing the Ritchie Co. and W. W. Chown Co. Whilst the game was not exactly played on professional lines, it was, nevertheless, interesting to witness, and the result was in doubt to the last. The Counter Jumpers finally won the game by a score of 3 to 2. In the first half the score was 2 to 1 in favor of the Ritchie Company, and in the second half both teams secured a goal. Mr. W. Pepper was referee and performed his duties satisfactorily to all concerned. The line-up was as follows:

Ritchie Co.		Chown Co.
	Goal
Bull		Moore
	Point
McCreary		Bawden
	Cover
McIlrath		Haslip
	Rover
Chown		Page
	Centre
Gordon		Whalen
	Right wing.
Orr		Symons
	Left wing
Brown		Drumm

SPORTING NOTES.

There may be a Belleville man on a Stanley Cup team yet, judging by the following from a Montreal paper: "Smith's Falls will win the championship of the Federal League and will challenge for the Stanley Cup." This was the statement made to the writer this morning, by Mr. J. A. Washburn, a Smith's Falls hockey magnate. "We are not likely to have any difficulty landing the honors in our league," he continued, "and we are extremely desirous of impressing the O.H.A. and the E.C.A.H.A. that we are a senior team in more than in name." Mr. Washburn has seen all the senior matches played at the Arena this winter, and he is confident that the Smith's Falls septette can make any of the E.C.A.H.A. teams realize that there is a knag or two in the hockey world that they did not wot of. The Falls team looks good on both ice and paper. The defence is unusually fast and strong, and the forwards are big, husky chaps with several kinds of ability to skate, shoot and handle their sticks. It would certainly be entertaining to hockey fans if the Stanley Cup went to Smith's Falls, but few of them are liable to think that the trophy is likely to make the trip.

Port Hope juniors have been ordered by the O.H.A. to play in Cobourg to-night, the return match to be played in Port Hope on Monday night. Quick work.

The standing of the O.H.A. junior teams in this district now is;

	Won.	Lost	To play
Cobourg	3	1	2
Port Hope	2	1	3
Belleville	3	2	1
Picton	0	4	2

Three Smith brothers are playing swell senior hockey for Ottawa teams. Alf. and Harry are members of the Stanley Cup seven and Tom, a younger brother, is cover-point for the Victorias. Smith brothers can put a hockey team on the ice that will trim any other fraternal organization in the world and a good many so-called senior septettes.

Belleville curlers lost in Kingston on Thursday night by a minority of 11 points. The Belleville rinks were as follows: Rink No. 1—A. E. Lewis, Dr. Goldsmith, J. A. McFee, M. Wright, skip, 8. Rink No. 2—S. Robertson, S. W. Vermilyea, J. H. Hart, J. D. Clark, skip, 11. The Belleville men were entertained after the game.

The coming man is generally a good advertiser.

COLGATES

Cashmere Boquet and Violet

TALCUM POWDER

Shaving Stick and Barber's Soap, Monad Violet, Cold Cream, Sandal Wood and other fine

TOILET SOAP.

GEEN'S DRUG STORE

The Quinte Laundry Co.

A new list of prices for household goods — 20c per doz.

MANGLE WORK IN LARGE LOTS AT SPECIAL PRICES.

Agents for British American Dyeing and Cleaning Co'y.

Front Street South.

Telephone 102.

Another Hotel Horror.

EIGHT PERSONS BURNED TO DEATH IN LOWELL, MASS.

(Special to The Intelligencer.)

Lowell, Mass., Jan. 27.—In a fire which partially destroyed the Richardson Hotel early this morning from six to eight persons lost their lives.

Three bodies have been recovered.

More than twenty were injured, some of them seriously.

Forty guests were in the hotel and those who were in the upper part of the building had little chance to escape by the stairways.

THE LATE J. W. TURNER

WAS 81 YEARS OF AGE AND ESTEEMED BY ALL WHO KNEW HIM.

Mr. J. W. Turner, whose death was noted in yesterday's issue, was a gentleman who was well-known in this city, he having, some years ago, conducted a tinsmith business here. He removed from the city and resided for some time at Campbellford. Some 17 years ago he returned to this section of the community and took up his residence on College Hill, where he has since resided, living a retired life. Deceased was 81 years of age and was a Canadian by birth. For many years Mr. Turner had been a devoted member of the Methodist church and was on the Official Board of Holloway Street Church, where he worshipped. The deceased was twice married and is survived by the second wife and one son, Mr. C. W. Turner, of Campbellford. Mr. E. F. Dickens, of this city, is a relative of the deceased. Mr. Turner was an estimable citizen and in every sense of the word a Christian gentlemen. His demise will be sincerely regretted by all who knew him.

To Subscribers.

SUBSCRIBERS IN ARREARS for The Daily Intelligencer must positively have their subscription FULLY PAID AND ONE MONTH IN ADVANCE by Feb. 1st, otherwise the company will be compelled to take their names from the lists. 27-4t

Court Moira, No 33, I. O. F.

The installation of officers took place at the regular meeting of the above Court last night. The presiding officer was Bro. Dr. Walle, of Wooler, High Vice-Chief Ranger of Eastern Ontario. After the lodge business was completed the members adjourned to [illegible] restaurant, where they were entertained to supper, and the balance of the evening was taken up with speeches and songs. Court Moira has a good record for the past year and is in a very strong position.

THOUSANDS DIE OF CONSTIPATION.

No condition causes so many incurable diseases as constipation. It not only prevents the kidneys from eliminating the poisonous wastes, but causes anaemia, stomach trouble and indigestion. Why won't you use Dr. Hamilton's Pills and get cured? This excellent medicine restores normal bowel action in one night. Thousands say so. Your system will be pure and clean, you'll be free from headaches, no more sour stomach—in short you'll have jovial spirits and perfect good health. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are sold everywhere, 25c a box. Get the genuine.

Examine our typewriter paper before ordering from Toronto and paying freight or express charges.

CARMAN OPERA HOUSE

TUESDAY. JANUARY 30, 1906.

Direct from 5 Months Run at La Salle Theatre, Chicago.

.... THE SHOW WITH MUSIC ....

"HIS HIGHNESS THE BEY."

A Musical Comedy in Two Acts. More Laughs and Music than All Others Combined.

Book and Music by Howard, Hough & Adams

10—MUSICAL COMEDY STARS—10

and 50 OTHERS, Including THE FAMOUS BROILERS and Best Chorus on Earth. Twenty Musical Numbers. Georgeous Scenery. Ten Positive Song Hits.

PRICES—25, 50, 75, $1.00 and $1.50.

Daily Intelligencer.

OYSTERS

Standard and Select Oysters received fresh today.

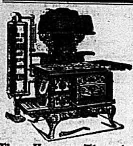
Chas. S. Clapp



The Happy Thought

Is the only range which has been made under one name for eighteen years, and is still the leader.

WM. McGIE,

Tel. 38. 11 Front St.

CHRISTMAS FLOWERS

A choice lot of Plants and Cut Flowers, Holly and Mistletoe.

COLLIP.

Better News—A FURTHER SLUMP IN MEATS.

—Beef Roast	3c, 10c, 12½c
—" Steak	10c, 12½c
—" Stew	5c, 6c,
—Round Steak	3 lbs. for 25c
—Lamb	8c, 10c, 12½c
—Pork	10c. 12½c
—Sausages	3 lb. for 25c

—GREEN.

PECK & WILLS.

Opposite Market. Successors to Walter Alfor

Sash, Door and Blind Factory.

Dressed Lumber of all kinds.—Mouldings Store Fronts and Fittings, Stair Work Grilles, Mantles, Hardwood Pannelling Bar Fixtures, &c.

Prompt attention given to custom work.

A call solicited.

PECK & WILLS.

Wedding Stationary

The Celebrated Eaton-Hurlbut manufacture, in cabinets of fifty invitations

$2.00

OTHER LINES AS WELL.

NEATLY PRINTED.

—AT—

The INTELLIGENCER

Job Department

Front St., Belleville.

Usually the man who worries over the country's difficulties lets his wife do the worrying for the family.

WE RECOMMEND

APENTA

THE BEST NATURAL APERIENT WATER.

BOTTLED AT THE SPRINGS, BUDAPEST, HUNGARY,

Under the Scientific Supervision of Dr. Leo Liebermann, Royal Councillor, Professor of Hygiene and Director of the Hygienic Institute, Royal University, Budapest.

Sole Exporters: THE APOLLINARIS CO., Ld., London.

DR. TORREY IN RETORT.

Man Says He Believes Other Men Impure—"I Don't Doubt You're Rotten," Was Evangelist's Retort.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—At a Torrey and Alexander women's meeting at 6 p. m. yesterday there were over three score professions of faith. It was followed by one given over to men. He gave an address along like lines at both meetings.

Dr. Torrey gave a good deal of attention to the tendency of man to justify his own conduct by comparison with that of others.

"Some people always talk about others' goodness and others about the badness of others," he charged, adding: "The first class are trusting their own goodness; the second class are trusting to others' badness."

It was a poor sort of a conscience that was satisfied with the fact that one was as good as many other people, the speaker averred. Dr. Torrey said if he were shown a man who said that other men were immoral, he would be shown a man "rotten to the core." If a man thought that other men were impure—

"I am that man," interrupted a voice from the gallery.

"Then I don't doubt you're rotten," came the instant retort.

Would such reasoning stand the test of judgment day? Would it satisfy the conscience to believe one could live as he pleased because God was too good to damn anyone?

Dr. Torrey said he had met many scholarly men who were believers in universal salvation, "but," he declared, "I have yet to meet the first man who was made the better for it. Many people simply made universalism the excuse for leading a wicked life."

In the afternoon Dr. Torrey continued his series of addresses on the Baptism of the Holy Spirit.

FRANCE AND VENEZUELA.

Venezuela Recalls Consuls and French Cruisers Are on the Move.

Paris, Jan. 27.—President Loubet presided yesterday at a council of Ministers at the Elysee Palace, in the course of which, it is said on good authority, a decision was reached relative to France's eventual action towards Venezuela.

Recalls Consuls.

Caracas, Jan. 27.—(via Port of Spain, Jan. 26.)—A decree has been issued by the Government recalling its consuls in France and withdrawing the exequaturs of the French consuls in Venezuela.

Boycott First.

Washington, Jan. 27.—As a preliminary to a naval demonstration France is now considering the initiation of a boycott of all Venezuelan products, of which she is the largest foreign purchaser.

Cruising About.

Willemstad, Island of Curacao, D. W. I., Jan. 27.—The French armored cruiser Da Saix, flagship of Admiral Bevoe de la Peyrere, and the cruiser Jurien de la Graviere, arrived here yesterday from Port of Spain, Island of Trinidad.

Specialists In Private Session.

Algeciras, Jan. 27.—Count von Tattenbach and M. Regnault, the German and French specialists on Morocco, yesterday began the first of a series of detailed private discussions with the object of reaching an agreement outside the Moroccan conference.

M. Revoil, head of the French mission, and Herr von Radowitz, head of the German mission, at their meeting Thursday, while most pleasant towards each other, avoided touching upon anything except the general ground, Von Radowitz remarking at one point, "Well, you know we could not let you have the policing of Morocco." "I am sure that we shall not ask for it," replied M. Revoil. That was as near as the two diplomats got to the main question, but they arranged for M. Regnault and Count von Tattenback to talk out the disputed points thoroughly.

Their subject yesterday was a Moroccan state bank, a question which probably will be one of the next to come before the conference after the problem of the taxes is disposed of.

The conference now has four sorts of activity—the Regnault-Tattenbach discussions, upon which most of the attention is fixed; the sub-committee dealing with financial reforms; the committee of the whole, from which the secretaries are excluded, and finally the conferenec itself. The envoys are tiring of this quiet coast town and already want to get away. Yet it looks as though a month more would be required to finish the work in hand.

THOMPSON AFTER IMMIGRANTS.

Province Appoints Him Field Agent in Scotland and Ireland.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—Hon. Mr. Monteith, Minister of Agriculture, announced yesterday the appointment of J. Thompson, Toronto, to carry on field work in Scotland and the North of Ireland in furtherance of the work of the provincial immigration department. The Salvation Army is doing grand work in the South of England, supplying us with farm hands and domestics.

Mr. Thompson will leave for the old land right away. He has had considerable experience in this class of work in connection with the Clergue industries.

Cable Contract Ratified.

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—Advices from Australia state that the Commonwealth Parliament has ratified the contract with the Eastern Extension Telegraph Co., subject to the proviso that the company shall execute it within three months from Jan. 1.

Conscience Money.

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—The Department of Finance has received $12 as conscience money from "B. J." as a payment on articles alleged to have been brought into Canada years ago upon which duty should have been paid.

Collector James Nichols Dead.

Walkerton, Jan. 27.—James T. Nichols, collector inland revenue here for many years, died last evening from pneumonia. Mr. Nichols was 73 years of age, and had been a revenue officer for 32 years.

Killed Protecting Wife.

Coatesville, Pa., Jan. 27.—While endeavoring to protect his wife from attack Thursday night, Boyd Carpenter was shot and killed. His wife was also shot and is not expected to recover.

WHAT SULPHUR DOES.

FOR THE HUMAN BODY IN HEALTH AND DISEASE.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and, mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years, research and experiment have proven that the best best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small, chocolate coated pellets and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver, and excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flours of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patients and physicians alike.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins, while experimenting with sulphur remedies, soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article, and sold by druggists, and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles and especially in all forms of skin disease as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood "purifiers" will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

Clearing Out Sale

We have a line of Elite Enamelware, Blue outside White inside, this is the best Enamelware made. We find it too expensive for our trade and we have decided not to import many ore.

Our idea is to clear it out entirely, with this object in view, we would ask you to call on us any day this week, if in need of the best goods at prices that are far below 25% discount.

McINTOSH BROS.

BREAK IN TRENT CANAL

Adjoining Property and Peterboro Houses Flooded.

25,000 Tons of Water Poured Over the Land Lying Below the Canal—Water Flowing Through the Streets Awoke Citizens at 5 o'Clock a. m. and Led to General Alarm—Imperfect Construction Blamed.

Peterboro, Jan. 27.—Yesterday morning at an early hour a disastrous break occurred in the embankment of the Trent Canal, above the lift lock, and before it could be stopped 25,000 tons of water had poured over the land lying below the canal. Considerable damage was done. This break was due, according to the official statement of the superintendent, to the defective construction of the bank and not to the high water, which has been maintained at normal height in the reach.

Next to the Government, the heaviest losers will be Curtis Bros., brick manufacturers, whose yards are immediately to the east of the bank of the canal.

Houses Flooded.

Their premises were flooded. After the water had flooded all the low ground to the east of the bank, it flowed through a 4-foot culvert and the eastern part of the city was deluged. It was the water flowing through the streets which awoke the citizens there at 5 o'clock, and led to a general alarm being given.

Fortunately, the guard gates in the canal, just above the break, rose automatically with the flow of water, and thus prevented more serious damage being done.

The break was reported to M. J. Butler, chief engineer of the department of railways and canals, and he instructed that an investigation take place and that steps be taken immediately to repair the damage.

Bad Blunders.

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—(Globe Special.)—The report of Mr. Holgate, C. E., of Montreal, embodying the results of his investigation into the complaint that the lift lock at Peterboro was improperly constructed, is said to disclose a most serious condition of affairs. It is alleged, if rumor be true, that no comprehensive plans were prepared, and that the work was faulty and carried on in a sort of haphazard way without proper supervision. The lift lock now leaks badly, and, although the blunders made are not irreparable, the repairs will involve a considerable sum of money. The Minister would not talk of the matter yesterday morning, neither would he say what the report of Mr. Holgate contained. "Until the Cabinet have taken up and dealt with the report," he observed, "I deem it advisable to say nothing."

BIG TIMBER PROFIT.

Georgian Bay Limit in Three Years Appreciates $250,000 in Value.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 27.—The marvelous advance in timber prices of recent years is strikingly illustrated in a deal which was closed yesterday for the transfer of timber berth 169, in the Georgian Bay district.

F. W. Gilchrist of Alpena, Mich., sold the timber to E. B. Foss of Bay City for $450,000. The tract contains upwards of 100,000,000 feet of white pine.

This identical tract was in the market three years ago at $200,000. In that short space of time it has more than doubled in value.

Foss, it is said, will be able to make a handsome profit before he lets go of the timber.

Wants Ontario to Refund.

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—Justice Burbidge will hear a case in Toronto on the 31st between the Province of Ontario and the Dominion. In 1873 the Dominion arranged with the Indians, near Fort William for a large tract of land. The Dominion agreed to make money allowances on account of which the sum of $1,372,000 has been paid. After this treaty was made the Northwest Angle treaty changed the boundary and the land was given to Ontario. The Dominion wants the province to carry out the terms of the treaty with the Indians and refund what the Dominion has paid.

Cable Message Absurdly Untrue.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The following cablegram has been received by Secretary of War Taft from Governor-General Ide at Manila: "Natives much disturbed by cable. Acting Ambassador Wright has been authorized to negotiate sale of islands to Japan. Authentic denial from you might be useful." Secretary Taft replied to the cablegram as follows: "The cable statement referred to in your cablegram has not the slightest vestige of truth. It is not only untrue, but absurdly so."

No Reciprocity With Australia.

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—Other reports from Australia show that no measure of reciprocity with Canada can be looked for during the life of the present Parliament, which will not expire until twelve months hence. The political outlook is very uncertain, and several important measures have had to be withdrawn because they could not be carried through the Commonwealth Parliament owing to the existing slender majority.

For Good Country Roads.

Woodstock, Jan. 27.—An important meeting was held in the County Council Chamber of the Court House Thursday night, when representatives of the Councils of Waterloo, Middlesex and Elgin were present to discuss with the Oxford Council the problem of county roads. A committee of members from each county was nominated to draft a bylaw to cover the requirements of all three counties.

Hangs Himself In Cell.

Kingston, Jan. 27.—Locksley Carter, serving five years in the penitentiary for larceny at Niagara Falls, was found dead during the night, having hanged himself in a hospital cell. He used bed clothes, tied a piece to the cell bar, stood on a stool and jumped off. He has been confined to hospital for a few days.

KILLED AT STRATFORD.

Patrick Mulcahy Fell In Front of Engine—Well-Known Seaforth Lacrosse Player.

Stratford, Jan. 27.—Patrick Mulcahy of Seaforth, a young married man, employed as a barber in the city, was struck and horribly mangled by an engine at the station and instantly killed last evening. Mr. Mulcahy was the well-known Seaforth lacrosse goalkeeper. His wife and mother are still living in Seaforth. Apparently he was endeavoring to cross or pass in front of the engine, and probably stumbled, when the engine caught and passed over him. Dr. Devlin empanelled a jury, which viewed the body, and adjourned the inquest till this afternoon.

Man Killed at Mimico.

Toronto, Jan. 7.—James Stewart of 53 Melburne avenue was crushed to death beneath the wheels of a car of the Toronto and Mimico line, about 11 o'clock last night. The accident happened on the bridge that spans the Mimico creek.

Falling Tree Kills Farmer.

Wingham, Jan. 27.—Robert Woods, a farmer of Turnberry Township, about three miles from this place, was killed yesterday forenoon by a tree falling on him while working in the bush of John Hardie, a neighbor. The unfortunate man lived only a few minutes after the accident. He was about 55 years of age, and unmarried.

Feet Frozen.

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—Peter Robinson of Dearbrook, on Tuesday went into the bush to examine some timber, lost his way, was out all night and had his feet so badly frozen they must be amputated.

200 Passengers Hurt.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 27.—A Missouri Pacific express train, westbound, smashed into a freight train standing on the main track here yesterday. Nearly 200 passengers were bruised, but none was seriously hurt. The freight train caught fire and ten derailed cars were burned.

Boys Roast to Death.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 27.—The charred bodies of Anthony Morris and Aldin Lambert, two boys who had been missing for several days, were yesterday found on a heap of oyster and clam shells, under which a lime kiln company had built a fire several days ago. Charcoal fumes from the fire below rendered them unconscious while they slept on the pile, and they were roasted to death.

SAVED NUMBER 40.

All the Survivors of the Valencia Disaster—Twenty-Three of the Rescued Reach Port Townsend.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 27.—The steamship Topeka, which arrived at Port Townsend yesterday, brought no survivors of the Valencia, save those already reported. The total saved, according to the figures of the officials of the Pacific Coast Co., is forty, including three men found on Turret Island, and one man believed to be alive on the island, and for whom Indians are searching. This total also includes three reported on the beach near Klanewak. The tug Pioneer, returning from the wreck Thursday night, reported nothing left of the hull of the Valencia.

Twenty-Three at Port Townsend.

Port Townsend, Wash., Jan. 27.—The City of Topeka arrived at 1.30 o'clock yesterday morning, with 23 survivors from the Valencia, embracing 18 rescued from the raft and also the boat's crew, which carried the first news of the accident to Cape Beale.

The rescue party and party of nine survivors, who were at Darling Creek telegraph hut, reached Bamfield at 6.30 p. m. yesterday, after a fifteen-mile tramp with terrible experiences.

F. Connors was discovered on Turtle Island in a very exhausted condition. He is believed to be the man who was lost on Turtle Island. The steamer Salvor reported at Bamfield Creek last night that she had picked up a raft from the Valencia off Turtle Island. On the raft were three bodies, which have been identified as those of Wallace, a waiter; Nelson, third engineer, and an American soldier, a marine from the U. S. battleship Concord.

More Books Destroyed.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—Only one witness was called when the civic investigation was resumed before Judge Winchester yesterday. Mr. Frank M. Purdy, bookkeeper to Purdy, Mansell & Co., stated that certain books required by the Crown for the years 1896, 1897 and onwards had been destroyed, though he could not give any definite information as to when the destruction took place. The Judge, however, asked whether they had been put away by any member of the firm to prevent information coming to light, but the witness did not know of any such thing. His Honor impressed on the witness the necessity of making a further search for the books, and he promised to do so. The inquiry was then adjourned until Feb. 1.

Found Dead In His Barn.

Campbellford, Jan. 2.—Jas. Hall, one of the oldest residents of this village, was found dead in his barn shortly after noon yesterday. Deceased was about 75 years of age and leaves a widow and family of eight.

ASTHMA

Completely Cured after 35 years of agony.

"For 35 years, I have been a sufferer from Asthma. I have spent thousands of dollars with doctors and remedies. A friend brought me a bottle of Clarke's Kola Compound, and I afterwards bought six bottles of this grand medicine. It has made a new man of me; I have gained nearly thirty pounds in weight, and my asthmatic attacks have entirely disappeared. Ten dollars spent on Clarke's Kola Compound did for me what over two thousand dollars before that failed to do."

H. LECLAIRE, Montreal, P.Q.

Can you doubt the marvelous virtues of Clarke's Kola Compound after such testimony as this? Surely you will at least try to cure yourself. Simply write us, and we will send a free bottle and booklet, with more letters from those who have been permanently cured of Asthma by Clarke's Kola Compound.

The Griffiths & MacPherson Co., Limited,
Toronto, Canada.

FOR A GOOD CUP OF TEA
USE

"SALADA"

Ceylon Tea because for QUALITY and FLAVOR It has no Equal.

Sold only in Sealed Lead Packets at 25c, 30c, 40c, 50c and 60c per lb.

ALL GROCERS.

Highest Award St. Louis, 1904

POULTRY SUPPLIES

Fresh Eggs are in Demand—why not order some of the following lines and add to your supply—

MEAT MEAL
GROUND BONE
OYSTER SHELLS
MICA GRIT
INTERNATIONAL POULTRY SPICE
MYER'S POULTRY SPICE
HERBAGEUM
WHEAT, CORN, BARLEY.
COARSE CRACKED CORN
BUCKWHEAT &c.

J.C. Hanley & Co.
Telephone 211.

British American Assurance Co.
Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co.
Western Fire Insurance Co.
Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Dominion Plate Glass Co.
Travellers' Accident Insurance Co.

CHANCEY ASHLEY
INSURANCE AGENT.
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Opposite Post Office. Belleville.

DR. W. H. ELDRED'S
LIQUID ELECTRICITY
The Magic Pain Reliever.
Electricity Cough and Consumption Cure.
See directions on bottles, For sale by
R. Templeton & Co.
Druggists, Belleville, Ont.
or D. P. Corey, General Agent,
201 Church St., Belleville, Ont.

British American Assurance Co.
Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co.
Western Fire Insurance Co.
Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Dominion Plate Glass Co.
Travellers' Accident Insurance Co.

CHANCEY ASHLEY
INSURANCE AGENT.
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Opposite Post Office. Belleville.

IMPORTED DIRECT
Pure Norwegian
Cod Liver Oil.
Best for Coughs, Colds and all Pulmonary Troubles.

DON. G. BLEECKER.
Phone 11.
Prescriptions carefully compounded.

Bargains in Ordered Clothing

As we are contemplating making some changes in our store will offer the following bargains.

25—$18.00 Tweed Suits	at $15 00
40— 20.00 Tweed Suits	at $16 00
30— 22.00 Tweed Suits	at $18.50
30— 24 & 25 Tweed Suits	at $20 00
$5 00 Trousers for	$4.00
6.00 Trousers for	$4.50
7.00 Trousers for	$5.00
8 00 Trousers for	$6.00

Up-to-Date goods made and trimmed same as at regular prices.—Terms cash.

ARTHUR McGIE, 300 Front St

Another Snap for My Customers

DRESSED LUMBER

Flooring, Wainscotting, Ceiling, Clapboards.

C. P. HOLTON
Phone 112.

BANK OF MONTREAL
ESTABLISHED 1817.
CAPITAL AND REST (All Paid Up
$24,000,000
(Twenty-four Millions)

Savings Bank Department.
Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.
A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch

McLAUGHLIN CUTTERS
A Specialty.

The most up-to-date sleighs in style finish and material.

A full assortment at their warerooms OPPOSITE THE MARKET, FRONT ST., BELLEVILLE

Also full lines of :—

Robes, Harness, Blankets Rugs, Men's and Women's Fur Coats and Collars, &c.

Call in before you buy.
No trouble to show goods.

J. A. ROSE,
Manager Belleville Branch.

The Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

Incorporated by Act of Parliament.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000

3 1-3 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE—Bridge St., Belleville.
H. P. O. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

G. A. Bennett,
Carpenter. Joiner. Builder.
WORKSHOP AND OFFICE,
Victoria Avenue,
(Next McCrodan's Grocery.)

Estimates furnished, work promptly and carefully executed; prices moderate.

— SPECIALIST ON —
Parquette and Hardwood Floors
Grills and Fireplace Mantels.
Building and House Repairs & Alterations.
Office and Store Fixtures, also Cabinet Work and Furniture Repairs.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No. 8.—12.45 a.m., Mail train, daily, except Monday.
No. 2—1.30 a.m. Fast train (Flyer), daily.
No. 16.—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m., daily, except Sunday.
No. 6—11.15 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4—12.06 p.m., Express, daily.
No. 12.—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5.—2.22 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.
No. 3.—4.02 a.m., Limited Express, daily.
No. 9.—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday. Leaving Toronto at 5.10 p.m., arrives in Belleville at 9.10 p.m.
No. 11.—11.08 a.m., Passenger, Daily, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 1.—1.40 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7.—5.03 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.15 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've.	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	3.45 p.m,

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

Very few people lose their minds because their neighbors lose their money.

Genuine Scranton COAL
Prompt delivery. Well screened.
THE SCHUSTER CO.
Office, Bridge St.

The Daily Intelligencer.

THE VERY BEST COAL
All Sizes
Wood for the millions.
Dry Pine, Hardwood cut and split.
C. C. LEAVENS

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL — LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL — CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 39 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, JANUARY 29, 1906. NO. 225

STROUDS

delicious teas and coffees are the best and the best is not too good for you.

The Liberal Majority 83.

End of the Old Two-Party System in Great Britian.

Four Parties in the British House of Commons—Only Four Members of Mr. Balfour's Late Cabinet Found Seats, While All the New Ministers Were Elected—Only Nine Returns to Be Received Now—The Standing.

London, Jan. 29.—Except that the returns from nine constituencies have not been received, the general elections in the United Kingdom are ended.

The Government coalition will have approximately 510 votes in the next Parliament, this estimate including on the side of Premier Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman the National and Labor votes with the concrete Unionist minority of 160 votes on the opposition side.

Sir Henry will enter the new Parliament on Feb. 13 with the greatest majority ever given to an English premier.

The Unionists, hereafter the opposition, will barely fill half of the left benches, while another notable fact is that many of the most notable of the Unionist debaters will be absent, at least on the first day of the sitting, among them former Premier Balfour. On the other hand, the Government's support will fill its own alloted seats and overflow into the vacant half of the opposition side, where the Nationalists and Independent Labor members will also find places.

The composition of the new Parliament, as near as it is now possible to tell, follows: Liberals, 376; Unionists, 160; Nationalists, 84; Laborites, 59.

Thus it will be seen that the Liberals have a majority over all of eighty-three votes, but such a thing as a combination of the entire force of Laborites and Nationalists against the Government is hardly conceivable. To the contrary, the Labor party members and Nationalist members may safely be counted on the Government side on the main issues in Parliament for some time to come.

It should also be pointed out that the election probably marks the end of the old two-party system, there now being four groups, of which the Laborites are the most interesting.

The return of Mr. Long for Dublin makes him the fourth member of Mr. Balfour's Cabinet at the dissolution to survive, in addition to a few minor members of the Ministry. The entire Liberal Cabinet and Ministry were sustained.

The Standing.

Number of seats	670
Government coalition	510
Unionists	160
Liberals	376
Nationalists	84
Laborites	59
Liberal majority over all	83

FOLLOW WIVES TO THE BEYOND.

Two Aged Men of Prominence Take Their Own Lives.

Elmira, N. Y., Jan. 29.—Edra F. Jewell, a retired merchant of Troy, Pa., aged 78 years, committed suicide Saturday night by cutting his throat. He had been despondent since the death of his wife, three months ago.

Town Treasurer Kills Himself.

Cheshire, Mass., Jan. 29—Despondency and anxiety are believed to have been the cause of the suicide yesterday of Town Treasurer Fred C. Brown, aged 60. He had been much depressed for several months over the death of his wife. Mr. Brown was found dead at his home yesterday with bottle of morphine and chloroform by his side.

BANWELL APPEARS IN COURT.

Request For Extradition Granted With the Usual Delay.

Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 29.—Edwin St. George Banwell, the defaulting Toronto bank teller, who was arrested here on Jan. 11, after a long chase, was brought up before the court here Saturday.

The presiding magistrate granted the application for the prisoner's extradition to Canada.

Under the law, he is granted 15 days' grace, during which the governor will sign the warrant for his removal.

Col. Mann Arrested for Parjury.

New York, Jan. 29.—Col. William D'Alton Mann, editor of Town Topics, was arrested late Saturday on a charge of perjury growing out of his testimony in the recent criminal libel proceedings against Norman Hapgood, editor of Collier's Weekly. Col. Mann was arraigned before a city magistrate and held in $10,000 bail for examination next Thursday, Feb. 1. Bail was furnished by Mrs. Albert A. Wray, a daughter of Col. Mann, who pledged as surety uptown real estate valued at $300,000.

Empress of Ireland Launched.

Montreal, Jan. 29.—In the presence of an immense number of people at Govan-on-the-Clyde yesterday was successfully launched the magnificent new Canadian Pacific steamship, the Empress of Ireland, built for the Montreal, Quebec and Liverpool trade. Mrs. Gracie, wife of the managing director of the Fairfield Shipbuilding Co., officiated at the christening ceremony.

What War Cost Japan.

Tokio, Jan. 29.—An official report submitted to the diet shows that the actual outlay for the war from the beginning of hostilities to their end in September last was, for the army, $495,000,000, and for the navy $90,000,000.

Vladivostock Is Orderly.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 29.—Count Witte yesterday received a telegram from Gen. Linevitch, reporting that order prevails at Vladivostock, where the mutinous sailors have been disarmed.

Bank Teller Has Smallpox.

Thedford, Jan. 28.—Mr. McArthur of the Sovereign Bank here has been taken down with smallpox, and moved to an isolated building.

The Moroccan Conference.

Algeciras, Jan. 29.—The plenipotentiaries resumed their session Saturday, and spent a couple of hours going over the work of the committee on Moroccan revenues. The powers in examining the Moorish system of taxes, of rather lack of system are trying to regularize it. Private conferences continue concerning the more important question of adjusting the Franco-German differences regarding Morocco's political future.

A Village on Fire.

Binghamton, N. Y., Jan. 29.—The little Village of McGraw, four miles east of Cortland, was threatened with extermination by fire early yesterday morning which destroyed twelve of the fifteen stores and shops on Main street at a loss estimated at $60,000.

Art is the work of man under the guidance and inspiration of a mightier power.—Hare.

SINCLAIR'S

Great Removal Sale

IS NOW ON.

We Have Five

Persian Lamb Jackets

Which will be cleared at the following prices:

$145.00 Persian Lamb Coat - -	Sale Price $108 75
135.00 Persian Lamb Coat - -	Sale Price 101.25
100.00 Persian Lamb Coat - -	Sale Price 75.00
85.00 Persian Lamb Coat - -	Sale Price 60.75
65.00 Persian Lamb Coat - -	Sale Price 50.75

25 P.C. Discount Off All Small Furs.

Ladies' Cloth Coats
HALF PRICE.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO.

The Ritchie Co., Limited. The Ritchie Co., Limited.

Exstensive Alterations

Constantly increasing business necessitates further alterations and extensions to our already large store.

We are just closing the largest business year in our history which speaks louder than anything else could do to tell us that our efforts to serve the people of this district are being appreciated.

Our steady aim has been to supply the newest styles of goods from the most reliable makers in the world at the Lowest Possible Prices. This can only be accomplished by sending our buyers direct to the sources of supplies both in this country and in Europe (avoiding the profits paid to middle men by small dealers) the benefits of which are reaped by Our customers. Buying our goods For Cash and selling them for cash enables us to do business on a smaller margin of profits than if we were obliged to pay interest on purchase and make losses through selling on credit.

Workmen are now busy removing walls, stairways, partitions, etc., which will increase our room, light and comfort of our customers when trading. We intend to do bigger and better things during 1906 than in any previous year.

Sale of Remnants

This is clearing out time—all odds and ends must go in the next two weeks. Our stocks have been thoroughly searched out and on Thursday morning every department will have its quota of bargains—all marked at quick selling prices. Here is a partial list.

Towellings, Flannelette, Carpets, Prints, Laces, Linings, Table Linens, Ribbons, Silks.

Fur Specials

We are making special inducements on many of our Furs, to clear them quickly.

At the rate Furs of all kinds are advancing, these prices offer splendid investments.

—4 only Greenland Seal Coats, regular prices $38 to $40, to clear at $25
—A few sizes, in Ladies' Black Astrachan Coats, selling much below regular prices
—Bargaing in Ruffs, Stoles, Muffs, Caps, etc.

$10.00 JACKETS $3.95

Your choice of 30 Ladies' Colored Cloth Jackets

ALL THIS SEASON'S STYLES.

Regular Price $10.00 For $3.95

$10.00 Suits for $7.50

Here is something you cannot afford to miss. We are getting ready for inventory and stock must be reduced at once. On Tuesday morning we will place on sale 30 Men's Suits in Plain and Fancy Tweed, well sewn with silk and linen, up-to-date styles—sizes 36 to 44—regular price $10.00, for $7.50

$1.00 and $1.25 Shirts 75c

The season's selling has left behind about 84 of these Shirts, we therefore want them all out in two weeks and on Tuesday morning we place the balance on sale.

—100 Men's Shirts in stripe and spot, all sizes, large variety of patterns, regular price $1.00 and $1,25, for 75c

The RITCHIE Co., Limited

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON.

Remnants
Remnants
Remnants

Tuesday morning we will have all our Remnants measured up and out on the tables. There are lots of them. The close of the biggest sale in the history of our business has left us with a lot of ends. These odds and ends must all be cleared out before stocktaking. We are making price do the selling.

Dress Goods, Silks, Embroideries, Prints, Linens, Shirtings, Cottons, Sheetings.

A vast lot of other odds and ends all to be cleared at bargain prices.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

20 Per Cent. Discount
OFF ALL
Men's and Boys' Wool and Fleece Lined Underwear.

ROBINSON & THOMPSON.
Tailors & Furnishers.

25 Per Cent. Discount

Our entire stock of High-Class Manufactured Furs will be sold at a Great Sacrifice.

Sale commences Wednesday. Come early and secure first choice.

GEORGE T. WOODLEY.
Successor to Miss M. H. Herbert. Opposite Footbridge
Highest Prices Paid for Raw Furs.

The New Store.

Plenty of Bargains All Over The Store.

All winter goods have received marching orders.

MANTLES HALF PRICE.
FURS 25 p. c. to 30 p. c. DISCOUNT.
UNDERWEAR FOR LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, ALL REDUCED.
HEAVY DRESS GOODS REDUCED.

Come In—Look around, you won't be urged to buy.

Wims & Co
TERMS CASH.

THIS SPRING
We Purpose Making
INTERIOR DECORATIONS

A leading feature of our business and are prepared to furnish Expert Workmen to do all kinds of Painting, Graining, Finishing, Paperhanging, Etc., and will GUARANTEE perfect satisfaction in every instance.

We are adding thousands of rolls of the newest and most artistic Wallpaper from the leading American and Canadian manufactures, and will be pleased to show you these goods and to give an estimate for decorating one room or the whole house.

T. P. BROWN'S
Carpet, Curtain, Wallpaper Store and Picture Framing.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

Fielding and the Funeral.

REFUSED TO TELL.

The serving of a writ upon the Hon. Mr. Fielding to attend the election court in Halifax, has given the Grit press a text for any amount of abuse of those who caused the issue of the summons. Even the Conservatives have joined in the condemnation; that, too, without knowing the facts. It is never safe to accept the statement of a Grit paper or Grit politician, where party interest is at stake, until the statement has been fully investigated.

So shocked was the Ottawa Citizen at the event, that it gave vent to its indignation in strong language. It said—

> The serving of an election writ upon Hon. Mr Fielding when he arrived in Halifax to accompany the remains of his late colleague, Hon. Mr. Prefontaine, to Montreal, was a disgraceful proceeding, especially as conformance with the order of the court would prevent the Minister's attendance at the funeral. It surely must have been the unauthorized act of some obtuse court official and none will regret it more than Hon. Mr. Fielding's political opponents.

This is quoted exultingly by the Ministerial press as the opinion of a Conservative journal. It is not strong if it is correct. The fact is, that if the Hon. Mr. Fielding didn't attend the funeral, it was his own fault, as will be seen from a telegram of date, "Halifax, N.S., Jany. 24th," which reads—

> Practically no information was gained, as Mr. Fielding could recollect nothing definite of what had taken or was supposed to have taken place, so far as the lawyers could get out. He admitted that certain election bills of the campaign in 1900 were received by him and paid some considerable time after the election, but he declined to tell how much these amounted to, on whose account they were paid, or who presented the bills. He declined to answer, he said, on the advice of his counsel.
>
> J. J. Ritchie, K. C., who conducted the examination, made a statement to the Court that he had urged Mr. Fielding to accept a postponement of the examination to Feb. 12th, in order that he might be able to attend Mr. Prefontaine's funeral, but he had declined this, asking that an earlier date be assigned for the adjournment. Unable to agree as to the adjournment, Mr. Fielding attended court to-day, the time originally named.

Mr. Fielding, like his political associates, no doubt, saw that a little cheap capital could be made out of the occurrence, so he allowed the untruth to go uncontradicted.

The investigation proceeded, and we find the Finance Minister of the Dominion refusing to answer questions put to him for the purpose of extracting information as to the expenditure of the "reptile fund," as our Grit friends used to call it.

An ordinary witness would have been compelled to answer; so should a Minister, or be "jugged" for contempt.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Was it anything the preachers said in their sermons which made the weather get so suddenly cold during church time last night?

• • •

Nobody need be short of change these times. There's plenty of it in the weather.

• • •

Couple more nights like last night, and His Highness the Bay will again hold the Prince Edward farmers up.

• • •

Then as turn about is fair play, they will possibly hold our sweethearts and wives up when they go on the market.

• • •

It seems rather early, but 'tis said that already two candidates are in the field for the Mayoralty next January. There's nothing like getting an early start.

• • •

The County Council has appointed a committee to look after improvements to the Court House. And the Court House certainly courts improvement.

• • •

"A New Testament Student" writes: "I have been much interested in some of the remarks accredited to Dr Torrey, the travelling evangelist, now in Toronto. For the benefit of others, who may have been equally impressed with me, may I ask you to publish the enclosed verses, which seem to bear strongly on the question of religion as Dr. Torrey and some people in this city, alas! would make it:

THE LITTLE CHRISTIAN.

(Theodosia Garrison.)

He trembled in the morning,
  At noon he was afraid,
And heavy on his heart at night
  The hand of fear was laid.

A presence walked beside him
  Of horror and of fright—
A shadow in the sunshine
  A menace in the night.

And this that dragged his childhood,
  This thing of scourge and rod,
They gave him as a precious gift,
  And bade him call it God.

They made for him a fear that killed
  The child-love in his breast,
They made for him a shape of dread
  And bade him love it best.

Oh Mild, Oh Just, O Merciful!
  What then shall be their shame,
These souls who teach a little child
  To shudder at Thy name!

• • •

The McIntyre-Pense election is on in Kingston to-day, and it is a safe bet that, though the temperature may be low, things are pretty warm in the Limestone City.

• • •

There is no doubt that advertising pays—particularly if one knows how to properly word his advertisements. Here is a case in point, recorded in a Peterboro newspaper: A friend lost his umbrella at church, and advertised in the usual way, saying that the finder would be rewarded but the umbrella was not forthcoming. Taking the advice of a journalist he advertised again in a different form, as follows: "If the gentleman who was seen to take a silver handled umbrella from St. —— Church on Sunday attaches any value to the Christian character he has hitherto borne, he will return the article immediately to No.—— street. He is known." Within three days twelve umbrellas were sent to the house, and several notes apologizing for the inadvertence.

• • •

A notable Unionist victory was achieved in Chichester division of Sussex, when Lord Talbot was returned by an increased majority. Lord Talbot was ill and his place on the platform was taken during the campaign by Lady Talbot. Here is a pointer for Canadian politicians. They should stay at home and allow their wives to do all the talking. When ladies talk it apparently results in increased majorities. Too often when men talk it means disaster.

• • •

H. R. H. Prince Arthur of Connaught is coming to Canada, and although his visit will be of a private nature, still His Excellency the Governor-General is having letters sent to the mayors of different cities intimating that only one address will be received in each place — that from the mayor and corporation. Surely His Excellency did not think the various national industrial, fraternal and patriotic societies wanted to present addresses. They certainly would if given an opportunity. The Peterboro Review gets all worked up over this matter, and makes the following splash: When will the day dawn in Canada that this business of firing addresses galore at every royal visitor or eminent statesman shall cease? Of all nonsensical, idolatrous and detestable practices the one of overwhelming public visitors or distinguished strangers with gushy, fulsome, bombastic addresses of welcome is the most barbarous and tyrannical. In the name of freedom and common sense it should be dropped forever.

• • •

The Toronto Globe of the 25th inst. contains the following telegram;

> "Winnipeg, Jan. 25. — Regarding irregularities in the Prince Albert County election, The Tribune to-night publishes a sensational story from its Prince Albert correspondent, concerning the voting at Pine Point, Sandy Lake and Bear Lake, in which it is stated that the Opposition have secured evidence that the polls were never opened at the time or place indicated. Two deputy returning officers have pleaded guilty and were fined $200 each. One witness swears they were not even in the constituency on the day of election."

Bad, indeed, must the state of political affairs be in the Liberal ranks when the Globe would admit such a paragraph to its columns.

• • •

Four thousand five hundred hymn books were stolen from the Torrey-Alexander meetings in Toronto. So it seems safe to assume that quite a few people went there who were not converted.

• • •

A Toronto paper says the coal trade in that city is fully one-third less than normal this winter. That means a big saving for some people, and, of course, a loss for others. Coal men in this city do not think the falling-off here has been so large as in Toronto, though, of course, they have felt the effects of the mild weather.

• • •

Mr E. J. B. Pense's paper, the Kingston Whig, reminds Kingston electors that, with the numbered ballot abolished in Ontario, it is now impossible to tell how a man votes. But the organ, while appealing for votes for Mr. Pense, neglects to state that he supported the party which refused to do away with the numbered ballot which made it possible for unclean politicians to find out how a man voted.

• • •

It is announced that the Revised Statutes of the Dominion upon which a Commission has been engaged for some years are now in the hands of the printer, and are to be printed in three volumes of one thousand to eleven hundred pages each.

• • •

The unimportance attached to the sanctity of an oath, with too many who are put into the witness box, particularly in political matters, has brought forth severe comments from Judge Tierney of a Municipal Court in the Bronx who has abolished the use of the Bible in his court. In explanation of his action, he says: "I have removed the Bible from use in my court. It was a desecration to use it there. The lying words from the mouths of witnesses made its use a mockery, a travesty. I was brought up to regard it with veneration and reverence as the Word of God. It is shocking to find men calling upon the Deity to witness the truth of what they say—'so help me God,'—with a lie in their hearts and upon the lips by which they profaned the Good Book. I now swear or affirm a witness with uplifted hands, but it really has no significance to my mind. I would prefer to let every person tell his or her story without oath or affirmation, and then do the best I can toward ascertaining the truth." With what has transpired of late in the election courts of Canada, we may well ask ourselves how much better are we than those described by Judge Tierney? and the answer could be no other than "None!"

• • •

Premier Whitney having made up his mind to ask the Dominion Government for a $3,000,000 railway subsidy, Premier Laurier will, doubtless, suggest his waiting until the new mint is built, when he can be given the amount in five-cent pieces.—Toronto Star.

This is the manner in which the opposition press sneers at the attempt of Mr. Whitney to obtain justice for Ontario from the Dominion Government. The Dominion Government contributed largely to Quebec in relieving that Province from its liabilities incurred in the building of the North Shore Railway, which runs through an old settled part of the country. Why should it not aid Ontario in the building of the Temiskaming Railway, which opens up an entirely new and undeveloped section of the Dominion? Perhaps the Star can explain?

• • •

It appears to be settled that British Columbia is to be recognized in the Cabinet by bestowing upon the Hon. Mr. Templeman the vacant portfolio.

• • •

The "Can't you forget something" party must have been students of De Balzac's philosophy, who declared that "To forget is the great secret of strong and creative minds — to forget after the manner of nature herself—who knows no past." Stratton, Hunt, Fielding, and a few others who have been in election courts lately must have committed this De Balzac's teaching to memory.

• • •

The Globe's Ottawa correspondent of the 28th inst. says Mr. E. Clement, K. C., of Berlin, is mentioned as the successful applicant for the Judgeship in the County of Victoria, made vacant by the death of Judge Dean, and that the appointment is likely to be made to-day, so that all local applicants for that position may hang their harps upon the willow tree.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio., is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo. Ohio.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

OGILVIE'S ROYAL HOUSEHOLD

When the bread or cake or pastry comes from the oven light, crisp and appetising, you are wont to say you have had good luck with your baking.

The "good luck" idea is a relic of the time when housekeepers pitted their competency against poor flour.

To-day good baking isn't a matter of good luck in any home where

Royal Household Flour

is intelligently used.

In the hands of competent housewives it never fails because it is the whitest, lightest, purest and best baking flour to be had.

If the goodness of your baking is due to chance, your grocer is giving you the wrong kind of flour. Ask for Ogilvie's Royal Household.

Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Ltd.
Montreal.

"Ogilvie's Book for a Cook," contains 130 pages of excellent recipes, some never published before. Your grocer can tell you how to get it FREE.
151

A Globe special from Winnipeg, of the 28th inst., says Dr. Tyerman, the Liberal candidate who was returned for a Northern constituency in Saskatchewan by a returning officer who did not open the polls, has resigned, declaring that "if not legally and rightfully entitled to the seat, he did not want it," and then consoles himself with the declaration that "If by any chance the seat should be given to Mr. Donaldson, there is not the shadow of a doubt that he could be unseated by reason of his own illegal acts." This is on the principle, "you're another."

Don't Chap

Sore, chafed skin is an unnecessary trouble, for with a little care the skin can be kept soft and healthy all through winter's most trying weather; all you need is a bottle of WINTER CREAM and your skin comfort is assured. Apply a little of it before going out of doors or having hands in water. It is pure and wholesome and you'll like to use it.

2 Sizes — 15c and 25c.

SOLD ONLY AT
McKeown's DRUG STORE.

PERSONAL ....AND.... SOCIAL.

Mr. S. Burrows has returned from New York.

Dr. Alf. Wills, of Dawson City, is visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Finch, of Cloyne, are visiting Mr. William Finch, Murney St.

Mrs. John McGuire, of Campbellford, is visiting for a few days at Mr. Adam Henry's, Church St.

Miss Aggie Welsh, of Tamworth, has returned home after a visit with her cousin, Mrs. John Little, of Frank St., this city.

At the Quinte: J. Best, Bancroft; J. Leslie, W. Adams, J. Garbutt and wife, W. Brody, W. Reilly, J. D. Counch, H. Upton, A. Prest, Toronto; R. Fairbairn, B. Ferguson, W. R. Carmichael, W. LaBelle, P. Beleau, Montreal: J. A. Vandervoort, W. Augustus, Kingston; J. E. Halliwell, W. R. Mather, Stirling; C. Johnstone, Brockville; T. S. Holgate, W. Rosenburgh, M. Young, Brockville.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.
Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorised to refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

Tomatoes stimulate the healthy action of the liver.

Usually the man who worries over the country's difficulties lets his wife do the worrying for the family.

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

Fair and cold to-day. Milder again on Tuesday.

OUR

assortment of choice Bon Bons and Chocolates was never more complete than it is this year.

Your Christmas Presents will not be complete without a nice box of our Candy, prices from 25c to $2.00 per box.

JAS. WALLACE & CO.

They will Adjust Themselves

to a wide range of circumstances — the eyes — will stand lots of hard work, and get along with very little attention.

When they do complain, it is usually the result of their being overworked. They are calling for a rest.

They ache, smart, burn, probably you are subject to headaches, which you never think of attributing to your eyes.

If you are bothered, call on us. We shall gladly inform you regarding their state, and there is no more THOROUGH or reliable examination to be had in Canada.

Angus McFee
'Phone 12F.
The Store With the Big Clock

At Wallbridge & Clarke's
CANNED GOODS.
Best Brands Popular Prices.

Tomatoes
Selected Corn
Sugar Corn
Sweet Wrinkle Peas
Sifted Peas
Extra Sifted Peas
Imported French Peas
Golden Wax Beans
Refugee Beans
Broad Windsor Beans
Red Kidney Beans
Baked Beans
Peaches
Raspberries
Strawberries
Pineapples
Asparagus
Squash
Pumpkin
Beets
Mushrooms
Lima Beans
Spinach
etc., etc.

Jams & Jellies All Fruits English Canadian Glass Jars.

Flour Popular Brands AT Popular Prices.
Ogilvies' Ladies' Favorite.
Five Roses Crown Jewel.
Family Diadem.
White Lily.
etc.,

Extra Value in
DELICIOUS TEAS and COFFEE

EASY MONEY AT HOME
BIRD BREAD 10 CENTS.
COTTAM BIRD SEED, 23 [illegible]

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

Always Remember the Full Name
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on every box. 25c

The Everstick Rubber
Is Light and Durable.
THEY WILL PLEASE YOU.
We can fit your boots with
RUBBERS or OVERSHOES.
VERMILYEA & SON

SUNLIGHT SOAP
$5000 Reward!
LESS LABOUR
GREATER COMFORT
LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED, TORONTO
GUARANTEED PERFECTLY PURE, GENUINE, & FREE FROM ADULTERATION ALL DEALERS ARE AUTHORIZED TO RETURN PURCHASE MONEY TO ANYONE FINDING CAUSE FOR COMPLAINT.

Your Money Refunded by the dealer from whom you buy Sunlight Soap if you find any cause for complaint.

Sunlight Soap is better than other soaps, but is best when used in the Sunlight way.

$5,000 reward will be paid to any person who proves that Sunlight Soap contains any injurious chemicals or any form of adulteration.

5c. Buy it and follow directions. 5c.

Lever Brothers Limited, Toronto

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage, 50c each insertion.

Death notice, 50c, or when funeral notices included, $1.00.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Weekly Intelligencer $1.00 a year: Daily Intelligencer $3.00 a year; strictly cash in advance.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E & J. Hardy & Co.'s office, 39 Fleet St., London, E. C.

Intelligencer

WANT ADS.

Advertisements under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for each insertion, and one cent for each additional word, 4 insertions, 75c; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales which will be published at two cents per word. Count $ marks and figures as one word each.

WANTED.

At once, two stout lads about 15 years of age, one to learn moulding, the other to learn the machinists' trade. — Marsh & Henthorn. 29,30

Wanted Canvassers. Best Sample case, best tea, best terms. Alfred Tyler, London, Ontario.

Sunlight Soap Coupons Wanted. Toilet soaps given in exchange for the coupons by Messrs. Wallbridge & Starks, Front St., Belleville. j29-eod1m

Toolmakers. Only good men need apply. Canadian General Electric Co., Ltd., Peterboro, Ont. 26-3t

Wanted—A printer at once, male or female. Steady position.—The Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont. d&wtf

Wanted.—Agents to solicit subscriptions to The Weekly Intelligencer with their four magazine premiums—5 papers, all for one year, $1.00. Liberal terms. Good money for sharp canvassers. Get samples. Send for terms.—The Weekly Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont. o5d&wtf

THE DUPLIGRAPH.

The best duplicator on the market. For a reasonable number of perfect copies from a type written original we defy any machine in the world, we care not what its cost may be.

If you ever have any duplicating work to do, all we ask is an opportunity to demonstrate to you the merits of our machine.

—Cabinet with three tablets foolscap size, complete with ink—price....$10.00

—Single Dupligraph Tray foolscap size $4.00

For sale in Belleville by

C. B. Scantlebury,
Stationer.

PENMAN & SPRANG,
Sole Mfrs.
Head office 22 Yonge St. Arcade,
Toronto, Can

Write for circulars and samples of work

The finest test of a truly great man is humanity.

4,500 CONVERSIONS.

The Apparently Known Results of the Torrey Mission—Dr. Torrey's Last Sermon In Toronto.

Toronto, Jan. 29.—"There has been a wonderful work in Toronto, and I am well satisfied with the results. The whole city is moved and the country round as well. The newspapers have done a great work by their reports of my meetings, which have gone all over the country."

This was Dr. Torrey's pronouncement upon the results of the 29 days' campaign he has waged in Toronto. Beginning with the huge rally at his opening meeting, on Sunday, the last day of the old year, there have been compassed within the space of those 29 days, 33 addresses by Dr. Torrey before Massey Hall audiences. Also there have been held a score or more of church and mission house meetings, so that the revival movement has been responsible for the holdings of possibly 75 gatherings.

Dr. Torrey estimates that there were about 4,500 conversion in all, and says that he considers the proportion of converts to the attendance at meetings was quite up to, if not above, the average of other cities. He remarked that a great many conversion other than those made manifest by profession, would show in increased church attendance.

Prayers For Dying Son.

Before beginning his address last night, Dr. Torrey said he had a pathetic request for prayer to read. It was from a mother whose son had only a short time to live. His life had been spent in worldly pleasure, and it was desired that he might "see the light." There were many fervent exclamations of "Amen" from the crowded platform.

"Now, as I shall preach for the last time in Toronto, may the Holy Ghost come upon me," prayed Dr. Torrey.

"To-day and To-morrow" was the theme of his address. As might be guessed, it was a plea against vaccilation in entering on the Christian life.

"To-day is the wise man's day, to-morrow is the 'fool's day,'" said the preacher, oracularly. There was no speedier road to triumph than by making a start to-day, and shorter road to failure than when one realized that thing ought to be done, and said it should be done to-morrow.

The world didn't satisfy. If men who had tried the world and had tried Christ were asked, they would say they had found satisfaction only in the Christian life.

"I wouldn't be surprised any night to lie down to sleep and wake up in heaven," said Dr. Torrey. Addressing his hearers, he said: "Who knows whether you will wake up in Toronto or wake up in hell?"

The speaker concluded amid a hushed silence.

MORE THAN ALLY.

Nicholas Toasts German Kaiser In Very Friendly Words.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 29.—A new grouping of the powers of Europe, with Germany and Russia arrayed side by side in the closest friendship, and the mismatched alliance of the empire, with Republican France lagging in the rear, was forecasted by the words of Emperor Nicholas at a gala luncheon at Tsarskoe-Selo Saturday in honor of Emperor William's birthday.

Rising to his feet before a brilliant company of Russian and German representatives to propose a toast to the German Emperor, Emperor Nicholas lifted his glass and said slowly and distinctly, as if weighing every word:—"I drink to the health of the Emperor of Germany and King of Prussia, my brother and very dear friend."

The phrases chosen were significant enough in themselves, the Emperor in previous years having proposed the health of the Emperor King without the qualifying expression of brotherhood and friendship, but, turning to Herr Von Schoan, the German Ambassador, who was standing at his right, the Emperor grasped him by the hand, and is reported to have said:—"Frere est plus que allie" (Brother that's more than ally).

Sixty Claims to Settle.

Peterboro, Jan. 29.—Steps are now being taken to repair the big break in the Trent Canal bank. All the trouble is apparently over. The Government will have about sixty claims to settle owing to flooded cellars, loss of fuel and provisions, etc.

Railway Bride On Fire.

St. Johns, Que., Jan. 29.—The C. P. R. bridge caught fire last night, and two hundred feet is already destroyed, and the wind is blowing a gale from the north. Trains are delayed on both sides of the river.

The Prevention of Consumption.

The following points and suggestions regarding the prevention of consumption, which deserve the attention of everybody, are gathered from a recent article by Dr. Knopf, of New York, which is to be found in the Medical Record of November 18th, 1905:

There are more cases of advanced tuberculosis to be treated than any other disease.

There is no disease where so much can be done to render the patient comfortable and hopeful as pulmonary tuberculosis in the advanced stage.

There is no disease where one case in a family can more readily become the cause of infection of other members, particularly in the stage where the consumptive begins to be confined to the close association of the family members only.

It is extremely important to remember that advanced consumptive patients who are able to go about, perhaps able to work at their ordinary calling in the office or factory, when ignorant or careless, constitute the greatest danger to the health of the community. They must be considered as the most frequent cause of infection. The careless, ignorant or helpless consumptive when confined to bed can do little more than infect his room, but the advanced patient able to follow some calling can, if he is careless, scatter 7,000,000,000 bacilli every day with the greatest ease.

Of all tuberculous patients, he should be the most carefully instructed and should be most deeply impressed with the fact that carelessness in the disposal of the sputum is dangerous to himself as well as to his neighbors.

As yet people generally have not been educated up to the point at which they are willing to carry and use a pocket flask or cardboard purse. Being desirous to conceal their condition, they are extremely reluctant to do anything which would call attention to their infirmity. Some way less likely to cause remark must be found. Probably the best that can be done in the meantime is to suggest that tuberculous men should have two pockets lined with some material which can be easily cleaned, and that they should carry in one of these pockets very cheap handkerchiefs or bits of cheesecloth or other cheap material cut like handkerchiefs, which when used can be put into the other pocket and there kept until the close of the day, when they can be easily destroyed or sterilized by boiling after their return home. In this way they can escape observation, and at the same time secure their fellow-workmen and associates against danger. When so simple a precaution as this, and one so easily within the reach of every right-thinking man, is available, not to make use of it would seem to be little less than criminal neglect.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charge as less than twenty-five words.

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

WANTED.

A printer at once, male or female. Steady position. — The Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont. 23-dawtf

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED at Intelligencer office by J. D. Ford. Also at residence, Murney St.

Walter Gerow, a young fellow of this city, met with a painful accident while skating at the "Two-mile pond" recently. He ran into the bank, broke a small bone in his ankle, and tore the ligaments quite badly.

Got Cut Rates From the Doctor

The Belgians once succeeded in getting cut rates on an operation from Sir Morel McKenzie. He engaged to attend a case at Antwerp. When he landed he was met by three men in mourning, who informed him that the patient had died, but that they would pay his full fee.

"And now," said one of the men, "since you are here, what do you say to visiting the city hospital and giving a clinic for the benefit of our local surgeons? It is not often they have an opportunity of benefiting by such science as yours."

Sir Morel said he would gladly comply. He went to the hospital and performed many operations, among which were two of a similar nature to that for which he had been called over. When he finished, all thanked him profusely. On the steamer going home he met a friend who had a business house in Antwerp.

"Pretty scurvy trick they played on you, Sir Morel."

"What do you mean?" asked the surgeon.

"Told you the patient died before you arrived, didn't they?"

"Yes."

"Lied. You operated on him and a friend with the same trouble at the clinic. Got two operations for one price!"—Reader Magazine.

A BARGAIN IN CARDS.

Business and professional men will do well in examining the cards just imported by The Intelligencer Job Department. They are of superior quality and very cheap. We have them from $1.00 for 500 with name and address upwards. Eight sizes. tf

Examine our typewriter paper before ordering from Toronto and paying freight or express charges.

APPEARING OLD.

You cannot afford to grow old.

In these days of strenuous competition it is necessary to maintain as long as possible one's youthful appearance.

It is impossible to do this without retaining a luxurious growth of hair.

The presence of a burrowing germ which lives and thrives on the roots of the hair until it causes total baldness.

Newbro's Herpicide is the only known destroyer of this pest, and it is as effective as it is delightful to use.

Herpicide makes an elegant hair dressing as well as Dandruff cure.

Accept no substitute—there is none.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. J. S. McKeown, special agent.

County Council.

SATURDAY MORNING SESSION.

Council resumed at 9 o'clock, Warden Lancaster presiding.

By-laws appointing High School Trustees; a member of the Board of Audit for administration of justice accounts, and to borrow a certain sum of money from the Merchants Bank, were passed through their various stages and numbered.

A by-law constituting a committee re construction of the House of Refuge was passed. The members who compose the committee are the Warden, H. K. Denyes, J. Dryden, W. Denter, S. T. Vandervoort and M. L. Cornell.

Moved by Mr. Denyes, seconded by Mr. Farley, that the Executive Committee be instructed to make such improvements in connection with the Court House this year as they think necessary—Carried.

A motion prevailed that Mr. Donald McRae be employed by the Superintendent to build bridges and culverts when required.

Moved by Mr. Denyes, seconded by Mr Dryden, That the matter of cutting trees and improving the Court House yard be placed in the hands of Messrs. Macfarlane, Aylesworth and Tom Ketcheson, with power to act.—Carried.

Council adjourned until Tuesday, June 5th.

Cradle—Altar—Tomb

BIRTH.

In Springbrook, on Jan. 18th, to Mr. and Mrs. M. Neal, a daughter.

MARRIED.

In Bancroft on Jan. 18th, Mr. Thos. Maxwell, to Miss Marion Reid.

In Trenton, on Jan. 17th, Mr. Edward Aikens, of Michigan, to Miss Mary L. Storey, of Trenton.

In Wicklow Township, on Jan. 10, Mr. Geo. Busby to Miss Jessie Perry.

DIED.

In Bairton, on Jan. 13th, Mrs. J. L. Aunger, aged 62 years.

In Marmora Township, on Jan. 19th, Mr. Bailey, Sr., aged 85 years.

In Eldorado, on Jan. 20th, Mrs. James Diamond, aged 45 years.

In Trenton on Jan. 18th, Edward A. Lynch, aged 5 years.

In Stirling on Jan. 13th, Mr. Alfred Cooney, aged 24 years.

In Marmora Township, on Jan. 18th, Mr. Stephen Cole, aged 21 years.

In Elzevir, on Jan. 21st, Mrs. Wm. Leslie, aged 73 years.

In Frankford, on Jan. 21st, Mr. J. Huyck, aged 70 years.

"Old Barbarity Bannerman."

(Toronto Telegram.)

"When is a war not a war? When it is carried on by methods of barbarism in South Africa."

"Old Barbarity" Bannerman, as the new Premier of Britain was known among the loyal colonists of South Africa, used the foregoing words on June 14, 1901.

Richard Seddon, of New Zealand, alluded to this speech on account of its tendency to prolong the war, and said:

"Those who encouraged the continuance of the war were aiders and abettors of murder."

"Aider and Abettor of murder" is a strong phrase, but it is a question whether there would have been any war at all if Campbell-Bannerman's shuffling had not encouraged the Boers to build their preparations for war on the theory of a divided Britain.

It is certain that the men killed in the later stages of the war would have been alive to-day if Campbell-Bannerman and his followers had not encouraged the Boers to hope that their continued resistance would beat down the stubborn purpose of the British nation.

WHAT CAUSES APPENDICITIS.

The commonest cause of appendicitis is constipation. When you require physic don't use cheap, drastic pills—get Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which strengthen the stomach, regulate the bowels and prevent any tendency to appendicitis. In one day you'll feel the tremendous benefit of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. By purifying the blood and cleansing the system they prevent headaches, lift depression and drive away weariness. No medicine so successful as Dr. Hamilton's Pills, sold everywhere in 25c boxes with yellow cover; get the genuine.

The coming man is generally a good advertiser.

Horses Ran Away

On Saturday evening the team of horses attached to the Ritchie Company's delivery waggon ran away on North Front street, during the temporary absence of the driver, who was delivering a parcel. The animals ran for about two miles along the Madoc road before they were stopped. No injury was sustained to the horses or the vehicle.

NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS.

FURNISHED BY J. R. HEINTZ & CO.'S LOCAL OFFICE.

Stock	New York, Jan. 23 Op'g	Close
Atchison	94	93
do pref	103⅞	104⅛
B.& O	116⅜	114⅝
C. O	60⅝	59
C.P.R.	173⅝	170
Erie	49	47⅝
do pref	82⅝	82
C. G. W	22⅜	21⅝
Ills C.	177⅞	176⅞
K. T.	38⅝	30⅞
L & N.	153	150⅞
Soo	....	....
Hop	103⅜	102
N Y C	151⅞	148⅝
Nor	91⅞	89⅝
O W	50⅝	54⅝
Penn	145⅞	143⅞
R I	21⅞	24⅞
Reading	146	139⅞
St. Paul	187⅞	184⅝
Sou Pac	69⅞	65
Sou. Ry	42⅜	40⅝
Union Pac	156⅞	153⅞
Texas	37⅝	30½
Wab.	25⅝	24
do pref	47	45⅝
W C	....	....
W C pref.	....	....
B.R.T.	91	87⅞
Met.	125⅞	121⅞
Manhattan	161⅞	161
T. W.	119	119
A. C. P.	111⅞	110⅞
Ala.	75	73
Sugar	149⅞	147⅞
P. O.	99⅝	99⅝
T. C. I.	58⅝	55
U. S. Steel	45	42⅝
do pref	111⅞	109⅞
W. U.	93⅝	94⅝
A F.	46⅞	44⅝
C.F.I.	78⅝	73⅝

May wheat opened at 83⅞ closed at 84⅞

July wheat opened at 83 ; closed at 83⅞

May corn opened at 44 ; closed at 44⅛

July corn opened at 44⅞ ; closed at 44⅞

May Oats opened at 30⅝ ; closed at 30⅞

Jan. pork opened at 14.07 ; closed at 14.12

STOCKS, BONDS, GRAIN, PROVISIONS, ETC.

J. R. Heintz & Co.

Established, 1879.

Members New York Consolidated Stock Exchange, New York Produce Exchange

Branch Office—52 Bridge St.
'Phone 8c

A LUCKY REPORTER.

He Happened to Be on the Spot on Important Occasions.

It requires eternal vigilance for a reporter to bag his game, leaving not a single chance for escape. It might be further said, however, that the element of luck does creep in now and then, either to a newspaper man's advantage or to his ruin. When Reginald Foster was one of the craft, he became famous as the luckiest of reporters. He was alert, energetic and capable of writing an excellent story when he landed it, but seemed to have a mascot perennial and eternal. Wherever he went he stumbled upon a "beat." He happened to be reporting a St. Patrick's day parade and went into the Windsor hotel to telephone his office when the fateful fire started in that hostelry, resulting in the horrible deaths of a great number of persons. Foster abandoned the parade, and helped rescue the imprisoned patrons of the burning hotel, and that night wrote a graphic account of the fire from start to finish. He was the most available reporter in New York when the great Hoboken fire started, and, hiring a steamer in the name of his newspaper, he saved many lives before the firemen could render aid. When President McKinley was assassinated at Buffalo the first news came to all the papers in New York in the shape of a very brief bulletin. A group of newspaper men simultaneously asked of each other, "Where is Foster?" Somebody explained that he was then on his vacation at Narragansett Pier, but, even while he was speaking, a telegram to the city editor was received and torn open. It read thus: "I was right beside the president when he was shot, having come to Buffalo exposition to close my vacation. Will send full descriptive story tonight." It was Foster.—Remsen Crawford in Success Magazine.

A Great Sinner.

The Doctor—Yes; that's the sort of man Bejings is. The neighbors say he cheats the gas company by tapping a pipe in his basement, and he lies about the ages of his children to keep from having to send them to school. The Professor—Then he sins against both light and knowledge.

The Art of Pleasing.

The secret of many a man's success is an affable manner, which makes everybody feel easy in his presence, dispels fear and timidity and calls out the finest qualities in one's nature.—Success Magazine.

Parsley, mustard, cowslip, horseradish, dock, dandelion, and beet tops clear the blood, regulate the system, and remove that tired feeling so peculiar to spring.

STARVING IN BELLEVILLE.

Men and Women who are in Need—Liberal Offer.

There are scores of people in Belleville and vicinity who are starving in the midst of plenty. This is not because they are in need of food, but because they cannot digest the food they eat.

To help these unfortunates our leading druggists have recently received a large supply of Mi-o-na, the most recent discovery for the cure of stomach troubles.

Mi-o-na is an unusual combination of remedies for the stomach and digestive organs that heretofore have been little known in this country. It soothes and heals the irritated mucous membrane of the stomach, stimulates the solar plexus, and strengthens the nervous system.

One little tablet out of a 50-cent box of Mi-o-na before meals, and you can eat what you like and when you like. You will have no more headaches, backaches, heartburn, or indigestion. Mi-o-na will give you perfect health and strength.

If you cannot obtain Mi-o-na of your druggist, it will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of price. Write us for advice on your case from a leading stomach specialist which will be sent free. The R. T. Booth Company, Ithaca, N. Y.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock Markets—The Latest Quotations.

Saturday Evening, Jan. 27.

Liverpool wheat futures closed to-day ¼d lower than Friday and corn futures ½d lower.

At Chicago May wheat closed ⅛c lower than Friday; May corn ⅛c lower and May oats ⅛c lower.

WINNIPEG OPTIONS.

The following were the closing quotations yesterday at this market: Jan. 76½, May 79½, July 80⅝.

TORONTO PRODUCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, spring, bush	$0 76 to	$....
Wheat, fall, bush	0 76	0 78
Wheat, red, bush	0 76	0 78
Wheat, goose, bush	0 71	0 72
Barley, bush	0 52	....
Oats, bush	0 39½	0 40
Rye, bush	0 74	....
Peas, bush	0 75	....
Buckwheat, bush	0 33	....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, Jan. 27.—Wheat, spot nominal; futures, quiet; March, 6s 11⅛d; May, 6s 9⅛d. Corn, spot quiet; American mixed, new, 4s 2d; American mixed, old, 4s 8¼d; futures, quiet; Jan., 4s 2⅜d; March, 4s 2⅛d; May, 4s 3⅛d. Peas, Canadian, steady, 6s 10½d. Flour, St. Louis fancy winter, steady, 9s. Hops in London (Pacific coast), steady, £2 10s to £3 10s. Beef, quiet; extra India mess, 76s 3d. Pork, quiet; prime mess western, 67s 6d. Hams, short cut, 14 to 16 pounds, quiet, 43s 6d. Bacon, quiet; Cumberland cut, 26 to 30 pounds, 44s; short ribs, 16 to 24 pounds, 43s 6d; long clear middles, light, 28 to 34 pounds, 45s 6d; long clear middles, heavy, 35 to 40 pounds, 45s; short clear backs, 16 to 20 pounds, 42s; clear bellies, 14 to 16 pounds, 46s 6d. Shoulders, square, 11 to 13 pounds, firm, 40s. Lard, quiet; prime western, in tierces, 38s 9d; American refined, in pails, 39s 6d. Butter, steady; finest United States, 100s; good United States, 90s. Cheese, firm; American, finest white, 63s 6d; American, finest colored, 64s 6d.

CANADIAN PRODUCE IN BRITAIN.

London, Jan. 27.—(C.A.P.)—The market for Canadian cheese this week has been quiet and there is an easier tendency in prices to about 63s to 64s, being the price of the choicest. During the past few weeks customs returns show imports of cheese from Denmark. Bacon, number 1 is 56s, 60s to 62s; No. 2, 55s, 57s to 61s; No. 3, 55s, 56s, to 60s. The market was quiet throut the week.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, Jan. 27.—Butter, quiet, unchanged; receipts, 2063.

Cheese, steady, unchanged; receipts, 1720.

Eggs, weaker; receipts, 6124; state, Pennsylvania and nearby fancy selected white, 24c to 25c; do., choice, 23c to 24c; mixed, extra, 20c to 21c; western firsts, 19c; do. seconds, 17c to 18½c; southerns, 17c to 19c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Cattle Steady—Hogs Firm in U. S. Markets.

London, Jan. 27.—Cattle are quoted at 10½c to 11½c per lb.; refrigerator, 7⅞c to 8½c.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, Jan. 27.—Cattle—Receipts, 250; steady; prime steers, $5.35 to $5.50; shipping steers, $4.60 to $5.25; butchers', $4.35 to $5.10; heifers, $3.50 to $4.75; cows, $2.50 to $4.25; bulls, $2.50 to $4.35; stockers and feeders, $3.50 to $4.30; stock heifers, $3 to $3.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 3500; fairly active and steady; heavy, mixed and yorkers, $5.80 to $5.85; pigs, $5.85 to $5.90; roughs, $4.80 to $5.10; stags, $3.25 to $4.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 5000; active. Lambs, $6.25 to $7.85; yearlings, $6.50 to $6.75; wethers, $5.50 to $6.10; ewes, $5.50 to $5.75; sheep, mixed, $3 to $5.75; western lambs, $7.25 to $7.70.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, Jan. 27.—Beeves—Receipts, 205; no trading; feeling, steady. Dressed beef, slow, 5½c to 9c for ordinary to choice native sides. Export, 980 beeves, 50 sheep and 4500 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 72; no trading; feeling weak. City dressed veals, steady, at 9c to 14c; country dressed, firm for top grades; under grades, in over supply and slow at 9c to 12c.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 683. Demand slack and prices no more than steady. Choice sheep sold at $5.75; good lambs, $7.75; dressed mutton, slow, at 5c to 10c; dressed lambs weak at 11c to 12½c.

Hogs—Receipts, 3474; feeling, nominally steady.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Cattle—Receipts, 200; steady. Beevs, $3.50 to $6.35; cows, $1.35 to $4.40; heifers, $2.40 to $4.85; calves, $5.50 to $8; good to prime steers, $5.30 to $6.25; poor to medium, $3.50 to $5.25; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 19,000; strong to 5c higher; mixed and butchers', $5.30 to $5.50; good heavy, $5.40 to $5.50; rough heavy, $5.30 to $5.35; light, $5.25 to $5.47½; pigs, $4.85 to $5.35; bulk of sales, $5.40 to $5.50.

Sheep—Receipts, 2000; steady; sheep, $3.50 to $5.80; yearlings, $6 to $6.65; lambs, $5.75 to $7.60.

COUGHERS, HAWKERS, SPITTERS!

Public expectoration is against the common law, against the laws of health also. When the throat tickles, that's the time you need "Catarrhozone"; it soothes away the irritation, cuts out the phlegm and loosens the tight feeling. You'll quickly cure that catarrh and throat trouble with Catarrhozone. It positively prevents new attacks and cures catarrh forever and for all time to come. Don't take our word for it; try Catarrhozone yourself. Once used you'll be delighted with its pleasant and helpful influence.

Job Printing.

ENVELOPES.—Bond, Laid, Wove or Manila, sizes 7 and 8, printed with your business address, from $1.25 to $3.00 per 1000. A large range of business and calling cards—ladies' and gentlemen's—all prices. Programmes and all kinds of printing at most reasonable rates at The Menu Cards, Toast Lists, Invitations, Intelligencer Job Department.

7 Sutherland Sisters. . .

Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner . .

THE IDEAL HAIR DRESSING'S

PRICE 50 CTS.

WATERS' DRUG STORE.

Dinner Sets

We have just received 16 Dinner Setts, in Blue, Pink, Peacock and Green, 98 pieces in sett, including large platter, fruit sett, butter-dish, bread and butter plates, etc.; regular price $7.00, we want a speedy clearance of these goods and will give you your choice for $5.00 per sett, of 98 pieces.

Just think of it, only 5c per piece.

• • •

TOWELS AND TOWELLING.

We have just received our spring shipment of these goods.

Drop in and see our Bath Towels @ 7, 12 1-2, 15, 25c; we think they are the best value ever seen in town.

CHAS. N. SULMAN.

Don't Use Drug Cures for Headache

They Hurt You. Use Zutoo.

Don't think because the drug cures for headache do not make your heart palpitate, dull your nerves or upset your stomach just when you take them, that they are not hurting you, for they are.

The magazine "Health" speaks truly when it says: "Every dose of such drugs is at the expense of vitality, and sooner or later the penalty for outraging nature will be exacted."

You can avoid this penalty and cure your headaches just as quickly by taking the vegetable cure, Zutoo.

It is Harmless as Soda.

FULLER.

Numbers from here attended the special services conducted by Rev. Mr. E. E. Howard in Moira Methodist Church.

Miss Lydia McCumber entertained Miss Mabel Kellar, of Bridgewater, for a few days.

Mr. C. H. Geen held a wood bee on Thursday afternoon. It was a success.

Mr. Thomas Beatty spent one day this week in Tweed.

Mrs. L. J. Burke, of Glenn, drove through this neighborhood on Thursday.

Mr. William Watkins, of Woodstock, is the guest of Mr. Daniel Collins.

Mr. Joseph Burke has returned home, after spending a couple of months in the lumber camp.

Mrs. Frank Kellar has returned home, after spending a few days with her cousin, Mrs. Philip Clarke, of Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Hollinger entertained a number of their neighbors on Friday evening last.

Miss Sarah Hollinger spent a couple of days the guest of her cousin, Miss Martha Thompson, of Moira.

Mrs. I. J. Brough gave a rag bee to the ladies one afternoon this week. A goodly number attended.

Miss Maude Hallett, of Thomasburg, was the guest of Miss Ida Burke on Friday.

CHILLS PROVE FATAL!

If warmth and circulation are not promptly restored, chills result in fatal pneumonia. This necessitates keeping Nerviline on hand. Taken in hot water it breaks up a chill in two minutes. By rubbing freely over throat and chest it prevents colds. No liniment so strong, so penetrating, so swift to kill pain and inflammation. Nearly fifty-two years' record has proved the value of Polson's Nerviline. You should get a bottle to-day.

Change of copy for advertisements in The Weekly Intelligencer must be in this office on Friday morning to ensure their appearance in the issue of the following week.

The Man Who Knows

"Maple Leaf"
Rubber Quality

Has no Desire to try other MAKES.

Are the Lightest

AND LAST THE LONGEST

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES—Belleville. Napanee & Trenton.

ICE CREAM SODA

We are serving Ice Cream Soda this winter as well as the Ice Cream.

A delicious drink we are serving now is a Chocolate Soda made from Lowney's Gold Medal Chocolate.

It is manufactured by an improved process which preserves all the nutritive qualities of the Cocoa Bean and makes a delicious drink either in a soda or hot chocolate.

Ed. F. Dickens.
CATERER

CLUB OLD TOM GIN

A Pure, Wholesome &
Well-matured
Spirit.

KEEP THE CAPSULES AND GET A VALUABLE PREMIUM.

BOIVIN, WILSON & CO., Montreal.

Sloan's Maple Syrup.

For Pancakes, or in place of Fruit there is nothing nicer than a good Maple Syrup. Ask for our "Defiance" Brand, to be sure of getting the best.

John Sloan & Co., Wholesale Grocers,
Toronto and Belleville

SAFE INVESTMENTS

LOW EXPENSE

THE CARDINAL POINTS
—OF—
THE DOMINION LIFE
Head Office: Waterloo, Ont,
P. H. SIMS, S.B. BRICKER, HON. SENATOR MCMULLEN
Vice-Presidents.
THOS. HILLIARD, President and Managing Director.
FRED HALSTEAD. Supt. of Agencies.

LOW MORTALITY

HIGH AVERAGE INTEREST RATE

The Intelligencer Bindery

Makes a specialty of Ledgers, Journals, Cash Books and all Descriptions of Blank Account Books.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

THE TEN TIRED TRAVELERS — A PUZZLE.

(Grand Magazine.)

Ten weary, footsore travellers,
All in a woeful plight,
Sought shelter at a wayside inn
One dark and stormy night.

"Nine rooms, no more," the landlord said.
"Have I to offer you,
To each of eight a single bed,
But the ninth must serve for two."

A din arose. The troubled host
Could only scratch his head,
For of those tired men no two
Would occupy one bed.

The puzzled host was soon at ease—
He was a clever man—
And so to please his guests devised
This most ingenious plan;

A	B	C	D	E	F	G	H	I

In room marked A two men were placed,
The third was lodged in B,
The fourth to C was then assigned,
The fifth retired to D.

In E the sixth he tucked away,
In F the seventh man,
The eighth and ninth in G and H,
And then to A he ran.

Wherein the host, as I have said,
Had laid two travellers by;
Then taking one—the tenth and last
He lodged him safe in I.

Nine single rooms—a room for each—
Were made to serve for ten;
And this it is that puzzles me
And many wiser men.

• • •

When the first grandchild comes it is time for a woman to cease having golden hair.

• • •

Taunton, Mass., has elected a former bootblack as Mayor of the town. He still shines.

• • •

Many a man who neither drinks nor uses tobacco doesn't own a row of cut stone fronts.

• • •

A celebrated cornetist in Paris gets $1,500 a week. No wonder he can blow himself.

• • •

Glancing over the United States newspapers we infer that Alice Roosevelt's trousseau is even more interesting than Alice Roosevelt's husband.

• • •

Elijah Dowie has quit the job, a chariot of fire attached to a long train of passenger coaches having whisked him off to Mexico.

• • •

James J. Hill, the American railway millionaire, thinks too many Americans are coming to Canada. Not a bit of it. J. J. Hill used to be in Canada himself.

• • •

Governor-General Zollogub is said to be guilty of great atrocities in Courland. But what could you expect from a man with a name that sounds like a cold in the head?

• • •

Prince Arthur of Connaught is to open the Toronto Horse Show. It is to be hoped they will not turn him into a side show as the fair officials did the visiting naval contingents last fall.

• • •

It is recorded that the Shah of Persia, when presented with a new typewriter recently, had it thoroughly boiled to remove evil spirits. In the modern business office, however, they don't boil the machine, they merely roast the girl.

• • •

WORKING FOR A REWARD.

(New York Medical Journal.)

Her father had undergone an operation for appendicitis, and five-year-old was making her first call. When nurse came to take her away, she hung back a moment. "Haven't I been very quiet, papa?"

"Yes," whispered the fond parent.

"And haven't I been very good?" Her father admitted it.

"Then won't you do me a big favor, papa?"

"Certainly. What is it, my child?"

"Let me see the baby."

The Verdict.

"Did the jury find the prisoner guilty?" inquired a man concerning a burglar.

"No, sir," responded the policeman. "They didn't find him at all. He got away."

MOTHERS!
Menthol Worm Remover
Instantly cleanses the system of worms—and prevents their return. Purely vegetable—safe—small tablets—easy to take. Nothing like them for the stomach and bowels. Keep children well and hearty.
25c. a box—at all druggists.
The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., Ltd., Toronto, Can.

BY WIRELESS FROM WINDOM

By Marion H. Kerner

Copyright, 1905, by Ruby Douglas

"It doesn't look so far to land," said Nettie idly.

"That's not relevant," objected Victor Turner. "I ask you if you will do me the honor of marrying me, and you comment on the apparent nearness of the shore."

"Cannot you see," she cried passionately, "that I do not want to answer that question?"

"I don't see why. If it isn't 'No,' why not say 'Yes?'" he pleaded earnestly. "We've been friends, companions, for a long time, Nettie."

The girl looked at him squarely, then dropped her eyes. "Can't you see that it hurts me to refuse? Perhaps—I'm not sure that it's 'Yes' yet, but 'No' does not seem to fit either."

"We've gone all over this ground before," he said impatiently. "Please, if there's no one else"—

"You must remember, Victor, that all my life I have been very, very happy with father, and it is not easy to give my happiness into the keeping of any one else, even"—

"Even me," he said resignedly. "All right. I'll wait until you're sure, girlie. I'll work hard and—and forget you just a little bit—for awhile."

Nettie turned to him with eyes full of tenderness. "I am sorry, but somehow I cannot bring myself to say 'Yes.' I'm glad—yes, really glad—you don't urge me, and perhaps it will work out all right in the end."

"It will, sweetheart," he said tenderly, and he skillfully turned the conversation.

They were visiting Windom light, off the shore from the resort where they were stopping, and Turner had thought this a good opportunity to speak the love that was in his heart. It was a shock to realize that he must wait longer. He had felt of late that she cared for him.

It was with a heavy heart that he rowed across the three mile stretch of inlet. He had hoped that they would come back engaged. Instead, she sat in the stern, listless and downcast, while he put all of his strength into his rowing in the vain hope of wearing down the dull ache at his heart.

A LIGHT IN ONE HAND AND ANOTHER BURNING AT HIS FEET.

He tried not to show his disappointment when they met in the evening, but something had come between them, and, try as they would, neither could re-establish the friendship on the old familiar footing. Victor had made his cast and lost.

At the end of the second day the situation had become so unpleasant that Nettie was talking of cutting short her stay and finishing the summer at the mountains. Victor knew her fondness for the shore, and before she fully determined upon the step he announced that he was unexpectedly called back to town the following day.

It was with mingled relief and dismay that Nettie heard the announcement, and, filled with a desire to be alone, she went down to the beach and put out in the little skiff she handled as expertly as any of the fishermen.

Almost before she knew it she was under the shadow of Windom light, and a sudden impulse led her to stop at the little landing and visit again the familiar spot.

Oddly enough, the keeper did not come to greet her, and she made her way curiously to the open door. The little dog which kept the solitary man company ran whining to meet her, and she followed him into the combined kitchen and living room.

There in his comfortable chair sat the keeper, apparently asleep, but he did not awake even when the dog barked, and with a chill at her heart Nettie went forward.

Before she reached him she knew that his lonely vigil was ended and that death had called him away. She made sure that he was dead, then turned and sped toward the dock to summon assistance.

With a cry, she saw her skiff floating on the waters beyond the inlet, carried out by the ebbing tide, and realized that she was alone on the reef with a dead man.

The dusk was falling, and she sat on the steps, not daring to enter, and vainly scanned the inlet for the sight of a boat.

There was not a sail in sight. One or two small boats were afloat down by the hotel, but no signal she could make was effective, and with a sinking heart she prepared to spend the night on the reef.

The growing dusk reminded her of the light, and, running through the room, she sped up the circular stairway of the tower. The lamps were trimmed and filled, and the keeper had shown her how they were lighted. There was the glow of a match, and the broad beams shot through the dusk.

For awhile she crouched there, hungry, tired and afraid. Then suddenly an idea came to her, and she sprang to her feet.

• • • • • • •

On the hotel piazza they were commenting on the oddness of the light. The beacon was a fixed light, yet it was flickering in the most unexpected fashion. They were still talking about it when Victor, roaming the piazzas in the hope of having his last evening with Nettie, drew near one of the groups.

"Looks like Morse," he said as he watched the flashing light for a moment. "Wonder if the old man is in trouble."

"Can you read it?" asked some one eagerly.

"Sure," he laughed. "That was a 't,' then a 'y.'"

There was a pause, then he began slowly to spell, "V-i-c"—a stop—"H-e-l-p."

"Must mean you," laughed one of the men.

"It does," he said quietly. "Miss Osgood is in some sort of trouble over there and is calling for help."

Five minutes later he was on the beach, a light in his hand and another burning at his feet. The guests stood about him as the light rose and fell, first on one side and then on the other, until, with a "Thank God, she sees!" he flung the spluttering light into the surf and sprang into the waiting boat.

The flickering had stopped now, and the crowd, straining its eyes to follow the progress of the boat, speculated upon the cause of the trouble and wondered how Nettie had thought to use Morse.

To Victor in the boat there was only the thought that the woman he loved had called him, and he was the first to spring ashore and dash up the stairway.

The others had gone no farther than the dead man when he reappeared with the unconscious form in his arms.

"Some of you row us back," he said, "while the rest stay here until relief comes. We will send right back."

And he led the way to the boat.

They were nearly home before Nettie opened her eyes. "You did see," she whispered. "I knew you would. I remembered you once told me that you could run a telegraph office. I studied it, too, just for fun in school, but it saved me from going crazy tonight."

"I wish I could always be near when you call," he whispered, and he had to lean closer to catch the whispered: "You may if you still want to. I'm sure now."

"Sooners."

For many persons a newly discovered fact is simply a springboard from which they dive into a bottomless sea of speculation. They pride themselves on their ability to jump at conclusions, forgetting that jumping is an exercise in which the lower orders excel their betters. If an elephant could jump as far in proportion to his weight as a flea there would be no holding him on this planet. Every new discovery is followed by a dozen extravagances, engineered by the get-wise-quick people. There is always some young Napoleon of philosophy who undertakes to corner the truth market. It's like what happened at the opening of Oklahoma territory. Before the day set by the government when they all were to start fair in their race for farms a band of adventurers called "sooners" smuggled themselves across the line. When the bona fide settler arrived on his quarter section he found an impudent "sooner" in possession. You can't find any fresh field of investigation that isn't claimed by these "sooners." It all comes because people are no longer educated logically.—Samuel McChord Crothers in Atlantic.

Getting Rid of the Old Folks.

A British official tells of the curious method adopted by the natives of the innermost regions of the Kongo Free State in the disposal of their aged members when they become a burden. The infirm and aged people are rendered unconscious by means of a narcotic and in this comatose condition are wrapped in a fresh antelope skin. In this garb they are then hurried by the members of the family to a point remote from the village and abandoned in the grass near a native track. The first native that passes the spot discovers what he imagines to be an antelope and promptly dispatches it with a spear. Then the members of the deceased aged one's family emerge from hiding near by and express their great horror and surprise at the unfortunate incident, though inwardly congratulating themselves upon their success.

Volcanoes and Earthquakes.

A remarkable example of the close connection of volcanoes and earthquakes was observed by the early Spanish settlers in San Salvador. When the water in the crater lake of Ilopango rose above a certain level earthquake shocks always followed, so they cut a channel to allow of the escape of the water and prevent its rising in the crater, and for a hundred years there was no earthquake in that district. Then the precaution was neglected, the water rose in the crater and presently a violent earthquake shook the country. At the same time the lake was blown out by a volcanic eruption.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

For The Winter
GO TO CALIFORNIA, MEXICO OR FLORIDA.
"The land of Summer's sunshine"

TOUR OF AL MEXICO

Leaving Toronto on Jan. 29th
covering all points of interest.
Special reduced rates.

Mount Clemmens "Mineral Baths" and St. Catherines Mineral prings, delightful resorts for those who need a rest. Best of hotel accommodation.

For tickets and full information call on
H. C. THOMPSON, Town Agent.
T. H. COPPIN, Depot Agent.

Hotel Belleclaire
Broadway and 77th Street,
New York.

Seventh Avenue, Amsterdam Ave. and West 130th St. Cars pass the door.
Luxurious rooms for permanent and transient guests.
Restaurant a Feature.
Exquisite Palm Room.
Art Nouveau Cafe.
Royal Hungarian Orchestra.

"Most Artistically Beautiful Hotel in the World." Can offer few single rooms, with bath, beautifully furnished, suitable for two people, $80 per month.

TRANSIENT RATES:
One Room, with bath .... $2.50 per day
Parlor, Bedroom, with bath, $3 and $5 per day
Parlor, 2 Bedrooms, with bath, $5 and $7 per day
Every improvement known to modern ingenuity.
Write for our magazine, "The Hotel Belleclaire World."
MILTON ROBLEE, Proprietor.

HOTEL TOURAINE
Delaware Ave. & Johnson Park
BUFFALO, N. Y.

A modern, high-class and convenient stopping place, offering every accommodation for the comfort and pleasure of transient guests. Moderate prices.

Harry C. Griswold, Proprietor.

NEW YORK CENTRAL
& Hudson River R.
THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST
Daily except Sunday

Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)	1.39 a.m.	noon
Arr. Kingston "	3.25 a.m.	1.25 p.m
Lv. Kingston (steamer)	5.00 a.m.	2.00 p.m
Arr. CapeVincent (str.) Mondays only	7.00 a.m.	4.00 p.m
Lv. CapeVincent N.Y.C.	7.15 a.m.	4.50 p.m.
Arr. Watertown "	8.10 a.m.	5.50 p.m
Arr. Oswego "	11.59 a.m.	9.12 p.m
Arr Syracuse "	12.13 p.m.	9.33 p.m
Arr. Rochester "	2.28 p.m.	....
Arr. Utica "	12.20 a.m.	6.00 p.m.
Arr New York "	5.48 p.m.	7.12 a.m.

Convenient train service in opposite direction
Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10, while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C.R.R. of New Jersey, cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from H. S. Folger, N.Y.C. agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
General Pass'r Agent,
New York.
A. H. SMITH, General Manager,
New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

Job Printing.

ENVELOPES.—Bond, Laid, Wove or Manilla, sizes 7 and 8, printed with your business address, from $1.25 to $3.00 per 1000. A large range of business and calling cards—ladies' and gentlemen's—all prices. Programmes and all kinds of printing at most reasonable rates at The Menu Cards, Toast Lists, Invitations, Intelligencer Job Department.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

Celery for rheumatism and neuralgia.

Business Directory.

MUSICAL.

W. H. SPOONER,
Associate of Trinity College, London, Eng. Organist of St. Thomas Church, receives pupils for Pianoforte, Organ, Vocal and all branches of Theoretical Music. Apply at studio, Coleman St., or by letter, P. O. 932.
50-6md

MEDICAL.

McLEAN CAVERLY, M. D., C. M., M. C. P. S. O.
Office, at residence, No 90 West Bridge street. Office hours 9 to 10 a.m.; 1 to 3, and 7 to 8 p.m. No regular office hours on Sundays.
Telephone 325.

JONH J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.C. C. S., England.
Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. WILSON,
J. M. Wilson. D. D. Wilson,
Located in Dr. Lockridge's old office, opposite Wallbridge and Clarke's, Bridge street, Belleville, jy12-d & wly.

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, &c., Belleville.
Office—9 Campbell Street.
Malcolm Wright. J. Franklin Wills,
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B.C.L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for City of Belleville.
Office—City Hall.

PORTER & CARNEW,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices—Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 67.
E. Guss Porter. Wm. Carnew.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office Bridge St., Belleville.
Money to Loan.—Private Funds at lowest rates. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario, and for the Merchants Bank of Canada.

NORTHRUP & ROBERTS,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public.
Offices—North Bridge St., opposite Post Office, Belleville, Ont.
Solicitors for Bank of Montreal.
Money to loan at 5 per cent.
W. B. Northrup, K. C., M. P.
jy27-d&wtf A. A. ROBERTS.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
(Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q. C.)
Barrister, Solicitor Conveyancer, etc Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent. on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire, Life, Accident and Plate Glass
INSURANCE AGENCIES.
The Guardian
Ins. Co. of North America,
Quebec and Metropolitan Fire Co's.
Insures farm and city property at lowest rates.
Canadian Railway Accident Ins. Co.
Office Campbell St., Belleville, Ont.
R. W. ADAMS.

THOMAS STEWART,
INSURANCE AND REAL ESTATE.
Agent Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society, Scottish Union & National Insurance Co., North British & Mercantile Insurance Co., London & Lancaster Insurance Co., Dominion of Canada Guarantee & Accident Co., Equitable Life of New York, New York Plate Glass Insurance Co.
Bridge St., Belleville.

Fire, Life and Plate Glass Insurance.
Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual of Waterloo, Ont.
Lloyd's Plate Glass.
Home Life Association, Toronto.
North British Mercantile.
Farm and City Property insured in first-class, reliable companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation and transact general Real Estate business, and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle St., opposite Post Office and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.
'Phone 163.

Money Saved is Money Earned.
I can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co.
The Merchants' Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at a lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON.
Office—Bridge St.

My Rights In Regard to Hallie

By INA WRIGHT HANSON

Copyright, 1905, by Ruby Douglas

It is not etiquette in Grass Valley to make afternoon calls earlier than 6 o'clock on certain days of the year. The weather man made the rule. When the mercury stands at 102 degrees on the shady north porch and you are sure that something ails the thermometer or it would be higher, you obey fashion's dictates without any question.

It was something after 6 when I joined Hallie at her aunt's gate on the evening before she was to return to her eastern home. She was bareheaded, bare necked, bare armed, and her dress was white. My throat tightened as I saw in perspective other nights when I shouldn't care what I did because blithe, beautiful Hallie would be only a memory.

"I've saved only the best for the last, Dan," she smiled, giving me her hand. "Come on the porch and see. Every day I've stood here and looked over at it, my beautiful castle, and would allow no one to tell me about it because I wanted you to. I've made more romances about that castle than you can count."

"Castle?" I repeated, following her to the east porch. "I don't know of any castle in this town."

In obedience to her pointing finger I looked across the hollow to the hill beyond, red of soil and green with cultivation, having a background of pines and bearing on its breast ruins of gray stone.

"Oh, that," I said; "that is Deacon's Folly. It is"—

"Wait. Don't tell me till we are there. We shall see the sun go down while I listen to the story."

So we went through the streets of the town out into a country road and through a veritable lovers' lane, with the twitter of birds somewhere beyond the willows on either side, with the purling of a little stream at our feet and the tinkle of bells behind us. We halted on a rude bridge.

"YOU ARE TRAGIC TONIGHT, DAN," SHE REMARKED.

"Hallie, dear, let's stay here in the peace and quiet forever," I whispered.

She put her hand on my arm. "I have decided that I will marry you, Dan," she said softly.

"Oh, Hallie!" I cried and captured the little hand. "Oh, Hallie!"

"I've been thinking it over since I said no, and I am sure it needn't interfere with my work. I can't bear to go away and leave you, and you would as soon live in the east as the west, wouldn't you, Dan?"

The expression of her face was eager and sweet and shy all at once, but frowning. I released her hand and started on.

"You were criticising this town the other day," I began slowly. "You said your uncle owned only half his home because he has title to only the surface right, while Mr. Brown owns the mining right. You said that if you owned a piece of property you should want to own halfway down to China; that it must be all or nothing with you."

Hallie flushed, but made no reply.

"It is so with me. I want you, Hallie, but I want all of you—your mind as well as your beautiful body. If you are to be my wife you must not give the Benton Clarion or any other newspaper a mining right to take the gold of your brightest thoughts away from me."

"But I am the best girl reporter in the state. They said so," she protested, with sweet, unconscious egotism. "I can't give up my work, Dan. I love it."

"No one can serve two masters, Hallie."

We walked a little while in silence. When I turned to assist her up the hill I saw that her eyes were wet, but she was brave and proud, was Hallie. She looked up at me, laughing.

"Thus endeth the first chapter," she said mockingly.

"So be it," I answered, holding open the great gate that she might pass through.

We went through a pear orchard, and presently we stood among the gray stone ruins. In the inclosure were pine trees and maples waving their great leaves mournfully; near the front entrance some stones had fallen from out the wall, and among them grew poison oak; in one corner masses of blooming catchfly and in the center six dandelion stems.

"Rich man, poor man, beggar man, chief; doctor, lawyer"— chanted Hallie, bending over them. "Tell my fortune, dandelions, I pray you." She puffed out her pretty red lips and blew desperately at each one, but their time was not yet ended. They refused to be blown away. Laughing, she went over to the catchfly corner and sat down on a stone.

"Tell me about it, Dan," she commanded, beginning to gather the scarlet blossoms.

"Many years ago a good deacon owned a gold mine," I began, looking down at her gloomily, "and in the foolishness of his heart he thought the yield would never grow less. He said: 'I will not live in houses like other men. I will build me a castle such as this country has never beheld.' So his workers laid these foundations and built these walls. Then one day the deacon went to his mine, but there was no more gold. His castle was never completed; his fountains never splashed in the sunlight nor did his electric lights ever shine down on the town below. He died, but his 'folly' remains. It has many applications. You, Hallie, are squandering the gold of an honest man's love. You are building for yourself a castle of fame. Beware, lest it crumble in ruins about your feet."

"You are tragic tonight, Dan," she remarked as she finished her bright hued crown and placed it on her dark hair.

"The sun is setting," I said, turning angrily away from her beauty. "You have no business to be working among men anyway. You are too pretty."

It was a scornful glance she threw back at me as she climbed the rock pile to look toward the west.

"I didn't think that of you," she said quietly, but her tone made me flush with shame.

"Forgive me, Hallie," I cried, springing up beside her. "I don't know what I'm saying."

"Dear old Dan," she whispered, with a half sob, "don't forget me quite when I'm gone."

Forget her! The sun disappeared behind the fringe of pines, and the cathedral bell began to ring slowly, each chime a knell to my dead hopes. Hallie shivered.

"We had better go. It will be dark now when we get back."

I pleaded for five minutes more so that I might say my real goodby to scarlet crowned, red lipped, misty eyed Hallie; then, hand in hand, we went down the hill, along the country road, through lovers' lane and back to the town again.

It was summer when Hallie went away, and it was summer again when she came back. One evening I was passing the house which she had glorified for so short a time, when her aunt beckoned to me.

"Go to the east porch," she whispered as I went up the walk.

I thought of the time Hallie had shown me her castle from the east porch, and my heart was like lead as I went round the house and looked up to see—Hallie! Not round and rosy as she had been, but white, with great eyes unnaturally bright; Hallie, with her pale lips trembling and her thin little arms outstretched toward me.

"What have they done to my darling?" I cried hoarsely as I sprang forward.

"I'm tired, Dan," she whispered, laying her dear head on my shoulder. "You said no one could serve two masters, and I have failed in serving one. I went out one stormy night to get details of a horrible murder case. I caught cold and couldn't seem to get over it. They said I must come back to California. And, Dan, I was glad, for California held you. My castle has fallen, as you said it might, but I don't seem to care."

"Hallie," I answered joyously, "love is better than fame and quietness far more to be desired than great riches. After you left I bought the pear orchard, and often have I sat among the castle ruins longing for my little girl. Tomorrow I will begin to build our house, and when it is finished I shall take you there. The pure winds and the balm of the pines will give you back your health. Oh, Hallie, Hallie!"

And looking into her dear eyes I saw sweet prophecy of happy days to come.

Broken English.

English is said to be one of the most difficult languages in the world for a foreigner to learn. The verbs and prepositions are particularly puzzling. A professor in an eastern college tells of the troubles of a Frenchman with the verb "to break." "I begin to understand your language better," said my friend M. de L. to me, "but your verbs trouble me still. You mix them up so with prepositions. I saw your friend Mrs. S. just now. She says she intends to break down her school earlier than usual. Am I right there?"

"Break up her school, she must have said.

"Oh, yes, I remember; break up school."

"Why does she do that?" I asked.

"Because her health is broken into."

"Broken down."

"Broken down? Oh, yes. And indeed since the fever has broken up in her town"—

"Broken out. Will she leave her house alone?"

"No. She is afraid it will be broken—broken— How do I say that?"

"Broken into."

"Certainly. It is what I meant to say."

"Is her son to be married soon?"

"No. That engagement is broken—broken"—

"Broken off? Ah, I had not heard."

"She is very worried about it. Her son only broke the news down to her last week. Am I right?"

"No; merely broke."—Harper's Weekly.

RACE ACROSS ATLANTIC.

Officers on Prince Louis of Battenberg's Flagship Act as Coal-Heavers.

An exciting go-as-you-please race took place recently between vessels of the second cruiser squadron during their recent journey from Sandy Hook to Gibraltar, says The London Daily Chronicle of Dec. 15. Towards the end of the race it was seen that the winner would be the ship whose crew could shift coal fastest, and on board Prince Louis of Battenberg's flagship, the Drake, officers of the watch below and the midshipmen, as well as warrant officers and seamen, became for the time coal-trimmers, and worked literally like niggers.

Prince Louis' orders, when the squadron was clear of Sandy Hook, were to "make the best of your way independently to Gibraltar at the greatest speed possible with the amount of coal on board." So close was the racing that on the evening of the fourth day the Drake, Bedford, Berwick and Cumberland were all within one mile of each other, with the Cornwall about six miles astern and the Essex tailing off four miles behind her.

Twenty-four hours later the Drake had obtained a lead of five miles, and increased it, owing to the Berwick having an engine break down for a couple of hours. But next day, having the advantage of best Welsh steam coal to the Drake's American coal, the Berwick had crept up to within three miles of the leader.

Petty officers and men, including signal ratings, volunteered for the stokehold, and the middies worked incessantly for many hours getting coal to the fires from the after and reserve bunkers. On the last day of the race the Drake's lieutenants and warrant officers donned coaling suits, and out in six hours' hard work, with the result that Prince Louis' flagship won the race of 1,703 miles by eight cables.

The Drake's run from Sandy Hook to Tarifa Point was seven days, seven hours, ten minutes, and averaged eighteen and a half knots an hour, beating all man-of-war records for ocean racing by over half a knot. The flagship had only 300 tons of coal left, and the Berwick 256.

The King's Personal Friend.

King Edward's grant of the Windsor uniform to the outgoing Premier, Arthur Balfour, is an unusual distinction, though not quite so unique as some people seem to believe, says the Marquise de Fontenoy. For while it is the first time that it has been conferred upon a statesman, it has occasionally been granted to personal friends and favorites of the monarch. It was invented by the late Prince Consort in the early years of his marriage, and is not, strictly speaking, a uniform, but consists of an evening dress coat of dark blue with scarlet collar and cuffs and gold buttons, bearing the royal cipher. In the day time it is worn with gray trousers and buff waistcoat; in the evening with white waistcoat, black knee breeches, black silk stockings, and pumps. It is worn by the princes of the reigning family and also by the gentlemen of the royal household when in office and on duty in attendance on royalty at Windsor.

Its grant to Arthur Balfour indicates that the King wishes him to feel that he regards him in the light of a personal friend and as a member of the immediate intimate circles of Their Majesties. Emperor William in the same way whenever he wishes to give a special token of regard to a friend confers upon him the right to wear the imperial shooting costume, which is quite as unattractive in its way as the Windsor uniform. These distinctions savor of the yellow jacket, which is the highest distinction in the gift of the Chinese Emperor, and are, so far as I am aware, the only sumptuary honors that are ever granted by European sovereigns.

Tyrol Mail Carriers.

Many of the rural letter carriers in the Tyrol are women.

Prayerful Revenge.

A Puritan preacher named Boyd was in the habit of inveighing against Cromwell. Secretary Thurlow informed the latter, advising him to have the man shot. "He's a fool, and you're another," said the protector. "I'll pay him out in his own coin." He asked Boyd to dinner and before giving him any prayed for three hours.

Success, Not Failure.

May Gabble—She's evidently willing to be friendly with you, anyway. She told me she invited you to her party, but you failed to get there. Bella Kose—That isn't exactly correct. I succeeded in not getting there.—Exchange.

Not Surprising.

Mamma—I'm surprised at you, Johnny. Johnny (thoughtfully)—I wonder if you'll ever get used to me, mamma. You're always surprised at me.

Nothing Relieved His Kidneys Until He Tried

Bu-Ju

MARKHAM, Ont., Dec. 1, 1903

"I had suffered for seven years with kidney trouble. Could scarcely walk and was unable to attend to my farm. Saw "Bu-Ju" advertised, and after taking the first few pills, felt much relieved. After taking half a box, was able to do a full day's work. I know one box of "Bu-Ju" saved me $40.00 doctor bills.

"JAMES ABBOTT."

It costs only 3c a day to take "Bu-Ju"—the kidney pill that never fails.

All druggists have "Bu-Ju" or will get them for you.

THE CLAFLIN CHEMICAL CO. LIMITED
WINDSOR, ONT.

WHERE ENDICOTT FITTED

By BARRY PRESTON

Copyright, 1905, by E. S. McClure

Endicott was a duffer. There was no shadow of doubt about that. He could neither swim nor sail a boat; he played golf in a manner that set his caddy offering suggestions; his dancing was a cross between a prim walk and an awkward skip; he sat on a horse with as much grace as he would have straddled an elephant. Moreover, his lack of conversational powers had given him a reputation for taciturnity that was far from flattering.

"Why on earth Mrs. Saunders should ask him down for the month I can't see," one of the young women confided to a bronzed young fellow as they sat together in a vine made nook of the broad veranda one evening.

"Oh, that is the easiest part of the equation," he returned. "What sticks me is why the deuce he accepted the invitation." Whereat they both laughed.

"He's the death's head at the feast," said she.

"Oh, he's harmless enough," her companion said easily. "He doesn't attempt to do things unless some one sets him up to it. He'd never have gone in the water this morning if Vandecken hadn't kept at him for an hour to come along with us. He's game in a way, though. We didn't know he'd got beyond his depth until he was half drowned. Thought he was splashing about for the fun of it. Not a yip did he make."

"IT'S DREADFUL," SHE WAS SAYING. "WHAT IS IT?" ASKED MISS WILMOT.

"It makes you awfully uncomfortable to have such an incompetent person about," said she. "I'm always imagining things when he's late at luncheon or dinner."

"Providence has a watchful eye for a certain class of individuals," said he, and they both laughed once more.

Meanwhile, at the other end of the veranda, Endicott sat on the steps with Miss Wilmot. If Endicott had been a different sort of chap he would doubtless have made desperate love to the lady. But Endicott knew his limitations, and, therefore, instead of telling her all that was in his heart, he sat beside her on the top step, twirling his hat, watching covertly the changing expressions come and go on her pretty face, and wished most devoutly that he were less of a duffer.

He was a big, heavily built young fellow, with a frank, boyish face and a laugh that was very attractive in its genuineness, if you ever managed to get well enough acquainted with him to hear it. Miss Wilmot had heard it many times when she was alone with him, and it told her much of the real man that lay beneath the awkward reticent exterior.

Just now Endicott's troubled gaze was fixed on some ragged bits of red cloud, the aftermath of a gorgeous sunset.

"I think I shall leave in the morning," he said uneasily.

"But you haven't been here a week yet," she said in surprise.

"I know," said he, "but somehow I don't seem to fit. If a fellow's going to be a success at a house party he should do many things well. Now, I do everything badly. I simply slow up everything I enter into and spoil all the fun for the rest."

"Nonsense!" she declared.

"It's so," he maintained. "I'm just a duffer pure and simple, and there's an end of it. So long as I stay, of course, out of courtesy to me, they'll drag me into all these things, even if it does spoil their fun."

"You shan't talk so," she said. "Come, it's time we were getting ready for that moonlight sail."

"If there's so much as a ripple on the water I'm sure to be sick," he observed gloomily. "That makes it very cheerful for the rest."

"You have an attack of pessimism," she laughed as she arose. "Salt water is the best cure in the world for that malady."

They went down the veranda together. At the door they found Mrs. Saunders talking excitedly to her guests, who were grouped about her.

"It's dreadful," she was saying. "All the servants have left, even to the stable boy, and they're strictly quarantined. Poor Mrs. Browne is frightened nearly to death."

"What is it?" asked Miss Wilmot as they came up.

"Why, the youngest Bowne child has diphtheria."

At the door they found Mrs. Saunders.

Endicott was stroking his hair thoughtfully.

"Those the people that own that new place back by the pines?" he asked.

"Yes," said Mrs. Saunders. "Dreadful, isn't it? Her husband is in the west, and she's nearly frantic. There isn't a soul about here that they can induce to go there."

When the party started for the pier Endicott stepped up to Miss Wilmot.

"I don't believe I'll go back tomorrow," he whispered. "Perhaps I can fit, after all."

"Of course you can," she said and thought no more of his words until they had reached the end of the pier. It was then they found Endicott was missing. After much shouting and a hurried search about the immediate vicinity they started out without him.

It was nearly 11 when they returned. Mrs. Saunders met them on the veranda.

"Where do you suppose Ted Endicott has gone?" she cried.

"Where?" chorused several voices.

"To the Bownes'. He is going to stay there until they can get a trained nurse from the city."

Endicott stayed even longer than that. He stayed until little Bob Bowne died. Then when the quarantine of the house was at an end he came back to the Saunders cottage to get his traps before he went back to town.

The house party made a hero of him. The men spied him coming up the path and carried him, protesting loudly, on their shoulders into the hall, where all the other guests assembled. They gave him a round of cheers, and every one wanted to grasp him by his hand first.

Vandecken made a little speech and told them what the doctor had told him—all about what Endicott had done and how he had held little Bob Bowne in his arms the night the child died. They tried to get Endicott to say something about it himself, but he merely reddened up and shifted uneasily from one foot to the other and finally blurted out: "Oh, pshaw! It really wasn't anything!"

That evening he sat on the steps with Miss Wilmot. They were quite alone.

"I knew you were just like that," she said.

"Like what?" he asked.

"Oh, I knew you'd not be found wanting in a crisis," she explained. "And I knew, too, you'd be just as modest about it as you were."

"Any fellow could do that. That wasn't anything," he said uneasily.

"You're a dear, brave boy," she said heartily.

"If I were"— he began.

"What would you do?" she asked. Her eyes were tempting him.

"If I were," he repeated, "I'd—I'd—ask you—oh, hang it! I'm not," he ended in confusion.

"Ted, dear," she said softly, "I'll spare you the asking—and—and say 'yes' now."

He sat for a moment in dazed silence. He could not comprehend it all. Then his eyes lighted wonderfully.

"Thanks," he stammered, "thanks very much." Which was eminently like Endicott.

"Brought Up" In College.

One of the most original characters of the Welsh pulpit was the Rev. Lewis Powell, Cardiff. While on a visit to Carmarthentown on one occasion he called at the college, and the students were all for the first time to pay him homage.

"Can I have the help of two of you, my boys, for a minute?" asked Mr. Powell.

"Yes, dear Mr. Powell," answered half a dozen of them at the same time.

"Well, I want two lusty boys, if you please," he remarked, and two of the strongest students were chosen. "Now, my boys," said the old preacher, "let me lay a hand on the shoulder of each of you, and you put your arms around me."

This was done.

"Lift me, boys," said Mr. Powell, and the students lifted him until he was head and shoulders above all present in the room. "Thank you, my boys," he remarked. "Let me down now."

This was done. Then one of the boys asked:

"What is the meaning of this, Mr. Powell?"

The answer was: "Well, some people look down on the church in Cardiff because Mr. Powell, the minister, was not brought up in college. I can go back to Cardiff now and tell them that I was raised in Carmarthen college and that I stood higher than all the other students."—London Tit-Bits.

Swedish Rule In America.

New Sweden was established in 1638 on the bank of the South river, the Delaware, on territory now embraced in the city of Wilmington, Del. The first settlement was of some fifty pioneers from Gothenburg in the ship Key of Calmar and the tender Griffin, under the direction of Peter Minuit, a discharged director of the New Netherlands. For a kettle and some trumpery they bought all the land on the west bank of the river from Cape Henlopen to the falls near Santickan, now Trenton, running back "as much inwards from it in breadth as they might want." The Dutch, who claimed the territory, fulminated threats from Fort Nassau, but prudently refrained from blows. New Sweden prospered from the start and soon controlled the trade of the Delaware. This prosperity endured until 1655, when Peter Stuyvesant invested and reduced Fort Christina, thus putting an end to Swedish rule in America.

THEIR WEDDING DAY

By NELLIE CRAVEY GILLMORE

Copyright, 1905, by E. C. Parcells

Impelled by some whimsical notion, the girl turned abruptly and discarded the neat blue walking suit she had just donned for a heap of billowy, lustrous apparel that lay spread out over the bed. Afterward she contemplated her reflection critically in the oval mirror of her dressing table, noting the details with some curiosity.

No, her three years' absence on another continent had made very little difference beyond, perhaps, intensifying each feature a mere trifle. The sun tints of her hair had deepened to a more metallic gold, the blue of her eyes to misty violet, and her mouth, red, finely lined, drooped a bare fraction at the corners—that was all.

With a final wistful glance at the straight young figure in its white silken loveliness, she turned and ran down the stairs as fast as she could, pinning her hat on as she went.

Half an hour's brisk walking brought her to the entrance of the park. A few minutes later she found herself completely hemmed in by an unfamiliar wilderness of trees and brambles. She paused and looked about her desperately. On either side was a formidable tangle of thorny hedge, with mass upon mass of impenetrable shrubbery everywhere ahead. Three years had made a material difference in things at least, she reflected.

After a moment's rest on one of the benches she got up again, more than ever determined on her quest. At the end of a harassing hour she stood on familiar ground at last, a tumult of emotions surging all through her being as recollections crowded up thick and fast.

There was the same old log upon which they had sat on that eventful day—the day, the very hour of their betrothal—now crumbling to decay, but the very same nevertheless.

Lifting her skirts, all sagged and limp with dew, she picked her way carefully to the sound end of it and sat down, catching her breath in a little spasm of relief. In the distance a coyote's cry sounded distinctly, and a whole army of minor echoes thronged in its wake.

GORDON SLIPPED A STRONG ARM ABOUT HER AND DREW HER TOWARD HIM.

The pink gray of early morning flung an enchanting rosiness over everything, and the air was suddenly vocal with the matutinal chirping of thousands of birds.

Presently the girl got up and began to search along the side of the log for something. She came to it at last. Any one looking at her just then could have detected that from the unmistakable signs of emotion all at once visible on her face. Quick tears sprang to her eyes as she looked and splashed unheeded on her interlocked hands.

"R. G., E. R., June, '02—June, '05."

The letters, roughly carved with a pocketknife, were a trifle eaten away at the edges, but perfectly legible still.

"Our wedding day," she murmured softly, touching the crude inscription with a tender, tremulous finger. "Dick, Dick—if we only hadn't!" For a moment she felt as though she were going to choke. The memory of past bitterness—their quarrel, estrangement and final separation—came upon her suffocatingly, overwhelmingly. Then, with a swift access of pride, she threw back her head, the mist drying away from her eyes and leaving them half hard, half regretful, bright as stars. For a full minute she stood there, tall and straight, immovable as a statue; then she bent suddenly and laid her cheek against the rough side of the log.

Almost on the instant the sharp snapping of a twig brought her upright, with a startled movement. Not twenty feet away, just visible through the interlaced foliage, a man was striding rapidly toward her. The girl had just time to gather her skirts and slip noiselessly behind a screen of bamboo.

Despite its nonchalance, Gordon's careless swing had a decided purpose behind it. He came directly up to the crumbling old log and stood looking down upon its crusty surface with an inscrutable expression in his keen gray eyes.

Presently he, too, stooped and scanned closely along a certain line on the side of the log. In an instant his face lit up only to cloud swiftly, while a look of pain made his clean, clear features look almost sharp. He sat down and dropped his face in his hands with a sort of hopelessness too entire for expression. After a little he lifted his head wearily and stared straight ahead of him at nothing at all. Then, all at once, he started, paled and jumped to his feet, every nerve quivering. On the soft turf exactly in front of him were footprints—a woman's footprints! And a bit further on lay a tiny scrap of lace, vaguely exhalant of a subtle odor—her favorite perfume.

Gordon stooped quickly and possessed himself of the handkerchief. In one corner were the initials he already expected to see there. He crushed it against his lips with a passionate rush of tenderness, and a wonderful light came into his eyes. "Dearest of all women," he mused radiantly, "I shall go to the ends of creation to find you if it takes me all the eternities to do it!"

The girl held her hands tightly over her heart, lest Gordon should hear its turbulent throbbing. Her teeth, caught unconsciously over her lip, left a clean row of pink indentations for a long time afterward.

As he turned to come past her she shrank back a bit and her foot slipped fatally. The next moment Gordon was bending over her, and his breath, coming in little quick jerks, lifted the fine hair from her temples in tiny gold wisps.

"I—I'm afraid it's going to be serious, Dick. I don't believe I can walk a bit." Quite involuntarily she had reverted to the old familiar title.

The world seemed to stop revolving for a minute. Then Gordon slipped a firm, strong arm about her and drew her toward him. "I am going to carry you," he said.

"But it's too far. You could never in the world get me home"—

"Less than a quarter of a mile from here is St. Luke's"—

She laughed a little unsteadily, trying to smother the catch of pain in her throat.

"Mr. Applegate is there right now. I saw him as I came along," he continued.

"But I dislike to trouble any one with"—

"The reverend gentleman will not, I assure you, object to being troubled in this way. He likes it. You see, it rather helps him to eke out an existence. Besides, it wouldn't be precisely fair, would it, to cheat the old fellow out of his legitimate fee?"

The girl averted her head suddenly and did not speak, but Gordon took heart of her silence and, bending, touched her blood burnt cheeks with his lips. "You haven't forgotten what day this is, Emily?"

"I haven't forgotten," she responded in a little tremulous whisper, "it is—our wedding day."

And so it was.

Postage Stamp Gum.

When you lick a postage stamp you need not fear that the gum is something unclean. Postal gum is the best quality on the face of the earth. It is derived from dextrin, a product secured in the process of making starch from potatoes, corn and the cassava root. The starch from these vegetables is treated by roasting at a temperature of about 30 degrees at the first stage, causing it to turn into dextrin. Further changes make postal gum, and if the changes were carried to the limit the result would be grape sugar or glucose. The best postal gum is that which contains the least unconverted starch and little glucose. When the material for making gum reaches the bureau of engraving and printing it looks much like flour except in color. It comes in sacks of 200 pounds each, and every consignment from the contractors is carefully inspected before using. It is subjected to microscopical examination and to chemical analysis, and all this is followed by a practical test.—Kansas City Star.

A Tragic Capture.

One of the most industrious of the man thieves who recruited the famous regiment of giants for King Frederick William of Prussia was Baron Hompesch, whose many successes led him once to cast covetous eyes upon a very lengthy joiner. He ordered of the joiner a chest or cupboard which should be as long and broad as the worker himself. In due course the baron called round. The cupboard had been finished, but he protested that it was too small. This the carpenter denied and laid himself within it as proof of its dimensions. No sooner had he done so than servants of the baron clapped down the lid and had the giant prisoner. They carted him off to the court, but when the lid was opened instead of a giant there rolled out a corpse. The man had been stifled. In his anger the king sentenced the baron to death, but reprieved him when he wanted more giants.

News Speed In South Africa.

When Lord Wolseley during the Ashanti war crossed the Prah he found a white cord stretched from tree to tree along his route. It was a native fetich, copied from the British telegraph wire, which was believed to possess some sovereign magic virtue. But the native has his mysteries of his own, which the white man often proves unable to fathom. It is said that no one can understand how it happens that with such marvelous celerity news has traveled across the whole of South Africa. During the South African war, except where the telegraph was in operation, native news was always days ahead of official. The relief of Mafeking is said to have been known next day in Zululand and also 700 miles away in the heart of Cape Colony. Signals by fire and drum, messages conveyed by runners or cried from hilltop to hilltop, do not explain speed such as this.

The Man Who Went Wrong

By C. B. LEWIS

Copyright, 1905, by P. C. Eastment

There had been a gale in the gulf all night long, and as daylight came and the Cuban scouts looked out of the thicket in which they had lain through the night the white topped waves were chasing each other ashore like so many wild horses. They were there to meet a blockade runner which was to have landed a cargo for them the previous night, but the gale had kept her away from the coast.

"What is it?" was asked as one of the group uttered a shout and pointed out to sea.

"Boom!" came the report of a cannon as if in answer.

Three miles off the coast was a tiny craft heading straight for the shore under a bit of sail, and not half a mile behind her was a Spanish gunboat which had opened fire at the reeling, dancing target. Such was the tumble of the waves that the larger craft might have fired all day long and only planted a lucky shot by accident, and it soon became apparent to the watchers that if the little craft were handled right she would at least reach the breakers in safety. Then heaven help the man who was sailing her. She came on like a gull, sometimes hove up until she seemed to launch herself through the air and again sinking so far out of sight and being hidden so long that the watchers held their breath and spoke no word.

"A-h-h-h! Cheer!"

As the water began to shoal the gunboat slewed her head around and wallowed in the trough of the sea for a moment, as if she would turn turtle, and then got her keel under her and steamed out to sea. The scouts waved their hats and cheered the man who was holding the stem of the boat, hardly more than a skiff, straight for the beach at their feet. They ran and pulled down a vine from a tree, formed in line with the outer man up to his waist in the boiling foam, and when the craft struck the first breaker and was hurled end over end the stranger was caught by the collar of his jacket and drawn out of the grip of the deadly undertow.

"Well done and thanks for it," he said five minutes later, when he had cleared his eyes and mouth of salt water.

"How came you afloat in that craft?" asked the leader.

"I came from Key West to join you. You are insurgents, I take it? Take me to headquarters."

"But you braved the gale in that craft?"

"I scudded before it all night."

"And you—you have come to help us fight?"

"Take me to headquarters," answered the man. And he shut his jaws and would talk no more.

A man was detailed to conduct him to insurgent headquarters. What the stranger said to the general never will be known. Perhaps he told all; perhaps he simply said that like many another American free lance he had come to help Cuba win her independence. Good men were too scarce for any caviling. In two days the stranger, who had simply been dubbed "Yankee," was scouting. He was silent and taciturn and made no friends, but when it was found that he had plenty of courage the men rallied to him and were led by him without heartburnings or jealousies. They said of him to each other when out of earshot:

"He is educated. He is a gentleman. He has gone wrong somehow. Let it be his secret, however."

Three months after the landing, General Weyler had offered a reward for Yankee, dead or alive. He detailed fifty scouts for no other purpose but to look for him.

Day by day he railed at them for their want of success. One by one their number dwindled away under the bullets of Yankee's little band of ten. The Spanish tried bribery, but the insurgents turned their backs on the sums named. They set traps, but the Cuban scouts scented them and refused to walk in.

In six months a hundred Spanish soldiers owed their death to the little band, and a hundred night alarms could be laid to the same cause. Then there came a day when Spanish cunning prevailed. Men were sent out to be defeated and fall beneath Cuban bullets, while those who lived fell back in seeming panic. The ruse succeeded, and the ten, led by Yankee, suddenly found themselves surrounded.

It was on the edge of an old sugar plantation. When the leader saw that retreat was cut off and that he was surrounded on all sides, he gave orders to retreat to the engine house of the mill. It was a small brick building, and when doors and windows had been barricaded, it made a strong little fort. It was so strong that, although there were 400 Spanish infantry on the ground, they dared not rush it. They simply surrounded it and sent for cannon to batter down the walls.

The Cubans were trapped like rats. They had neither food nor water, and their cartridges were reduced to seven per man. It did not take the slowest witted man among them more than a quarter of an hour to realize that the engine house was a death trap. All instinctively gathered about the leader. No one asked a question. The posture of each man spoke for him.

"They are 400 to 10," said Yankee as he looked around him. "We have seventy bullets, and we must kill seventy of the enemy. After that"—

"What?"

"We must die fighting with our machetes. We will make a rush for it and die fighting."

"But if we could send word to Gomez?"

"He has 200 men with him," answered the leader, with a laugh. "If he had a thousand, who of us is to penetrate the Spanish lines and notify him? A bird could fly over them, but a fox could not make his way through them. No, my comrades, it is the end. We have fought long and well. It only remains to die without shame. Whenever you see a target plant a bullet into it. We must have seventy lives for our ten. It will take them till noon tomorrow to get a cannon here. Now to work."

The Spanish maintained a hot musketry fire all the afternoon, but their bullets were thrown away. It was more for moral effect than any hope that the lead might reach any of the defenders. On the contrary, the trapped men fired only when they had a human target within range, and not a bullet was wasted.

The night passed quietly. There was no earthly show for the Cubans to escape through that cordon, and men were under arms all night to repulse a sudden rush. When morning came the fusillade recommenced, and at 11 o'clock the fieldpiece arrived. There had been no firing from the Cubans for the last half hour. Their last cartridge had been expended.

"This will be the way of it," said Yankee as the men gathered around: "We shall first be summoned to surrender. If any one or all of you want to take advantage of that, well and good. You will probably be shot within half an hour, but there is a bare possibility that the Spanish may keep faith with you. Any one want to try it?"

There was a murmur of dissent from every man.

"Very well. We will reject surrender. They will then open fire. Whether they use solid shot or shell, they will batter down these walls like paper. Get the barricade at the door ready to throw down when I give the word, and then we will give our old battle cry for the last time and have at them. Your firing was so good that I have scored off seven for each man, but we can get one more apiece in the rush. We shall go under, but we have comrades who will know how we died."

Under a flag of truce they were summoned to surrender, but the ten answered with cheers of defiance. Then the cannon opened fire, and at the third discharge the barricade was thrown down, and there was a cheer and a rush. The useless guns were left behind. It was a rush, a melee, a mad whirl of fighters, and then all was over. The ten had got another man apiece and more. Their comrades back in the thickets heard the tale days after; we read of it in the papers after weeks had gone by. All of us said the same. It was the way to die for Cuba.

Where the weeds grow rank and the hideous land crabs scamper about unchecked and unafraid there is a grave for nine. Some strange fragment of sentiment caused the Spanish commander to give the tenth man a grave by himself. Had he finished his work by erecting a headboard he might have written thereon, "Here lieth a man who went wrong, but in death he atoned for it." But a week later no wolf could have found the spot.

His Happy Return.

It was Old Home week, and the returned sons and grandsons had been telling with more or less pride of the changes time had wrought for them. At last Edward Jameson spoke:

"I went away from here twenty years ago a poor young man, with only one solitary dollar in my pocket. I walked the four miles from my father's farm to the station, and there I begged a ride to Boston on a freight car. Last night I drove into town behind a spirited pair of horses, and my purse—guess how much my purse holds in money today, besides a large check." And Mr. Jameson looked about him with a brilliant smile.

"Fifty dollars!"

"Seventy-five!"

"A hundred!" shouted the boys, filled with admiration.

"No," said Mr. Jameson, drawing a large flat purse from his pocket when the clamor had subsided, "none of you has guessed right. When I had paid the 25 cents to Ozzy Boggs for my refreshing drive in the coach I had, besides my trunk check (which I retained for financial reasons), exactly 4 cents. I have come back, my friends, to stay. Any little jobs of sawing and splitting will be gratefully received."

Comparative Strength of Materials.

Cast iron weighs 444 pounds to the cubic foot and an inch square bar will sustain a weight of 16,500 pounds; bronze, weight 525 pounds, tenacity 36,000; wrought iron, weight 480, tenacity 50,000; hard "struck" steel, weight 490, tenacity 78,000; aluminium, weight 168, tenacity 26,000. We are accustomed to think of metals as being stronger than wood, and so they are, generally speaking, if only pieces of the same size be tested, but when equal weights of the two materials are compared it is then found that several varieties of wood are stronger than ordinary steel. A bar of pine just as heavy as a bar of steel an inch square will hold up 125,000 pounds, the best ash 175,000 pounds and some hemlock 200,000 pounds. Wood is bulky. It occupies ten or twelve times the space of steel. The best steel castings made for the United States navy have a tenacity of 65,000 to 75,000 pounds to the square inch. By solidifying such castings under great pressure a tensile strength of 80,000 to 150,000 pounds may be obtained.

A CHARACTER FACTORY

THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION DESCRIBED.

HOW IMAGINATION BUILDS

Rev. Dr. Talmage Urges the Necessity Which Exists for Giving Hospitable Encouragement and Spiritual Direction to the Multitudes of Young Men and Women Who Are Strangers in the Great Cities.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1906, by Frederick Diver, of Toronto, at the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 28.—In this sermon the preacher shows the importance of giving hospitable encouragement and spiritual direction to the lives of the multitudes of young men and women who are strangers in our great cities. The text is Proverbs xx., 29, "The glory of young men is their strength."

It is an interesting study to watch the different designs of our modern advertisements. Well, some time ago, reading the different signboards, I came upon one the like of which I had never seen before. It was a square board, standing in a conspicuous place in the front yard of an old residence situated near the heart of the city in which I live. This was the way the signboard read: "Property of the Young Men's Christian Association. They want to erect upon this site a character factory. Won't you help?" I stood for at least five minutes watching that plain sign. Then the full purpose of the man who made that advertisement began to dawn upon me. As I stood alone in that street I could see the walls of that small residence building disappear; then I could see the huge walls of a great factory building rise in its place. This huge building was ablaze with many lights. From out of almost every room I could hear the hum of the workmen at their task of building character, the noblest work on God's earth. Then as I stood there I could see the doors of that great character factory swinging open, and I could see scores and hundreds of young men passing in and out. What a noble, strong-looking set of fellows they were—strong in physique, strong in mental and moral worth, strong in spiritual strength! Then I said to myself as I walked home in the darkness: "May God help the noble men who are at the head of this movement to build that character factory. May I always be willing to help those men in every way that I possibly can — with pen, with voice and with money."

The preaching of this sermon on the mighty mission of the Young Men's Christian Associations throughout the world is a result of the prayer I made that night when I stood watching the signboard marked "Character Factory. Won't You Help?" I want to help the great young men's association movement of San Francisco and New York and London and Melbourne, as well as that of Los Angeles. I want to show why we should try to support the international labors of this useful society. I know of no better time in which to speak this word of help than at this period, when this world wide association is entering on the second period of its development. The first period closed when, three months ago, the body of its devoted founder, Sir George Williams, was laid to rest in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, in the presence of the representatives of the throne and of the Christian people of the city. There they buried him among the soldiers and sailors and statesmen who had served their country—a knight by the favor of his sovereign, but with the higher knighthood upon him which he had won by his service to the young men of his time, the knighthood of the cross.

Let us go to the cradle of this movement. Let us stand, in the first place, in the now historic room where the Young Men's Christian Association was born and held its first meeting. Let us analyze its genesis, the cardinal purpose, the pre-eminent reason for its creation and its existence to-day. When I wander through any of the Barnardo orphan asylums I know why they came into existence. Dr. Barnardo many years ago was a young student, studying to be a foreign medical missionary. In his wanderings about London he saw the waifs of the street, the little newsboys, the little urchins with no homes, sleeping in cellars and eating out of ash barrels. He said: "These boys, unless they are given homes and reared aright, will make the future criminals of England. There is no need of my going abroad to work for Christ. My work is right here among the London waifs." The Barnardo homes were started to rescue the little children of London, and give them a home and a Christian education.

We know how the Salvation Army came into existence. William Booth was an English Methodist preacher. He felt that the church was not reaching the outcasts and those, like Mary Magdalene, reeking with sin. In 1865 he left his church and started the "Christian mission." He afterwards organized his "Christian mission" upon military lines. Then he said to his gospel soldiers: "Do not wait for sinners to come to you. You go to them." What is the result? There is not a sinful dive in London or New York which has not been invaded by his gospel soldiers. The Salvation Army was organized to save the drunkard, the harlot, the thief and the libertine. "God bless its work," is the prayer of every true, loving Christian heart.

Why was the Young Men's Christian Association started? What was its first purpose, and what is its present purpose? To bring young men to Jesus Christ. Its object was first and foremost religious. It was not started to teach men and women how to sew and how to cook and how to keep clean and then indirectly shove in a little religion, as a dose of medicine, disguised as candy, is administered to a sick child. It was never started with the idea that a clean shirt will necessarily make a clean heart to beat under the clean shirt. It was never started with the idea that well-blacked shoes and well-creased trousers are sure proofs that the owners of those shining shoes will walk in the path of virtue and of truth. But the Young Men's Christian Association was started with the idea of leading young men to seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness. It was started with the idea that the greatest work of life for a young man to do was to bring other young men into touch with Jesus Christ. Thus the Young Men's Christian Association has never from the beginning been afraid to lift high the banner of the cross. Its very name signifies the purpose for which it was organized. "Young Men's Christian Association" means "young men for Christ." That is the first and chief reason for which I honor this beneficent movement.

But the Young Men's Christian Association work does not end here. It is important to get a young man to confess Jesus Christ, but it is also necessary, during the years of his Christian infancy or formative period, to keep the young man by Christ's side and to surround him with the protecting influences of a Christian home. That to me is the greatest work on earth to be done for young men in our large or smaller cities, next to getting a young man to publicly confess his love for the Saviour. Indeed, I may go farther. Perhaps the second work is even more important than the first, for if a young man who has once confessed his love for Christ does not continue to live very close to Christ he is very apt to be drawn aside by temptations and his last condition be worse than the first. Let me sketch the story of a young man coming into a large city. I use this illustration because the work of the Young Men's Christian Association always has been and always will be chiefly among the young fellows who, like George Williams, come to live in a large city with no home but a boarding-house, and no friends but those they are compelled to make among strangers.

This average young man is the son of Christian parents. All his past life has been surrounded by Christian influences; but, like most young men living in the smaller towns or on the farm, he wants to get into the centre of things. He goes to New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco or Los Angeles. At first he is dazed or dazzled by the noise and the bustle. The houses look to him as though they were reaching to the sky. The streets are so crowded with electric cars and tramways and automobiles and shooting auto-cycles that he is afraid to cross them. Then the crowds! The people seem to be everywhere. They push him, they jolt him, they growl at him, they do everything but speak kindly to him. Everybody seems to be in such a hurry. The people are running for the ferryboats, and they are running for the elevated trains, and they are running for the bridge cars. They are running everywhere.

At first the young man's time is taken up with watching the different sights. He acts just as he did when his father first took him to a county fair. Then there comes over him an awful sense of loneliness. Like David, he seems to cry out, "No man careth for my soul." He goes to church the first Sunday. He says to himself, "Now, if I go to church I will meet some nice people." But he finds the average city church just as different from the country church as the tall, stiff, unbending and inhospitable city home is different from his father's genial, open door farmhouse. No one speaks to him at church. Then the lonely Monday night and the lonely Tuesday night and the lonely Wednesday night and the lonely Thursday night and the lonely Friday night and the lonely Saturday night! He wants to be good, but what is he to do? Yet all this time sin is everywhere beckoning: "Come, brother, come with me. Come and make merry with me." plenty of church services on the Sabbath day, but what is he to do during all the rest of the week? Mark this: The young men of the city will not be saved for Christ by two sermons preached on the Sabbath day. They must have a place where they can go and meet Christian people. If the Christian churches in the past had been run on the line of the institutional church, there would have been no need of a Young Men's Christian Association. But as they have not been so run there have been thousands and tens of thousands of young men saved for Christ through the influence of the Young Men's Christian Associations. Now, how does the Young Men's Christian Association offer to the young men a Christian home?

Work for the day is done. Monday night is here. The young man is eating his dinner at the boarding-house. The boarders are about to separate. "Where are you going to-night?" asks one of the boys of another boarder. "Down to the Young Men's Christian Association," is the answer. "What!" says the questioner. "Do you go there? What do you do there?" "Oh," says this friend, "that depends. Some nights I sit and read in the library. Sometimes I bowl and play games with the boys. Sometimes I work in the gymnasium. Sometimes we have lectures. There is always something to do. By the way, Mr. So-and-So, won't you come and be my guest to-night," he turns and says to the new boarder. "I want you to meet some of the boys. Then, if you like, I wish you would join us." Then the young man's eyes take on a look of great anxiety as he says: "You must spend your evenings somewhere and in doing something. You cannot spend them better than down at the association with us." What is the use of my carrying the illustration any further. Do you not see that where the average church work stops the Young Men's Christian Association work begins? With the long arm of loving tenderness it reaches out and encircles that boy's neck and heart. It says to him: "Young man, come and spend your leisure hours with us. Come and read. Come and play. Come and meet pleasant companions, the same kind of Christian boys you used to meet in your father's home." And as sin beckons in one direction the young man in his lonely bedroom sees the Young Men's Christian Association beckoning in the other direction. I say, thank God that we have this noble association as a great Christian home, fighting the temptations of sin on their own ground.

But the purpose of the Y. M. C. A. is greater than those we have already described. It tries to bring young men to Christ. It surrounds the young men of a great city with the protecting influence of a Christian home. It has also an intellectual as well as a fun-loving atmosphere. No sooner does a young man enter its walls than he is inspired with a holy purpose of increasing his mental and physical capabilities in order that he may increase his spiritual opportunities for doing good.

Now, the old idea of the literal interpretation of the text, "Open thy mouth wide and I will fill it," has long ceased to be quoted. As a quaint Bible commentator once said, "If a man does nothing but open wide his mouth God will fill it, but he will fill it simply with wind." We know to-day, as common sense men and women, that if we are to develop our spiritual powers we must also develop our mental and physical strength. Though Paul sat at the feet of Gamaliel, as soon as he was converted he went off to prepare himself for his future Christian ministry. In the first chapter of Galatians we read, "Neither went I up to Jerusalem, to them which were apostles before me, but I went into Arabia." There in the desert Paul stayed three long years. He was there studying and communing with God before he came forth to begin his mighty labors. Thus, no sooner does a young man enter the Young Men's Christian Association wall than he breathes the atmosphere of mental and physical as well as spiritual development. If he is anything of a man at all he says to himself, "I want to make the most out of my body and brain that I may be able to serve my God better." Then the idea of entering the association merely for play ceases. The young man in the association works to develop his brain, his body and his spirit, as Paul went down into Arabia and as Moses went forth to tend the sheep and Elijah went into retirement—to make themselves mightier agents for the Divine Master to use.

But with the theoretical training for life's work found in the Young Men's Christian Association work there goes on side by side the practical, spiritual training. Of course within the Young Men's Christian Association walls there are spiritual drones, just as there are loafers and deadbeats in every human beehive, but if a young man is ready to do his share of spiritual duty almost as soon as he enters the association walls he is set to work, and that is what many of our churches do not do with all their members who are willing to work. If you enter a Young Men's Christian Association like that in New York you are accosted by the men with these words: "What are you ready to do for Christ?" Will you distribute cards? Will you join the young men who every Sunday go and hold services in the city prisons? Will you visit in Christ's name our city hospitals?" And everywhere a young man turns he has the opportunity for Christian work in this society if he is ready to harness himself up to God's service. Can you not, O man, appreciate the good this Young Men's Christian Association is able to do when it can take a young man at the most critical time of his life, when he is perhaps away from all home influences, and start him forth to labor in the Master's vineyard?

Do you not realize that scores and hundreds and thousands of our church members who are now working in our large churches would never have been the valiant laborers they are for the church unless they first had been developed in one of these institutions? The strongest Christian worker in some respects that I ever knew was saved for Christ's kingdom through one of these societies, and saved through that alone. When he left the little town in which he was born to enroll himself as a student in Cooper Institute of New York, he took along his church letter with him. He went to a prominent New York church whose pastor has a national reputation. He worshipped there for three months, and no one spoke to him. Then he went one day to the pastor and said: 'Doctor, I do not want to come to church simply to worship. I want to go to church to work. I will do anything you want me to do, but I must work." Did he get it? No. Then Mr. McBurney, then secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association of New York City, set him at work. He kept him always at work for the Lord, and he developed him, until one day this young man was able to step to the front and be a leader for Christ. Thank God again, I say, for the opportunity which the Young Men's Christian Association gives to the ordinary young man to go and labor for Christ at once, no matter how humble or obscure or how insignificant he may be.

All I have said in reference to the movement of saving men for Christ is equally true of the noble work of the Young Women's Christian Associations all over the world. This special movement is of later growth, but the same arguments with which we plead for the men's organizations apply to the young women's movement. It is far better to reach out a helping hand to the young girl who has come to town and is struggling to make a livelihood before she slips over the precipice of temptation than to try to rescue her after she is a moral or spiritual wreck. "The glory of young men is their strength." The glory of young women is their purity. Let us guard them, develop them and, in God's name, make them mighty for his divine service. Let us to-day consecrate alike these two mighty movements for the saving of the young men and of the young women for Christ.

Art and the Heart.

The president of the Paris Academy of Fine Arts in a speech to the young artists who won the Prix de Rome said that they had better leave marrying alone. "If you marry richly, you will be caught in a social whirl fatal to real and honest toil toward perfection; if poorly, you must paint for money, not for perfection, and your soul will wither under the blight of financial strain. Babies must be ruled out of the young artist's life, and art schools must not be turned into nurseries."

Needs of Poultry.

By this time the temperature at night makes it necessary to provide comfortable housing for the poultry. Remember the three great necessities for success—dry floors, dry interior, plenty of fresh air without drafts or currents blowing through the houses, attention to cleanliness and sanitary conditions to insure good health. Those who arrange in advance for the comfort of their poultry gain the profitable egg returns during the winter.—Country Gentleman.

CINDER IN THE EYE.

What You Must and Must Not Do When This Happens.

By cinder we mean any minute particle of whatever nature which lodges in the eye, where it causes much pain and distress.

In most cases when a foreign body gets into the eye it creates a little discomfort for a time, but is soon washed away by the tears without doing any harm. Sometimes, especially when the particle has sharp corners to it, as is often the case with the fine cinders from a locomotive which burns soft coal, the conjunctiva is cut and the body becomes firmly lodged in it, and all nature's simple efforts to remove it are ineffectual. Man then tries to come to nature's assistance and often makes bad very much worse.

The sufferer winks the eye, rubs it with his finger, perhaps inserts an eyestone and does whatever else he can think of to drive the particle deeper into the conjunctiva and excite inflammation. This inflammation causes swelling of the conjunctiva immediately surrounding the offending particle, with the result that the foreign body become firmly imbedded and can be removed only by the little needle or knife of the oculist, or else it loosens itself by exciting an ulceration of the cornea, and this ulceration, when healed, leaves behind it a minute white scar. Lucky is the man if this scar is at one side and not directly in front of the pupil.

One who gets a cinder in the eye must first of all exercise self control. He must not rub the eye. He may take a glass of clean water, throw in a pinch of salt, then put the head down so that the eye is in the water and wink several times rapidly. If this does no good the particle can sometimes be dislodged by taking hold of the lashes and drawing the upper lid down over the lower and letting it slide back into place.

If the speck can be seen on looking into the mirror it may often be removed by the tip of a cone made by folding the handkerchief several times. Sometimes a friend can see the speck by looking into the eye with a magnifying glass and can remove it by gently touching it with the handkerchief cone.

This is all any one should attempt, and if these gentle efforts fail to dislodge the cinder no time should be lost in seeking the help of a physician, who may take it away before inflammation or ulceration comes to complicate the accident.

Curious Cures.

A Sunderland remedy for whooping cough is to shave the top of the head and hang the hair upon a bush, the belief being that the birds, which will presently carry it away, to build their nests with, will convey away the cough at the same time, and the patient will be cured. The Northamptonshire and Devonshire variant of this practice is to put a hair from the sufferer's head between two slices of bread and butter, and give them to a dog, which, it is supposed, will then attract the cough from the patient to itself. A Shetland cure for ringworm is for the patient to take, fasting, on three successive mornings a pinch of ashes from the fire grate and hold them to the affected part while he repeats the lines:

Ringworm, ringworm red,
Never may thou speed or spread,
But aye grow less and less,
And die away among the ash.

On the Invention of Whiskey.

The name of the man who first staggered humanity by the invention of whiskey is lost in the mists of the middle ages, and all the ingenuity of counsel now employed in trying to find out what whiskey is has failed to disclose his identity. The fiery potion was known in England in the eleventh century, but in Scotland not till the fourteenth. But Scotland made up for lost time. She gave the bright liquid its alluring name, the "water of life," and made its production a cottage industry of noble proportions. When the execrable exciseman descended upon the village she carried the still to the lonely hills. We in these days are inclined to forget that Glenlivet, the home of the smuggler, would never have achieved its bacchanalian fame but for absurd Georgian licensing laws directed against the individual still and not against the magnitude of its output.—London Chronicle.

Postal Methods In Milan.

Postal authorities in Milan, Italy, use an automobile wagon in which to collect part of the mail. The car runs between the central postoffice and the branch offices and boxes in the different districts of the city. The automobile is of large size, on the style of an omnibus, and is fitted out so that the mail can be sorted by one clerk while the car is running. The car stops at each letter box to collect the mail, and between the boxes the clerk sorts and stamps the letters and passes them in packages to a second man, who puts them in a series of compartments corresponding to each carrier's route. This car covers a route fourteen miles long and collects the mail from all boxes in an hour and a half.

The King of Tramps.

The "king of tramps" got a term in a French jail the other day. He said he was born of wealthy parents and educated for the bar. He lost money by gambling and to pay the debt broke open his father's safe. "Turned out of doors, I became a tramp and have been ever since a terror to all honest folk. I have toured France twenty times and have been all over Belgium, Germany, Italy, Switzerland and Spain. I have been shut up in almost every prison in Europe." The magistrate having informed him that he would have to go to jail once more, he cried: "Hooray! I have scored my century. I had been sentenced exactly ninety-nine times before by magistrates all over Europe."

Church Bells and Tavern Bells.

Bells in tavern signs not infrequently indicate the number of bells there are in the neighboring church belry. Thus the sign of the "Five Bells" signifies that there are five bells in the church peal, the "Eight Bells" tells us that it contains eight, and so on.

A COSTLY VOLUME.

Toronto Possesses An Eighteen Hundred Dollar Book—Only One Hundred of Them In Existence.

The Toronto Public Library has just received a magnificent book, in two volumes, called "Investigations and Studies in Jade."

Jade is an ornamental stone of various shades of green, yellowish grey and greenish white. Its name is a corruption of Ijada (the flank), because it was believed that it cured pains in the side. It is found principally in China, Siberia and New Zealand, and has been reported to have been found in British Columbia, but the evidence for this is, according to the late Dr. George Dawson, doubtful. The largest quantity is found in mines in Chinese Turkestan, which are, however, very difficult of access, and it is almost impossible to get a perfect piece larger than a few inches.

Canton is a great market for the sale of jade, where it is converted into ornaments, bracelets, brooches, earrings and finger rings. It is so highly prized by the Chinese that a necklace of green jade beads will sell for about $5,000; while a moderate piece of true green will bring nearly $2,000.

Specimens of engraved jade have been found in prehistoric lake dwellings of Switzerland, in the mounds of Mexico, and in other parts of the world occupied by the earlier races, and far removed from any known source of supply.

Two or three of the large museums of the world, and some private individuals, have made interesting collections of it. The most important of these was that made by Heber R. Bishop of New York, who commenced between 1878-80 to purchase odd specimens. His interest was first aroused by the sale of some fine specimens, which reached New York and Boston, and he became so interested in the subject that he went to Europe immediately after the return of the Anglo-French expedition from China, with the intention of purchasing from the officers and soldiers the loot of the Imperial Summer Palace. From Europe he traveled to China, and afterwards visited Alaska, British Columbia and Mexico. His collection, which numbered 900 specimens, was presented before his death to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York. His desire to make himself acquainted with his subject led him, about twenty years ago, into an investigation of the history of jade, which was left unfinished at his death, and this, with the catalogue of specimens, has now been completed by his executors, and published by them in royal manner in two volumes, printed by DeVinne, forming the finest specimen of American bookmaking that has yet appeared.

The size is 18 by 24, the illustrations are beautifully engraved after drawings by the finest artists, colored to nature, and bound in polished morocco, silk-lined and gilt top.

It is not known exactly what the total expense has been, but the nearest estimate places the cost at $137,000. Only 100 copies have been printed, of which two are for copyright purposes, leaving 98 copies to be distributed, under the will of the late Mr. Bishop, among the crowned heads of Europe, the members of his own family, and the great museums and libraries of the world.

The number of the copy presented to Toronto is No. 87, and the condition which the executors have imposed is that it is to remain in perpetuity in the Toronto Public Library.

After printing the type was distributed and all materials used in the preparation of the work were destroyed by the direction of the executors, so that the book must always remain one of excessive rarity.

It is interesting to note that the mechanical oversight of this great work for the past three years has been in the hands of a Canadian, well known for his interest in bibliographical matters and in the history of this country, Mr. F. W. Douglas, late of Toronto.

Two Men In the Bush.

As became the idle man having the time of his life in the primeval forests of the Temagamie Reserve in Canada, the clerk of the New York Court of Special Sessions was graciously inclined to instruct the workers in camp. These, says The New York Tribune, were two young, unknown men, who, with a canoe and a camping outfit, were likewise seeking a backwoods experience.

He came upon one of them baking bread in a portable aluminum oven before a smoldering log fire.

"Ah," said the clerk, assuming a reclining position of graceful ease, "baking bread, I see."

"Yes. It doesn't come up for a cent."

"You see," continued the clerk, with rising wisdom, "the baking powder which contains cream of tartar, liberates when heated a certain amount of carbonic acid gas, which—"

"Oh, don't talk shop!" interrupted the cook. "I hate it out here!"

"Oh, you do!" the clerk observed, astonished. "What business are you in, may I ask?"

"I'm an assistant professor of chemistry at Yale."

In the Name of the King.

An unprecedented use of the King's name was made at Guelph recently. John Coughlin, deliverer of the mail between the station and postoffice, knowing that it was likely to freeze up after the rain, desired to have his horse shod expeditiously. Aware that all blacksmith shops were crowded he bethought himself of the fact that he was a servant of the King, and at once secured the requisite order from Police Magistrate Saunders, with the penalties attached. When he went to a shop he was turned away. Then he presented his order, and it is unnecessary to add that his horse was promptly shod.

A Man of Ideals.

Bishop John H. Vincent delivered the first of his lectures on "The Ministerial Office and Work," at Victoria College, Toronto, the other day. He said a true minister should be a man of ideals, and emphasized the importance of personal character and relation to God. Ministers should be examples to their people of what the Christian life can do for them. The effectiveness of prayer as a mental discipline, and the need of thorough college and seminary training were also strongly urged.

Overcoats Ordered Out of the House

Here's the first "toot" of our Overcoat Special——

Time's Up and the Coats Must Go

If you want a coat step lively, please.

If you knew we were giving away $5 bills you would come in for your share, wouldn't you? Well, it's just what we are doing, and sometimes we give away even more.

We are closing out our Overcoats.

We won't carry them over.

It certainly isn't good business to do so.

Our Overcoats are cut to the cost and often less.

Now Is the Time to Buy an Overcoat.

Copyright 1905 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

MEN'S SUITS

After the season's rush we find many lines of Men's Suits badly broken. These we are offering at greatly reduced prices.

Quick & Robertson

BELLEVILLE'S FOREMOST CLOTHIERS.

ESTABLISHED 1870.

30 p.c. Reduction

ON ALL

MANUFACTURED FURS

S. A. HYMAN & CO.,
MANUFACTURING FURRIER.

N. B. Highest cash prices paid for Raw Furs.

The Best Yet the Very Best

AND YOU ALWAYS GET GOOD THINGS AT SCANTLEBURY'S.

We have to-day, just this day, prepared a dozen BARGAIN TABLES the choicest BARGAIN TABLES you have yet seen anywhere—

Cost has not been considered. These bargain tables are prepared just to close out everything in china and fancy goods preparatory to our arrangements now under way for our Wall Paper season ahead.

During this week of BARGAIN TABLES we have also classified our pictures into Bargain departments—or wall Bargain Tables — and they are remarkably interesting.

We will add to the above bargains all this week everything in books in the rear store at 25c each — books worth 50c to $1.00 for 25c Remember.

C. B. Scantlebury.
Designer, Decorator, etc.

Wall Paper this week at 25 per cent. discount.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

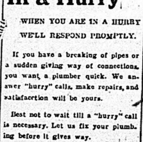
In a Hurry

WHEN YOU ARE IN A HURRY WE'LL RESPOND PROMPTLY.

If you have a breaking of pipes or a sudden giving way of connections, you want a plumber quick. We answer "hurry" calls, make repairs, and satisfaction will be yours.

Best not to wait till a "hurry" call is necessary. Let us fix your plumbing before it gives way.

JOHN LEWIS & CO.



"SOMETHING BIG."

in the way of a surprise is a pair of our spectacles. The surprise comes in, in the case in which you can read with any new pair we may sell you. Spectacles and Eye Glasses fitted by us are a positive luxury. Luxuries as a rule cost a lot of money, but ours don't. Anyone can afford our "best glasses made" and be sure when using them that they're helping their eyes instead of hurting them.

ALEX. RAY.

*BUSINESS CARDS at The Intelligencer. Your name and address on 500 $1.00. a19-1f

BARGAIN PRICES IN SHIRTS

For a few days we will offer you a large assortment of $1.00 and $1.25 Shirts for:— 75c

See window display.

Chas. J. Symons
298 Front St. Shirts to Order.

GLASSES FOR NEAR AND FAR

The inconvenience of separate glasses for reading and distance seeing is avoided by our double vision glasses which afford perfect vision for near and far.

These glasses can be correctly fitted to you, with or without rims, at very little more than the regular glasses cost you.

Eyes examined free

T. Blackburn
Jeweler & Optician.

A Peacemaker's Reward

On Saturday evening Mr. J. A. McFee was endeavoring to separate two dogs, which were fighting, when one of them bit him upon the left hand, making two bad wounds. The wounds were immediately cauterized and dressed, and no serious results are anticipated.

REDUCED TO FIFTY CENTS.

Our complete stock of soft front shirts, regularly sold at seventy-five cents and one dollar. Desirable patterns and well assorted sizes. Sale price 50c.—QUICK & ROBERTSON.

WIFE WAS MISSING WHEN HUSBAND WENT HOME.

SAD STATE OF AFFAIRS IN THE FAMILY OF AN ENGLISH IMMIGRANT.

On Saturday evening Mr. James McGlashon, who resides on Jones street, upon going home for the evening meal was surprised to find the house deserted by his wife and three children.

As Mrs. McGlashin had made threats and one attempt to drown herself, the husband was afraid that she had not only made away with herself, but also the children.

Upon enquiries being made and a search instituted the two elder children, both boys, aged respectively 6 and 8 years, were found at a neighbor's house, and it was learned that Mrs. McGlashan had left the city, and taken with her the younger child, a babe in arms.

The woman told a friend that she was going to visit a brother who resided in Trenton. This, however, was not the case, as she has no brother in this province. She purchased a ticket for Toronto and left on the train which leaves here at 5.05 p.m.

As the woman at times acts strangely, it is thought that mental aberration may have led her to go away.

The husband is making efforts to locate his wife and have her return to her home. She is an English woman, 31 years of age, and had been out from the Old Country but a few months.

JUDGE LAZIER'S FUNERAL.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES HELD AT ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

The esteem and respect in which the late Judge Lazier was held was evidenced yesterday afternoon, at the obsequies. Citizens of all classes were present to pay their tribute of regard, the procession of mourners being one of the largest seen in the city for some time. At a few minutes after 2 o'clock the cortege left the Judge's late residence, on George street, and proceeded to St. Andrew's Church, where an impressive service was held. The procession was formed in the following order:

Police force.
Bearers.
Hearse.
Mourners.
County of Hastings Law Society.
City Council and Officials.
County Council Representatives.
Citizens on foot.
Citizens in carriages.

The church was filled with sympathizing friends. The Pastor, Rev. R. S. Laidlaw, conducted the services, which consisted of prayers, reading of the burial service and the singing of two appropriate hymns. At the conclusion of the service those present were given an opportunity of passing around the bier and viewing the remains, which presented a lifelike appearance. The procession was then reformed and proceeded to the cemetery, where interment took place.

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful.

The bearers were all County officials, namely: Sheriff Hope, County Attorney P. J. M. Anderson, County Court Clerk J. Williams, Junior Judge Fraleck, County Clerk W. R. Aylsworth and County Solicitor S. Masson.

Messrs. G. W. Ostrom, ex-M.P.P., and S. J. Young, of Trenton, and Col. Halliwell and G. G. Thrasher, of Stirling, were in attendance as representatives of the legal profession from outside of the city.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

"HIS HIGHNESS THE BEY."

The most successful, gorgeous and glittering musical comedy success of the decade is "His Highness the Bey," which comes to the Carman to-morrow night. The book is by two Chicago University students and the music is from the most prolific music fountain in the country—Joseph E. Howard. There was considerable discussion by the LaSalle management before they would accept the book of these two young men, but the discussion was ended after Mr. Howard, the cleverest of all present day song writers and producers looked over the manuscript and declared it to be the most refreshing and novel comedies of years.

An Important Meeting

The sixth annual meeting of the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Consumption and other Forms of Tuberculosis will be held in the Railway Committee Room of the House of Commons on the 28th of March next. The Hon. Senator Edwards will preside in the afternoon.

In the evening a public lecture will be delivered in the Lecture Hall of the Normal School by Dr. Arthur J. Richer, of Montreal, which will be illustrated with stereopticon plates, showing the stages of consumption and some of the appliances now in use to check and cure the disease. The chair will be taken in the evening by His Excellency Earl Grey.

CLARK'S READY LUNCH VEAL LOAF

Will give you an appetite if you haven't one all ready. It is ready to serve—appetizing and tasty.

CHURCH CHIMES OF YESTERDAY.

NOTES OF SERVICES IN BELLEVILLE'S DIFFERENT PLACES OF WORSHIP.

Bridge Street.

Missionary anniversary services were held at Bridge St. Church yesterday, and large congregations were present. The preacher of the day was the Rev. W. J. Sparling, B. A., of Kingston, President of the Montreal Conference; The Rev. gentleman gave two able and instructive addresses in reference to missionary work, and the good which was being accomplished. In the evening he did not take a text but spoke upon three important resolutions in reference to missionary work, namely: Giving something, giving cheerfully, and giving as the Lord had prospered us. These three resolutions the Rev. gentleman enlarged upon, making an earnest appeal to all to contribute to such a worthy object, showing that Christ desired that such should be the case, and He impressed the missionary spirit upon the disciples. Rev. Mr. Sparling stated that last year over $400,000 was raised by the Methodist Church in Canada, for mission work, and an effort was being made this year to make it $500,000.

During the service special music was furnished. The anthem "Angels of Light," was sung, solos being taken by Misses Gertrude Price and Mabel Vermilyea. The boy choir sang the Glory Song, and the offertory selection was a solo by Miss E. Price "O, Happy Day."

The amount contributed last year to the Missionary Society from the Bay of Quinte Conference was $31,479.36, an increase of $2787.87 over the previous year. Of this amount Belleville district contributed $2519.38, an increase of $190.74. The city churches gave as follows: Bridge St., $917.56; Tabernacle, $381.00; Holloway St., $166.36, and Bleecker Ave., $5.00; total, $1472.92.

John Street.

"The Rich Man on Torment," and "Lazarus in Abraham's Bosom," was the Pastor's subject last evening. The text was from St. Luke, 16th chapter, from the 19th verse to the end of the chapter. The choir rendered an anthem entitled "Saviour, When Night Involves the Sky," the solo in which was taken by Mr. Cameron.

St. Andrew's.

Rev. R. S. Laidlaw, pastor, officiated at both services yesterday. In the evening his subject was "Noah, the Preacher of Righteousness." The text was from Genesis, 6th chapter and 9th verse;

"These are the generations of Noah. Noah was a just man and perfect in his generation, and Noah walked with God."

During the service a duet entitled, "He Knows," was sung by Mrs. T. J. Shanks and Mr. C. McMechan.

Holloway Street.

Yesterday the services were in keeping with the 30th anniversary of the church. The Pastor, Rev. R. H. Leitch, conducted the services, which were largely attended. In the morning reports showing the financial position of the church, membership, etc., were presented which were of a most encouraging nature. The subject of the pastor's discourse was "Thirty Years Revival," and the text was from Genesis, 47th chapter and 14th verse. In the evening a song service was held, the subject of the pastor's discourse being "Revival, Grace and Glory." During the latter service Mrs. C. Bull sang "Guard Me Whilst I Sleep," and Mr. Rosseau sang a solo. Appropriate hymns were sung during the sermon. In the absence of Miss Grills, Mrs. (Dr.) MacColl presided at the organ.

Christ Church.

At the evening service the Pastor, Rev. R. C. Blagrave, preached and his subject was "Corruption in Business Methods; the Loan Shark." His text was from Proverbs, 22nd chapter and 16th verse;

"He that oppresseth the poor to increase his riches and he that giveth to the rich shall surely come to want."

Tribute to a Good Man.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer;

Sir,—A paragraph appears in your paper of the 27th, informing us of the death of A. E. Bignell in California.

Many here will be sorry to hear the news, because to know him was to know a true man, who was ready at all times to assist in any good work. For a long time he filled the position of organist at Christ Church, free of charge. I understood the same service was performed in St. Andrew's Church by him. He was also a member of The Belleville Lodge, A., F & A. M., and at the time of his death filled the important position of Inspector of Agencies for the Merchants Bank of Canada. Although only a young man he has filled his parts well, and to his sorrowing relatives we desire to tender our sympathy.

W. A.

Belleville, Jan. 28th.

To Subscribers

SUBSCRIBERS IN ARREARS for The Daily Intelligencer must positively have their subscription FULLY PAID AND ONE MONTH IN ADVANCE by Feb. 1st, otherwise the company will be compelled to take their names from the lists. 27-4t

Denmark's King Passes Away.

NEWS OF HIS DEATH HAS CAUSED WIDE-SPREAD GRIEF IN COURT CIRCLES.

Copenhagen, Jan. 29.—(Special). —The King of Denmark died at 3.30 o'clock this afternoon.

The King passed away quietly, surrounded by the Crown Prince and the Princess and their children and the Dowager Empress of Russia.

The news of his death has caused widespread grief.

Prince Royal Frederic, the King's eldest son, is the heir to the throne.

Mr. Harry Corby Writes From Egypt.

AND STILL CONTINUES TO SHOW HIS REGARD FOR HIS NATIVE TOWN.

A.d. Knox, of this city, has received a letter from Mr. Harry Corby, dated Assouan, Egypt, Jan. 12th, which says, among other things;

"Well, here we are about 160 miles up the Nile. We left Cairo on the 26th December, by steamer, and arrived here on the 6th inst. We made side trips on donkeys each day to see the tombs and temples built by the Kings, which we all enjoyed very much, as we have had lovely weather since we left Cairo, a little cool in the mornings and evenings, but perfect the balance of the day. A merchant here told me he had been here five years, and in that time it had not rained ten hours. The last rain they had was last February—for one hour and a half. We saw the Assouan dam, which cost, they say, twenty millions. It is a great piece of work. We had a nice passage over to Naples and on to Port Said, and will leave Cairo, via Alexandra, on the 22nd February for Naples, and will visit Italy, France and England on our way home and hope to see you some time this summer, as I would like to see the Corby park well laid out this spring, so that what work you do on it would be permanent. You will oblige me if you will write Fred G. Todd, landscape architect, in Montreal, and get his price to come up and lay it out and give you a plan to work by, and I will subscribe $100 to have this done, and will subscribe, on my return home, another $150 for benches and improvements, if the city will do their part, as I wish to have the park, in time, a credit to the good old city, which you all know that I am so fond of. I am feeling better, and hope to be all right before my return. With regards, etc.

A LIVELY RUNAWAY.

MR. TOBIAS DOXTATOR HAD A NARROW ESCAPE FROM SERIOUS INJURY.

A lively runaway occurred in the western part of the city on Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock, and the owner of the rig, Mr. Tobias Doxtator, who resides in Sidney, was thrown out, but escaped with slight cuts about the head. Mr. Doxtator was driving up Moira street, when the team became unmanageable and off they started. At the turn of the town line, near the second overhead bridge, the conveyance was partially overturned and the occupant was thrown out. The horses, instead of running towards home, turned southward and ran to the pine grove, just west of the city limits, where they were stopped. The democrat wagon was left in sections along the road, being badly smashed up. Mr. Doxtator was picked up and taken into a residence near by, and later in the evening was taken home. He was fortunate in escaping serious injuries.

SKATED INTO WATER HOLE

ERNEST JORDAN, A YOUNG LAD, DROWNED NEAR DESERONTO.

Deseronto, Jan. 27.—A sad accident occurred here this afternoon. Ernest Jordan, a young lad 12 years of age, while skating on the bay in the vicinity of Deseronto was drowned. He skated into a water hole. The body was recovered.

Sunlight Soap is better than other soaps, but is best when used in the Sunlight way. Buy Sunlight Soap and follow directions.

COLGATES

Cashmere Boquet and Violet

TALCUM POWDER

Shaving Stick and Barber's Soap, Monad Violet, Cold Cream, Sandal Wood and other fine

TOILET SOAPS.

GEEN'S DRUG STORE

The Quinte Laundry Co.

A new list of prices for household goods— 20c per doz.

MANGLE WORK IN LARGE LOTS AT SPECIAL PRICES.

Agents for British American Dyeing and Cleaning Co'y.
Front Street South.
Telephone 102.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

HOCKEY.

Saturday's Record.

O. H. A.—Senior.
Midland	4	Marlboro	[illegible]
O. H. A.—Intermediate.
*Alliston	7	Collingwood	[illegible]
*Sudbury	9	Sturgeon Falls	[illegible]
Preston	6	Galt	[illegible]
Uxbridge	6	Whitby	[illegible]
O. H. A.—Junior.
*Victoria Harb'r	5	Penetang	[illegible]
Cobourg	4	Port Hope	[illegible]
Eastern League.
Quebec	3	Shamrocks	[illegible]
Ottawa	11	Montreal Vics	[illegible]
International League.
*Pittsburg	7	Calumet	[illegible]
Lower Ottawa League.
*Vankleek Hill	10	Lachute	[illegible]

*Played Friday.

Poor Game at Cobourg.

Cobourg, Jan. 27.—In one of the poorest exhibitions of hockey played here this season the Cobourg juniors to-night defeated the Port Hope players in an O.H.A. game by a score of 4 to 2. The game started at 8.30, but, after playing 25 minutes, one of the Port Hope players was seriously injured and the game was delayed some time. At 10 o'clock it was about decided to call the game off on account of the condition of the ice, but the crowd demanded that the game go on. After several delays the game was finally finished at 11.30. Mr. Leslie, of Parkdale, made an attempt to referee the game, the verdict of the large crowd being that he was the poorest excuse for a referee that ever entered a Cobourg rink.

LAWN TENNIS.

A Game in January.

On Saturday afternoon a game of lawn tennis was played on the tennis court, George street. Messrs. A. G. Burrows and J. A. Petrie were partners and their opponents were Messrs. W. W. Knight and G. W. Whitley. The former won two sets and the latter one, the fourth set not being completed, the score being 8 to 8.

SPORTING NOTES.

Cobourg beat Port Hope 4—2 on the former's ice on Saturday night, and the same teams clash in Port Hope ice to-night. At this distance it looks as though the Ports, on their own ice, should win. If they do there is still a chance for our speedy juniors. If the Cobourgs run away with the game they will have the group championship with five games won and one lost. It is up to all Bellevillians to pull for Port Hope to-night.

The New Zealand Rugby football team, on its way home from a victorious tour through the United Kingdom, put into New York yesterday on the American liner New York. The New Zealanders only a short time ago finished their trip, which included 32 games played in the United Kingdom and one in France. Of these they won all save one, Wales being the only successful opponent of the antipodeans.

THE SOURCE OF NEURALGIA.

It runs hand in hand with poor blood and weak nerves. Health runs down, nerves get irritable, neuralgic torture follows. For the moment applications may relieve—but to thoroughly cure, the system must be strengthened with nutritious blood. What can equal Ferrozone? It increases the appetite, forms abundance of rich, life-giving blood, supplies nutriment and building material for worn-out nerves. Ferrozone completely cures neuralgia. Every root and branch of the disease it kills. Absolute success in every case. Stop suffering — fifty cents buys Ferrozone. Fifty chocolate-coated tablets in a box at any drug store.

CARMAN OPERA HOUSE

TUESDAY. JANUARY 30, 1906.

Direct from 5 Months Run at La Salle Theatre, Chicago.
. . . . THE SHOW WITH MUSIC . . . .

"HIS HIGHNESS THE BEY."

A Musical Comedy in Two Acts. More Laughs and Music than All Others Combined.
Book and Music by Howard, Hough & Adams

10 MUSICAL COMEDY STARS—10

and 50 OTHERS, Including THE FAMOUS BROILERS and Best Chorus on Earth.
Twenty Musical Numbers. Georgeous Scenery. Ten Positive Song Hits.

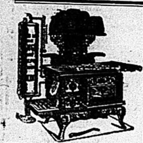
PRICES 25, 50, 75, $1.00 and $1.50.

Daily Intelligencer.

OUR SNAPPY GINGER SNAPS

Are fresh, crisp, snappy, wholesome and good, nothing but the best materials being used. 10c a lb. Some fresh to-day. Try them.

Chas. S. Clapp



The Happy Thought

Is the only range which has been made under one name for eighteen years, and is still the leader.

WM. McGIE,

Tel. 38. 11 Front St.

CHRISTMAS FLOWERS

A choice lot of Plants and Cut Flowers, Holly and Mistletoe.

COLLIP.

Better News—A FURTHER SLUMP IN MEATS.

—Beef Roast	3c, 10c, 12½c
— " Steak	10c, 12½c
— " Stew	5c, 6c,
—Round Steak	3 lbs. for 25c
—Lamb	8c, 10c, 12½c
—Pork	10c. 12½c
—Sausages	3 lb. for 25c

—GREEN.

PECK & WILLS.

Opposite Market. Successors to Walter Allor

Sash, Door and Blind Factory.

Dressed Lumber of all kinds.—Mouldings Store Fronts and Fittings, Stair Work Grilles, Mantles, Hardwood Pannelling bar Fixtures, &c.

Prompt attention given to custom work.

A call solicited.

PECK & WILLS.

Wedding Stationery

The Celebrated Eaton-Hurlbut manufacture, in cabinets of fifty invitations

$2.00

OTHER LINES AS WELL.

NEATLY PRINTED.

—AT—

The INTELLIGENCER

Job Department

Front St., Belleville.

Last Week

This will be the last week of our 25% Discount on GRANITEWARE AND FANCY CHINA.

New Prints Just Opened

A large range of Ladies' Collars to hand.

A great range of Ladies' Flannelette Nightgowns at $1.00, 75c and 50c each.

Imported direct, the latest in Ladies' Lace Ties $1.25 to 20c ea.

TO CLEAR—All 25c Wrapperettes for 15c.
All 12½c Wrapperettes for 10c.

All Patent Medicines at low prices.

McINTOSH BROS.

MARKED OFF ON THE MAP

Miles of Timber Limits Apparently Given Away.

No Documents Can Be Found by Which Hon. Mr. Foy May Know That Province Was Remunerated for Valuable Territory Others Claim—Premier Whitney and Hon. Dr. Reaume Also Make Important Utterances.

Kingston, Jan. 29.—Donald McIntyre's meeting Saturday night was a great gathering, with no interrupters and no unpleasantness at all. The presence of three members of the Government was an attraction, and great respect and attention was shown to the Ministers. Premier Whitney came out broadfooted on several matters of policy, and Mr. Foy launched a sensation as to the methods in the Crown Lands Department of the old administration.

Mr. Whitney made some caustic remarks upon Mr. Pense's recent admission that the Liberals were "suffering for the sin of being found out." He emphasized that the Government now had a very large majority, which would not be affected by Mr. Pense's defeat. He wanted Kingston to just do its duty and act according to the dictates of its conscience on Monday.

The speeches of Hon. Dr. Reaume and Hon. Mr. Foy pointed out the bad ways of the old Government. Mr. Foy broached a case of stolen timber lands which promises to develop into a sensation.

Premier Whitney's critics agree with his admirers that his speech before the big gathering was one of brilliance and grasp, with a thought to the text all the time, couched in pretty language, scintillating at times with wit, sawing a little toward sarcasm now and then, and framed in bitter good-nature, and it was a great speech, before a great audience, wrapt in attention, all the time with no dissentient voice.

The City Hall is a place of no mean proportions. Perhaps 1,300 people crowded into it. There were some clergymen and some ladies, with their escorts, about 50 of them on the platform.

H. W. Richardson was the chairman.

Dr. Reaume's Address.

Hon. Dr. Reaume is more of a heart-to-heart talker than an orator. His game is to get every man in the audience to think that he is being spoken to personally. Perhaps he doesn't mean it, but it counts just the same. He told the electors of Kingston that Dan McIntyre could have all the help at his disposal to secure his election. He had come from the west to take a squint at the asylum and learn of its wants. He intimated that there would soon be something doing in the way of improvements there, and further that the Kingston paper of Mr. Pense had a one-sided proposition when charges were printed instead of being proclaimed in a manly way before an audience of the electors.

Carloads of cheers greeted his reference to Candidate McIntrye, which was clever and complimentary.

Solid For the Candidate.

McIntyre seems to be pretty solid. There was not a grunt of disapproval when he stepped forward. Mr. McIntyre said the mistake made in Kingston last January must be righted. He sailed into the secret ballot situation, and was cheered for the announcement that a man could vote for who he liked now without fear, as the numbered ballot was a thing of the past. He repudiated the vindictiveness charged to him through Mr. Pense's paper.

Mr. Foy's Speech.

Hon. J. J. Foy compared the actions of the present Government, which Mr. McIntyre represents, and the old one, which had been so signally defeated a year ago.

There have been things done in the Parliament buildings that the people of this province ought to know, and in the course of time they will know," said Hon. Mr. Foy as he got the audience interested to the hear a pin drop point.

"Things that will make Mr. Pense and the reform press sorry," he continued and he related that only very recently and accidentally the facts came out. Way back in 1898 an order-in-council was passed granting Angus McLeod and J. J. McNeil of Muskoka the right to cut the timber on some burnt areas in Northern Ontario. The order-in-council embodies the advertisement describing the timber limit, and was passed May 9, 1893. In the advertisement the offering is the pine timber which is estimated at 5,750,000 feet, board measurement, situate on the north and west of the east branch of the Spanish River. McLeod & McNeil tendered and were granted the privilege on the consideration of them paying $20,150 as a bonus, in addition to the regular ground dues of $1.25 per 1,000 feet, board measure. They gave a bond of $10,000 to guarantee the performance of their part of the contract, and the timber was to be removed promptly. Hon. J. M. Gibson was commissioner of Crown Lands when this was done, and a short time afterwards McLeod & McNeil got an extension whereby a small portion of the land on the other side of the river was included as some of the burnt timber there, and it was thought by Mr. Gibson that the tenderers were entitled to it.

That did not end it though, and it looks as if the transaction, included about anything the tenderers liked to take, for they gained possession of an area of twelve miles by eighteen miles, on the east and south side of the river, for nothing. All records of the way in which this came about have disappeared, as far as the Government is concerned. There are no documents to show how it was consummated. The original grant of 5,750,000 feet had been thus increased to 120,000,000 feet, all there is in the Department to show anything about it is a copy of a map given by Hon. Mr. Davis to the company, on which the extension is marked. Apparently Mr. Davis marked it on the map and told them they could have it. The Deputy Commissioner of Crown Lands has stated to the Government now that Mr. Davis gave a ruling authorising the extension and had given the men a map on which the district was marked out. No record of a request for it from the men who obtained the original grant is even to be had, let alone an order-in-council granting the extension.

Of the enormous territory acquired, 40,000,000 feet of timber have been cut so far, and $330,000 is now offered for the remaining 80,000,000.

Premier Whitney's Speech.

Mr. Whitney was received with great applause. He commenced at once to draw attention to some of the things which the Conservative Government had done since it had come into power. The Government had taken steps to bring about an efficient and honest enforcement of the liquor laws. During the short time that they had been in office the revenues of the asylums, prisons, etc., had increased by about $150,000. There arose the question of the pool room at Toronto Junction. The Government had turned its attention also to the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway and had at once changed the commissioners; under whose authority the road was being constructed.

The record made by the new commissioners had been remarkable. The administration of the Crown Lands Department showed a similar gain in revenue to that of the others mentioned. Another feature of the Government management of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway had been that outside of the members of the Legislature, no passes had been issued. Great stress had been placed by the Conservative party when in opposition upon the reprehensible practice of disposing of immense areas of pulpwood lands by secret bargains. The Government had taken steps to cancel all these agreements, the provisions of which had not been carried out. A measure of success had attended the Government's administration of the Department of Agriculture. At present there are nearly 200 more students at the Guelph Agricultural College than there had been during the previous year.

While, on this subject, said Mr. Whitney, he desired to mention the case of Dr. Mills, who had been for so many years the head of the Guelph Agricultural College, who had gone to Europe on at least one occasion in the interests of the college, and had paid his own expenses, but, on his leaving the service of the province to take up his position as a member of the Dominion Railway Commission, no gratuity or allowance had been made to him, nor even any compensation. Mr. Whitney spoke for a couple of hours. He would not do away with manhood franchise; no thought of it. He had not adopted the spoils system. Many charges against the old Government were proven before the Conservative Government came into power. Documentary evidence had been removed. He said Mr. Pense was not even endorsed by his party.

Mr. Whitney drew attention to one instance of iniquity which had been carried so far that it was impossible to right the wrong which had been done. The Ontario Government had granted to the Grand Trunk Pacific a subsidy of $2,000 a mile in cash and 6,000 acres of land per mile, including the minerals, simply for their connecting line between Port Arthur and the main line of the G. T. P., a distance of 200 miles. The company would have had to built the line anyway, and Mr. Whitney did not believe they had ever asked for what they received.

"A public official who performs his duty and does not interfere in election matters will be supported and backed up by the Government," said Mr. Whitney, referring to the "spoils system." One department in Ottawa had in eight months dismissed more employes than all those dismissed for good reason by the Ontario Government.

The election feeling is quiet, with Conservative confidence.

AFFIDAVIT FOR ALIBI.

To Prove That Garrett Van Zant Was Not in St. Thomas.

Toronto, Jan. 29.—In an affidavit made by T. J. Woodcock, J. P., of Newmarket, auditor for the County of York, Governor Garrett Van Zant of Toronto jail moves to establish an alibi in the charges against him of personating a D. R. O. in St. Thomas during the West Elgin bye-election.

The affidavit declares that the late Judge McDougall, Joseph T. Stokes and Garrett R. Van Zant were, in 1899, the members of the board of audit for the County of York. That this board met in Toronto on Jan. 5, 6, 7, 12, 13 and 14, 1899, and that the whole of the members were present.

EX-SHERIFF SMART DEAD.

Prominent Brockville Manufacturer and Citizen Passes Away.

Brockville, Jan. 29.—James Smart, sheriff of Leeds and Grenville, 1882 to 1898, died Saturday night at the family residence here in his 87th year. He was a Scotchman by birth, and settled with his father on the Ottawa River at the age of 14. He left, learned the trade of a tanner in Brockville, and followed that occupation successfully as a manufacturer in Kingston, Sarnia and Sacramento, California. His business enterprises in California suffered destruction by fire, and after engaging in mining for a few years, he returned to Brockville in the early fifties, remaining here continuously till his death.

He founded the James Smart Manufacturing Co., which still bears his name. He served at the council board for many years.

He married Ann Bogue of London, Ont., by whom he had four children, who, with the widow, survive. They are: Hon. James Smart of Montreal, formerly Deputy Minister of the Interior; G. Bogue Smart of the Dominion Immigration Department, Ottawa; Mrs. (Judge) Reynolds and Miss Smart, Brockville.

He Fought in '37.

Ottawa, Jan. 29.—Major Horatio A. Wicksteed of Ottawa, one of the last survivors of the force that took the field at the time of the 1837 rebellion in Lower Canada, died Friday night, aged 95. He was a native of Kentshire, and came to Canada in 1834.

$3,000 JEWEL ROBBERY.

Traveler For Zock & Co. Reports Loss of Part of Samples.

Toronto, Jan. 29.—The manner in which ninety-six diamond rings disappeared on Friday night from the vault of Clarence N. Vanzant, optician, of 159 Yonge street, is still perplexing the police. The rings, which are valued at about $3,000, are the property of the Zock Manufacturing Co., West Adelaide street.

They formed part of $15,000 worth of jewelry entrusted to the care of A. E. H. Grupe, their traveler, living at 94 Wellesley street. He came in Friday about noon from a trip into Western Ontario. On going home he showed the rings to his wife. About 5.30 he came downtown and, instead of putting the valise in Zock's safe, put it in that of Mr. Vanzant.

Grupe says he told Vanzant that he was placing the valuables in his vault.

Vanzant says that he did not know the grip was in the vault until the next morning, when he stumbled against it when walking in the vault, which he used as a workshop and never locked.

The rings were missed about 10 o'clock by Grupe, who, however, failed to report the loss until afternoon, because he stated he thought Vanzant had taken them out to make a sale for him.

ROBLIN'S POLICY.

Government Control of Public Utilities in Province of Manitoba.

Carberry, Man., Jan. 29.—The provincial Conservative convention, which came to a close Saturday, passed a series of resolutions embodying the principles for which Conservatives in Manitoba stand.

Here are the main planks of the platform of Manitoba Conservatives:

Government control of public utilities.

Free rural delivery where conditions warrant.

Control of all lands for school purposes.

Rail route to Hudson Bay.

Non-political commission for transcontinental railway.

No entangling alliance between federal and provincial Governments.

Establishment of technical schools.

WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU

FEW PEOPLE REALIZE THE IMPORTANCE OF GOOD DIGESTION UNTIL IT IS LOST.

Many people suffer from dyspepsia and do not know it. They feel mean, out of sorts, peevish, do not sleep well, do not have a good keen appetite, do not have the inclination and energy for physical or mental work they once had, but at the same time do not feel any particular pain or distress in the stomach. Yet all this is the result of poor digestion, an insidious form of dyspepsia, which can only be cured by a remedy specially intended to cure it and make the digestive organs act naturally, and properly digest the food eaten. Bitters, after dinner pills and nerve tonics will never help the trouble; they don't reach it. The new medical discovery does. It is called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and is a specific for dyspepsia and indigestion. It cures because it thoroughly digests all wholesome food taken into the stomach, whether the stomach is in good working order or not.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by digesting the food, instead of making the worn-out stomach do all the work, gives it a much needed rest and a cure of dyspepsia is the natural result.

When you are nervous, run down and sleepless, don't make the common mistake of supposing your nervous system needs treatment and fill your stomach with powerful nerve tonics, which make you feel good for a little while, only to fall back farther than ever.

Your nerves are all right, but they are starved; they want food.

Nourish them with wholesome, every-day food and plenty of it, well digested, and you can laugh at nerve tonics and medicine.

But the nerves will not be nourished from a weak, abused stomach, but when the digestion has been made perfect by the use of this remedy all nervous symptoms disappear.

Who ever heard of a man or woman blessed with a vigorous digestion and good appetite being troubled with their nerves?

Good digestion means a strong nervous system, abundance of energy, and capacity to enjoy the good things of life.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will certainly set your stomach and digestive organs right; they can't help but do it because they nourish the body by digesting the food eaten, and rest the stomach.

You get nourishment and rest at one and the same time, and that is all the worn-out dyspeptic needs to build him up and give new life to every organ and an added zest to every pleasure.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a god-send to the army of men and women with weak stomachs and nerves and justly merits the claim of being one of the most worthy medical discoveries of the time.

ELLA G. TURNS TURTLE

Reported From Bamfield, B. C., Lost With Six Hands.

Another Large Barque, Supposed to Be the Admiral Courbet, Reported Ashore Near Carmanah Point—Capt. Alex. McLean, the Notorious Sealer, One of the Six Lost on the Ella G.—A Valencia Enquiry.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 29.—The fishing schooner Ella, G., a small "Pinkie" schooner of about 15 tons, is reported from Bamfield to have been lost with all hands, six in number, having turned turtle in the southwest gale of Tuesday, when the wind blew from 50 to 60 miles on hour. There were six men on board, one of whom was the notorious sealer, Capt. Alexander McLean, whose escapades with the sealing schooner "Carmencita" caused United States Government to order a revenue cutter to arrest the vessel.

The Ella G. left Victoria on Saturday, the 20th, on a fishing cruise off the Vancouver Island coast, in the vicinity of the entrance of the straits.

She was seen on Tuesday last by settlers at Carmanah Point, standing off Bonilla Point, two miles to the eastward of Carmanah, and, according to those who then watched her, she did not pass out and appeared to be acting strangely. Last night there were rumors that she had been lost.

A despatch now comes from Bamfield Creek to the effect that the schooner had turned turtle, and all on board were lost.

May Be Another.

There are fears that a big barque will be driven on the Vancouver Island coast near Carmanah. At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the lightkeeper at Carmanah reported that a large barque was within a mile from shore two and a half miles west of Carmanah Point, and a big swell was setting inshorewards. The tugboat companies were notified so that attempts could be made to salve the vessel if possible. It is believed here that the barque in distress is the Admiral Courbet, which was lost from the tug Pioneer when being towed to Puget Sound inward from San Francisco on Tuesday, and has not been heard of since.

Government Inquiry.

An Ottawa despatch says the Canadian Government has ordered an investigation into the wreck of the Valencia.

Premier McBride announced yesterday that the Provincial Government would co-operate with the Dominion Government in a life-saving scheme for the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Only 37 Saved.

The total number of the survivors of the Valencia is shown to have been but thirty-seven of the total on board the steamer of 154 persons.

The survivors who drifted into Barkeley Sound on a raft speak highly of the bravery of both the stewards and stewardess, and their death. They say that before they left the vessel the stewards and stewardess were engaged constantly in passing food to all, and long after the crew took to the rigging the steward and many of his waiters passed up meat and sandwiches to those lashed in the cordage of the wreck.

IN RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, Girl Gets Leg Broken.

Whitby, Jan. 29.—The young ladies of the O. L. C., to the number of 50, started for Oshawa Saturday to be photographed.

The party completely filled two of Newport's band wagons. The larger wagon was driven by Teamster Andrew Johnston and seated on the front seat with the driver were Miss Ormsby and Miss Muriel Koyle of Lindsay.

About half way between the two towns and near the residence of farmer Jerry Lick, the nut on the bolt of the whiffletree fell off and the whiffletree was pulled out, striking one of the horses. This caused the horse to jump and the pole fell to the ground, turning the wagon completely over in the ditch and throwing all the occupants out.

Miss Ormsby jumped, but unfortunately Miss Koyle fell with the driver and others on top of her. Miss Koyle's leg was badly broken, some three inches of the bone protruding through the skin, and Driver Johnston was badly cut on the face. She was carried into Mr. Lick's house and medical aid sent for.

Drs. Meldrum and McGillivary were quickly on the spot. The other young ladies were frightened and shaken up and most of them preferred to walk home.

THREE KILLED, TWO DYING.

Dynamite Explosion From Carelessness of Laborers On the C. P. R.

Keewatin, Jan. 29.—Through the carelessness of laborers engaged on the work of double-tracking the C.P.R. between Fort William and Winnipeg, three men were blown to pieces with dynamite and four were fatally injured in a dynamite explosion Saturday afternoon.

A charge had been put and, failing to fire, men returned to work, when it exploded.

Of the injured men two cannot recover.

Overcome by Coal Gas.

Brockville, Jan. 29.—While sleeping, the family of W. Thompson, a farmer living adjacent to Cardinal, inhaled coal gas from a defective stove. All recovered with the exception of a ten-year-old boy, who passed away during the day.

Burglars Break Man's Arm.

Toronto, Jan. 29.—Magnus Sinclair, caretaker of the Labor Temple, in a struggle with two men who forced an entrance during Friday night, had an arm broken and his head severely cut.

A Rhodes' Scholar.

St. John, N. B., Jan. 29.—Ralph St. John of Sussex, N. B., was chosen Rhodes' scholar for New Brunswick Saturday. He is a graduate of the University of New Brunswick (1903).

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

MOST PERFECT MADE.

SOLD AND USED EVERYWHERE.

E. W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
TORONTO, ONT.

POULTRY SUPPLIES

Fresh Eggs are in Demand—why not order some of the following lines and add to your supply—

MEAT MEAL
GROUND BONE
OYSTER SHELLS
MICA GRIT
INTERNATIONAL POULTRY SPICE
MYER'S POULTRY SPICE
HERBAGEUM
WHEAT, CORN, BARLEY.
COARSE CRACKED CORN
BUCKWHEAT &c.

J.C. Hanley & Co.

Telephone 214.

British American Assurance Co.
Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co.
Western Fire Insurance Co.
Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Dominion Plate Glass Co.
Travellers' Accident Insurance Co.

CHANCEY ASHLEY

Insurance Agent.
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Opposite Post Office Belleville.

DR. W. H. ELDRED'S

LIQUID ELECTRICITY

The Magic Pain Reliever.

Electricity Cough and Consumption Cure.

See directions on boxes. For sale by

R. Templeton & Co.

Druggists, Belleville, Ont.

or D. P. Corey, General Agent,
201 Church St., Belleville, Ont.

British American Assurance Co.
Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co.
Western Fire Insurance Co.
Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Dominion Plate Glass Co.
Travellers' Accident Insurance Co.

CHANCEY ASHLEY

Insurance Agent.
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Opposite Post Office Belleville.

IMPORTED DIRECT

Pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil.

Best for Coughs, Colds and all Pulmonary Troubles.

DON. G. BLEECKER.

Phone 11.

Prescriptions carefully compounded.

Bargains in Ordered Clothing

As we are contemplating making some changes in our store will offer the following bargains.

25—$18.00 Tweed Suits at $15 00
40— 20 00 Tweed Suits at $16 00
20— 22 00 Tweed Suits at $18.50
30— 24 & 25 Tweed Suits at $20.00
$5 00 Trousers for $4.00
6.00 Trousers for $4 50
7.00 Trousers for $5.00
8 00 Trousers for $6.00

Up-to-Date goods made and trimmed same as at regular prices.—Terms cash.

ARTHUR McGIE, 300 Front St

Another Snap for My Customers

DRESSED LUMBER

Flooring, Wainscotting, Ceiling, Clapboards.

C. P. HOLTON

Phone 112.

Very few people lose their minds because their neighbors lose their money.

EIGHTY-THREE THOUSAND cards of superior quality imported by The Intelligencer Job Department. These cards are the cheapest and best in Canada. Travellers, business and professional men should examine them.

McLAUGHLIN CUTTERS

A Specialty.

The most up-to-date sleighs in style finish and material.

A full assortment at their warerooms OPPOSITE THE MARKET, FRONT ST., BELLEVILLE

Also full lines of:—

Robes, Harness, Blankets Rugs, Men's and Women's Fur Coats and Collars, &c.

Call in before you buy.
No trouble to show goods.

J. A. ROSE,

Manager Belleville Branch.

The Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

Incorporated by Act of Parliament.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL

$5,000,000

3 1-3 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE—Bridge St., Belleville.
J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

BANK OF MONTREAL

ESTABLISHED 1817.

CAPITAL AND REST (All Paid Up

$24,000,000

(Twenty-four Millions)

Savings Bank Department.

Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

R. TANNAHILL,
Act. Manager Belleville Branch.

G. A. Bennett,

Carpenter. Joiner. Builder.

WORKSHOP AND OFFICE,
Victoria Avenue,
(Next McCrodan's Grocery.)

Estimates furnished, work promptly and carefully executed; prices moderate.

— SPECIALIST ON —

Parquette and Hardwood Floors
Grills and Fireplace Mantels.
Building and House Repairs & Alterations.
Office and Store Fixtures, also Cabinet Work and Furniture Repairs.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No. 8.—12.45 a.m., Mail train, daily, except Monday.
No. 2—1.30 a.m. Fast train (Flyer), daily.
No. 16.—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m., daily, except Sunday
No. 6—11.15 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4—12.06 p.m., Express, daily.
No. 12.—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5.—2.22 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.
No. 3.—4.02 a.m., Limited Express, daily.
No. 9.—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday. Leaving Toronto at 5.10 p.m., arrives in Belleville at 9.10 p.m.
No. 11.—11.08 a.m., Passenger, Daily, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 1.—1.40 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7.—5.03 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.15 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've.	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 282, Front St.

Genuine Scranton COAL
Prompt delivery. Well screened.
Office, Bridge St.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL — LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL — CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 39 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1906. NO. 226

THE VERY BEST COAL
All Sizes
Wood for the millions
Dry Pine, Hardwood cut and split.
C. C. LEAVENS

STROUDS
delicious teas and coffees are the best and the best is not too good for you.

SINCLAIR'S
Great Removal Sale
IS NOW ON.

We Have Five
Persian Lamb Jackets
Which will be cleared at the following prices:

$145.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price $108 75
135.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price 101.25
100.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price 75.00
85.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price 60.75
65.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price 50.75

25 P.C. Discount Off All Small Furs.

Ladies' Cloth Coats
HALF PRICE.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO.

Here's a Pretty Kettle of Fish.

Little Games Of Graft Which Someone Tries to Hide.

Letters Read to the Fishery Commission Show Them Up—Mutilated Letter Books are Offered in Evidence at First Day's Inquiry Into Alleged Irregularities in the Fishery Department—Partizan Spirit.

Toronto, Jan. 30.—What might be called a pretty kettle of fish is being analyzed at the Parliament buildings, where Major J. C. Judd of London is the commission, taking evidence regarding some charges made by James S. Webster, chief clerk in the department of fisheries, against S. T. Bastedo, deputy commissioner of fisheries, who has been his chief in the department.

The most serious of the allegations made by Webster is that Mr. Bastedo caused letters to be mutilated and torn to remove evidence of improper conduct in the business of his branch, and further, with mutilating, secreting or destroying letters received in the course of business.

Letter books were produced to show that sheets had been torn out of the ordinary books and transferred to a private book. Many other pages of the books had been torn out altogether and were among the missings things. Corners of the pages containing the number had been torn off to make them mysterious, but nothing was brought out to show that Mr. Bastedo had done it, and whether or not somebody did it with felonious intent is to be decided by the commissioner.

Mr. Webster has Barrister J.E. Jones with him and looking up letter books is their large job so far.

Who Switched the Letters?

Mr. Bastedo has yet to answer to the proofs that letters were switched from one book to another and perhaps he can prove that it was all done under the direction of the minister of the department, who was Hon. Mr. Latchford.

Mr. Bastedo follows the proceedings very closely, and he has legal advisers in I. F. Hellmuth and E. C. Cattenach. No evidence whatever was produced to show by whom the mutilation of books and papers had been ordered, but the books had been tampered with by somebody and many of the sheets sought are in the realms of the unknown. It was shown that many minor public officials were active to a very thoro degree in elections and that their efforts were not frowned upon by the department.

As a sample of some of the transferred correspondence disclosed by Mr. Jones, much of which he unnecessarily asked be omitted from publication, was a letter asking an appointment for young Mr. Riddell, whose father of the firm of Hart & Riddell was a valued friend of the party. More letters of similar value were to be found transferred to the private letter book. Missing pages were commented upon and explanations will be forthcoming. Conductor F. W. Cowley of the M.C.R., who was wired from St. Thomas to Niagara, in a letter deplored the fact that Niagara fishermen all voted Conservative because they could not get licenses. He wanted a license for himself, so that he could give it to somebody and thus help himself in his ambitions to become an executive head of the Liberal party in Lincoln. He wanted to catch sturgeon in Lake Erie in spring and fall months, while the other fellows could only do it in the summer. He had good credentials of his standing in the party, mentioning the names of Dr. Wilson, A. McCrimmon, Donald McNish, J. M. Glenn, Andrew Grant, P. Stewart, all stalwarts of St. Thomas. In a further letter Mr. Cowley admitted that by getting the license he might pick up a little money.

Letters with Mr. Craig of Glenburnie showed that Shibley, who afterwards became identified with Mr. Lott in the ballot box informalities down east, had to be consulted as to the government's actions.

The Partisan Spirit.

The partisan attitude of the late government is shown in a letter to G. P. Graham of Brockville, asking for the political faith of Black & Co., boilermakers, Brockville, because the boiler of the Eva Bell was out of repair and a new one might be needed before the season ended.

The name of the denounced Duncan Bole appears in the proceedings, for he got $48 for something Mr. Webster doesn't think he should have received money for. Other charges of small amounts improperly paid to people are brought out, but not yet substantiated. A letter to M. C. Cameron, Goderich, congratulating him upon his nomination and hoping victory would perch upon his banner, as well as referring to the possibilities of the patronage, was read. Mr. Cameron was recommended to Mr. Yates, the overseer at Goderich, to talk with him.

Mr. Webster claims that in 1902 the sum of $1438 was paid in refunds, whereas this amount was represented in the report to government by an item showing $154.

Many letters which had been transferred were read showing that the deceased government was out after all it could get for the party at any time.

The investigation will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning

Boy Crushed by Street Car.

Toronto, Jan. 30.—George Liddiard, 16 years of age, residing with his parents at 227 1-2 Brock avenue, was seriously injured in a street car smash at Queen and Claremont streets while returning from work at 6.30 last night. The boy was on the rear platform of a car when a Dundas car following struck it. He fell through the chain space on to the fender of the Dundas car, and was crushed against the bumpers. One thigh is fractured and there are internal injuries.

Sinclair's Condition Serious.

Toronto, Jan. 30.—Magnus Sinclair, the caretaker of the Labor Temple, who was assaulted early Saturday morning in the building, was reported to be in a serious condition last night. His assailants, Burt Leslie and Donald Burgoyne, are under arrest. It is said that Burgoyne beat Sinclair with a bottle.

Bought By British Capital.

Winnipeg, Jan. 30.—London, England, capitalists yesterday completed the purchase of half a million acres in Northern Alberta, and will pursue an aggressive colonisation policy in disposing of it.

Two Mere Sports Fined.

St. Catharines, Jan. 30.—Yesterday afternoon two well-known butchers of this city appeared before Connolly, B. Hare and Thomas Read, and pleaded guilty to the charge of cockfighting, upon which the thirty-two men were fined at Grimsby last week. They were each fined five dollars and costs.

Crushed to Death.

Ottawa, Jan 30.—Alfred Tessier, aged 40, of Hull, was killed yesterday morning at the Portland Cement Works, in Hull. He was in the clay pit with a number of other employes when the bank caved in, and he was crushed to death by the falling earth.

Falls Through Bridge.

Guelph, Jan. 30.—Hector Gravel, a rivet heater with the construction gang replacing the G.T.R. bridge fell through the bridge yesterday over 20 feet to the frozen ground. His left arm was broken above the wrist and the right sprained.

The Ritchie Co., Limited. | The Ritchie Co., Limited.

Extensive Alterations

Constantly increasing business necessitates further alterations and extensions to our already large store.

We are just closing the largest business year in our history which speaks louder than anything else could do to tell us that our efforts to serve the people of this district are being appreciated.

Our steady aim has been to supply the newest styles of goods from the most reliable makers in the world at the Lowest Possible Prices. This can only be accomplished by sending our buyers direct to the sources of supplies both in this country and in Europe (avoiding the profits paid to middle men by small dealers) the benefits of which are reaped by Our customers. Buying our goods For Cash and selling them for cash enables us to do business on a smaller margin of profits than if we were obliged to pay interest on purchase and make losses through selling on credit.

Workmen are now busy removing walls, stairways, partitions, etc., which will increase our room, light and comfort of our customers when trading. We intend to do bigger and better things during 1906 than in any previous year.

Sale of Remnants

This is clearing out time - all odds and ends must go in the next two weeks. Our stocks have been thoroughly searched out and on Thursday morning every department will have its quota of bargains—all marked at quick selling prices. Here is a partial list.

Towellings, Flannelette, Carpets, Prints, Laces, Linings, Table Linens, Ribbons, Silks.

Fur Specials

We are making special inducements on many of our Furs, to clear them quickly.

At the rate Furs of all kinds are advancing, these prices offer splendid investments.

—4 only Greenland Seal Coats, regular prices $38 to $40, to clear at $25
—A few sizes, in Ladies' Black Astrachan Coats, selling much below regular prices
—Bargains in Ruffs, Stoles, Muffs, Caps, etc.

$10.00 JACKETS $3.95

Your choice of 30 Ladies' Colored Cloth Jackets

ALL THIS SEASON'S STYLES.

Regular Price $10.00 For $3.95

$10.00 Suits for $7.50

Here is something you cannot afford to miss. We are getting ready for inventory and stock must be reduced at once. On Tuesday morning we will place on sale 30 Men's Suits in Plain and Fancy Tweed, well sewn with silk and linen, up-to-date styles—sizes 36 to 44—regular price $10.00, for $7.50

$1.00 and $1.25 Shirts 75c

The season's selling has left behind about 84 of these Shirts, we therefore want them all out in two weeks and on Tuesday morning we place the balance on sale.

—100 Men's Shirts in stripe and spot, all sizes, large variety of patterns, regular price $1.00 and $1.25, for 75c

The RITCHIE Co., Limited

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON.

Watch
This Space
IN......
Wednesday Evening
Edition
OF THIS PAPER

NOTICE OF A BIG SALE
of great interest to the Ladies will appear.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

20 Per Cent. Discount
OFF ALL
Men's and Boys' Wool and Fleece Lined Underwear.

ROBINSON & THOMPSON.
Tailors & Furnishers.

25 Per Cent. Discount

Our entire stock of High-Class Manufactured Furs will be sold at a Great Sacrifice.

Sale commences Wednesday. Come early and secure first choice.

GEORGE T. WOODLEY.
Successor to Miss M. H. Herbert. Opposite Footbridge
Highest Prices Paid for Raw Furs.

The New Store.

Plenty of Bargains All Over The Store.

All winter goods have received marching orders.

MANTLES HALF PRICE.
FURS 25 p. c. to 30 p. c. DISCOUNT.
UNDERWEAR FOR LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, ALL REDUCED.
HEAVY DRESS GOODS REDUCED.

Come In—Look around, you won't be urged to buy.

Wims & Co
TERMS CASH.

THIS SPRING
We Purpose Making
INTERIOR DECORATIONS

A leading feature of our business and are prepared to furnish Expert Workmen to do all kinds of Painting, Graining, Finishing, Paperhanging, Etc., and will GUARANTEE perfect satisfaction in every instance.

We are adding thousands of rolls of the newest and most artistic Wallpaper from the leading American and Canadian manufactures, and will be pleased to show you these goods and to give an estimate for decorating one room or the whole house.

T. P. BROWN'S
Carpet, Curtain, Wallpaper Store and Picture Framing.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

Spasmodic Honesty.

The Toronto Globe's political conscience has once more been troubled. The result is, a condemnation of what it terms "Election Criminality in the West."

It must be gratifying to its patrons to know that occasionally it gets on the right track and condemns that which is wrong in its own party. It has a salutory effect, though it soon drifts back into its old habit of supporting those whose evil ways its condemns.

It's last burst of indignation reads:

> "No matter what views may be held on the question of party politics in Provincial affairs, and no matter what opinions may prevail as to the questions at issue in the recent campaigns in Alberta and Saskatchewan, there can be but one opinion among intelligent and sober-minded people as to the polling-booth criminality charged against election officials in one sub-division of northern Saskatchewan. It is true, as reported in The Globe, that two officials were fined $200 for not opening a polling-booth properly. If this offence was merely technical, the punishment may have been adequate. But if, as is publicly charged, they did not open the poll at all, and returned votes which were not polled, then their offence was not technical, but to the last degree criminal. It is almost unthinkable that two men in their senses would be guilty of an act so flagrant and brazen as is charged against them. If they were guilty it is unthinkable that the Crown officers will allow them to go unpunished for their real crime. The new Province cannot afford to have its fair name besmirched by any suspicion of administrative connivance with high-handed political bandits. If the thing is as has been charged by opponents of the new Government, it touches the limit of political atrocity, and, the duty of complete exposure and just punishment rests on the Government. We take it that neither the Hon. Walter Scott nor any of his colleagues, nor any decent man who calls himself a Liberal, is involved in any such crime, or would rest satisfied until the punishment of the courts was made to fit the crime of the offenders."

Its pious hopes that "no decent man who calls himself a Liberal" would rest satisfied until the punishment of the courts was made to fit the crime of the offenders," sounds well, but it is, judging from the events of the past, illusory.

The Globe itself, in equally strong language as that quoted above, condemned the barnacles which clung to the late Ship of State, but continued its support of those who cultivated and nourished the vampires who fed upon the very vitals of the country.

The men who call themselves Liberals, never punished the political scoundrels who plied their nefarious work in West Huron, West Elgin and Oxford, on the contrary, a mock enquiry was made in the one case, and the criminals rewarded in the others. Bole was packed off to a warm climate for his health, leaving his bondsmen to pay the face of their bonds, while Jackson was provided with a lucrative situation in England.

Not satisfied with rewarding the wrong-doers, in the manner indicated, these men, calling themselves Liberals, pardoned and released from jail the criminals who had been convicted and sentenced by the courts, at the instance of Conservatives; hence the expression of such a hope as that ventured by the Globe that no Liberal would be satisfied until the guilty were punished, is but the brawling of the Pharisee on the house-top.

The Kingston Election.

Another political battle has been fought in the Limestone City, and has resulted, as repeatedly predicted by that most correct of all political barometers, commercial travellers, in a victory for the Grits. True, the majority is but 34, which, for all practical purposes, is as effective as a thousand. Mr. Pense can boast of having doubled his majority. At the general election it was 17, now it is 34.

People are asking "How is this?" Commercial travellers, when asked for the reasons which led them to foreshadow a Conservative defeat in Kingston, replied, "It is the patronage question, a portion of the Conservative party of Kingston will not vote for a Whitney candidate for the reason that the numerous tribe of offensive Grit political officials, who have been using their positions for years in favor of Gritism, have not been dismissed. Remonstrance with them is useless." "I, for one," exclaimed one of them, the other day, "have voted Conservative ever since I had a vote; this time I will not vote, nor will I vote again until these barnacles have been sacked."

These are not valid reasons for refraining from voting, but have proved effective.

This feeling of discontent was, beyond doubt, intensified by the declaration of Mr. Whitney, in a speech made by him in Kingston just before the polling, that he would not be a party to the introduction of the spoils system in its entirety into Canada, as demanded by some.

In this Mr. Whitney was right. Such a declaration deserves the commendation of every admirer of British institutions.

A party in power should never practice that which it condemns in Opposition.

Such vicious practices belong to Grits, not to Conservatives.

Dear Mother

Your little ones are a constant care in Fall and Winter weather. They will catch cold. Do you know about Shiloh's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, and what it has done for so many? It is said to be the only reliable remedy for all diseases of the air passages in children. It is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take. It is guaranteed to cure or your money is returned. The price is 25c. per bottle, and all dealers in medicine sell 314

SHILOH
This remedy should be in every household.

TIMELY TOPICS.

It seems to be a case of Pense's Personal Popularity in Kingston.

People knew they were sure of good government, anyway, and one Grit more or less didn't make much difference.

• • •

Pity Mr. Corby could not bring a pyramid home from Egypt with him. It would look splendid on the Corby park.

• • •

As the Duke of Connaught is coming in the spring, why not try and get him to lay the corner stone of the new Public Library? It would be a great scheme.

• • •

Pretty nearly a month of the new year gone. It won't be long before the mosquitoes and bands will be tuning up on the park.

• • •

A Yankee electrical concern is looking for a free site in Canada. Why don't the Chairman of Industries offer them a few of the vacant lots the lawsuits have been about? When it comes to sites for industries, we've got 'em to burn.

• • •

An Oklahoma debating society will discuss this: "Resolved, That an untidy sloven will make a happier home than a tidy scold." If there were any of either of the above class of ladies in Belleville that would be a good topic for the Bridge St. debating society.

• • •

A Missouri young man has just married because someone dared him to. If it was the lady, she'll be sorry soon enough.

• • •

John D. Rockefeller and his wife have become officers of a Cleveland Sunday school. Their son had set them a good example.

• • •

A Shetland pony in Princeton, Ind., ate a gallon of bread yeast and started to grow. It soon attained great size and died. Can the manufacturer of the yeast use the incident as a testimonial to the value of his product?

• • •

A regiment of Yankee soldiers can't go to the Philippines because so many of the men are down with the measle, and the mumps. You'll hardly need to be told that it is an infantry regiment.

• • •

Buffalo Express: Perhaps the United States navy could whip the Japanese navy, but, for goodness sake, don't let us try it.

• • •

A shining light in the New York school world says that all teachers of very young children should be beautiful. They are, in Belleville.

• • •

A Syracuse physician reports that diseases lurk in the public schools. This no doubt explains the instinctive desire of some school children to stay away from the buildings.

• • •

A bulldog attacked the flywheel of an engine in a Lancaster (O.) factory and was not hurt. What a pity some bull dogs in this city would not tackle a buzz-saw.

• • •

Cincinnati friends of Representative Longworth are planning to give him and her a wedding present of a $12,000 team of high-stepping bays. But perhaps sweet Alice would rather have an automobile.

• • •

The mayor of Mount Vernon is suffering from blood poisoning as a result of shaking hands with constituents. There's a warning for a couple of our young aldermen when next election comes round.

• • •

The following from the Montreal Star is apropos when considered in connection with a celebrated case lately decided at Osgoode Hall, in which Bellevillians are interested; "The uncertainties of the law were fully illustrated on Saturday, when in confirming the judgment of the Superior Court, refusing an injunction to restain Messrs. Lombard and Neuillefond, and Madame Vasse from playing at the Theatre National, five judges of the Court of King's Bench came to five different conclusions."

OH, HERE! GENTLY!

(Hamilton Spectator.)

Last night in Toronto Evangelist Torrey asked: "Who knows whether you will wake up in Toronto, or wake up in hell? But, is there any difference?

• • •

Nearly 2,000,000 eggs are exported by France to England every year — the entente cordiale evidently does not keep the fowl French from laying for the English.

• • •

Which is right? The Globe's Ottawa correspondent says that Mr. Deroche, of Deseronto, has been appointed Senior Judge of Hastings. The Mail's correspondent says Junior Judge Harding, of Lindsay, has been promoted to the Senior Judgeship of Hastings. The Globe, having the entree to Government information, it may be taken for granted it is right, and that Hastings is honored by having an eminent legal luminary, who stands so high at the Bar, as its Senior Judge.

A telegram to The Intelligencer from Ottawa this afternoon confirms The Globe's report. Mr. Geo. E. Deroche is now Senior Judge of Hastings County.

Feel Badly?

Take Calisaya Hypophosphites and feel well.

$1.00 A BOTTLE.

—AT—

McKeown's DRUG STORE.

An Irish-Canadian Case

Mr. W. N. Ponton has been successful in defending an action brought by the Crown for the recovery of succession duties out of an estate in Ireland, which Mr. Ponton is administering for Canadian heirs. The Attorney-General and Solicitor-General for Ireland represented the Crown. Several Canadian cases cited were referred to with approval and on the 12th instant the full court in Dublin gave judgment for Mr. Ponton's clients, dismissing the Crown's information with costs and releasing the estate.

Late Mr. Bignall

Montreal Star: The death of Mr. Arthur E. Bignell, Inspector for the Merchants' Bank of Canada, occurred on Thursday last at Riverside, California, where he went recently for the benefit of his health.

Mr. Bignell was the fourth son of the late William Bignell, N. P., of Quebec, and brother of Mr. C. A. Bignell, of Montreal, and Mr. H. B. Bignell, of Quebec. Deceased entered the bank at an early age, and owing to his integrity and attention to business won the warm esteem and confidence of the management. It is expected that the remains will arrive in Quebec on Thursday, the funeral taking place from his brother's residence to the family burial place, Mount Hermon cemetery.

Entertained by the President.

The members of the Quinte Musical Club were last evening entertained to an oyster supper by the President of the organization, Mr. H. W. Ackerman. The event took place at Mr Jas. Wallace's restaurant, and proved to be a most enjoyable affair. The President occupied the chair and Mayor Sulman the vice-chair. After supper an hour was pleasantly spent in listening to brief addresses by those present, and songs which were given by Chief Newton and Messrs. S. E. Lennox and J. H. Harte. The singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem closed the proceedings.

WHAT CAUSES APPENDICITIS.

The commonest cause of appendicitis is constipation. When you require physic don't use cheap, drastic pills—get Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which strengthen the stomach, regulate the bowels and prevent any tendency to appendicitis. In one day you'll feel the tremendous benefit of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. By purifying the blood and cleansing the system they prevent headaches, lift depression and drive away weariness. No medicine so successful as Dr. Hamilton's Pills, sold everywhere in 25c boxes with yellow cover; get the genuine.

Delicate Children

The children cannot possibly have good health unless the bowels are in proper condition. A sluggish liver gives a coated tongue, bad breath, constipated bowels. Correct all these by giving small doses of Ayer's Pills. Genuine liver pills, gently laxative, all vegetable, sugar-coated.
We have no secrets! We publish the formulas of all our medicines.
J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

At Sign of the Scales.

CHARGED WITH NON-SUPPORT.

A charge of neglecting to provide the necessaries of life for his wife and children and thereby endangering their lives was preferred against Wm. Graves of this city. The accused was to have appeared before the Magistrate this morning, but he did not do so. The service of summons was proved and Mrs. Graves stated that she had not seen her husband since 5 o'clock last evening. The County Attorney requested a warrant to be issued for Graves' arrest and the Magistrate complied. The accused has previously been charged with a similar offence and was allowed to go upon promises of doing better.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

"HIS HIGHNESS THE BEY" TO-NIGHT.

Mabel McCane, the famous prima donna and the most lavishly gowned woman on the American stage, will be seen here as "Georgia" in "His Highness the Bey," the musical comedy furore which has just closed a five months' run in Chicago. Miss McCane is surrounded by the very cream of musical comedy talent and there has never been a greater singing and acting company assembled together than that to appear here to-night at the Carman opera house. The production, as it will be seen here, is the original augmented scenic and electrical production used in Chicago for five months and is complete in the minutest detail. The original augmented scenic and electrical production is used and the cast is headed by Phil W. Peters, Mabel McCane and Ursula Marsh.

A Pleasant Evening

A very spirited debate took place last evening at the St. Andrew's Literary Guild on the subject of extending the franchise to women. Misses Harris and Rollins argued that women should have the right to vote, while Messrs. W. B. Walker and Comyn supported the contrary idea. The debate was followed by an open discussion and the house voted in the affirmative. Some music and songs added to the enjoyment of a very pleasant evening.

The End Not Yet

W. N. Ponton, Esq., we understand, went to Toronto to-day on legal business connected with the appeal in the action of Phillips vs. Belleville and Caldwell, the end of which, it appears, is not yet.

To Be Inducted

A meeting of the Presbytery of Kingston will be held in the Church of the Redeemer, Deseronto, on Friday, 2nd February, at 7.30 p.m., for the induction of Rev. Mr. Currie, called to be minister of said church. The Moderator of Presbytery, Rev. Mr. Binnie, of Tweed, will preside. Rev. Mr. Shearer, of Picton, will preach the induction service. Rev. Mr. Drumm will address the newly-inducted minister. Rev. Mr. Laidlaw will deliver the address to the people.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take "Laxative Bromo" Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c.

Died in Hungerford

A well-known farmer of Hungerford township died yesterday evening in the person of James A. Elliott, who resided in the sixth concession, midway between Tweed and Thomasburg. He had been ill but a short time. He is survived by his widow (formerly a Miss Montgomery, of Rawdon), and one son, Milton. Deceased was 50 years of age, and was the last surviving member of the family of the late John Elliott. In religion he was a Methodist and in politics a staunch Conservative. The funeral took place to-day under Orange auspices.

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

To-day, fresh southwest to northwest winds; mostly fair and mild. To-morrow, stationary or a little lower temperature.

OUR

assortment of choice Bon Bons and Chocolates was never more complete than it is this year.

Your Christmas Presents will not be complete without a nice box of our Candy, prices from 25c to $2.00 per box.

JAS. WALLACE & CO.

They will Adjust Themselves

to a wide range of circumstances — the eyes — will stand lots of hard work, and get along with very little attention.

When they do complain, it is usually the result of their being overworked. They are calling for a rest.

They ache, smart, burn, probably you are subject to headaches, which you never think of attributing to your eyes.

If you are bothered, call on us. We shall gladly inform you regarding their state, and there is no more THOROUGH or reliable examination to be had in Canada.

Angus McFee
Phone 128.
The Store With the Big Clock

At Wallbridge & Clarke's
CANNED GOODS.
Best Brands Popular Prices.

Tomatoes
Selected Corn
Sugar Corn
Sweet Wrinkle Peas
Sifted Peas
Extra Sifted Peas
Imported French Peas
Golden Wax Beans
Refugee Beans
Broad Windsor Beans
Red Kidney Beans
Baked Beans
Peaches
Raspberries
Strawberries
Pineapples

Asparagus
Squash
Pumpkin
Beets
Mushrooms
Lima Beans
Spinach

etc., etc.

Jams & Jellies All Fruits English Canadian Glass Jars

Flour Popular Brands AT Popular Prices.

Ogilvies' Ladies' Favorite.
Five Roses Crown Jewel.
Family Diadem.
White Lily.
etc.,

Extra Value in
DELICIOUS TEAS and COFFEE

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of them magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

The Everstick Rubber
Is Light and Durable.
THEY WILL PLEASE YOU.

We can fit your boots with
RUBBERS or OVERSHOES.

VERMILYEA & SON

FOR A GOOD CUP OF TEA
USE
"SALADA"
Ceylon Tea because for QUALITY and FLAVOR
It has no Equal.
Sold only in Sealed Lead Packets at 25c, 30c, 40c, 50c, and 60c per lb.
ALL GROCERS.
Highest Award St. Louis, 1904

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage, 50c each insertion.

Death notice, 50c, or when funeral notices included, $1.00.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Weekly Intelligencer $1.00 a year; Daily Intelligencer $3.00 a year; strictly cash in advance.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E & J. Hardy & Co.'s office, 39 Fleet St., London, E. C.

Intelligencer

WANT ADS.

Advertisements under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for each insertion, and one cent for each additional word, 4 insertions, 75c; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales which will be published at two cents per word. Count $ marks and figures as one word each.

WANTED.

Wanted Canvassers. Best Sample case, best tea, best terms. Alfred Tyler, London, Ontario.

Wanted—A printer at once, male or female. Steady position.—The Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont. d&wtf

Wanted.—Agents to solicit subscriptions to The Weekly Intelligencer with their four magazine premiums—5 papers, all for one year, $1.00. Liberal terms. Good money for sharp canvassers. Get samples. Send for terms.—The Weekly Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont. o5d&wtf

Wedding Bells

GARRETT—PETERSON.

A pleasant event took place at the home of Mr. Willis Pettingill, near Wellington, on the afternoon of Jan. 25th, 1906, when Mrs. Pettingill's sister, Miss Rose, youngest daughter of the late Rev. A. L. Peterson, was married to Mr. Wilbur H. Garrett, of Vancouver, B.C. While her sister was playing the wedding march, the bride, attired in her going-away gown, carrying a bouquet of bridal roses, entered leaning on the arm of her uncle, Capt. N. A. Peterson. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. W. McColl. While the friends were offering congratulations, Mrs. Johnston, cousin of the bride, sang sweetly, "Abide with Us." After luncheon the young couple left on the afternoon train for their home in the west, amid showers of rice. The friends present from out of town were Capt. and Mrs. N. A. Peterson, Belleville; Mrs. (Dr.) Johnston, Merrickville, and Miss Ida McCrudden, Belleville.

Use Whitewash.

Whitewash is a mighty good thing for the farmer to use around his farm buildings. It is a good disinfectant and makes things look brighter and neater. Before winter sets in the inside of cow and horse stalls should be given a coat of this material. The best way to put it in is with a spraying apparatus, the same as used for spraying fruit trees. The whitewash should not be made too thick, and it can be put on very evenly. In the chicken house is a good place to use this mixture as it will help keep out lice and disease.

Use quicklime for making the whitewash. Pour water over the lime and let it slack. Add enough water to the slacked lime to make the wash the proper consistency and it is ready to use. Some claim that the addition of salt adds to its adhesive qualities. If the wash is to be used in a sprayer it should be strained through burlap or some coarse cloth before using, or it will clog the sprayer.

To Subscribers.

SUBSCRIBERS IN ARREARS for The Daily Intelligencer must positively have their subscription FULLY PAID AND ONE MONTH IN ADVANCE by Feb. 1st, otherwise the Company will be compelled to take their names from the lists. 27-4t

Literary Notes.

FEBRUARY CANADIAN MAGAZINE

There are some features in the February Canadian Magazine which will justify attention. The most spectacular of these is a series of photographs of Rocky Mountain Wild Flowers contributed by Julia W. Henshaw. These were taken at high altitudes around Banff and Field, and are wonderfully well done. Albert R. Carman has a well-illustrated article on "Wall Paintings in Europe," showing what may be done to decorate the corridors of public buildings. The leading literary contribution is an article by Professor Goldwin Smith on "English Poetry and English History," showing how the poetry of the various periods has conformed to the contemporaneous phases of national life. Professor Keys contributes a valuable essay, entitled "Canadian Monographs on English Literature," reviewing the work of Crozier, Anderson, Schofield, Fairchild and Wallace—names none too well-known, yet those of Canadian scholars who have won recognition abroad. The short stories by W. A. Fraser and Virna Sheard are excellent, while the departments are filled with suggestive material. Jean Graham's comments on "What Women Fear" show more than ordinary ability to estimate human character as it manifests itself in this country.

THE NEW PRESIDENT OF FRANCE

Clement Armand Fallieres has been President of the Senate since 1889. He is in his sixty-fifth year, and comes of humble, though not peasant stock. Beginning life as a country barrister, he went into politics and was elected to the Chamber of Deputies in 1876, where he soon distinguished himself. He has been Minister of the Interior, Senator and Premier, and is generally regarded as a man of good, sound, moderate views, a worthy successor to Emile Loubet. Politics really played no part in his election. He and M. Paul Doumer are equally republican in their sentiments, and the result of the election has been merely a choice of person, by which the somewhat safer man has been preferred to the more brilliant. M Fallieres will make an excellent President of the French republic.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for February.

SPECIAL RATES TO NEW ORLEANS

For the Mardi Gras Festivities at New Orleans, La. The very low rate of One-way first-class fare, plus $2.25 for the round trip, will be in effect. Good going February 21st to 26th, valid returning on or before March 3rd. Call on agents of Grand Trunk Railway for full particulars. 30.6t

Popular Young Lady Ill

Her many friends in this city will regret to hear that Miss Pearl Vane, the well-known fancy worker of this city, is dangerously ill with pneumonia at Bancroit. It was said yesterday that her recovery was despaired of.

TO CATARRH SUFFERERS.

HYOMEI CURES BY BREATHING MEDICATED AIR.

The popularity and increase in the sales of Hyomei are unique in the annals of medicine. Such astonishing cures have been made by this remedy that its sale is steadily increasing every year.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00 and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket a medicine dropper, and a bottle of Hyomei. The inhaler lasts a lifetime, and if one bottle does not cure, an extra bottle of Hyomei can be obtained for 50 cents. It is the most economical of all remedies advertised for the cure of catarrh, and is the only one that follows Nature in her methods of treating diseases of the respiratory organs.

Breathe through the inhaler for a few minutes four times a day, and your catarrh is cured. That's all.

If you cannot obtain Hyomei of your dealer it will be forwarded by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price. Write to-day for consulation blank that will entitle you to services of our medical department without charge. The R. T. Booth Company, Hyomei Building, Ithaca, N. Y.

7 Sutherland Sisters. . .
Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner . .
THE IDEAL HAIR DRESSING'S
PRICE 50 CTS.
WATERS' DRUG STORE.

Sir John A. Macdonald And Confederation.

"ONE WHO WAS THERE" CONTRADICTS SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT.

The following letter recently appeared in the Mail and Empire:

Sir,—The extraordinary deliverance of Sir Richard Cartwright on the 20th instant before the Canadian Club seems to call for some comment. He makes two points, first, that Brown, Cartier and Galt were the real Fathers of Confederation, and that Sir John Macdonald was coerced into joining them; second, that at the time (1864) there was no Northwest, so far as we know. * * "As a matter of fact, Confederation was brought about without any thought or reference to the acquisition of that great territory."

On March 30th, 1864, the Tache-Macdonald Government was sworn in. It was the last of the "deadlock" Governments, which for three or four years had each only lasted a few months. Sir Etienne Tache has left it on record that "John A." was reluctant to join, but his assistance was indispensable. His following in Upper Canada was only 13 or 14. It was soon found that the Government was no stronger than those preceding it, and the neck-and-neck struggle threatened to continue. The Government was defeated on June 14th, 1864, two and one-half months after its formation. Then negotiations for a coalition were entered into, which, all parties being alarmed at the state of affairs, resulted in the formation of the Government, which carried Confederation. The negotiations extended only over a week. The Ministerial explanations were read in the House by Hon. John A. Macdonald, on June 22nd, 1864, and I can certify that both Mr. Brown and Sir Richard Cartwright were present. They (the explanations), of course, are of record.

At the meeting between Messrs. Macdonald, Galt and Brown, on June 17th, "Mr. Brown asked what the Government proposed as a remedy for the injustice complained of by Upper Canada as a settlement of the sectional trouble. Mr. Macdonald and Mr. Galt replied that their remedy was a Federal union of all British North American provinces, local matters being committed to local bodies, and matters common to all to a general Legislature."

Mr. Brown rejoined that "this would not be acceptable to the people of Upper Canada, as a remedy for existing evils; that he believed that federation of all the provinces ought to come and would come about ere long, but it had not yet been thoroughly considered by the people, and even were this otherwise, there were so many parties to be consulted that its adoption was uncertain and remote."

Mr. Brown was asked for his remedy, and answered: "Parliamentary reform based on population, without regard to a separating line between Upper and Lower Canada." Mr. Macdonald and Mr. Galt said it was "impossible for them to accede or for any Government to carry such a measure." Mr. Brown then asked for the views of the Administration in writing, and accordingly, after passing Council and being submitted to the Governor-General, a memorandum was handed to Mr. Brown. That, of course, is of record in the archives of the Privy Council, to which Sir Richard has access. It states: "(1). The Government are prepared. After prorogation they will address themselves in the most earnest manner to the negotiation for a Confederation of all the British North American provinces. (2) Failing, * * they are prepared to pledge themselves to legislation during next session for the purpose of remedying existing difficulties by introducing the Federal principle for Canada alone, coupled with such provisions as will permit the Maritime Provinces and THE NORTHWEST TERRITORY TO BE HEREAFTER INCORPORATED INTO THE CANADIAN SYSTEM." The rest is taken up with discussions as to forming the new coalition Cabinet.

What, in the face of this official record, becomes of Sir Richard's two points? As to the rest, there was no time during the short period which bridged the crisis for any of that coercion, and pressure on "John A." which Sir Richard now so vainly imagines.

In 1865 Sir Richard was enthusiastic in describing the manner in which Sir John A. Macdonald managed Mr. Brown, but that was before the Commercial Bank failure, and the second advent of Sir Francis Hincks. Since then his mind has been perverted by reading exclusively of the Globe, and taking his cue from such works as "The Life of George Brown" and also that of Mackenzie, instead of examining the record.

Sir John was right in 1865, as he generally was. Speaking of Sir Richard Cartwright, he said: "His ability is much underestimated, but he draws on his imagination with fatal facility."

Yours, etc.,
ONE WHO WAS THERE.
Jan. 23, 1906.

BRUSHES
A brush that bears on its handle the name of an old-established and reliable maker, such as Boeckh, is sure to be superior to unknown or nameless varieties. The name is the manufacturer's guarantee of value. If you want the best in brushes ask for Boeckh's

A BALD NEWSPAPER MAN.
Getting a New Crop of Hair, and Has No More Dandruff.
Everybody in the Northwest knows Col. Daniel Searles, the veteran journalist and publicist of Butte. Jan. 10, 1906, the Colonel writes: "I used a couple of bottles of Newbro's Herpicide with marvellous results. The dandruff disappeared; a new crop of hair has taken root, and the bald spot is rapidly being covered." Herpicide is the only hair preparation that kills the dandruff germ that digs up the scalp in scales as it burrows its way to the root of the hair, causing the hair to fall out. Kill the dandruff germ with Herpicide.
Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. J. S. McKeown, special agent.

TRIUMPH FOR X RAYS

AFFECTED KIDNEY REMOVED FROM BODY AND EXAMINED.

New York, Jan. 29.—The Sun publishes the following: An operation with an unusual feature was performed yesterday at Roosevelt Hospital. A private patient had been suffering for some time with stone in the kidney. The exact location of obstructions to this sort is sometimes determined by the X-rays before the etherization of the patient. The surgeon in charge of the case decided yesterday to find the stone, which was very small, by putting the organ to the rays after taking it out of the body.

The patient, after being etherized, was laid face down. About a dozen medical men were present. It was essential that the operation should be swift. A sweep of the knife over the affected part revealed the kidney. Within a minute the surgeon had the kidney out as far as he could get it readily. He held it in his hand as if it were not an essential possession of the unconscious gentleman prone below it, and with the fluoroscope found the almost microscopic stone, to which the lance opened a channel. A moment later the forceps gripped the little stone and the attending doctors were inspecting it.

Within about seven minutes after the first stroke of the knife the kidney had been put back in place and the lips of the slit in the back sewn together. Fifteen minutes later the patient was back in his room.

The operation is said to be one of the first in which an affected organ has been searched by X-rays after removal from the body. Its quickness and thoroughness, it was said by a doctor present, were assurances of its success. The same doctor said he did not see why the liver, or some other vital organs, could not be examined in the same thorough manner. The operation seemed to him to presage splendid possibilities in surgery.

Wherever Tuck's Rheumatic Bone Oil has been introduced everybody is talking about its wonderful curative powers. Here is what one sufferer writes:
A LETTER OF THANKS.
Dear Sirs,—I want everyone to know what Tuck's Bone Oil did for me. I suffered for a year and nine months from a sore leg and at times the pain was almost unbearable. If I moved about the house I was obliged to go with my knee on a chair. I was under the doctor's care for months, and was six weeks in the ——— hospital from which my husband brought me home not much improved. A neighbor told me of Tuck's Bone Oil and advised me to try it. I did so and at once began to get relief. Four bottles cured me and I can now walk over town and back again at my ease. I think Tuck's Bone Oil is the best medicine ever made.
MRS. J. HOPKINS,
Smith's Falls.
For rheumatism, lame back, neuralgia, sprains, coughs, colds, quinsy or bronchitis, in short for any and all kinds of inflammation there is nothing to equal Tuck's Bone Oil. A bottle should be on the shelf in every home. For sale by all medicine dealers at 50c a bottle or sent prepaid by The Tuck Bone Oil Co., Limited, Smith's Falls, Ont.

The Mild Winter of 1832

(Lewiston Journal.)

The oldest inhabitant came into the office the other day and remarked that as an average winter this was exceedingly severe. "Speaking of warm winters," said he: "Do you recall the winter of 1832? In that winter I went to school from December until March barefoot, with nothing on but linen pants and a cotton shirt. And it was so hot sometimes during recess, that I took off my shirt. In that winter, Christmas day, I picked eight quarts of ripe strawberries in a field opposite my father's house, in the town of Turner, and very nearly had a sunstroke. It was so warm that winter that they forgot to hold the annual State Legislater at Augusta, By gum!" added our faithful chronicler, "I never see sooch nights as we had for heat. I slept all winter 'thout no bed clothes, an' the skeeters bit fearful!"

"NEARER, MY GOD, TO THEE."

WOMEN ON WRECKED STEAMER VALENCIA SANG FAMOUS HYMN AS THEY WAITED FOR DEATH TO COME.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 27. — Stories reaching Seattle from the wave-swept Valencia surpass in dramatic horror and tragedy any tale of the sea the Pacific coast has known in years. The Valencia, which was trapped at the foot of a towering cliff and held fast in the clutches of a reef, has been fairly pounded to fragments by giant waves.

Those who did not die in the first hours if the disaster were left to prolonged and terrible sufferings, clinging to the rigging without food or water, many of them with thin, insufficient garments, and being swept off at last, one by one.

Two lifeboats and a raft load of sufferers have been saved. Those on the raft tell incredible stories of suffering, both on board the Valencia and on their own frail craft, adrift in the storm. Somewhere at sea is another raft load of men and women adrift, and relief boats are scouring the coast in search.

A total of thirty-five men and women have been picked up adrift and three men are reported ashore near the wreck. This leaves a death roll of about 116.

The story of the last hours on the doomed steamer will go down as a supreme tragedy of the sea. Apparently Captain Johnson elected to die rather than go ashore with the awful memories of his mistake to blast his life. Late despatches tonight say that he refused any chance of rescue and would not put out a life line. One of the survivors says that the Valencia's first officer carefully loaded his revolver with the avowed intention of killing himself when rescue was beyond any possibility.

According to the survivors' story, the captain was heartbroken over the great loss of life attending the wreck. With drawn face and clinging to the rigging with the passengers, he thought only of those with him, and time and again prayed for assistance.

"My God, send relief to my passengers," Captain Johnson was heard to say just before the life rafts left the steamer.

Passengers and crew during the night prior to the departure of the life rafts, according to those saved, begged Captain Johnson to place a life belt about his waist. This he persistently refused to do. In spite of the fact that those near him begged him to think of his family and friends, he would not do a single thing to help his condition.

Most shocking of all is the death suffered by most of the women passengers. These huddled on the hurricane deck or were assisted to the rigging, and clung there all day long, most of the time buried under sweeping waves that bombarded the stern and sides and swept clear over the hull.

One of these, conscious of the approaching end, started the hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee." She sang on and on, repeating the glorious old hymn even as she grew weaker and weaker. Others took up the strain and sang, and soon the whole company joined in the harmony. These women lashed or clinging desperately to the rigging, furnish the most pathetic figures in the dark record.

When the steamer Queen hove in sight off the coast one of the women in the rigging took off her underskirt and waved it desperately as a signal. When this failed, a match was ignited and the skirt fired, and when this signal was unheeded the unfortunates seemed to realize that the forlorn hope had gone.

The majority of the women had refused to go in the lifeboats, believing escape by water hopeless, and elected instead to trust to the rigging. To-night it is believed not one of them remains alive.

Those who had the courage to embark on the raft and were saved say the women displayed the finest courage and aided in every way those who were disposed to abandon themselves to despair. Even before the raft and the boats left the Valencia, many of the little band in the rigging had been swept overboard and lost.

"When the time came for the lifeboats to leave the Valencia yesterday," said Captain Gibbs, of the City of Topeka, "the officers ordered all the women to take to the rafts. The survivors say that in spite of the fact that the Valencia was beginning to break up the women refused to go on the rafts or in the lifeboats, stating that they would take their chances with the ship rather than leave.

"The officers did all they could to impress upon their minds the fact that there was little chance for help after the last boats had gone."

THE SOURCE OF NEURALGIA.
It runs hand in hand with poor blood and weak nerves. Health runs down, nerves get irritable, neuralgic torture follows. For the moment applications may relieve—but to thoroughly cure, the system must be strengthened with nutritious blood. What can equal Ferrozone? It increases the appetite, forms abundance of rich, life-giving blood, supplies nutriment and building material for worn-out nerves. Ferrozone completely cures neuralgia. Every root and branch of the disease it kills. Absolute success in every case. Stop suffering — fifty cents buys Ferrozone. Fifty chocolate-coated tablets in a box at any drug store.

The coming man is generally a good advertiser.

Indispensable in Winter.
There's a need in every home for
GRAY'S SYRUP OF RED SPRUCE GUM
A few doses, at the first sign of a cold, will allay all throat irritation—take away hoarseness—check the inflammation—strengthen the lungs—ward off the cough.
All the healing, soothing, curative properties of Canadian Spruce Gum—combined with aromatics. Pleasant to take. 25 cts. bottle.

TOOK HIS ADVICE.

ELOPED WITH HIS EMPLOYER'S DAUGHTER AND MARRIED HER.

The late Bishop Thomas Frederick Davies, of Detroit, said a Detroit man, once told me an interesting story of an elopement. He figured in this elopement as the officiating clergyman. It was in Philadelphia, during his rectorship of St. Peter's.

"It seems that the proprietor of one of the largest dry goods houses in Philadelphia had noticed for some months the melancholy of his head clerk, a young man whom he held in high regard.

"The clerk's pallor and increasing leanness, his frequent sighs and absent-mindedness worried the millionaire proprietor. He questioned the young man daily. And finally the clerk admitted to him that he was in love.

"Well," said the head, "marry her. Your salary is big enough."

"Ah," said the clerk, sadly, "you don't understand. She belongs to one of the first families of Philadelphia and her father is a millionaire."

"Well, maybe he wasn't when he married. You have a good position and a good name. You are a fair match for any girl," said the other.

"It's no use," sighed the clerk. "Her parents would not listen to me for one moment."

"Then," said the head, "elope with her."

"Do you advise that?" the clerk asked, excitedly.

"Certainly, I do. Is she—do I know her?"

"Yes. She will be at your dance at Devon to-morrow night."

"Well, see here," said the head, "I'll have my coachman out in front of my gate at 9.30. Rush the girl off into the town and marry her. I'll arrange with a clergyman for you."

"By jove," said the clerk, "I'll do it."

And he did. The next night Dr. Davies performed the ceremony and an hour or two later the millionaire found his daughter missing and was telegraphing in every direction to the young couple to come home and all would be forgiven.

CHILLS PROVE FATAL!
If warmth and circulation are not promptly restored, chills result in fatal pneumonia. This necessitates keeping Nerviline on hand. Taken in hot water it breaks up a chill in two minutes. By rubbing freely over throat and chest it prevents colds. No liniment so strong, so penetrating, so swift to kill pain and inflammation. Nearly fifty-two years' record has proved the value of Polson's Nerviline. You should get a bottle to-day.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charge at less than twenty-five words.

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

WANTED.

A printer at once, male or female. Steady position. — The Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont. 23-d&wtf

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED at Intelligencer office by J. D. Ford. Also at residence, Murney St.

Over Six Million Dollars of new business was written by The Mutual Life Company of Canada during the last year—the largest amount ever written by the Company in any one year of its history. —Burrows of Belleville, General Agent.

A number of the members of Maiden City Lodge of 'Prentice Boys will this evening pay a fraternal visit to the Trenton lodge.

Brockville Times: There was an extraordinary run of freight over the G.T.R. system yesterday. At one time in the morning there were nine trains on the way from Montreal to Brockville and a like number for Brockville out of Belleville yards. All kinds of motive power were pressed into service to handle the rush.

Mr. Librarian Walker has a small boys' overcoat which was left in the Library last night. The owner can have it on application.

COUGHERS, HAWKERS, SPITTERS!
Public expectoration is against the common law, against the laws of health also. When the throat tickles, that's the time you need "Catarrhozone"; it soothes away the irritation, cuts out the phlegm and loosens the tight feeling. You'll quickly cure that catarrh and throat trouble with Catarrhozone. It positively prevents new attacks and cures catarrh forever and for all time to come. Don't take our word for it; try Catarrhozone yourself. Once used you'll be delighted with its pleasant and helpful influence.

HIS EXPLANATION.

LITTLE GRACE JEFFERSON'S FATHER AND THE LETTER FROM TORONTO WHICH HAD THE LINDSAY POSTMARK.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer;

Sir,—I have just got information that you kindly published little Grace's letter in your paper before Christmas to Santa Claus, asking to find her papa. I can tell you I am well-known by all the officers of the Deaf Mute School, because I married one of their graduates. You mentioned there was a post office mark from Lindsay on Grace's letter, and I found out that the letter was sent to a lady at Lindsay, first not to send it if she found me, and I having left Lindsay the lady put the enclosed letter and envelope in Lindsay post office, and in reply to the Latta correspondent, respecting one address in Toronto and the other in London, Ontario, I say we lived in Toronto for 15 years, and some household effects are stored there, when our London address is a temporary one, having lived there 18 months. I think it is not right for the Chief of Police of London to wire to some papers that it was a fake, because we still owe $40.00 for rent and debts, and I send a circular and you will see some visitors called to see Grace and her mother and found all correct and no fake. If the people of Canada kindly collected $35,000 and gave it as a Christmas box to ex-Premier Ross, I ask what difference is there for a little, poor, innocent girl asking good Santa Claus to help her mother. The Daily Free Press of London, Ontario, kindly collected $10, and I regret the Daily Advertiser, of London, Ontario, is so unreasonable to call little Grace "A Wily Youngster." She is only eight years old and goes to Sunday school, and it is found she learned about good Santa Claus in the school and she innocently wrote the little letter, not knowing it would be copied in other papers. My daughter, little Grace, told only the truth.

F. G. JEFFERSON,
Barrie, Ontario.

NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS.

FURNISHED BY J. R. HEINTZ & CO.'S LOCAL OFFICE.

STOCK	New York, Jan. 30 Op'g	Close
Atchison	91⅝	91⅞
do pref	...	...
B & O	114⅛	114⅛
C O	58	58¾
C.P.R.	170⅞	170⅞
Ere	47	47
do pref	82	81⅞
C. G. W.	21⅜	21⅜
Ills C.	176⅛	176⅞
K. T.	37⅛	36⅞
L & N.	149⅞	149⅞
Soo	...	...
hop	102	101⅞
N Y C	142⅞	148⅞
Nor	89⅛	90⅝
O W	54⅝	53⅞
Penn	143	142⅞
R I	24⅛	25⅜
Reading	140⅛	136
St. Paul	184⅛	184⅞
Sou Pac	67⅝	68⅝
Sou. Ry	40⅝	40⅝
Union Pac	153	153⅞
Texas	36⅝	35⅝
Wab.	...	...
do pref	45⅝	45⅜
W C	29⅝	28⅞
W C pref.	58⅝	59⅝
B.R.T.	87⅝	86⅝
Met.	122	121⅞
Manhattan	162⅞	159⅞
T. W.	118⅝	118
A. C. P.	110⅛	109
Alo.	72	74⅝
Sugar	147⅞	146⅞
P. O.	99⅝	98⅞
T. C. I.	55	55⅝
U. S. Steel	42	43
do pref	109⅛	109⅞
W. U.	93⅝	93⅞
A. F.	43⅞	43⅝
C.F.I.	73	67⅝

May wheat opened at 85⅛ closed at 85⅛
July wheat opened at 83⅛; closed at 84
Ma corn opened at 44⅛ closed at 44⅞
July corn opened at 41⅛ closed at 44⅞
May Oats opened at 30⅞; closed at 31
Jan. pork opened at 14.12 closed at 14.12

STOCKS, BONDS, GRAIN, PROVISIONS, ETC.
J. R. Heintz & Co.
Established, 1879.
Members New York Consolidated Stock Exchange, New York Produce Exchange Branch Office—52 Bridge St.
'Phone 80

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

After the trials of a shopping trip or a round of calls, there is nothing that will freshen you up so quickly as a cup of hot BOVRIL.

All the flavor, essence, nutriment and all that's food in prime beef is concentrated in BOVRIL.

Once you realize the economy of BOVRIL you'll always have it in your kitchen. 106

BOVRIL

The Man Who Knows
"Maple Leaf"
Rubber Quality
Has no Desire to try other MAKES.
Are the Lightest
AND LAST THE LONGEST.
The J. J. Haines
SHOE HOUSES –Belleville. Napanee & Trenton.

ICE CREAM SODA

We are serving Ice Cream Soda this winter as well as the Ice Cream.

A delicious drink we are serving now is a Chocolate Soda made from Lowney's Gold Medal Chocolate.

It is manufactured by an improved process which preserves all the nutritive qualities of the Cocoa Bean and makes a delicious drink either in a soda or hot chocolate.

Ed. F. Dickens.
CATERER

SAFE INVESTMENTS
LOW EXPENSE
THE CARDINAL POINTS
—OF—
THE DOMINION LIFE
Head Office: Waterloo, Ont,
P. H. SIMS, S.B. BRICKER, HON. SENATOR McMULLEN
Vice-Presidents.
THOS. HILLIARD. President and Managing Director.
FRED HALSTEAD. Supt. of Agencies.
LOW MORTALITY
HIGH AVERAGE INTEREST RATE

Two Kinds of Ambition.

Men have two kinds of ambition, one for dollar making, the other for life making. Some turn all their ability, education, health and energy toward the first of these, dollar making, and call the result success. Others turn them toward the second—into character, usefulness, helpfulness—life making, and the world sometimes calls them failures, but history calls them successes. No price is too great to pay for an untarnished name.—O. S. Marden in Success Magazine.

His Usury.

"Now, Willie," said the boy's mother, "before you go to sleep you must try to recall any little sin you committed during the day and be truly sorry for it." "Yes, ma'am," replied Willie, "I guess I was guilty of usury, for one thing." "Usury?" "Yes'm; I found a nickel and used it."

A Rule of Life.

In all the affairs of life let it be your great care not to hurt your mind or offend your judgment. And this rule, if observed carefully in all your deportment, will be a mighty security to you in your undertakings.

MASCULINE DIMPLES.

They Are Not Always Appreciated by Their Owners.

"Dimples are just as common among men as among women," says a New York beauty doctor, "only they don't show off to such good advantage. Beard and mustache combine to hide their charm. Anyhow, men are not proud of dimples. They consider them a sign of effeminacy. Now that smooth faces are the fashion, the man with a dimple in cheek or chin is hard put to it to hide that beauty mark. In his extremity he seeks relief from me.

"'What can I do with these confounded dimples?' he asks.

"'Take 'em out,' I advise.

"'Can you do it?' he asks.

"'Sure,' says I.

"'All right,' says he, 'go ahead.'

"Then I begin treatment. In the past year I have removed sets of dimples from men's faces that any woman of their acquaintance would have paid $100 for. All men with money to spend patronize the beauty doctor more shamelessly than they used to, but of all the miracles they wish performed there is none they insist upon so stoutly as the removal of dimples."—Exchange.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

A BACTERIOLOGICAL NIGHTMARE.

(Washington Star.)

Microbes in the water,
Microbes in the air;
Microbes in the pie and cake,
Microbes everywhere!
Laying for you in the cold,
Likewise in the heat;
Every time you draw your breath
Or stop to drink or eat.

In horrid consternation
I vainly try to sleep;
I know that through the casement
Bacilli strive to creep;
Though as creation's mighty lords
We swagger and pretend,
The microbe seems to be the one
Who triumphs in the end.

* * *

Four admirals were killed in the explosion of the battleship Aquidaban. And at this distance it does seem as if the Brazilians ought to have some easier way of discharging admirals than that.

* * *

The inborn French courtesy you read about is undergoing a severe test at Montreal, where M. Oliver Asselin, of Le Nationaliste has just called M. Jules Helbronner of La Presse a Judas Iscariot.

* * *

As France and Germany cannot agree to agree, what a pity they will not agree to differ, and then go home and attend to their own business, or milk the cows, or do something useful.

* * *

Gaynor and Greene say they came to Canada because they wanted to. It is commonly reported that they went back home because they didn't want to.

* * *

Walnut, a most valuable wood of extremely rapid growth, has almost entirely disappeared from Canada. How many land-owners have enough good will for those to whom their lands must go to cover a portion of them with such a splendid asset as a walnut grove?

* * *

Ireland is to hold a world's fair in 1907. It will embody the results of the industrial revival which has swept over that island during the past decade. A large plot of ground in Dublin has been purchased, work will be begun on the buildings in a few weeks, and in the summer of next year the Emerald Isle will invite the world to come and visit it.

* * *

LEARNING RAILROAD WAYS.

(Omaha Bee.)

A small boy who recognizes that he lives in an important railroad centre, has been accustomed to visiting the yards and making friends with the railway men of the company. He persuaded his aunt to play train with him the other day. He arranged the chairs in a line and then said;

"You be engineer and I'll be conductor. Lend me your watch and get up into the cab." He then hurried down the platform, timepiece in hand.

"Pull out, you red-headed, pie-faced jay," he shouted at the astonished young woman.

"Why, Willie," she exclaimed in amazement.

"That's right, chew the rag,' he retorted. "Pull out. We are five minutes late already."

The boy is not allowed to fraternize with railroad men any more.

* * *

There is no limit to the versatility of a climate that can produce anything in January from dog-days to a blizzard.

* * *

If the weather doesn't suit you,
Wait a little while,
If the sun becomes depressing
With its ardent smile,
There's a blizzard way out yonder
That is overdue,
There will be a brand-new climate
In an hour or two.

If you're weary of the sleigh bells
Jingling in the street,
If your feelings wax indignant
At the snow and sleet,
Just be patient. In a jiffy
Skies grow bright and blue,
Maybe you will have a sunstroke
In an hour or two.

* * *

The Pullman Company will issue no more free passes. It is hoped that the increased revenues thus gained will warrant the company in paying the salaries of its porters instead of asking the travelling public to do it.

* * *

(U. S. railroads will, it is said, make over $1,000,000 by doing away with passes.)

For years the railroad owner led a sad and hapless life;
His family had little food, ill-clad were babes and wife,
And why was his so hard a fate, a life so filled with care?
Because so many people rode who never paid their fare.

But times have undergone a change,
he's now enough to eat,
And wife and babes have sturdy shoes and clothing new and neat.
He sees his one-time scanty pile increasing more and more—
There are lots of people paying fare who never paid before.

Catarrh is Curable with Japanese Catarrh Cure

We say it with all the force at our command—Japanese Catarrh Cure completely, permanently cures catarrh. We want you to have confidence in our word, and our well earned business reputation, to buy just one 50c. box of Japanese Catarrh Cure. We ask only a trial, for we know that when you have experienced the cleansing, healing, soothing powers of Japanese Catarrh Cure, you will realize that at last you have the one certain cure for Catarrh.

"I was troubled with catarrh and deafness for a number of years. I doctored with specialists and spent much money on advertised remedies, but became no better. About a year ago, I procured Japanese Catarrh Cure. Shortly, I found my hearing completely restored, and the catarrh does not trouble me now in the least. I can conscientiously recommend it to any person troubled with catarrh."

D. N. SPENCER, Toronto, Ont.

Your druggist will supply you, 50c. a bottle.

The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., Limited, Toronto, Canada.

KILLED BY A BOMB.

Gen. Griazneff, Chief of Staff in Caucasus, Has Been Assassinated.

Tiflis, Jan. 30.—Gen. Griaznoff, chief of staff to the viceroy of the Caucasus, was killed by a bomb yesterday. The assassin has been arrested.

Land Owners Murdered.

Tukum, Courland, Jan. 30.—Count Frederic Lamsdorff (not the Foreign Minister) and Baron Roenne, two of the most prominent land owners of this district, were attacked Sunday while out driving by a band of revolutionists, and were pulled from their sleighs and murdered.

Alleged Cattle Thief Captured.

Galt, Jan. 30.—Alex. Hammer, with many aliases, is locked up here, and the police believe he is the leader of a notorious cattle and sheep-stealing gang. Chief Gorman has been shadowing him for weeks past. He was caught with a load of stolen sheep, but abandoned the rig and fled. The capture was the result of his coming back to Galt to get his thousands of dollars out of the bank. He offered $1,000 to an officer, and another to Ald. Buchanan, liveryman, if they would let him go.

Homage by Blue and Grey.

Washington, Jan. 30.—With full military honors the body of Gen. Joseph Wheeler, the veteran of two wars, a former representative in Congress, and a retired officer in the United States army, was laid at rest yesterday in the National Cemetery at Arlington. Homage was paid by the blue and by the grey, veterans of the two conflicts, in paying tribute.

Offers to Serve Captain's Term.

New York, Jan. 30.—John Short of Brooklyn, who said that he had never made the acquaintance of Capt. W. H. Van Schaick of the steamer General Slocum, yesterday offered to serve the captain's ten-year sentence to imprisonment in the penitentiary, which was imposed last Saturday. Short said "I saw and heard Capt. Van Schaick ring the alarm bell at the fire, and I know he is innocent. He is an old man, too old to go to prison, and I am a young man ready to take his place and serve his sentence." Short's offer was not accepted. Van Schaick was released on $10,000 bail yesterday.

Killed by Horse's Kick.

Goderich, Jan. 30.—Miss Annie Lamprey, daughter of William Lamprey, Huron road, was almost instantly killed Sunday while driving home from Knox Church in town. The horse kicked for some cause, striking the unfortunate young lady twice and causing her to fall out of the buggy. She uttered a cry, managed to walk to the side of the road and then fell dead.

B. C.'s First White Child Dead.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 30—Wm. Hunter, a pioneer, who was the first white child born in British Columbia, and who ran the first locomotive on the Vancouver Island, died yesterday at Nanaimo.

WHAT A BLUE BOOK SHOWS.

Less Liquor Was Used In Canada Last Year.

Excise returns just issued at Ottawa showing the quantity of spirituous liquor consumed in Canada, afford satisfaction to the temperance reformer During the last fiscal year 3,112,842 gallons, valued at $5,947,126, were entered for consumption, as compared with 3,481,287 gallons, of the value of $6,656,602, in the previous twelve months, being a decrease of 368,444 gallons in quantity and $709,476 in value.

There is an increasing foreign demand for Canadian spirits, the quantities exported for the last five years being as follows:

	Proof gallons
1900-1901...	148,151
1901-1902...	151,799
1902-1903...	157,666
1903-1904...	180,291
1904-1905...	211,525

There has been an increase in consumption of malt liquors. The quantity of malt by pounds given in the returns as consumed in 1905 was 75,509,810, as against 75,430,347 for the year previous There were 30,330,070 gallons manufactured, being an increase of 3,004,081 gallons.

Votaries of the fragrant weed show no signs of diminishing devotion, for in the last fiscal year 8,115,904 1-2 pounds of tobacco, 6,708,800 cigarettes and 93,984,295 cigars went up in smoke. Compared with 1903-04 this is a gain of 401,193 1-2 pounds of tobacco, 4,522,209 cigarettes, and 5,739,266 cigars.

Art is the work of man under the guidance and inspiration of a mightier.—Hare.

What makes old age so sad is not that our joys but our hopes cease.—Richter.

CHOCOLATE.

It Was a Luxury in This Country in the Eighteenth Century.

The first newspaper notice that announced the sale of cocoa and chocolate in America read:

"Amos Track, at his house a little below the Bell tavern in Danvers, makes and sells chocolate which he will warrant to be good and takes cocoa to grind. Those who may please to favor him with their custom may depend upon being well served, and at a very cheap rate."

This notice appeared in the Essex Gazette of Massachusetts on the 18th of June, 1771, five years before the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Despite Mr. Trask's assurance that his rate was cheap, chocolate was very expensive and beyond the purse of any but the wealthy folk. Wouldn't they be surprised to see how generally chocolate is sold these days in packages as cheap as a penny?

When the Spanish soldier Cortes conquered Mexico in 1519 he found the people very fond of a drink called "chocolatl." This was served to the ruler Montezuma in a cup of solid gold. When the Spaniards went home they introduced this drink into their country, but it remained very expensive. The secret of its preparation was never allowed to get out of Spain. Now it is the cheapest article of food and drink we have.

VARIETY IN CHEWING.

Gum and Tobacco Are Not the Only Materials Utilized.

Gum chicle, which forms the basis of most American chewing gums, is by no means the only chewing material, though chewing gum has spread over a large portion of the world.

Among the old-fashioned the gum of the spruce tree is still in greater favor, and druggists near the great spruce belts drive a thriving trade in the brown lumps.

Although the chicle comes from the tropics, it is seldom used as a chewing gum there, uncured rubber being the fashion. In Peru "cuca," or cocoa leaves, form the staple chew, the plant being a powerful stimulant, since from its leaves cocaine is extracted. In the east the betel nut is chewed in preference, the nut being prepared with lime. To it might be accorded the place of first prominence, since because of the congestion of population practically one-tenth of the human race give it their preference.

One of the oddest chews is the leaden bullet which the English soldier used to chew before the introduction of the jacketed bullets now in use. They declared that it lessened their thirst and to some extent deadened their hunger on long marches.

And then there is tobacco.

ODD THINGS ABOUT WORDS.

When the Word "Lunch" Was First Used It Meant a "Lump."

A "lunch," etymologically, is just a lump. In the sixteenth century a "lunch of bacon" meant merely a slice or hunk of it. So Burns speaks of bread and cheese "dealt about in lunches," and Scott records that "little Benjie was ramming a huge luncheon of-pie crust into his mouth." While in modern times "lunch" is an abbreviation from "luncheon," the latter was originally an elongation of "lunch." A philologist shows how the old "noon shenk," noon drink, came to mean noon eating, and to appear as "nunsheon," and the development thereafter of "luncheon" from "lunch" was very natural.

Curious changes of words sometimes take place between two languages. Thus English has borrowed the French "poseur" and has given to France "snob" in trade. Frenchmen have a way of taking a polysyllabic word and using half of it. Thus of "steeplechase they have appropriated the "steeple," and now the French sportsman speaks of "mounting a steeple" when he means to ride a race over the customary obstacles. A smoking jacket is with him a "smoking" and a sleeping car is a "sleeping."

Inspired a Noble Poem.

It was the daguerreotypist Hesler of Chicago who inspired Longfellow to write "Hiawatha." Mr. Hesler was one of the most eminent of his profession, and in 1851 the London world's fair awarded him the prize medal for daguerreotypes. One of them, a picture of the falls of Minnehaha, came into the poet's possession and furnished immediate inspiration for the poem. In testimony of his debt to Mr. Hesler Longfellow sent him a bound volume of his poems with his signature and compliments on the fly leaf.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

REASONS WHY You should travel via C.P.R.

TRAINS at convenient hours to all points Atlantic to Pacific.

EQUIPMENT is up-to-date in every respect built for comfort.

SLEEPING CARS have earned an enviable reputation for their luxurious appointments and modern conveniences.

DINING CARS are unequalled for excellence of service and attendance.

For booklets, train service, tickets, etc., call on nearest Canadian Pacific Agent

Or write C. B. Foster, D. P. A., Toronto.

S. BURROWS,
C. P. R. Agent, Belleville.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Winter Resorts For February

California; Mexico, Florida, Cuba, offer attractions difficult to find in any other part of the world. Delightful, restful, health restoring climate, luxurious hotel.

ROUND TRIP TOURIST TICKETS ARE ON SALE DAILY TO ALL SOUTHERN RESORTS.

The Mount Clemens Mineral Baths, and St. Catharines Mineral Springs, situated on our direct line, are celebrated for their curative waters. Try it.

For Tickets and full information call on

H. C. THOMPSON, Town Agent.
F. H. COPPIN, Depot Agent.

Hotel Belleclaire

Broadway and 77th Street, New York.

Seventh Avenue, Amsterdam Ave. and West 72th St. Cars pass the door. Luxurious rooms for permanent and transient guests. Restaurant a Feature. Exquisite Palm Room. Art Nouveau Cafe. Royal Hungarian Orchestra.

"Most Artistically Beautiful Hotel in the World." Can offer few single rooms, with bath, beautifully furnished, suitable for two people, $80 per month.

TRANSIENT RATES:

One Room, with bath $2.50 per day
Parlor, Bedroom, with bath, $3 and $5 per day
Parlor, 2 Bedrooms, with bath, $5 and $7 per day

Every improvement known to modern ingenuity.

Write for our magazine, "The Hotel Belleclaire World."

MILTON ROBLEE, Proprietor.

HOTEL TOURAINE

Delaware Ave. & Johnson Park
BUFFALO, N. Y.

A modern, high-class and convenient stopping place, offering every accommodation for the comfort and pleasure of transient guests. Moderate prices.

Harry C. Griswold, Proprietor.

NEW YORK CENTRAL & Hudson River R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST
Daily except Sunday

Lv. Belleville (G. T. R.	1.39 a.m.	noon
Arr. Kingston "	3.25 a.m.	1.25 p.m.
Lv. Kingston (steamer)	5.00 a.m.	2.00 p.m.
Arr. CapeVincent (str.)	7.00 a.m.	4.00 p.m
Mondays only
Lv. CapeVincent N.Y.C.	7.15 a.m.	4.50 p.m.
Arr. Watertown "	8.10 a.m.	5.50 p.m.
Arr. Oswego "	11.59 a.m.	9 12 p.m.
Arr Syracuse "	12.13 p.m.	9.33 p m
Arr. Rochester "	2.28 p.m.	....
Arr. Utica "	12.20 a.m.	9.00 p.m.
Arr. New York "	5.48 p.m.	7.12 a.m.

Convenient train service in opposite direction

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10, while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C.R.R. of New Jersey, cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from H. S. Folger, N.Y.C. agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
General Pass'r Agent,
New York.
A. H. SMITH, General Manager,
New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

Dunlop's Rosery

96 Yonge St.

TORONTO

Dunlop's Choicest Flowers only dealt in.
Floral Designs for all occasions.
Flowers shipped to any point between Halifax and Calgary, and safe condition guaranteed.
Illustrated Price List on application.
100,000 Rose Trees in bloom.

JOHN H. DUNLOP
FLORIST

Long Distance Phone: Main 4790
Night and Sunday Calls: Park 792

A BARGAIN IN CARDS.

Business and professional men will do well in examining the cards just imported by The Intelligencer Job Department. They are of superior quality and very cheap. We have them from $1.00 for 500 with name and address upwards. Eight sizes. If Business Directory.

MUSICAL.

W. H. SPOONER,

Associate of Trinity College, London, Eng. Organist of St. Thomas' Church, receives pupils for Pianoforte, Organ, Vocal and all branches of Theoretical Music. Apply at studio, Coleman St., or by letter, P. O. 932. 56-6md

MEDICAL.

McLEAN CAVERLY, M. D., C. M., M. C. P. S. O.

Office, at residence, No 90 West Bridge street. Office hours 9 to 10 a.m.; 1 to 3, and 7 to 8 p.m. No regular office hours on Sundays. Telephone 325.

JONH J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.C. C. S., England.

Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. WILSON,

J. M. Wilson. D. D. Wilson.

Located in Dr. Lockridge's old office, opposite Wallbridge and Clarke's, Bridge street, Belleville. jy13-d & wly

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT,

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, &c., Belleville.

Office—9 Campbell Street.

Malcolm Wright. J. Franklin Wills.

Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B.C.L.,

Barrister, &c.

Solicitor for City of Belleville.

Office—City Hall.

PORTER & CARNEW,

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.

Offices—Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.

'Phone 67.

E. Guss Porter. Wm. Carnew.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,

Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office Bridge St., Belleville.

Money to Loan.—Private Funds at lowest rates. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario, and for the Merchants Bank of Canada.

NORTHRUP & ROBERTS,

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public.

Offices—North Bridge St., opposite Post Office, Belleville, Ont.

Solicitors for Bank of Montreal.

Money to loan at 5 per cent.

W. B. Northrup, K. C., M. P.
jy27-d&wtf A. A. ROBERTS.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,

(Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q. C.)

Barrister, Solicitor Conveyancer, etc Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent. on easy terms upon good land security.

Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire, Life, Accident and Plate Glass

INSURANCE AGENCIES.

The Guardian

Ins. Co. of North America,
Quebec and Metropolitan Fire Co's.
Insures farm and city property at lowest rates.
Canadian Railway Accident Ins. Co.
Office Campbell St., Belleville, Ont.
R. W. ADAMS.

THOMAS STEWART,

INSURANCE AND REAL ESTATE.

Agent Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society, Scottish Union & National Insurance Co., North British & Mercantile Insurance Co., London & Lancaster Insurance Co., Dominion of Canada Guarantee & Accident Co., Equitable Life of New York, New York Plate Glass Insurance Co.

Bridge St., Belleville.

Fire, Life and Plate Glass Insurance.

Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual of Waterloo, Ont.
Lloyd's Plate Glass.
Home Life Association, Toronto.
North British Mercantile.

Farm and City Property insured in first-class, reliable companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation and transact general Real Estate business, and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan.

W. P. HUDSON, office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle St., opposite Post Office and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.

'Phone 163.

Money Saved is Money Earned.

I can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.

The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co.
The Merchants' Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.

are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at a lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.

H. FREEMAN KETCHESON,
Office—Bridge St.

A Run-Down Woman
Made Well by
Dr. Hugo's Health
Tablets for Women

Miss Jennie Thomas, of Dixville, Que., was in a run-down condition—tired, and all dragged out. Thousands of women know just how she felt.

She was given a box of Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women by her family physician. She took them two weeks and then wrote us in these words:

"I have received such great benefit from taking your tablets, I desire to continue taking them two weeks longer. The benefit secured from the one box has been so great, and I feel so much better now, I am satisfied only one box more will be necessary to effect what you claim for your tablets, that is, make me again a healthy woman."

She was sent the second box. She took them and has since assured us of perfect restoration to health.

And they are doing this for women all the time. Every day we receive letters from grateful women, testifying to their gain in health since taking these tablets.

If you are in a run-down condition, or suffer from any weakness peculiar to your sex, they will restore you to perfect health. They make healthy women.

But you must do as Mrs. Thomas did—take the tablets. You will notice improvement the first week.

50c. at dealers or by mail postpaid.
B. N. Robinson & Co., Coaticook, Q.

A Wonderful Child.

Zerah Colburn when a child had the most wonderful memory for figures ever known. He performed operations of addition, subtraction, multiplication and division on sums involving from eleven to twenty places of figures without setting one down on paper. Being once asked to raise eight to the sixteenth power, he almost instantly responded, "The answer is 281,474,976,-710,656."

Rapid Growth.

One time when Joaquin Miller was in Chicago he was interviewed for one of the newspapers. While he was telling of the progress of things western the reporter interrupted him with an inquiry about the numerous city conflagrations out west. The poet of the Sierras instantly replied, "Our fires are caused by the friction of rapid growth."

An Expert Required.

"I wish an electrician would get rejected by Miss Snubem."

"Why do you wish that?"

"Because he might be able to explain why her negative is so positive."

Not What He Wanted.

Skinflint—I have no money, but I will give you a little advice. Beggar—Well, if yer hain't got no money yer advice can't be very valuable.

The atmosphere is so clear in Zululand that objects can be seen by starlight at a distance of seven miles.

Killing Canadian Thistles.

To kill Canada thistles, let them come to bud, or flower, put heavy chain from right hand end of doubletree to plow beam, at where the coulter is, or should be; leave slack enough to loop in furrow, just ahead of the turning furrow slice; have a good plow that it will turn the furrow, and with a steady team you will cover thistles completely, and as they will have used all their vitality in maturing flowers for seed will be killed dead, and will benefit the land as green manure.

Economic Road Construction.

Three essentials of modern roadbuilding are the road-machine, for grading, shaping and preparing the road-bed; the stone-crusher, which may often advantageously be portable, with outfit for breaking stone, and an efficient road roller, preferably a steam roller of about 12 tons' weight. These are at the bottom of economical macadam road construction.

The Herring.

Deep sea denizens of the northern waters are all remarkable for their migratory habits, the herring especially so. These fish approach the Newfoundland littoral to spawn and then are captured in great quantities, but this is only during a few months every year, while for the remainder they withdraw to some waters the location of which has never been determined.

Consume Your Own Smoke.

The atmosphere is darkened with the whimpering of men and women over the non-essentials, the trifles that are inevitably incident to the hurly-burly of the day's routine. Things cannot always go your way. Learn to accept in silence the minor aggravations, cultivate the gift of taciturnity, and consume your own smoke with an extra draft of hard work, so that those about you may not be annoyed with the dust and soot of your complaints.—Dr. Wm. Osler.

Nothing serves better to illustrate a man's character than the things which he finds ridiculous.—Goethe.

PIG.

By RUDYARD KIPLING.

Go stalk the red deer o'er the heather,
  Ride, follow the fox if you can,
But, for pleasure and profit together,
  Allow me the hunting of man—
The chase of the human, the search for the soul
  To its ruin—the hunting of man.
—The Old Shikarri.

I believe the difference began in the matter of a horse, with a twist in his temper, whom Pinecoffin sold to Nafferton and by whom Nafferton was nearly slain. There may have been other causes of offense. The horse was the official stalking horse. Nafferton was very angry, but Pinecoffin laughed and said that he had never guaranteed the beast's manners. Nafferton laughed, too, though he vowed that he would write off his fall against Pinecoffin if he waited five years. Now, a Daleman from beyond Skipton will forgive an injury when the Strid lets a man live, but a South Devon man is as soft as a Dartmoor bog. You can see from their names that Nafferton had the race advantage of Pinecoffin. He was a peculiar man, and his notions of humor were cruel. He taught me a new and fascinating form of shikar. He hounded Pinecoffin from Mithankot to Jagadri, and from Gurgaon to Abbotabad—up and across the Punjab, a large province and in places remarkably dry. He said that he had no intention of allowing assistant commissioners to "sell him pups," in the shape of ramping, screaming country breds, without making their lives a burden to them.

Most assistant commissioners develop a bent for some special work after their first hot weather in the country. The boys with digestions hope to write their names large on the frontier, and struggle for dreary places like Bannu and Kohat. The bilious ones climb into the secretariat, which is very bad for the liver. Others are bitten with a mania for district work, Ghuznivide coins or Persian poetry, while some, who come of farmers' stock, find that the smell of the earth after the rains gets into their blood and calls them to "develop the resources of the province." These men are enthusiasts. Pinecoffin belonged to their class. He knew a great many facts bearing on the cost of bullocks and temporary wells, and opium scrapers, and what happens if you burn too much rubbish on a field in the hope of enriching used up soil. Nafferton watched him and thought about the horse. Nafferton said, "See me chase that boy till he drops!" I said, "You can't get your knife into an assistant commissioner." Nafferton told me that I did not understand the administration of the province.

Our government is rather peculiar. It gushes on the agricultural and general information side, and will supply a moderately respectable man with all sorts of "economic statistics," if he speaks to it prettily. For instance, you are interested in gold washing in the sands of the Sutlej. You pull the string and find that it wakes up half a dozen departments and finally communicates, say, with a friend of yours in the telegraph, who once wrote some notes on the customs of the gold washers when he was on construction work in their part of the empire. He may or may not be pleased at being ordered to write out everything he knows for your benefit. This depends on his temperament. The bigger man you are, the more information and the greater trouble can you raise.

Nafferton was not a big man, but he had the reputation of being very "earnest." An "earnest" man can do much with a government. There was an earnest man once who nearly wrecked * * * but all India knows that story.

Nafferton cast about for a peg whereon to hang his earnestness and for a string that would communicate with Pinecoffin. He found both. They were Pig. Nafferton became an earnest inquirer after Pig. He informed the government that he had a scheme whereby a very large percentage of the British army in India could be fed, at a very large saving, on Pig. Then he hinted that Pinecoffin might supply him with the "varied information necessary to the proper inception of the scheme." So the government wrote on the back of the letter, "Instruct Mr. Pinecoffin to furnish Mr. Nafferton with any information in his power."

Nafferton had not the faintest interest in Pig, but he knew that Pinecoffin would flounce into the trap. Pinecoffin was delighted at being consulted about Pig. The Indian Pig is not exactly an important factor in agricultural life, but Nafferton explained to Pinecoffin that there was room for improvement.

You may think that there is not much to be evolved from Pig. It all depends on how you set to work. Pinecoffin, being a civilian and wishing to do things thoroughly, began with an essay on the "Primitive Pig, the Mythology of the Pig and the Dravidian Pig." Nafferton filed that information—27 foolscap sheets—and wanted to know about the distribution of the Pig in the Punjab and how it stood the plains in the hot weather. From this point onward, remember that I am giving you only the barest outlines of the affair—the guy ropes, as it were, of the web that Nafferton spun round Pinecoffin.

Pinecoffin made a colored Pig population map, and collected observations on the comparative longevity of Pig (a) in the submontane tracts of the Himalayas and (b) in the Rechna Doab. Nafferton filed that and asked what sort of people looked after Pig. This started an ethnological excursus on swineherds and drew from Pinecoffin long tables showing the proportion per 1,000 of the caste in the Derajat. Nafferton filed that bundle and explained that the figures which he wanted referred to the Cis-Sutlej states, where he understood that Pigs were very fine and large and where he proposed to start a Piggery. By this time, government had quite forgotten their instructions to Mr. Pinecoffin. They were like the gentlemen in Keats' poem who turned well oiled wheels to skin other people. But Pinecoffin was just entering into the spirit of the Pig hunt, as Nafferton well knew he would do. He had a fair amount of work of his own to clear away, but he sat up of nights reducing Pig to five places of decimals for the honor of his service. He was not going to appear ignorant of so easy a subject as Pig.

Then government sent him on special duty to Kohat, to "inquire into" the big, seven foot, iron shod spades of that district. People had been killing each other with those peaceful tools, and government wished to know "whether a modified form of agricultural implement could not, tentatively and as a temporary measure, be introduced among the agricultural population without needlessly or unduly exacerbating the existing religious sentiments of the peasantry."

Between those spades and Nafferton's Pig, Pinecoffin was heavily burdened.

Nafferton now began to take up "(a) the food supply of the indigenous Pig, with a view to the improvement of its capacities as a flesh former; (b) the acclimatization of the exotic Pig, maintaining its distinctive peculiarities." Pinecoffin replied exhaustively that the exotic Pig would become merged into the indigenous type, and quoted horse breeding statistics to prove this. The side issue was debated, at great length on Pinecoffin's side, till Nafferton owned that he had been in the wrong and moved the previous question. When Pinecoffin had quite written himself out about flesh formers and fibrins and glucose and the nitrogenous constituents of maize and lucern, Nafferton raised the question of expense. By this time Pinecoffin, who had been transferred from Kohat, had developed a Pig theory of his own, which he stated in 33 folio pages—all carefully filed by Nafferton, who asked for more.

These things took ten months, and Pinecoffin's interest in the potential Piggery seemed to die down after he had stated his own views. But Nafferton bombarded him with letters on "the imperial aspect of the scheme, as tending to officialize the sale of pork, and thereby calculated to give offense to the Mohammedan population of upper India." He guessed that Pinecoffin would want some broad, free hand work after his niggling, stippling, decimal details. Pinecoffin handled the latest development of the case in masterly style and proved that no "popular ebullition of excitement was to be apprehended." Nafferton said that there was nothing like civilian insight in matters of this kind and lured him up a bypath—"the possible profits to accrue to the government from the sale of hog bristles." After Pinecoffin had wondered a little at Nafferton's rage for information, he sent back a monograph, 51 pages, on "Products of the Pig." This led him, under Nafferton's tender handling, straight to the Cawnpur factories, the trade in hogskin for saddles—and thence to the tanners. Pinecoffin wrote that pomegranate seed was the best cure for hog skin, and suggested—for the past 14 months had wearied him—that Nafferton should "raise his pigs before he tanned them."

Nafferton went back to the second section of his fifth question. How could the exotic Pig be brought to give as much pork as it did in the west and yet "assume the essentially hirsute characteristics of its oriental congener?" Pinecoffin felt dazed, for he had forgotten what he had written 16 months before, and fancied that he was about to reopen the entire question. He was too far involved in the hideous tangle to retreat and, in a weak moment, he wrote. "Consult my first letter," which related to the Dravidian Pig. As a matter of fact, Pinecoffin had still to reach the acclimatization stage, having gone off on a side issue on the merging of types.

Then Nafferton really unmasked his batteries! He complained to the government, in stately language, of "the paucity of help accorded to me in my earnest attempts to start a potentially remunerative industry, and the flippancy with which my requests for information are treated by a gentleman whose pseudo scholarly attainments should at least have taught him the primary differences between the Dravidian and the Berkshire variety of the genus Sus. If I am to understand that the letter to which he refers me contains his serious views on the acclimatization of a valuable though possibly uncleanly animal, I am reluctantly compelled to believe," etc.

There was a new man at the head of the department of castigation. The wretched Pinecoffin was told that the service was made for the country and not the country for the service, and that he had better begin to supply information about Pigs.

Pinecoffin answered insanely that he had written everything that could be written about Pig, and that some furlough was due to him. Nafferton got a copy of that letter and sent it with the essay on the Dravidian Pig to a down country paper, which printed both in full. The essay was rather high flown, but if the editor had seen the stacks of paper in Pinecoffin's handwriting on Nafferton's table, he would not have been so sarcastic about the "nebulous discursiveness and blatant self sufficiency of the modern competition wallah, and his utter inability to grasp the practical issues of a practical question." Many friends cut out these remarks and sent them to Pinecoffin.

I have already stated that Pinecoffin came of a soft stock. This last stroke frightened and shook him. He could not understand it, but he felt that he had been, somehow, shamelessly betrayed by Nafferton. He realized that he had wrapped himself up in the Pigskin without need, and that he could not well set himself right with his government. All his acquaintances asked after his "nebulous discursiveness" or his "blatant self sufficiency," and this made him miserable.

He took a train and went to Nafferton, whom he had not seen since the Pig business began. He also took the cutting from the paper and blustered feebly and called Nafferton names, and then died down to a weak protest of the "I say, it's too bad, you know," order.

"I'm afraid I've given you a good deal of trouble, haven't I?" said he.

"Trouble!" whimpered Pinecoffin. "I don't mind the trouble so much, though that was bad enough, but what I resent is this showing up in print. It will stick to me like a bur all through my service, and I did do my best for your interminable swine. It's too bad of you, on my soul it is!"

"I don't know," said Nafferton. "Have you ever been stuck with a horse? It isn't the money I mind, though that is bad enough, but what I resent is the chaff that follows, especially from the boy who stuck me. But I think we'll cry quits now."

Pinecoffin found nothing to say save bad words, and Nafferton smiled ever so sweetly and asked him to dinner.

Help for the Kidneys
Through Gin Pills.

A GUARANTEED CURE.

Read this letter. Read it twice. You have never heard such good news before—if your kidneys are sick. It tells how to be free of pain—how to have all your old-time health and vigor.

"I have been for years a sufferer with pain in the back and across the kidneys. There was scarcely a minute, day or night, that I was free of pain, and when I attempted to pass urine, the pain was almost unbearable. A friend of mine in Portage la Prairie, who was similarly afflicted, strongly advised me to try Gin Pills, as they had cured him. I bought a box of Gin Pills, and in less than a week, to my great delight, found myself without pain. I have had to go as often as every 20 minutes to urinate and several times during the night. Since taking Gin Pills, I sleep through the entire night and am not more than ordinarily inconvenienced during the day. I can earnestly recommend Gin Pills to anyone suffering from pain in the back, kidneys or bladder.

Mr. G. O. C. Gowler, Portage la Prairie."

Your druggist has Gin Pills, or will get them for you. 50c box—6 for $2.50.

If you will send us your name and address and tell us the paper in which you have read this we send you a trial box of Gin Pills absolutely free. You will get such relief that you will gladly continue the treatment until cured. Do it to-day—now—and start to cure yourself.

Address The Bole Drug Co., Winnipeg, Man.

WAITING.

Serene I fold my hands and wait,
Nor care for wind, or tide, or sea;
I rave no more 'gainst time or fate,
For lo! my own shall come to me.

I stay my haste, I make delays
For what avails this eager pace?
I stand amid the eternal ways
And what is mine shall know my face.

Asleep, awake, by night or day,
The friends I seek are seeking me;
Nor wind can drive my bark astray,
Nor change the tide of destiny.

What matter if I stand alone?
I wait with joy the coming years;
My heart shall reap where it is sown,
And garner up its fruit of tears.

The waters know their own and draw
The brook that springs in yonder height;
So flows the good with equal law
Unto the soul of pure delight.

The stars come nightly to the sky;
The tidal wave unto the sea;
Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor high,
Can keep my own away from me.
—John Burroughs.

Cured Beyond All Question.

There were cures for drunkenness in the early days of this country, and from this account in the New York Gazette of May 7, 1772, we are told of a treatment that cured one patient beyond all possible question: "On Saturday last Mr. Montanny's negro man, who had misbehaved himself and was a remarkable drunkard, was sent to Bridewell and underwent the usual discipline of the house for such offenses—viz, a plentiful dose of warm water and salt to operate as an emetic and of lamp oil as a purge, in proportion to the constitution of the patient. Of these he took about three quarts of the one and two and a half spoonfuls of the other; also a gill of New England rum, which operated very powerfully, attended with a violent sickness which obliged him to lie down, and between 8 and 9 at night he was discovered to be dead. He died of excessive drinking, co-operating with discipline and medicine. Mr. Dobbs, the operator, was innocent of his taking off."

Won His Promotion.

The Duke of Clarence, afterward William IV., once received a very adroit and humorous hint which he took in very good part. He was visiting Portsmouth and inspecting the ships there when it happened that his guide over the "seventy-fours" was an aggrieved and battered lieutenant who had waited for promotion many years in vain. He seemed despised and forgotten. As this man removed his hat to salute royalty the duke observed that he was bald and said jestingly:

"I see, my friend, that you have not spared your hair in your country's service."

"Why, your royal highness," was the quick answer, "it's a wonder I have any hair left, for so many young fellows have stepped over my head."

The duke laughed and made his inspection of the fleet, but in a few days his Portsmouth guide received an appointment as captain.

WOMAN'S WORLD

MRS. M. O. H. RUSSELL.

A Commercial Woman and a Successful Operator In Oil.

Mrs. Mae Ora Hood Russell of Bloomington, Ill., is the only woman oil operator in Kentucky and perhaps in the United States. Since the discovery of oil there have been but one or two women who ventured into the business on a large scale, and so far as is known this young woman of some twenty-eight years is the only one to make a success of the business, and today she is rated as among the largest operators in the country, and her holdings in Wayne county, Ky., alone are worth a vast sum of money.

The entire career of this woman shows that she was cut out for a commercial life rather than that of a home woman, and, although once married, she is now unhampered, as she says, by the presence of a man.

Mrs. Russell was born Miss Mae Ora Hood, daughter of prominent people of the Illinois town, and after receiving a good common school education became a stenographer. She married W. L. Russell, a rich oil operator of Ohio, and, although she lived with him a short time only, she learned much of the methods employed in obtaining good oil leases and the manner in which oil was produced in paying quantities. The first strike of oil by Mrs. Russell was a well which produced at the beginning over 1,000 barrels per day, by far the largest struck in the state, and now produces even a greater amount than any other well yet brought in in that section.

MRS. MAE ORA HOOD RUSSELL.

Mrs. Russell holds leases on thousands of acres in close proximity to this well, and practical oil men say that the properties owned and controlled by her will make her the richest oil operator in the state. There is never a day, rain or shine, hail or snow, that Mrs. Russell is not with her large force of men at work in the fields, and oil operators who have been at the business for years marvel at her wonderful capacity for work.

Attractive in face and figure, though apparently delicate, Mrs. Russell greets one with the gracious manner of a gentle, educated woman and would be the last person in the world one would take for an oil operator.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Hints on Table Manners.

If you do not care to take wine when at a formal dinner a gesture of dissent is sufficient to show the servant that he or she is not to pour any in your glass. You should not use a knife when eating fish, and lettuce leaves should be folded with the fork and so conveyed to the mouth. Ices may be eaten with a fork or spoon, as one may prefer.

Aways remain composed in case of an accident at the table. If you are the hostess, never apologize. Both hostess and guest should ignore it, although if the guest is the offender he or she may offer a few words of apology, says the Philadelphia Press.

Never allow your servant to reach across a person in placing or removing anything and see that in clearing the table only one or two plates are removed at a time. The habit of piling one plate on top of another shows a lack of proper training. The knife and fork should be placed side by side on the plate at the conclusion of each course.

Is Your Kerosene Sour?

One day recently an Indianapolis woman went into a lamp store to buy some new burners and complained to the woman in charge that her old burners when lighted, gave off most offensive odors. The lamp woman said to her:

"I am quite sure it is not the burners that are at fault, nor is it your lamp wick. Your coal oil is probably sour."

The buyer was astonished to learn that coal oil could sour. The woman in charge asked the buyer how long she had had the oil, and when the buyer reported that she had not had her oil can filled for some time she was informed that coal oil sours just as much as milk—not so soon, of course, for it will stand much longer, but to be sweet and to burn without odor the oil must be fresh. The coal oil can should be thoroughly emptied at frequent intervals. It should be aired and when refilled kept closed.—Indianapolis News.

Marriage and Temper.

Every one agrees that marriage has a strong influence upon the temper, says a writer, but is it good or bad? Taking a woman's point of view for a moment, we can easily see how her temper may be improved by marriage. When she marries she has, we may assume, attained the ambition of her life. She has got a husband and a home of her own. She looks forward to a happy life—in fact, the future is as bright as a future well could look. This is bound to tell. Perhaps before marriage she was inclined to peevishness. She might even have had grave doubts about ever being a wife. She might have a discontented family circle to deal with, and so on. These things are all brushed away when she marries. She enters a condition which enables her to see a roseate hue on the most ordinary things of life. If this does not improve her temper nothing can.

Table Saving Mats.

Asbestus mats in all shapes and sizes covered with white cotton flannel may be had from any of the shops, and are of great help to the careful housewife in protecting her fine table from spots due to hot dishes. These mats may be covered with doilies made on purpose to fit them, and in this way they do not soil the appearance of a prettily set table in the slightest. Another good way to keep the heat of the dishes from striking in is to cover the table first with a square of white oilcloth, then with a padded and quilted silence cloth underneath the table spread. The oilcloth is excellent for keeping out the heat and protecting the table in every way.

The Dower Chest.

The "dower chest" as a gift for the newly betrothed maid is growing in favor and antique shops in the country are searched for the old carved chests of Virginia and Massachusetts pioneers. Some persons with money to spare are sending agents to Europe to find the real antiques, such as figure in historical pictures. The dower chest of carved oak with massive bands of brass would be loved by every prospective bride. Some chests are of generous proportions, and if they are filled with rare embroidered silks, cashmeres and fine linens, as was the old custom, their value will be enhanced very materially in the bride's eyes.

Full Door Mirrors.

When a girl has scant space in her boudoir she may economize in room by putting away her cheval glass and having her closet door inlaid with a mirror reaching from the top to the floor. It makes a wonderfully attractive feature, reflecting all the knickknacks and oddities. The girl finds it much more convenient and certainly more useful than the cheval glass, which had to be tilted and turned to see the hang of the skirt or to catch a glimpse of the slippers. When a girl can afford it, nothing is more effective than to have all her doors made with mirrors and draped with soft silk that harmonizes with the upholstering.

Why Actresses Are Beautiful.

When we are in search of really handsome women we look to the stage and wonder why we find them there. A beautiful actress gives as the reason: "Women on the stage make it their business to become beautiful, which they consider as important as dramatic talent. They do not attempt the footlights unless they have some looks and a good carriage. They improve their beauty by careful exercise, diet, study, a desire to please and the pleasure they get from their work."

Hands and Housework.

Sensible young matrons who desire to preserve their hands will use a mop for washing dishes. The hands need then never come in contact with dishwater and may be kept soft and white. Another common sense scheme for the preservation of the hands is the wearing of gloves for housework. As a protection against callous spots on the palms a pair of old gloves may be laid aside to wear on sweeping days.

Matching Oak Furniture.

Oak furniture does not go well with red, and where it is necessary to retain a red rug, if the latter is at all dark, a dark yellow will be successful on the walls. The walls and paper can then be harmonized with flowered curtains in red and yellow madras. Blue back of oak is always a good choice, and there are many greens that go with it well.

Mushrooms.

Never reheat mushrooms or dishes containing mushrooms. The process of cooking is in itself right, but after getting cold mushrooms are apt to develop injurious properties and to become dangerous food. Therefore consume what mushrooms you cook at once or throw them away.

Bodkins.

Safety pins are good substitutes when a bodkin is not handy, but easier still are corset laces of cotton, linen, silk or elastic, according to the use for which they are intended. By means of the metal ends these can be used for draw strings.

When long hair becomes so matted that it is difficult to comb the tangled locks they should be saturated with alcohol. This done, they will become amenable to the brush and comb as if by magic.

A young girl's chest will naturally grow full and strong if she will remember to draw long, deep breaths that inflate it and draw in the abdomen.

The mica sides of oil stoves, which get so smoked and dirty, may easily be cleaned with a piece of flannel dipped in vinegar.

Rub kerosene on the zinc under the stove once a day, and it will always look bright.

ONLY 1-50 OF A GRAIN.

Fruit is good for you. Ripe figs are a splendid laxative to regulate the bowels. Prunes are good for stomach and liver. Orange juice is splendid for the nerves and sleeplessness. Apples heal the kidneys and increase the flow of urine. If apple juice be evaporated to a gray powder, 1-50 of a grain of this powder has the same action on the kidneys as half a pint of fresh apple juice. Two "Fruit-a-tives" tablets contain more than 1-50 of the medicinal part of apple juice, besides the healing, curative virtues of oranges, figs and prunes. More than that, "Fruit-a-tives" are concentrated and combined with tonics and antiseptics by a secret process which increases their powers over disease many times.

50c. a box. At all druggists.

SKATES

costing one dollar and upwards attached to shoes

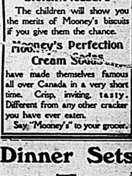
FREE

if purchased at this store. We have a full line to choose from in plain and nickel

PLATED

goods. Hockey supplies of al kinds—sticks, pucks, shoes, etc

GREENLEAF & SON.



Stolen Pleasure

The children will show you the merits of Mooney's biscuits if you give them the chance.

Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas

have made themselves famous all over Canada in a very short time. Crisp, inviting, tasty. Different from any other cracker you have ever eaten.

Say "Mooney's" to your grocer.

Dinner Sets

We have just received 16 Dinner Setts, in Blue, Pink, Peacock and Green, 98 pieces in sett, including large platter, fruit sett, butter-dish, bread and butter plates, etc.; regular price $7.00, we want a speedy clearance of these goods and will give you your choice for $5.00 per sett of 98 pieces.

Just think of it, only 5c per piece.

• • •

TOWELS AND TOWELLING.

We have just received our spring shipment of these goods.

Drop in and see our Bath Towels @ 7, 12 1-2, 15, 25c; we think they are the best value ever seen in town.

CHAS. N. SULMAN.

ENVELOPES.—Bond, Laid, Wove or Manilla, sizes 7 and 8, printed with your business address, from $1.25 to $3.00 per 1000. A large range of business and calling cards—ladies' and gentlemen's—all prices. Programmes and all kinds of printing at most reasonable rates at The Menu Cards, Toast Lists, Invitations, Intelligencer Job Department.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock Markets—The Latest Quotations.

Monday Evening, Jan. 29.

Liverpool wheat futures closed to-day ⅝d to ½d lower than Saturday and corn futures ⅝d lower.

At Chicago May wheat closed to-day 1⅛c lower than Saturday; May corn ⅛c lower and May oats unchanged.

WINNIPEG OPTIONS.

The following were the closing quotations yesterday at this market: Jan. 76¼, May 79½, July 80¾.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

	May.	July.	Sept.
New York	90	88½	85¼
Minneapolis	83¼	84½	....
Duluth	83½	84½	....
Toledo	85¾	—	—

TORONTO PRODUCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, spring, bush	$0 76	to	$....
Wheat, fall, bush	0 76		0 78
Wheat, red, bush	0 76		0 78
Wheat, goose, bush	0 71		0 72
Barley, bush	0 51		0 52
Oats, bush	0 39½		0 40
Rye, bush	0 74		....
Peas, bush	0 75		....
Buckwheat, bush	0 53		....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, Jan. 29.—Wheat, spot nominal; futures dull; March, 6s 10⅝d; May, 6s 8⅝d. Corn, spot quiet; American mixed, new, 4s 2½d; American mixed, old, 4s 8½d; futures, dull; Jan., 4s 2⅞d; March, 4s 1⅞d; May, 4s 2⅜d. Bacon, clear bellies, quiet, 46s. Shoulders, square, firm, 40s 6d. Hops in London (Pacific coast) steady, £2 10s to £3 15s. The imports of wheat into Liverpool last week were 72,300 quarters from Atlantic ports, and 7000 from other ports.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, Jan. 29.—Butter, irregular; receipts, 2793; street price extra creamery, 26½c to 26¾c; official prices, creamery, common to extra, 17c to 26c; do., held, extras, 23c to 23½c; state dairy, common to extra, 17c to 24c; renovated, common to extra, 15c to 20½c; western factory, common to firsts, 15½c to 18½c; western imitation, creamery, extras, 21c to 21½c; do., 1st, 12½c to 13.

Cheese—Steady; receipts, 404; state full cream, small and large, colored and white, September fancy, 14½c; do., October, best, 13½c to 13¾c; do., late made small, average best, 12¾c; do., large, 12½c; do., fair, 11½c to 12c; skims, full to light, 3½c to 11½c.

Eggs—Irregular; receipts, 8565; state and Pennsylvania fancy, selected white, 24c to 25c; do., choice, 23c to 24c; do., mixed, extra, 20c to 21c; western firsts, 19c; do., seconds, 18c to 18½c; southerns, 17c to 19c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady to Easier—Cattle Are Firmer at Buffalo.

London, Jan. 29.—Cattle are quoted at 10½c to 11½c per lb.; refrigerator, 7½c to 8½c.

TORONTO JUNCTION LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 59 car loads, composed of 1174 cattle, 168 sheep and lambs, 13 hogs and 17 horses.

Exporters.

Only a limited number could be called finished, and the bulk were not half finished. Prices for shippers ranged from $4.40 to $4.90 and one or two picked lots, it will be seen, sold at a little more money. The bulk sold at $4.65 to $4.85 per cwt. Export bulls ranged from $3.50 to $4 per cwt.

Butchers.

As in exporters, so in butchers', few of them could be classed as good to choice, and these were picked up at firmer prices, but the common classes were not any higher than last week. A few choice handpicked lots sold at $4.50 to $4.70; best loads sold at $4.25 to $4.40; fair to good at $3.90 to $4.15; medium, $3.70 to $3.80; common mixed lots, with cows amongst them, sold $3.35 to $3.50; cows, at $2.75 to $3.75 per cwt.

Milch Cows.

A few milch cows, generally of poor quality, sold at $35 to $45 each.

Sheep and Lambs.

Lambs sold at $6.50 to $6.90 and one choice lot was reported as high as $7 per cwt.; export ewes sold at $4.75 to $5 per cwt.

Veal Calves.

Four calves sold at $6.75 per cwt.

Hogs.

Receipts were light and prices are quoted 15c per cwt. lower, selects at $6.85, and light fats at $6.60 per cwt., altho Mr. Kennedy stated that he had paid $7 per cwt. for two or three loads, since last Friday, but had decided to drop prices, as stated above.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Jan. 29.—(Special.)—Cable advices came stronger, and prices for Canadian cattle in Liverpool, show an advance of ½c to 11c, and in London they are 1c higher, at 11c. Glasgow cables quoted prices at 10¾c to 11¾c; shipments from Portland and St. John, N.B., last week were 2208 cattle, 1406 sheep. Receipts today, were 900 cattle, 50 milch cows, 150 sheep and lambs, 75 calves, 1800 hogs. The butchers were out strong and trade was brisk at firm rates all round. Prime beeves sold at 4¾c to 5c per lb.; good cattle, 3½c [illegible] to 4¼c, and the common stock, [illegible] 3¼c. Milch cows sold [illegible] 2½c to some of them [illegible] at $30 to $65 each. Calves [illegible] superior milkers. The [illegible] were all young and sold at $3 to $5 each. Sheep sold at 4½c and lambs at 6c per lb. Owing to the increased supply of hogs, a weaker feeling developed in the market and prices since Saturday declined 20c per 100 lbs.; the demand at this reduction was good and all the offerings were sold at $7.35 per 100 lbs., weighed off the cars.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, Jan. 29.—Cattle—Receipts, 2700 head; active, strong, 10c higher; Prime steers, $5.40 to $5.65; shipping, $4.75 to $5.35; butchers, $4.40 to $5.25; heifers, $3.50 to $4.85; cows, $2.50 to $4.25; bulls, $2.75 to $4.60; stockers and feeders, $3.30 to $4.40; stock heifers, $2.75 to $3.30; fresh cows, active and strong; springers, slow, $20 to $58.

Veals—Receipts, 800 head; active, $5.25 to $9.

Hogs—Receipts, 15,300 head; fairly active; pigs, 10c higher; others steady; heavy and mixed, $5.85; yorkers, $5.85 to $5.90; pigs, $6; roughs, $4.90 to $5.10; stags, $3.50 to $4.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 20,000 head; active; lambs, $6.25 to $7.85; yearlings, $6.50 to $7; wethers, $5.50 to $6.10; ewes, $5.50 to $5.75; sheep, mixed, $3 to $5.75; western lambs, $7.25 to $7.70.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, Jan. 29.—Beeves—Receipts, 4142; steers, slow, but steady to strong; bulls, steady; cows, steady to firm; steers, $4.70 to $5.75; oxen and stags, $2.00 to $4.65; bulls, $3.13 to $4.30; cows, $1.80 to $3.75; few extra, $3.90. Exports to-morrow, 1030 cattle and 4200 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 1435; prime and choice veals, steady to firm; others, slow to 25c lower; barnyard calves, 25c lower; westerns, dull. Veals, $5 to $9.50; little calves, $3.50 to $4.50; barnyard stock, $3 to $3.25; westerns, $3.50 to $3.75; coarse heavy, $2.50 to $2.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 7900; sheep in light supply and steady; lambs, steady to firm. Sheep, $3.75 to $5.75; culls, $3 to $3.50; lambs, $6.75 to $8; choice selected, $8.10 to $8.12½; culls, $4.75 to $6.

Hogs—Receipts, 13,351; hogs, steady; pigs, firmer; state hogs, $5.90 to $6.20; pigs included.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Cattle—Receipts, 24,000; steady to strong; common to prime steers, $3.40 to $6.30; cows, $3 to $4.40; heifers, $2.25 to $5; bulls, $2 to $4; calves, $3 to $8; stockers and feeders, $2.60 to $4.65.

Hogs—Receipts, 45,000; 5c to 10c higher; choice to prime heavy, $5.55 to $5.60; medium to good, $5.50 to $5.55; packing, $5.20 to $5.50.

Sheep—Receipts, 23,000; market, 15c to 20c lower; sheep, $4 to $5.75; yearlings, $6 to $6.50; lambs, $6.50 to $7.50.

SELECTING POULTRY.

How to Pick a Tender Fowl When Buying For the Table.

A well rounded form and neat, compact legs and no sharp, bony angles on the breast are the distinguishing marks in selecting poultry for the table, according to the United States agricultural department's bulletin on this topic.

"The skin," continues the bulletin, "should be a clear color (yellow being preferred in the American market) and free from blotches and pin feathers; if it looks tight and drawn the bird has probably been scalded before picking. The flesh should give neither flabby nor stiff, but should give evenly and gently when pressed by the finger.

"One of the commonest ways of testing the age of dressed poultry is to take the end of the breastbone farthest from the head between thumb and finger and attempt to bend it to one side. In a very young bird—say a broiler chicken or a green goose—it will be easily bent, like the cartilage in the human ear; in a bird a year or so old it will be brittle and in an old bird tough and hard to bend or break. Unfortunately, tricky dealers sometimes break the end of the breastbone before exhibiting the bird and thus render the test worthless."

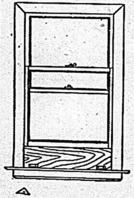
It may be well to look solely to the feet, for the department says: "If the feet are left on the carcass they furnish a test of age. In a young bird they are soft and smooth, becoming hard and rough as the bird grows older. The claws are short and sharp in a young bird, becoming longer and blunter with age and use."

Turkeys up to a year old are said to have black feet, which grow pink up to three years old and then turn gradually gray and grow dull. In a fresh bird the feet feel moist, soft and limber. If dressed with the head on the eyes look bright and full. As it becomes stale the eyes shrink and the feet dry and harden when too stale—i. e., when decomposition is well under way the body turns dark and greenish.

VENTILATION.

This Scheme Lets In Fresh Air Without Creating a Draft.

Where the windows of the sleeping room are situated too near the bed delicate persons often deny themselves the much needed fresh air in the natural fear of taking cold. A simple device I saw not long since consisted merely of a thin, smooth board the exact width and length of the window ledge (less the side strips), which was fastened to the sash edge of the ledge. The board was hinged perfectly flush with the sash and when not in use lay flat on the ledge, where it was out of the way and yet convenient [illegible] of needed. When fresh air [illegible] when the window [illegible] was wanted the window was raised the width of the board, which was then lifted and pushed forward to act as a support for the sash. Thus the window was opened in the middle, the current of air entering between the top of the lower sash and the bottom of the upper one, the bottom of the window, where drafts are to be most feared, being closed by the board. This simple draft screen may be put in place by even a feminine carpenter, and, if varnished or painted to match the rest of the woodwork, it will be scarcely noticeable when not in use. Of course the board may be as wide as desired, the greater width allowing a freer circulation of air, but when wider than the window ledge it will be a little more conspicuous when down.—Good Housekeeping.



THE WINDOW DRAFT SCREEN.

Women In Journalism.

In Paris some patient person has been collecting statistics about women journalists. There are 600 of these, he declares, who live by journalism in England as against 2,193 in the United States and 1,200 in Germany. Of the latter, 27 per cent deal with literature, 18½ per cent with political economy, 10 per cent with pedagogy, 8½ per cent with science, 7½ per cent with fashions, 5 per cent with history, 4½ per cent with domestic economy, 4½ per cent with housing problems and 3½ per cent with politics. The same statistician asserts that the incomes of these women vary from 1,000 francs ($200) to 6,000 francs ($1,200).

Cocoa Before Breakfast.

The woman who is awakened by the first streak of dawn will do well to drink a hot cup of cocoa if many hours are to elapse before breakfast is served. Cocoa furnishes both food and drink and is easily digested by most people. It will relieve any faint feeling and give one the necessary strength to dress. The cocoa may be made the night before and can be heated in three minutes over an alcohol lamp. If the cocoa is made with fresh milk it will keep perfectly overnight.

CARE OF BEDROOMS.

The Weekly Cleaning and How It Should Be Performed.

For the weekly cleaning out of a bedroom one should collect all the required articles to work with, such as the long carpet whisk, the dust pan and brush, the dust sheets and the mattress brush. This is followed by the brushing of the mattress and the dusting of the bedstead.

Make the bed and shake and pin up any curtains. Remove short muslin blinds. Dust all the ornaments and place on a tray outside the room.

Shake and fold up all toilet covers, and cover the bed and large pieces of furniture after dusting with dust sheets. Roll up rugs and mats and carry out of the room to be shaken. Then sweep the ceiling, cornice and walls with a clean broom covered with a clean duster. Shut the windows and sprinkle the strip of carpet with clean, drained tea leaves. Sweep the carpet with a long handled carpet whisk toward one pile, sprinkling and sweeping in strips till the whole is clean, afterward sweeping the wooden surroundings with a hair broom. Then open the windows and leave the door closed for dust to settle.

While waiting prepare all the things that have been removed ready to replace. The dust sheets may now be removed carefully, shaken in the open air, folded and put away.

Dust first the highest things—windows, door frames, etc.—and after rubbing the furniture the wooden surroundings should be gone over with a damp rubber, dry duster and floor polish. Now clean the windows, and the week's duty has been done to the bedroom.

BUTTONS AND STRINGS.

Save Time and Temper by Paying Attention to Your Clothes.

Buttons and strings are likely to prove a source of much unhappiness in the daily experiences unless the old adage is remembered, that a stitch in time saves nine. Careful scrutiny and supervision should mark the care of gloves, underclothing, mantles, gowns and, for that matter, everything that depends on a button or a button's relative, the hook and eye. These should be looked after when they are added to the wardrobe and before they have been initiated into the familiarity of common use, else, perchance, the wearer goes forth to the daily toil or the hour's social duties and is embarrassed to find a button gone or a string broken.

A half hour devoted to care of them in the first place will save one's time, one's temper and one's nerves in the days and months which are to follow before the new clothes become old.

Perfectly adjusted buttons and strings and hooks and eyes are absolutely necessary to the completeness and elegance of the toilet. A careless person may be known by the generally unfinished look of her own and her children's clothing, by her frequent resort to pins and the other evil trademarks which stamp an unthrifty person.

CULINARY CONCEITS.

Dates stuffed with cream cheese make a delicious afternoon tea relish.

Roast a bird with the breast down the greater part of the time. The flesh will then remain more juicy.

If a tablespoonful of vinegar is put into the lard in which doughnuts are fried it will prevent them from absorbing too much fat.

Slices of whole wheat bread spread with cream cheese [illegible] sprinkled with finely minced [illegible] sweet green or red peppers make delicious sandwiches.

Pumpkin pies topped with whipped cream and sprinkled with minced nuts or dotted with whole pecan meats are an appetizing variation of an old time dessert.

If your family indulges in much pie or biscuits it is convenient to have always on hand a quantity of flour already mixed with the shortening, and either dish can then be readily made in a very short time.

Reviving Wilted Roses.

Wilted roses, seemingly fit only for the rubbish heap, may be completely revived and freshened, says National Magazine. Put the stems of the roses in a tumbler of water and then place the tumbler and roses in a vessel of sufficient size to allow the entire bouquet to be covered. Cover the vessel tightly and leave undisturbed for twenty-four hours. By this time the roses will be found all fresh and invigorated as if just plucked from the bushes with every petal covered with artificial dew. Wilted lettuce may be freshened and kept in condition for weeks if treated in the same way.

A Cooking Hint.

A tiny lump of butter dropped into the stewpan will prevent almost any liquid from boiling over, and it is always a welcome aid to a flavoring process too. For all vegetables, for apple sauce, stewed prunes, for custards, and even for coffee, it helps the busy housewife, who has no extra time to watch her pot—even after it boils. Then it saves many an additional stove cleaning and the scouring of burned pans, and last, but not least, the entire house pervading odor, which is the awful herald and reprover of such calamities.—Dorothy Shepherd in Ladies' World.

Linoleum Polish.

Beeswax and turpentine polish for linoleum is hard to beat as far as its appearance is concerned, but it has one defect—it causes a slipperiness which may be very dangerous to children and old people. A polish which has no such objection is made of equal parts of linseed oil and vinegar. Apply a little to a flannel cloth, rub it well on the linoleum and polish with a clean, dry cloth.

Black-Belle

By CLEF LOVELL

Copyright, 1905, by E. S. McClure

"Oh, it's you, you wretched little thing! No; go away, Black-Belle! I won't have anything to do with you. It was all your doing. You know it was." And the pretty brown head was again buried deeply in the cushions, and the hammock shook with the girl's convulsive sobs.

The little black calf eyed her mistress in wide eyed wonder, then nosed the hammock gently. Whatever had been the matter these last three days? She could not imagine.

The girl suddenly sat up and tossed her hair from her tear reddened eyes.

"Yes, you wretched little creature, it was all your doing right through! Your frightening Dick's horses and our quarreling over it and going on and on; then my saying I'd just go and marry Sam West; his asking father, and father saying yes, and then saying I'd have to, when I wanted to back out unless Sam agreed, but he wouldn't. Oh, it's just horrible! And I hate him!

"'Uncle Sammy!' Why, folks would be calling me 'Aunty West!' And me only twenty-three! They'd do it for spite. Oh—

HE THREW IT BACK TOWARD THE DOOR. "TAKE THAT, YOU FOOL!"

"And when I love Dick so much. Oh, if mother were only living!

"But there's father at the gate. I suppose I'll have to cheer up and smile and be bright, and everything, or he'll be angry.

"Why, what's the matter? There's something wrong with him!"

There was something wrong. On his way from town a sudden and unexpected gust of wind had enveloped Sheriff Bark in dust, filling his eyes, and he was scarcely able to see, and for half an hour Milly forgot her own misery in attending her father. When she had done all she could to ease his inflamed and smarting eyes, she bandaged them and led him to the big chair in the dining room, where he sank back, still suffering considerable pain and much out of temper.

Meantime Black-Belle had tired of searching the long grass of the orchard for windfalls and had sought the fence, to ponder enviously on the freedom of the dusty road beyond. Suddenly, as acting on a thought, she turned and trotted briskly back about the house and down the lane toward the road.

The lane gate was closed!

Indignantly Black-Belle butted hard against it, shoved sideways against it, backed against it, but all to no purpose. Thrusting her head between the bars, she sought to raise it, after the manner of Samson, but fruitlessly. She spied the big iron latch. Poking her nose beneath it, she lifted it. It fell back in its place. With a toss of resentment she raised it again. Then, disappointed and cross, she turned about and strolled toward the house. She must be satisfied with other amusement.

"Milly," called the sheriff, "do you see Sam West coming up the road?"

"No, dad," replied Milly from the kitchen.

"Keep a lookout for him. John said he'd get him talked over to local option all right today and send him over to sign the petition.

"Ah, this is him," he added ungrammatically a moment later, catching the click of the gate latch and footfalls on the path. The footsteps paused before the open door.

"Good evening, Sam," said the sheriff affably.

The answer was a sharp sniff.

The sheriff's prospective son-in-law was an exceedingly eccentric man, with a hundred odd tricks of speech and manner, even of silence, which were of peculiar significance to those who knew him, and in that contemptuous snort Sheriff Bark read an unlooked for but certain opposition to a cause he had ardently taken to heart. His already ruffled temper gave way, and, throwing himself back in the chair, he exclaimed warmly and bitterly: "You needn't say another word—not another word! I know all you mean—every stupid, pigheaded word of it!

"But," again turning his blinded eyes toward the door, "can't you never talk like an ordinary mortal, Sam West? That's just the way you talk politics. I get you cornered on 16 to 1, you sniff; I get you agin the fence on reciprocity, you snort; I down you on trusts, you grunt. Bah!"

His caller sniffed again.

The sheriff turned from him in supreme disgust. There was a low cough, and the chair beside the door moved slightly.

"Oh, yes; come in and have a seat," exclaimed the sheriff apologetically.

The chair moved again.

"Oh, there's something on it, is there? You see, I can't see. I got my eyes full of dust today."

Raising his voice, he called, "Milly, come and give Mr. West a chair."

The kitchen door opened. There was an exclamation, a momentary silence, then a wild scream of girlish laughter. Simultaneously there was a clatter and clawing at the door, a frightened bawl, and, tearing the bandage from his eyes, the sheriff saw the flourishing heels of the disappearing calf.

Milly laughed until she dropped weakly into a chair, while her father, from sheer inadequacy of anger equal to the occasion, sank limply back and smiled foolishly.

But he vowed he would be revenged on the meddlesome animal. When Milly left the room he secured a small stick of wood from the wood box, and, having practiced swinging the missile back toward the doorway until he felt sure of being able to strike the calf without turning about the chair and before she would have time to withdraw, he settled back and waited.

A few minutes later, with a glow of satisfaction, he heard her again clicking up the walk. With a grim smile he took one more look toward the door, measured the distance with his eye, again gauged the movement of his arm and leaned back in his former position.

The animal reached the door, halted a moment and, as before, placed her feet over the threshold. Quietly the sheriff leaned forward, drew the stick up across his breast and suddenly, leaning sideways, with all his strength threw it back toward the door.

"Take that, you fool! I'll show"—

"S-Sam! Sam West!"

Straightening himself with an effort and with one hand still gripped tightly across his stomach, the outraged man sprang forward and shook his fist in the sheriff's face.

"You—you"— he exclaimed inarticulately, and before the sheriff could recover power of speech he spun about and ran from the room, only pausing on the doorstep to shout back: "I came up and heard what you said a minute ago when you thought it was I! I thought I must 'a' made a mistake and came back! And this ends it! I'll never marry your girl as long as I live!"

And Sam kept his word. He will probably continue to keep it, for within three months Milly and Dick were married.

And thus Black-Belle repaired her wrongdoing.

The Canary Bird.

About 350 years ago a ship, returning from the islands in the Atlantic which people then called the Fortunate isles, but which were undoubtedly the Canaries, went ashore on the coast of Italy near Leghorn. A case of beautiful birds captured in those islands was broken and the birds were liberated. Through some caprice they did not take refuge on the mainland, but went to the island of Elba, where in due time they nested and bred and increased in number. The Italians discovered that they were admirable singers and began to capture them and sell them in cages. This gave rise to a traffic which soon completely cleared the island of Elba of "canary birds," so that not one was left there in a wild state. From that time the history of the canary has been a record of perpetual imprisonment and transformation of its appearance and character. In their natural state, as they still exist in the Canary and Madeira and other Atlantic islands, the birds are of a grayish green or greenish brown color and are not remarkable for beauty, but they have been known to burst the membrane of their throats in pouring forth their songs.

Black Horses Fade.

"The reason you see so few black horses is because people let them fade," said a horse lover. "You may laugh, but a horse fades just as the carpet or your own hair fades in the bright sun. You know how the dazzling sun at the beach will bleach your hair in a short time. Well, if you keep a horse in the sun constantly the same thing happens to him, and his coat changes in color. Of course you wouldn't notice it so much in a bay or chestnut horse, but it is very noticeable in a black horse. His coat first seems to change into a rusty black and then changes into a reddish tint. I have two black horses, and their coats are like jet, but I never let them stand in the sun. I often hitch them across the road from where I want to get out so as to keep them in the shade. Consequently they haven't faded a mite and are as coal black as when I purchased them."—New York Press.

A Happy Suggestion.

An amusing incident occurred in an English rural church a short time ago. The minister gave out the hymn, "I Love to Steal Away," etc. The regular precentor being absent, the duty devolved upon a good old deacon, who commenced "I love to steal" and then broke down. Raising his voice a little higher, he then sang, "I love to steal." At length, after a desperate cough, he made a final demonstration and roared out, "I love to steal!" The effort was too much. Every one but the parson was laughing. He rose and with the utmost coolness said:

"Seeing our brother's propensities, let us pray."

SAVE OLD RAGS.

They Come In Very Useful In Many Cases of Sickness.

All good housewives should save all their old linen, muslin underwear, towels and flannels. One never can tell when they will come in handy.

One family which was so healthy as to be a byword in the community had a careful and economical woman at its head, and she always saved old petticoats, chemises, handkerchiefs and the like, having them washed, ironed and put away, as well as sections of worn bath towels and old blankets—all put away perfectly clean.

Recently this family had a long case of typhoid fever and another case of erysipelas, when those old rags were worth their weight in gold. The old towels and pieces of blanket were used to protect the bed when washing the patient, the old handkerchiefs were used for washing out the mouth and eyes, as well as for their original purpose, and the old soft muslin and linen rags were ideal for bandaging the erysipelas patient when using a salve that would ruin anything it touched.

Nothing new can be bought that will take the place of soft old rags, and she is a wise woman who puts hers away clean in a safe place.

FOR A SMOOTH SKIN.

Some Ways For Preventing or Getting Rid of Wrinkles.

Plans to defeat wrinkles are legion, but one which has been used for many generations is better in many ways than those of later invention. This is intended to have a tonic effect on the skin while preserving its softness and suppleness. To make it, take juice of lily root, 60 grams; honey, 15 grams; white wax, 30 grams; rose water, 12 grams. Melt the wax, and mix the rest of the things as it begins to grow cold. This makes a pomade which is laid on the face thickly at night and wiped off with a soft cloth in the morning.

Another excellent paste for the same purpose is made by taking sixty-four grams of very fresh cold cream and beating in with it four grams of powdered camphor gum and the same of simple tincture of benzoin in an equal quantity of rectified spirits of wine. This is to be applied at night after washing the face. Another formula for wrinkles is fifteen grams of powdered alum and fifteen grams of sweet almond oil. A very recent plan is to use pomades of menthol, in proportion of 10 to 20 per cent, according to the susceptibility of the skin.

THE HOME DOCTOR.

Lemonade when given boiling hot will relieve a severe cough or cold.

When grip or other epidemics are prevailing wear a little crude sulphur in your boots or shoes.

Do not take quinine immediately before or after a meal. Quinine hinders the digestion of meat, milk and eggs.

To remove pimples from the face dissolve in the juice of half a lemon a little common salt and apply the mixture on a piece of linen.

If you would get rid of rheumatism do that which will cause free perspiration without subsequent chilling. If you would get rid of gout make your liver as active as possible.

The white of an egg when beaten with milk and drunk night and morning is of service in mild cases of jaundice. When beaten with sugar and a very little water it will make the voice stronger and clearer.

For the Sickroom.

In a recent case of illness in which a trained nurse was employed the pleasant air of the sickroom was noticeable. When commented on the nurse explained how it was managed. A few pieces of brown paper had been soaked in saltpeter water and allowed to dry, says the St. Louis Republic. When occasion required, a piece of this was laid in a tin pan kept for the purpose (the coal scuttle would do), a handful of dried lavender flowers laid upon it and a match applied. The aroma was particularly refreshing and agreeable. Another suggestion in the same line applies to the use of lavender in another form. A few drops of oil of lavender poured into a glass of very hot water will purify the air of a room almost instantly.

Hemming Table Linen.

Table linen should, of course, be hemmed by hand. That is "the correct thing," but the hemmer of the machine can be made very useful for this purpose in the following manner: Place the edge of the cloth beneath the hemmer. Do not thread the needle, but as you turn the hem let it run through the machine. Turn and press thus the full length of every side. Then take from the machine and hem in the usual way by hand. The neat turning of the hem is the main work. This accomplished, the rest is soon over.

Falling Hair.

Falling hair has many causes, but nervous troubles are the most common. Too frequent washing of the scalp, especially with harsh soap, borax or ammonia, weakens the hair and is liable to make it fall. Dandruff is a common cause and should be attended to. The use of combs is to be condemned, especially those which are too fine for the hair. Your comb should be coarse and used as little as possible. It should never pull and never rake the scalp.

Sofa Pillows.

Sofa pillows made up in the shape of a football are not much larger than a football and are covered with burlap, denim, calfskin or most anything and sometimes laced up with leather thongs in close imitation of the real thing. They are down filled and nice to tuck in hollows.

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

A CURIOUS PHENOMENON.

The Message In the Glass and How to Decipher It.

Boys and girls are often wont to write missives to each other, sometimes in cipher and sometimes with the letters formed backward. The simplest way of reading the latter is by holding it in front of the looking glass and reading the reflection.

A scientific journal of Paris tells of a more novel and amusing way to accomplish the same thing. It is as follows:

Fill a glass with water and hold it above the eyes. Place the paper in the water so that the tops of the letters will be turned down and apply to the opposite side of the glass. Look now at the inferior horizontal surface of the water, and you will see just above the edge of the paper the inverted image of paper and words, with the letters right side up. This curious phenomenon is owing to what is called total reflection. The rays emitted by the inscription are reflected on the inferior horizontal surface of the water and impress the eye like rays reflected by a mirror. If you place the eye too low the image will disappear; for, the incidence of the rays of light having diminished, the eye will then see objects placed above the level of the water.

THE LETTER IN THE GLASS.

AN APE'S CURIOSITY.

The Trick Which Always Fooled a Mischievous Chimpanzee.

A few years ago in the London zoo Joe, a chimpanzee, was lodged and boarded in a separate compartment. Every morning when Joe was let out for an airing he grew very mischievous. He abused his liberty by leaping around the outside of the cage and pulling the tails of his mates. When it was time to shut him up again in his cage Joe would just as regularly rebel and refuse to come to his keeper. As he was too nimble to be caught and too crafty to be allured by dainties, his keeper had to use strategy. Near an end of the monkey house was a large dark hole out of which came a gas pipe. Having opened the door of Joe's compartment, the keeper would peep into the dark hole, and then appear as if he saw something intensely interesting. Joe would descend from his perch and, like him, [illegible] the hole. Then, with a gesture of fear, the keeper would run into Joe's cage, followed by the chimpanzee, chattering with fright, and the door would be shut. Singular as it may seem, though this trick was repeated daily for months, Joe never learned it. Every morning he was captured by the same ruse, and yet experience never taught him wisdom.

The Deepest Lake.

In the Cascade mountains, about seventy-five miles northeast of Jacksonville, Ore., is Great Sunken lake, the deepest lake in the world. It is said to average 2,000 feet down to the water on all its sides. The depth of the water is unknown, and its surface is as smooth and unruffled as a mammoth sheet of glass, it being so far below the mountain rim as to be unaffected by the strongest winds. It is about fifteen miles in length and four and one-half miles wide.

Land Surveying.

The art of land surveying owes its origin to the fact that the Egyptians were unable to keep permanent monuments on land which was overflowed every year by the Nile. Under such circumstances it became necessary to have some means of re-identifying the various pieces of land. The instruments and mathematical methods of astronomy, with suitable modifications, were used by the Egyptians for land surveying.

Conundrums.

Who was Adam's mother? The earth.

How many calves' tails would it take to reach from the earth to the sky? One, if it were long enough.

What is it that never was and never will be? A mouse's nest in a cat's ear.

Which was the first, the hen or the egg? The hen, at the creation.

Politeness.

I don't think grown folks seem polite,
Though, of course, they are always right
About the time to go to bed
And being washed and dressed and fed.
But things that they don't want to tell
They don't speak out, they stop and spell.
But now they say I've grown so wise
And know p-i-e-s spells pies
And know when they spell candy, too.
Why, I'll just tell you what they do!
They speak in French and say they've fears
That "little pitchers have large ears."
And, just because I'm young and small,
I think that's not polite at all.

—Youth's Companion.

Overcoats Ordered Out of the House

Here's the first "toot" of our Overcoat Special——

Time's Up and the Coats Must Go

If you want a coat step lively, please.

If you knew we were giving away $5 bills you would come in for your share, wouldn't you? Well, it's just what we are doing, and sometimes we give away even more.

We are closing out our Overcoats.

We won't carry them over.

It certainly isn't good business to do so.

Our Overcoats are cut to the cost and often less.

Now Is the Time to Buy an Overcoat.

Copyright 1905 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

MEN'S SUITS

After the season's rush we find many lines of Men's Suits badly broken. These we are offering at greatly reduced prices.

Quick & Robertson

BELLEVILLE'S FOREMOST CLOTHIERS.

ESTABLISHED 1870.

30 p.c. Reduction

ON ALL

MANUFACTURED FURS

S. A. HYMAN & CO.,
MANUFACTURING FURRIER.

N. B. Highest cash prices paid for Raw Furs.

The Best Yet the Very Best

AND YOU ALWAYS GET GOOD THINGS AT SCANTLEBURY'S.

We have to-day, just this day, prepared a dozen BARGAIN TABLES the choicest BARGAIN TABLES you have yet seen anywhere—

Cost has not been considered. These bargain tables are prepared just to close out everything in china and fancy goods preparatory to our arrangements now under way for our Wall Paper season ahead.

During this week of BARGAIN TABLES we have also classified our pictures into Bargain departments—or wall Bargain Tables — and they are remarkably interesting.

We will add to the above bargains all this week everything in books in the rear store at 25c each — books worth 50c to $1.00 for 25c Remember.

C. B. Scantlebury.
Designer, Decorator, etc.

Wall Paper this week at 25 per cent. discount.

[illegible]

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

In a Hurry

WHEN YOU ARE IN A HURRY WE'LL RESPOND PROMPTLY.

If you have a breaking of pipes or a sudden giving way of connections, you want a plumber quick. We answer "hurry" calls, make repairs, and satisfaction will be yours.

Best not to wait till a "hurry" call is necessary. Let us fix your plumbing before it gives way.

JOHN LEWIS & CO.

"SOMETHING BIG"

in the way of a surprise is a pair of our spectacles. The surprise comes in, in the ease in which you can read with any new pair we may sell you. Spectacles and Eye Glasses fitted by us are a positive luxury. Luxuries as a rule cost a lot of money, but ours don't. Anyone can afford our "best glasses made" and be sure when using them that they're helping their eyes instead of hurting them.

ALEX. RAY.

BUSINESS CARDS at The Intelligencer. Your name and address on 500 $1.00. a19-tf

BARGAIN PRICES IN SHIRTS

For a few days we will offer you a large assortment of $1.00 and $1.25 Shirts for:—

75c

See window display.

Chas. J. Symons

298 Front St. Shirts to Order.

GLASSES FOR NEAR AND FAR

The inconvenience of separate glasses for reading and distance seeing is avoided by our double vision glasses which afford perfect vision for near and far.

These glasses can be correctly fitted to you, with or without rims, at very little more than the regular glasses cost you.

Eyes examined free

T. Blackburn
Jeweler & Optician.

Shouldn't Skate on Sunday

On Sunday afternoon some boys were skating on a small sheet of ice on a lot between Great St. James and Mill streets, when one of their number, Arthur Rowbotham, met with a nasty accident. The lad fell and a companion who was close to him also went down and his skate struck Rowbotham on the chin and throat inflicting a gash that required several stitches.

Sunlight Soap is better than other soaps, but is best when used in the Sunlight way. Buy Sunlight Soap and follow directions.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

HOCKEY.

Yesterday's Record.

O. H. A. Intermediate.
Simcoe	20	Ingersoll	4
*Mic Macs	8	Strathconas	1
*Gore Bay	9	Little Current	3
Guelph	7	Galt	2
Stratford	7	Brantford	3
Perth	6	S. F. Strathcona.	0
Newmarket	5	Barrie	3
O. H. A. Junior.
Lindsay	9	Parkdale	1
*Meaford	4	Owen Sound	3
Woodstock	8	London	4
St. Georges	8	R. M. C.	2
Port Hope	3	Cobourg	2
Midland II.	5	Gravenhurst	4
Nova Scotia League.
Amherst	6	Windsor	1
Professional League.
Michigan Soo.	4	Pittsburg	2
Exhibition Games.
Brougham	11	Pickering	2

*Played Saturday.

Bankers Won in Extra Time.

The hockey match between the Greys and Bankers last night, was a rough and ready affair, and a good many of the players got considerable exercise in climbing the fence. For a good while it looked as though the Greys would win, but their more mature opponents seemed to wear them down and finally won out in extra time by a score of 4 to 3. This was the line-up:

Greys.		Bankers.
Minchinton	Goal	Williamson
Campbell	Point	Allen
Robb	Cover.	Smith
Stroud	Rover.	Taylor
Lobsinger	Centre	Allen
O'Flynn	Right Wing	W. Hamilton
Turner	Left Wing	R. Hamilton

The Greys scored first, after outplaying the Cash Handlers, but the latter evened up just before half-time, the Greys' goal-tender letting a dead easy one get by him.

In the second half the teams seesawed, each scoring alternately till, when time was up, they were three each. Two five minute ends were played and the Bankers scored one, thus winning the match by 4 to 3. The game was fast and rough, and a couple of times threatened to break into Queensberry rules. Some of the players displayed excellent form, notably Campbell for the Greys, and Williamson and Smith for the Bankers. "Sandy" Burrows was referee.

SPORTING NOTES.

A great deal of interest was manifested in this city last night over the match which took place at Port Hope between the juniors of that town and the fast bunch from Cobourg. Belleville's chances depended on that match. If Port Hope won there was a splendid chance for a three-cornered tie in the group; if Port Hope lost—well, then it was up to us to go away back, etc. And Port Hope won by the close score of 3-2, there being no scoring at all in the second half. A large crowd surrounded the telegraph office here, waiting for the returns of the game, and the news of Port Hope's victory was received with as much joy, almost, as though Belleville had won. The report last night said the match was the greatest ever played in Port Hope, but with that we beg to differ. The greatest match ever played in Port Hope was about three years ago, when Harry Burrell took his intermediates up and walloped the Ports by 4 to 3 on their own ice. That was a game to make a fellow sit up and whoop! Of the fine bunch that played for Belleville that night there's only one left.

The standing in this group now is:

	Won.	Lost.	To play
Cobourg	4	2	0
Belleville	3	2	1
Port Hope	3	2	1
Picton	0	4	2

The Belleville kids go to Picton to-night, and should have no difficulty in winning, providing they strike their proper gait. But the Picton lads may "buck up" and surprise us a bit. However, we don't think they will.

The match at Cobourg last Saturday, according to the Port Hope Guide, was a fierce exhibition. Here are a few extracts from the Guide:

"The Juniors went to Cobourg on Saturday night last and played their league match and received their usual amount of abuse. The weather was very mild and as the skaters had been allowed to use the ice all day, there was nothing left for the hockeyists but mud and slush. And the lights as usual were no use whatever. Half the lamps were burnt out and those that were burning were very dim. Every time the puck was lifted the players would have to listen for it to drop and then make a general scatter to gain possession of it.

"The score remained a tie for some time and had it not been for the valuable assistance rendered the Cobourg team by Robert Stott, the umpire, it would probably have ended with the score unchanged. It was the rankest decision we ever witnessed and coming as it did, will not soon be forgotten by the Port Hopers. The puck was shot from the side, and Gamble seeing that it would pass over the net made no attempt to stop it. It struck the wire screen over the fence at the east end and bounded striking the net at the back. Murphy took the puck from behind the net, but nevertheless Stott declared that it passed between the poles, and as the referee was down the ice at the time it had to count. Time was just about up and the locals took no further interest in the game, and just as the time-keepers announced full time Cobourg scored another.

"In a scuffle at the fence for possession of the puck between McNichol and McLean, one of the spectators caught McLean by the neck and gave him a hard blow on the face. Such is the treatment, generally given to the Port Hope team when they visit Cobourg, and it is time that the O.H.A. should step in and put a stop to such work. If players have to be insulted and abused in this manner then it is high time to quit the game."

Two rinks from this city will this evening go to Napanee to play a return match with the curlers of that town. The local players will be as follows: Rink No. 1 — M. Wright, F. Quick, J. A. McFee, J. D. Clarke, skip. Rink No. 2.—W. E. Schuster, A. McGie, S. W. Vermilyea, F. Dolan, skip.

The local O.H.A. Juniors went to Picton to-day on the 11 a.m. train. The team was composed of Phillips, Connolly, Alford, Allen, Burke, Weller and Spangenberg. Pepper did not go.

A BELLEVILLE BOY IN LORENZO MARQUES

WRITES INTERESTINGLY OF CONDITIONS IN THAT FAR-OFF COUNTRY—THE HAPPY KAFFIR AND HIS WIVES.

The following letter has been received, by a friend in this city, from Mr. Frank Lynn, a Belleville boy who, it will be remembered, went to South Africa with the First Contingent and, after coming back to Canada, subsequently returned to the Land of the Southern Cross. He writes from Port Matolla, Lorenzo Marques, under date of October 16, as follows:

Last Sunday I wrote to say that I had received the two views you sent me all right, but did not post it on Saturday, for on Wednesday I got your letter of Aug. 22, and yesterday I received yours of Sept. 11, so now am going to answer them both. In the one you say I have told you nothing of the country and people, so will now try to do so. To start with, I will tell you of Port Matolla. This place was named by the L. T. & T. Co. when they located here some seven or eight years ago and everything in it is controlled and owned by them, except the flour mill and cold storage plants, and these are owned by members of the Lingham Co, but separately. We are about seven miles up the bay from the town and just a mile further up there are three rivers join each other and start the bay. The rivers are the Matolla, Umbolosi and Catembi. The Matolla is the smallest, and we can go up it about ten miles and get fresh water, but very poor. In the next we only have to travel about five miles and it is this river that we have to depend on for our water supply in the dry season, and also in the rainy season, if we do not get sufficient rain to supply the wants of the company. On the Catembi river the boats can travel almost to the Transvaal borders (that is, small, flat-bottomed ones), and the water is salt water all the fifty miles.

There are about thirty white men and about seven white women in Matolla; one English, two Australians and three Germans from the Transvaal, and a Canadian, Mrs. Diminie. There is quite a settlement of Kaffirs around here, and for the most part they are not fond of work and the ones that work all the time are those that have only one wife, and so the wife can't raise enough to keep the Kaffir and family, therefore the Kaffir has to get out and work, too, but where they have from three to five wives they just sleep and eat and are the happiest creatures on earth. Of course you do not want to think that we are hard on them, for we are not, and as is the rule when they come up and take off their hat (if they happen to have one) and wait until we speak to them they are always treated well. They live principally upon corn and peanuts and fruit, the game being pretty well driven out from here within ten or fifteen miles, anyway, except snakes, which some of the natives eat.

We have some very bad snakes, such as the momboth, python and puff adder, the bite of the first and last being fatal. I have a snake skin in my room of the python, it being about eight to ten feet, but am not sure, as I have never measured it.

There are a good amount of small trees growing, and the grass grows as tall as eight feet, but one cannot depend on raising anything in this country, for any day a storm of locusts is liable to come along and when they come they come in billions, so thick are they that the sun is fairly obscured, and when they light they will stop for a couple of hours, and then away they go, leaving a plain of waste behind, so you can have an idea what they are like.

There is one railroad running from Delagoa Bay to the borders, controlled by the Portuguese Government, and another from Biera, under the same control.

We go to work about 6 a.m. and work until eleven and have an hour for breakfast, and to work again at twelve noon until 6 p.m., which, you will see, is a very long day, and a great deal too long for this country, but I do not kick and can stand it if the boss can. In the evenings we read or write, or do something, and as a rule all are in bed by ten p.m., while I always turn in at nine and am almost always up at five.

George E. Deroche Is Senior Judge Of Hastings Co.

"EMINENT" DESERONTO POLITICIAN GETS HIS REWARD

To-day's Toronto Globe has the following despatch;

Ottawa, Jan. 29.—At to-day's Cabinet meeting John E. Harding was promoted to be Senior Judge of Victoria County, Mr. Hugh McMillan, of Guelph, being appointed Junior Judge. Mr. George E. Deroche, of Deseronto, received the appointment of Senior Judge of Hastings County. Mr. E. P. Clement, who was favorably spoken of in connection with the Victoria County vacancy, is destined for the honor of a Judgeship on some future occasion.

DR TORREY DEFENDED

MR. GEO. PERRY CRITICIZES A CORRESPONDENT WHOSE COMMUNICATION APPEARED YESTERDAY.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer;

Sir,—You refer in to-day's issue to a New Testament student finding fault with Dr. Torrey's preaching and quoting some verses in illustration of it, said verses making it appear that Dr. Torrey's preaching is calculated simply to make people miserable.

The writer does not say he has heard Dr. Torrey, nor does he even say what Dr. Torrey said that is contrary to New Testament teaching (and what teaching he refers to we are not told). As the article stands it is simply a libel against an honored servant of God, who has been used of Him to bring many a soul out of "darkness into light, out of misery into joy and from Satan to God."

Being in Toronto for a few days lately, I went to four of Dr. Torrey's meetings, and although not agreeing with all of his methods (to his own master he must give account), yet as to his gospel preaching I think "New Testament Student" would not be able scripturally to pick a flaw in it.

Without a doubt, he preaches man's complete ruin through sin and consequently lost condition (truly enough to make any man miserable when first seeing it), but he does not stop there, but points the sinner to Calvary, where a holy and righteous God's demands have been fully met in the person of a substitute, who took the sinner's place, as a proof that God's desire is that man should be in a condition the very opposite of that described by your correspondent's verse, and in Dr. Torrey's preaching he proclaims the love of God in the gift of His Son and urges sinners to accept God's salvation by believing on the Lord Jesus Christ.

The following is an extract from to-day's World in its account of Dr. Torrey's last meeting;

"Dr. Torrey took as his subject the greatest sentence ever written —"God is love." Men could not exhaust this great sentence. The Bible was a love story—the story of a love of a Holy Father to a sinful world. It was only from the Bible that people learned that God was love. This great thought ran through the entire Bible. God loved people whether they sinned or not, but He could not forgive unless sin was forsaken. God's love was a pardoning love."

If the acceptance of this precious truth makes man miserable, it is contrary to the experience of many a saved sinner.

I am, yours,
GEO. PERRY.

Bank Changes.

J. O. Wilgress, who has been manager of the Brantford branch of the Bank of Montreal for the past four years, has been transferred to Hamilton, where he will assume charge. He will be succeeded in Brantford by A. G. Parker, formerly of Belleville, and now acting manager in Hamilton.—Hamilton Spectator.

M.r Chadwick Resigns.

Mr. R. B. Chadwick, for some time general secretary of the local branch of the Y.M.C.A., has resigned his position, his resignation to take effect on April 1st. Mr. Chadwick has accepted the secretaryship of the branch at Edmonton, Alberta, which is an excellent position. His many friends in this city will wish him success in the west, at the same time regretting that Belleville loses the services of so estimable and valuable a citizen.

COLGATES

Cashmere Boquet and Violet

TALCUM POWDER

Shaving Stick and Barber's Soap, Monad Violet, Cold Cream, Sandal Wood and other fine

TOILET SOAPS.

GEEN'S DRUG STORE

The Quinte Laundry Co.

Will call for and deliver your parcel anywhere in the city.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

Front Street South. Telephone 102.

PERSONAL ....AND.... SOCIAL.

Miss Luella Curry, of Madoc, is visiting in the city.

Mrs. J. Ives, of Ogdensburg, N.Y., is in the city, the guest of Mrs. J. V. Jenkins, Hotel Quinte.

Mrs. B. Levin Hyman will receive at her residence, George street, Thursday and Friday of this week.

Mr. Saunders, of the local Bank of Montreal staff, is in Kingston, where he was called owing to the death of a brother in that city on Saturday.

Mrs. A. G. Parker will leave Belleville this week. She will be very glad if any of her friends will call to say good-bye to her on Wednesday afternoon

PURCHASED CRONK'S LIVERY.

Having purchased Cronk's Livery I guarantee the public first-class service Weddings and funerals a specialty. Also first-class boarding stable. J. L. SILLS (successor to H. W. Cronk.) 1t

Famous Through the World

In yesterday morning's mail Mr. J. W. Johnson, F.C.A., Principal of the Ontario Business College, received orders for his famous books, "The Canadian Accountant," "Joint Stock Bookkeeping" and "Promissory Notes, Drafts and Cheques," from Madras Presidency, India, from Sierra Leone, Africa, and from New York City. These books are "Canada's Standard Business Books," and are sold throughout the English-speaking world. By the medium of these books, written in Belleville and printed, bound and published here, as well as through the fame of the Ontario Business College, this city is known practically throughout the world.

A NOTABLE BANQUET.

(Leslie's Weekly, Nov. 30th, 1905.)

One of the most notable banquets annually held in the City of New York is unique. Though it is one of the most expensive dinners that the Waldorf-Astoria serves, and though it is attended by some of the most eminent professional men and some of the wealthiest financiers in the country, no wines are served, no cigars are smoked, and the only bottles found upon the table, are those containing the pure and sparkling Apollinaris. Furthermore, the diners sit down promptly at 6.15 p.m., and the banquet is adjourned at 10 o'clock. It is one of the happiest, freest, jolliest banquets served in the City of New York, and it celebrates the work of an institution universally admired and respected. We refer to the banquet of the Y.M.C.A. At the twenty-fourth annual dinner, marking the thirty-ninth anniversary of the international committee of the association recently, the guests included Governor Utter, of Rhode Island; Lieutenant-Governor Bruce, of New York; General F. D. Grant, Rear-Admiral Coghlan, President Schenck, of the Mercantile National Bank, of New York City; Vice-President Cannon, of the Fourth National Bank; James Stokes, Morris K. Jesup, a number of college presidents and clergymen, and many gentlemen noted in the field of politics and in literary and artistic circles.

REDUCED TO FIFTY CENTS.

Our complete stock of soft front shirts, regularly sold at seventy-five cents and one dollar. Desirable patterns and well assorted sizes. Sale price 50c.—QUICK & ROBERTSON.

The first test of a truly great man is humanity

CARMAN OPERA HOUE

TUESDAY. JANUARY 30, 1906.

Direct from 5 Months Run at La Salle Theatre, Chicago.

.... THE SHOW WITH MUSIC ....

"HIS HIGHNESS THE BEY."

A Musical Comedy in Two Acts. More Laughs and Music than All Others Combined.

Book and Music by Howard, Hough & Adams

10—MUSICAL COMEDY STARS—10

and 50 OTHERS, Including THE FAMOUS BROILERS and Best Chorus on Earth.

Twenty Musical Numbers. Georgeous Scenery. Ten Positive Song Hits

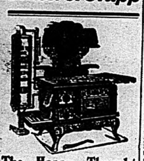
PRICES—25, 50, 75, $1.00 and $1.50.

Daily Intelligencer.

OUR SNAPPY GINGER SNAPS

Are fresh, crisp, snappy, wholesome and good, nothing but the best materials being used. 10c a lb. Some fresh to-day. Try them.

Chas. S. Clapp



The Happy Thought

Is the only range which has been made under one name for eighteen years, and is still the leader.

WM. McGIE,

Tel. 38. 11 Front St.

CHRISTMAS FLOWERS

A choice lot of Plants and Cut Flowers, Holly and Mistletoe.

COLLIP.

Better News—A FURTHER SLUMP IN MEATS.

—Beef Roast	3c, 10c, 12½c
— " Steak	10c, 12½c
— " Stew	5c, 6c,
—Round Steak	3 lbs. for 25c
—Lamb	8c, 10c, 12½c
—Pork	10c. 12½c
—Sausages	3 lb. for 25c

—GREEN.

PECK & WILLS.

Opposite Market. Successors to Walter Alfor

Sash, Door and Blind Factory.

Dressed Lumber of all kinds.—Mouldings Store Fronts and Fittings, Stair Work Grilles, Mantles, Hardwood Pannelling Bar Fixtures, &c.

Prompt attention given to custom work.

A call solicited.

PECK & WILLS.

Wedding Stationery

The Celebrated Eaton-Hurlbut manufacture, in cabinets of fifty invitations

$2.00

OTHER LINES AS WELL.

NEATLY PRINTED.

—AT—

The INTELLIGENCER

Job Department

Front St., Belleville.

Apollinaris

"THE QUEEN OF TABLE WATERS."

Bottled only at the Apollinaris Spring, Neuenahr, Germany, and Only with its Own Natural Gas.

BEWARE OF SUBSTITUTIONS

SUICIDE OF W. A. BALL

Despondent Over His Failure to Secure Perfect Health.

Slashed Himself Across the Wrists and Throat With a Razor at the Imperial Hotel, Edmonton, Where He Had Recently Arrived After a Visit to His Relations in Ontario — Was Well-to-do.

Edmonton, Jan. 30.—W. A. Ball committed suicide in the Imperial Hotel Sunday by slashing himself across the wrists and throat with a razor. He went to his room as usual and shortly afterwards a heavy fall was heard by those below. The proprietor hurried upstairs, knocked, but obtained no reply. He then tried the door and finding it locked broke it open by force. Entering he found Ball lying on the floor gasping in a pool of blood, his throat cut clear through the windpipe. He died forty minutes after the alarm was given. Since venturing from the east his companions have noticed that he seemed to be very despondent.

Well-Known in Ontario.

Toronto, Jan. 30.—Arthur Ball was born in Galt and received his early education there coming to the University of Toronto about 1890 with John R. Blake, now police magistrate of Galt. He was a good sport and held a place on senior association (socker) football team of Varsity. After completing his course at the university he took a law course at Osgoode Hall. Always popular with his classmates it was with great sorrow they learned that he was suffering from pulmonary trouble and was forced to go west in search of health.

Hangs Himself.

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—Hanging from a beam in his own shed, with a stout logging chain around his neck, Patrick Foley was discovered dead by small boys about 7 o'clock, in Cantley, Que., yesterday morning. The suicide is believed to have been due to worry over epilepsy, which the unfortunate man had been afflicted since birth.

BOTH HANDS TORN OFF.

Terrible Fate of R. T. Clark in the Wilds of Temiskaming.

Toronto, Dec. 30.—Letters have been received at the Department of Lands and Mines, telling of the terrible fate of R. T. Clark, the youngest son of Thomas Clark of the Clark-Standard Mining Co. The accident occurred in the Temiskaming mining district. Clark and two other members of the party, Arthur Fisher and David Duke, were a mile and half from the camp, and were engaged in thawing dynamite, when it exploded.

Clark sustained terrible injuries. Both his hands were torn off at the wrists, one eye was blown out and the other probably destroyed, both eardrums were broken, one toe was fractured and both legs were burned.

Fisher was cut and burned and his foot sprained.

Duke's trousers were torn from his legs and his moccasins ripped from his feet.

Fisher walked to camp, but before help arrived Clark and Duke had their faces and ears frozen.

It is expected that Clark will regain his hearing, but his sight is gone.

"SEA WOLF" ESCAPED.

Reported Loss of "Ella G." Turns Out to Have Been Premature.

Victoria, B.C., Jan. 30.—Word reached here yesterday that the fishing schooner Ella G. is safe at Ucluelet, having arrived there yesterday morning with all well on board.

Ice 18 Inches Thick.

Sundridge, Jan. 30.—There are 15 to 18 inches of clear blue ice on Stoney Lake. Large quantities of it are being shipped.

Farmer Hangs Himself.

Stratford, Jan. 30.—Geo. Riddle, a farmer of Carthage, ended his life by hanging. His body was found in his barn hanging from a beam. Riddle was 75 years of age, and it is believed that his mind was unbalanced.

Accused of Bigamy.

New York, Jan. 30.—Capt. Albert B. Dean Reid, said to have been formerly a captain of hussars in the British army, was put on trial yesterday on a charge of bigamy preferred by Alice Anne Smalley of Canada.

Last Week

This will be the last week of our 25% Discount on GRANITE-WARE AND FANCY CHINA.

New Prints Just Opened

A large range of Ladies' Collars to hand.

A great range of Ladies' Flannelette Nightgowns at $1.00, 75c and 50c each.

Imported direct, the latest in Ladies' Lace Ties $1.25 to 20c ea.

TO CLEAR—All 25c Wrapperettes for 15c.

All 12½c Wrapperettes for 10c.

All Patent Medicines at low prices.

McINTOSH BROS.

DEAN OF KINGS IS DEAD

Christian IX. of Denmark, Born April 8, 1818, Crosses the Bar.

Death Came as a Great Shock to His Beloved Daughter, Queen Alexandra, to the Courts of Europe and to His People, to Whom He Was Beloved By Reason of His Democratic Manners—Frederick VIII. to Be Proclaimed King To-day.

Copenhagen, Jan. 30.—Christian the Ninth, the aged King of Denmark, dean of the crowned heads of Europe, father of King George of Greece, of Queen Alexandra of Great Britain and Ireland and of the Dowager Empress Maria Feodorovna of Russia, grandfather of King Haakon the Seventh of Norway and related by blood or by marriage to most of the European rulers, died with startling suddenness in the Amalienborg Palace yesterday afternoon. The accession of his successor, Prince Frederick, his eldest son, who will be known as Frederick the Eighth, will be proclaimed to-day.

The following official bulletin was issued last night.

"His Majesty died at 3.30 o'clock this afternoon. After his majesty had brought this morning's audience to a conclusion he appeared to be quite well and proceeded to luncheon as usual. Toward the end of the meal he gave evidence of indisposition and was compelled to retire to bed at 2.30 p.m. His majesty passed away peacefully, the symptoms indicating heart failure."

A Great Shock.

The death of King Christian has plunged half the courts of Europe into the deepest mourning and brought a sense of personal as well as of sincere grief to everyone throughout the kingdom of Denmark, reaching even to the humblest cottage.

Every flag in the city is at half-mast, all the places of amusement are closed and the people walk the streets as though they were passing through the chamber of death itself.

Yesterday afternoon, when the flag over the palace was placed at half-mast, the news spread rapidly. It was not believed by the great crowds which gradually assembled in the square in front of Amalienborg Palace, but when uncertainty gave place to certainty those in the assemblage shed tears and dispersed in respectful silence.

World-Wide Condolence.

Telegrams and cablegrams of condolence were pouring in last night including messages from all the sovereigns of Europe and the Danish colonies.

Premier Christensen last night tendered his resignation of the Cabinet to the new king, who expressed a wish that the present Ministry should continue to carry on the affairs of the Government.

Both Houses of Parliament will assemble to-day, when the respective presidents will formally announce the death of King Christian.

At 3 p. m. the members will assemble in the hall of the Folkething to receive the royal message announcing the accession of Frederick the Eighth. Public announcement of the death of King Christian and the accession of King Frederick will be made at noon from a balcony of the Amalienborg Palace.

Great Shock to Queen Alexandra.

London, Jan. 30.—It is expected that a memorial service in honor of the late King Christian will be held in the chapel royal, St. James' Palace, simultaneously with the funeral services held in Denmark.

Queen Alexandra received the news of the death of her father at Windsor. It came as a great shock to her, as apparently there had been no previous intimation of any indisposition.

BELOVED BY HIS PEOPLE.

Sketch of a King Noted For His Democratic Manners.

Christian IX., King of Denmark, was born April 8, 1818, and succeeded to the throne on Nov. 15 1862.

Prince Frederick, his eldest son and heir to the throne, was born June 3, 1843.

The late king's eldest daughter is Queen Alexandra of England, and his second son, Prince William, was elected King of Greece, under the title of George I. in 1863.

Another daughter, Marie Dagmar, is the Dowager Empress of Russia, mother of the present Czar.

Princess Thyra, the third daughter, is Duchess of Cumberland, whose husband claims the throne of Hanover.

The queen died Sept. 29, 1898, and since her death King Christian has never seemed to recover his former happy manner.

People Loved Him.

King Christian was one of the most unassuming of monarchs, democratic in his ways, and, in spite of some stormy periods, beloved by his subjects, who are perhaps the most socialistic people in Europe.

King Christian ascended the throne in troubled times, and lost through the greed of Germany the important province of Schleswig-Holstein, and for a time grave fears existed lest Germany might gobble up the whole of the little kingdom. When the Franco-German war broke out anxiety once more spread throughout Denmark because of the renewed fear that Germany would seize Denmark to secure a safe and valuable sea base. Fortunately the danger passed, and of late years the only trouble has been the radical tendencies of the King's loyal subjects.

Denmark has an area of 9,375,403 acres, and a population of 2,449,540. The kingdom includes Greenland, Iceland and several important islands in the Baltic. The exports are practically all agricultural.

His Personal Life.

The home life of the late King was remarkably happy, and the life of the palace very simple. Early rising, simple meals, plenty of exercise and as much freedom as possible from state etiquette were the distinguishing features. It has long been known that between him and the Queen of Britain, his eldest daughter, there has existed a comradeship which often drew the King to Sandringham or other royal British residences, and took the Queen frequently to Copenhagen. He was ever popular in Britain, and it is often hinted that Denmark's safety of late years from German aggression was due largely to the fact that the British people would not tolerate any attack on the land of their Queen's birth.

THE BRITISH ELECTIONS.

Rumblings Against Balfour as Party Leader—Unionists Now Being Divided Into Three Classes.

London, Jan. 30.—(C. A. P.)—Rumblings against the continuation of Mr. Balfour in the Conservative leadership increase. The Standard publishes another column of letters from prominent party men, predicting only disaster to the party if his leadership continues. They affirm that Mr. Chamberlain, as the Empire statesman having sympathy with Canada and the other Colonies, is the only man to restore the party to fortune.

The Unionist members are being divided into three classes—109 Tariff Reformers; 32 Balfourites; 11 Free Traders.

Willing to Oppose Balfour.

At a meeting of the Conservative Association of the City of London yesterday the resignation of A. G. Gibbs, member of Parliament for the City of London, was accepted, and the candidature of Arthur J. Balfour for that constituency was approved. The Liberal Association of the City of London also met yesterday and postponed until Friday its decision whether to oppose the former Premier. Several Liberals expressed willingness to contest the seat.

THE TARIFF COMMISSION.

Halifax Board of Trade and Preference—Farmers Want Duties Lowered.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 30.—The opening session of the Tariff Commission was held at the Board of Trade rooms yesterday morning, Hon. Mr. Fielding presiding. The attendance is large, there being quite a number of delegations present from outside the city. Messrs. W. J. Clayton and L. J. Mylius, speaking for the Board of Trade, advocated that the preference on British goods be only extended when the goods are imported through Canadian ports. A great quantity of goods destined for Canadian ports finds its way through American ports, and carried over foreign railway lines, much to the detriment of this country. The Farmers' Association asked that the duties on farming implements be reduced, that a bounty of $6 a ton be given Canadian-built ships, and that no increases be made in the tariff.

Gets Geologist's Prize.

Montreal, Jan. 30.—Dr. Frank O. Adams, professor of geology in McGill University, has been awarded the Lyell medal by the Geological Society of London, England. The medal, which was founded by the great geologist, Sir Charles Lyell, Bart, F.R.S., is given to one who has deserved well of science.

PILES CURED QUICKLY AT HOME.

WHY SUFFER AGONY ANY LONGER WHEN YOU CAN GET A QUICK, SURE CURE FOR YOUR PILES BY SIMPLY SENDING YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS?

TRIAL PACKAGE IS SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE, IN PLAIN WRAPPER TO EVERYONE WHO WRITES.

Surgeons themselves consider a permanent cure of piles by a surgical operation as very doubtful, and resort to it only when the patient has become desperate from long continued pain and agony. But the operation itself is every bit as excruciating and nerve-racking as the disease. Besides, it is humiliating and expensive, and rarely a success.

The wonderful Pyramid Pile Cure makes an operation unnecessary. You cure yourself with perfect ease, in your own home, and for little expense.

Pyramid Pile Cure gives you instant relief. It immediately heals all sores and ulcers, reduces congestion and inflammation, and takes away all pain, itching and irritation. Just a little of the treatment is usually sufficient to give a permanent cure.

Pyramid Pile Cure is prepared in the form of suppositories, so they can be applied directly to the parts without inconvenience or interrupting your work in any way.

We are sending a trial treatment free of charge, to every one who sends name and address. We do this to prove what we say about this wonderful remedy is true.

After you have tried the sample treatment, and you are satisfied, you can get a full-regular-sized treatment of Pyramid Pile Cure at your druggist's for 50 cents. If he hasn't it, send us the money and we will send you the treatment at once, by mail, in plain sealed package.

Send your name and address at once for a trial of this marvellous, quick, sure cure. Address Pyramid Drug Co., 11678 Pyramid Building, Marshall, Mich.

KINGSTON LIBERAL.

E. J. B. Pense Returned Over McIntyre by a Majority of 34—Trouble at Polling Booths.

Kingston, Jan. 30.—After a close and hardly contested election, even in this city of hotly-contested elections, the Liberals won yesterday by the small majority of 34.

The workers on both sides were busy bringing in the electors. There were a number of conveyances at work, though not so many as on former occasions. All of these were supposed to be volunteers, yet it is freely asserted that some were engaged to be paid for by the Liberals.

The vote cast was smaller than on last January by 400.

After the last return was in and the issue was assured both candidates addressed the crowds. The Conservatives were scarcely less jubilant and cheered heartily Mr. McIntyre, who told them to prepare for another fight in the near future, as the election would likely be protested in case any irregularities were found to exist on the other side.

Polling Booth Troubles.

There was trouble at several of the polling places over the ballots. It was understood that there were not to be numbered. However, the ballots were all numbered, and the Liberals lodged protests to Returning Officer Dawson over the action of the deputies in putting their initials directly under the number on the outside of the ballots.

Mr. Dawson went around the polling places and threatened to shut down all those whose deputies did not put their initials on the corner of the ballot, away from the numbers.

The totals are: Pense, 2,097; McIntyre, 2,063. Portsmouth, the seat of the penitentiary and asylum, gave McIntyre a majority of 22, last time it went for Pense by over 40. The vote by wards was:

Ward.	Pense.	McIntyre.
Sydenham	221	153
Ontario	136	138
St. Lawrence	160	82
Cataraqui	358	334
Frontenac	432	428
Rideau	511	544
Victoria	272	295
Portsmouth	67	89
Total	2,097	2,063

Mr. Pense's home ward is Sydenham. Mr. McIntyre's is in Rideau.

MR. FOY'S CORRECTION.

Hon. Mr. Davis Does Not Recollect It, He Says.

Toronto, Jan. 30.—Re. the disclosures regarding that peculiar timber deal on the Spanish River, Hon. Mr. Foy says he was wrong in the figure offered by the would-be purchasers now. It is $235,000, and not $330,000. Outside of that there was no mistake in his statement.

"I haven't the slightest recollection of the timber transaction mentioned by Hon. J. J. Foy," said E. J. Davis, "but there is one thing certain — nothing of an irregular or dishonest nature occurred. If the facts stated are correct, and I had anything to do with the matter, the books will, or should, show a complete record of the entire deal. Nothing was ever done without the authority and cognizance of the Government. Everything I did as Minister of Crown Lands was honest and entirely above board."

EXPECTS FAIR TREATMENT.

Premier Whitney Asks Premier Laurier For An $1,200,000 Subsidy.

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—Premier Whitney, who was here to see Sir Wilfrid Laurier in reference to a subsidy for the Temiskaming Railway, left at 4.25 o'clock yesterday afternoon, apparently well satisfied that he would be well treated. He was accompanied by Mr. Matheson, Provincial Treasurer. They saw the Premier, Mr. Aylesworth and Hr. Hyman.

A subsidy of $1,200,000 is being asked.

Messrs. Whitney and Matheson were dined at the Rideau Club by R. L. Borden.

PLUMBERS' INQUIRY.

Crown Attorney at Hamilton Thinks He Has Damaging Testimony.

Hamilton, Jan. 30.—The Crown Attorney got what he considered damaging evidence against the alleged plumbers' combine, after fishing nearly the whole day in the Police Court. The case will probably be finished Tuesday.

Union Men Are Jailed.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—President E. R. Wright of Typographical Union No. 16 was yesterday fined by Judge Holdom of the Supreme Court $100, and sentenced to thirty days in jail for contempt of court. Edward Bessette, a member of the union, was fined $500 and sentenced to thirty days in jail. The union itself was fined $1,000. The charge was violation of an injunction granted some weeks ago, enjoining from interference with the operation of the printing establishments of members of Chicago Typothetae.

Fires at Danish Minister.

Copenhagen, Denmark, Jan. 30.—An attempt to shoot the Minister of Justice, M. Alberti, yesterday was frustrated by the Minister, who grappled with his assailant and wrested the revolver from him. The Minister's assailant was formerly an insurance agent, named Doye, who had been sentenced to a term of imprisonment for burglary, in spite of his protests that he was innocent. Friends say he is mentally unbalanced.

The Moroccan Conference.

Algeciras, Jan. 30.—The conference having entered the jungle of financial reforms for Morocco, is likely to remain there for some days, the session yesterday afternoon being devoted to tax projects.

Seizure of Furs.

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—A seizure of $17,500 in beaver and otter skins being sent to Ottawa by the Hudson Bay Co. were confiscated at Ottawa. Beaver and otter enjoy protection until 1910.

MAGIC SODA

TRADE MARK

OR SALERATUS IS THE BEST.

E. W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED TORONTO, ONT.

POULTRY SUPPLIES

Fresh Eggs are in Demand—why not order some of the following lines and add to your supply—

MEAT MEAL
GROUND BONE
OYSTER SHELLS
MICA GRIT
INTERNATIONAL POULTRY SPICE
MYER'S POULTRY SPICE
HERBAGEUM
WHEAT, CORN, BARLEY.
COARSE CRACKED CORN
BUCKWHEAT &c.

J. C. Hanley & Co.

Telephone 214.

British American Assurance Co.
Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co.
Western Fire Insurance Co.
Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Dominion Plate Glass Co.
Travellers' Accident Insurance Co.

CHANCEY ASHLEY

INSURANCE AGENT.

Issuer of Marriage Licenses.

Opposite Post Office - Belleville.

DR. W. H. ELDRED'S

LIQUID ELECTRICITY

The Magic Pain Reliever.

Electricity Cough and Consumption Cure.

See directions on boxes. For sale by

R. Templeton & Co.

Druggists, Belleville, Ont.

or D. P. Corey, General Agent,
203 Church St., Belleville, Ont.

British American Assurance Co.
Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co.
Western Fire Insurance Co.
Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Dominion Plate Glass Co.
Travellers' Accident Insurance Co.

CHANCEY ASHLEY

INSURANCE AGENT.

Issuer of Marriage Licenses.

Opposite Post Office - Belleville.

IMPORTED DIRECT

Pure Norwegian

Cod Liver Oil.

Best for Coughs, Colds and all Pulmonary Troubles.

DON. G. BLEECKER.

Phone 11.

Prescriptions carefully compounded.

Bargains in Ordered Clothing

As we are contemplating making some changes in our store will offer the following bargains.

25—$18.00 Tweed Suits at $15.00
40— 20.00 Tweed Suits at $16.00
30— 22.00 Tweed Suits at $18.50
30— 24 & 25 Tweed Suits at $20.00
$5.00 Trousers for $4.00
6.00 Trousers for $4.50
7.00 Trousers for $5.00
8.00 Trousers for $6.00

Up-to-Date goods made and trimmed same as at regular prices.—Terms cash.

ARTHUR McGIE, 300 Front St

Another Snap for My Customers

DRESSED LUMBER

Flooring, Wainscotting, Ceiling, Clapboards.

C. P. HOLTON

Phone 112.

Very few people lose their minds because their neighbors lose their money.

EIGHTY-THREE THOUSAND cards of superior quality imported by The Intelligencer Job Department. These cards are the cheapest and best in Canada. Travellers, business and professional men should examine them.

McLAUGHLIN CUTTERS

A Specialty.

The most up-to-date sleighs in style finish and material.

A full assortment at their warerooms OPPOSITE THE MARKET, FRONT ST., BELLEVILLE

Also full lines of :—

Robes, Harness, Blankets Rugs, Men's and Women's Fur Coats and Collars, &c.

Call in before you buy.
No trouble to show goods.

J. A. ROSE,

Manager Belleville Branch.

The Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

Incorporated by Act of Parliament.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL

$5,000,000

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE—Bridge St., Belleville.
J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

BANK OF MONTREAL

ESTABLISHED 1817.

CAPITAL AND REST (All Paid Up

$24,000,000

(Twenty-four Millions)

Savings Bank Department.

Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

R. TANNAHILL,
Act. Manager Belleville Branch.

G. A. Bennett,

Carpenter. Joiner. Builder.

WORKSHOP AND OFFICE,
Victoria Avenue,
(Next McCrodan's Grocery.)

Estimates furnished, work promptly and carefully executed; prices moderate.

— SPECIALIST ON —

Parquette and Hardwood Floors
Grills and Fireplace Mantels.
Building and House Repairs & Alterations.
Office and Store Fixtures, also Cabinet Work and Furniture Repairs.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No. 8.—12.45 a.m., Mail train, daily, except Monday.
No. 2—1.30 a.m. Fast train (Flyer), daily.
No. 16.—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m., daily, except Sunday.
No. 6—11.15 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4—12.06 p.m., Express, daily.
No. 12.—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5.—2.22 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.
No. 3.—4.02 a.m., Limited Express, daily.
No. 9.—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday. Leaving Toronto at 5.10 p.m., arrives in Belleville at 9.10 p.m.
No. 11.—11.08 a.m., Passenger, Daily, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 1.—1.40 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7.—5.03 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've.	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 183, Front St.

Genuine Scranton COAL
Prompt delivery. Well screened.
The Schuster Co.
Office, Bridge St.

The Daily Intelligencer.

The Very Best Coal
All Sizes
Wood for the millions
Dry Pine, Hardwood cut and split.
C. C. LEAVENS

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL — LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL — CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 39 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 31, 1906. NO. 227

STROUDS
delicious teas and coffees are the best and the best is not too good for you.

SINCLAIR'S
Great Removal Sale
IS NOW ON.

We Have Five
Persian Lamb Jackets
Which will be cleared at the following prices:

$145.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price	$108.75
135.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price	101.25
100.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price	75.00
85.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price	60.75
65.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price	50.75

25 P.C. Discount Off All Small Furs.

Ladies' Cloth Coats
HALF PRICE.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO.

Letters From Overseers.

Occupy the Attention of Commissioner Judd.

Chief Clerk Webster of the Fisheries Branch Continues to Unfold His Notes—Letters and Copies Removed From Files and Books—Severe Cross-Examination of Mr. Webster By Mr. Hellmuth.

Toronto, Jan. 31.—On the resumption yesterday of the investigation into charges brought against Mr. S. T. Bastedo, Deputy Minister in the fishery branch of the Public Works Department, which is conducted by Mayor J. C. Judd of London, evidence was submitted of a number of additional instances in which pages had been removed from the public copy letter books. In some cases these were entirely missing: in others they were found in Mr. Bastedo's private letter book. A number of cases of the removal of letters from the public files followed.

A Liberal Licensed.

Supporting the charge "that the said Bastedo improperly used his power to issue licenses generally in the interest of the Liberal party for the purpose of securing votes at elections," Mr. Webster stated that the deputy commissioner had refused the issue of a license for a smaller sum than $25, but later a license was issued for $5 to a Liberal at the request of the sitting Liberal member.

Special Fishing Grounds.

On Aug. 23, 1900, Overseer Cattanach, Wolfe Island, received from Mr. Bastedo a letter, from which this is an extract: "I have your memo respecting James T. Davies' application for a license to fish with gill nets off Pigeon Island, Lake Ontario. You are probably aware these fishing grounds are noted breeding places for white fish and salmon trout. If a gill net license is issued a much higher fee than usual would be required, and fishing would not be extended beyond Oct. 15. If Mr. Davies wishes to make an offer for such a license it will be laid before the deputy commissioner on his return."

"That was not mine, apparently," interjected Mr. Bastedo, as the reading of the letter concluded.

Mr. Webster admitted that this letter was probably made out by himself.

Fish For Kingston Market.

Overseer Cattanach, writing Aug. 25, 1903, on behalf of John Davis of Pigeon, said Mr. Pensé recommended the granting of the license because the fish would be sold on the Kingston market.

Overseer M. Thwait, in 1902, gave a reply to Mr. Bastedo concerning fishing in Rice Lake. The letter was marked personal, and in it the overseer stood by J. H. Scriven, to whom "permission" had been given by Thwait, as he said, for the sake of policy. Mr. Thwait, however, denied that Otonabee River privileges had been exceeded.

Letter Was Snubby.

In closing, Mr. Thwait characterised Mr. Bastedo's letter as "snubby," in that it asked him to appear personally before the department. "Hereafter," the letter said, "I will merely act as a machine."

An order-in-council from Ottawa, dated April 7, 1903, was filed by Mr. Jones as exhibit No. 16. It provides that sturgeon shall be captured except during May and June. Pound nets were to be used, and bare hooks were prohibited.

The reading of the stub of a license issued to Henry H. Reeve, of Port Dover, showed that permission was given to fish 500 baited hooks for sturgeon and catfish.

Easy For St. Clair Fishers.

In support of the charge that Mr. Bastedo conducted the branch for political ends, Mr. Webster instanced the case with which the fishermen at Mitchell's Bay, Lake St. Clair, were allowed to keep their nets in the lake without the renewal of their licenses.

Letters from Overseer Dundas at Wallaceburg and Inspector Orlando Allan were produced to show that the department knew of the privileges being given.

Pay For Off Days.

Under the charge that Mr. Bastedo illegally authorized moneys to be paid out of the funds in his branch, Mr. Jones produced a large grist of small things, which Mr. Webster claimed Mr. Bastedo was responsible for.

The Treasury books were brought in and added to the seemingly promiscuous stack of documents in the case.

The working time and off days of two clerks in the branch were counted, and in one case Mr. Webster figured that $108 had been overpaid by Mr. Bastedo. Among the "off days" was election day, 1902, but pay went on just the same.

Under this head also came the case of Mr. Duncan Bole, an overseer in 1900, who collected $40 in angling licenses from Cleveland parties and did not turn in the change.

In the license book the stubs for those for which Bole had failed to pay were removed.

"Who took them out?" asked Mr. Jones.

"Mr. Cox, the issuer of licenses in the branch," replied Mr. Webster.

"By whose orders?"

"I do not know," confessed the accuser.

Webster Cross-Examined.

Mr. Webster went through a very severe cross-examination by Mr. Hellmuth during the afternoon. Mr. Webster admitted that, although in the office for seven years, he had not been aware that the method of dealing with refunds on licenses was to deduct them from the total revenue, and thus show a net amount in the report. The actual refunds shown were sums belonging to previous years' accounts.

Mr. Webster also admitted having made no effort to verify such a serious charge as falsifying the returns before he launched it.

The suppression of facts in prosecutions for catching bass were shown to be due to the policy of the Dominion Government, which declared the Provincial law ultra vires, and the report was made under the direction of the Minister.

The charge of suppressing information in a Parliamentary return was also shown to be based on the order of the Minister on account of the Dominion regulations about pound nets.

The charge of issuing a license to John Davis, Pigeon Island, for an inadequate fee was shown to have been made without knowledge of the facts. The inquiry will continue at 10 o'clock this morning.

Cigarmakers' Strike at London.

London, Jan. 31.—Eighty-three men employed at Tuckett's cigar factory were on strike yesterday. The dispute is said to concern a recent order made by the firm relative to a certain class of work.

Neepawa Factory Burned.

Neepawa, Man., Jan. 31.—Fusee & McFeetor's building, machinery and material, were destroyed by fire yesterday morning. Loss is $12,000. Twenty men are out of employment.

Quebec Budget Speech.

Quebec, Jan. 31.—Hon. Mr. McCorkill, Provincial Treasurer, will deliver his budget speech in the Legislative Assembly chambers this afternoon.

The Ritchie Co., Limited. The Ritchie Co., Limited.

Extensive Alterations

Constantly increasing business necessitates further alterations and extensions to our already large store.

We are just closing the largest business year in our history which speaks louder than anything else could do to tell us that our efforts to serve the people of this district are being appreciated.

Our steady aim has been to supply the newest styles of goods from the most reliable makers in the world at the Lowest Possible Prices. This can only be accomplished by sending our buyers direct to the sources of supplies both in this country and in Europe (avoiding the profits paid to middle men by small dealers) the benefits of which are reaped by Our customers. Buying our goods For Cash and selling them for cash enables us to do business on a smaller margin of profits than if we were obliged to pay interest on purchase and make losses through selling on credit.

Workmen are now busy removing walls, stairways, partitions, etc., which will increase our room, light and comfort of our customers when trading. We intend to do bigger and better things during 1906 than in any previous year.

Sale of Remnants

This is clearing out time - all odds and ends must go in the next two weeks. Our stocks have been thoroughly searched out and on Thursday morning every department will have its quota of bargains—all marked at quick selling prices. Here is a partial list.

Towellings, Flannelette, Carpets, Prints, Laces, Linings, Table Linens, Ribbons, Silks.

Fur Specials

We are making special inducements on many of our Furs, to clear them quickly.

At the rate Furs of all kinds are advancing, these prices offer splendid investments.

—4 only Greenland Seal Coats, regular prices $38 to $40, to clear at $25
—A few sizes, in Ladies' Black Astrachan Coats, selling much below regular prices
—Bargains in Ruffs, Stoles, Muffs, Caps, etc.

$10.00 JACKETS $3.95

Your choice of 30 Ladies' Colored Cloth Jackets

ALL THIS SEASON'S STYLES.

Regular Price $10.00 For $3.95

$10.00 Suits for $7.50

Here is something you cannot afford to miss. We are getting ready for inventory and stock must be reduced at once. On Tuesday morning we will place on sale 30 Men's Suits in Plain and Fancy Tweed, well sewn with silk and linen, up-to-date styles—sizes 36 to 44—regular price $10.00, for $7.50

$1.00 and $1.25 Shirts 75c

The season's selling has left behind about 84 of these Shirts, we therefore want them all out in two weeks and on Tuesday morning we place the balance on sale.

—100 Men's Shirts in stripe and spot, all sizes, large variety of patterns, regular price $1.00 and $1,25, for 75c

The RITCHIE Co., Limited

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON.

—BIG—

Whitewear ...Sale...

Thursday morning, February 1st, we will inaugurate the greatest money saving Whitewear Sale ever held in Belleville. We have decided before placing in stock our new Season's Whitewear, to clear out regardless of price all lines of last season's Whitewear at exactly——

HALF PRICE.

Corset Covers. Night Dresses. Drawers. Chemises. Skirts.

All are arranged separately on tables in our ready-to-wear department ready for the Big Sale—

Thursday Morning.

Here is where you can save money.

Why spend the time making up garments when you get a chance like this.

The prices of last season are just cut in half, for instance:—

—A $1.00 Night Dress for 50c

—A 25c Corset Cover for 12½c

—A $1.50 White Skirt for 75c

And so on all through the department.

None of These Goods Will be sent out on Approval and Must be Paid for at Time of Purchase.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

20 Per Cent. Discount

OFF ALL

Men's and Boys' Wool and Fleece Lined Underwear.

ROBINSON & THOMPSON.

Tailors & Furnishers.

Our Stock

is going down—25 p. c. discount means money saved, every article guaranteed.

Geo. T. Woodley

Opposite Footbridge.

Highest Prices Paid for Raw Furs

The New Store.

Plenty of Bargains All Over The Store.

All winter goods have received marching orders.

MANTLES HALF PRICE.

FURS 25 p. c. to 30 p. c. DISCOUNT.

UNDERWEAR FOR LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, ALL REDUCED.

HEAVY DRESS GOODS REDUCED.

Come In—Look around, you won't be urged to buy.

Wims & Co

TERMS CASH.

THIS SPRING

We Purpose Making

INTERIOR DECORATIONS

A leading feature of our business and are prepared to furnish Expert Workmen to do all kinds of Painting, Graining, Finishing, Paperhanging, Etc., and will GUARANTEE perfect satisfaction in every instance.

We are adding thousands of rolls of the newest and most Artistic Wallpaper from the leading American and Canadian manufactures, and will be pleased to show you these goods and to give an estimate for decorating one room or the whole house.

T. P. BROWN'S

Carpet, Curtain, Wallpaper Store and Picture Framing.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

County Court Judgeships.

It's not every one who receives his reward for services rendered so speedily as has our legal friend, George E. Deroche, Esq., of Deseronto. He sacrificed himself on the altar of certain defeat when he entered the breach and fought the battle of East Hastings. The appointment can be for no other reason than a reward for political services; none other, that we have been able to discover.

The legal fraternity of this city, who shine in the Liberal ranks, express as much surprise as the hard-shelled old Tories, particularly as some of them were informed that the Government had laid it down as an irrevocable principle that no local practitioner should be appointed to a Judgeship in the County in which he practices. "Well," exclaims an incorrigible Grit, "the Government has violated no promise in this instance, if it were simply that no practitioner should be appointed." Is not that a cruel reflection?

• • •

A little advice may not be amiss just now. All you young Grit aspirants for Judgeships, push yourselves into the prize ring, fight the next battle, be sure to lose, and the first vacancy is yours.

• • •

Not always! cries our lamenting friend from Thurlow. Many battles have I fought and lost, and still linger in the lap of expectancy. Remember though, gladiator, you are but a farmer, not a lawyer, hence the contemptuous manner in which you have been treated. Promises to you, though made, were not to be fulfilled.

• • •

At a meeting of the Law Society of this city, rumor says a leading Conservative lawyer suggested united action in favor of the Master-in-Chancery, but it was not acted upon. One thing is certain, had he been appointed he has the experience and ability to fill the position, but it was not to be. Not only has he the ability to fill the office, but he has been in the past sufficiently offensive in his political abuse of his first love, to earn the reward. It is just possible there might exist in the minds of the donors, the thought that, that as Governments change, so might he return to first love.

The world moves on. It is ever changing, and so are some people. Why not? Circumstances change and so do people's interests, hence versatile politicians act accordingly.

Seriously, is the Government to be commended for the appointment made? We leave the question with Belleville Grit lawyers to answer. Don't all reply at once.

Canadian Pacific.

The Madoc Review tells its readers that "the Canadian Pacific Railway seems to be coming Madoc way," and then adds;

"Madoc should have been on the line years ago, when first built, but the starting of the old Toronto and Ottawa line between this village and Bridgewater caused the C.P.R. locators at that time to bear away to the south, and thus Tweed and Ivanhoe stations came into existence, while the Grand Trunk "hung up" the T. & O. line as soon as it was found out that the "bluff" wouldn't work.

"Now, it appears the importance of straightening their line is being acted upon by the C.P.R. authorities. Starting from a point east of Sharbot Lake the straight line will run through Madoc and intersect the present line again at a point near Havelock.

"The new line will be some 70 to 80 miles long, the distance saved by cutting out the Tweed-Ivanhoe loop will be 10 to 14 miles. Bad grades, curves, and bottomless sink holes will also be avoided.

"It looks as if the new Madoc line will be a certainty. The surveying party, numbering nearly 20 men, under Chief Engineer Hillman, have been working westward from Maberly since August last. Last week they pitched their tents on the Seymour farm, on the outskirts of Madoc village, and they will remain here for a week or so longer, the next move being some miles west, between Marmora and the Junction. Several preliminary lines are being run, and it is understood that the final location will be made by going over the ground again after this party reaches Havelock.

"It is not yet decided whether the Divisional point will be removed from Havelock to Madoc or not."

Not being in the confidence of the C.P.R. we cannot say what they intend doing; 14 miles saving in a line from Toronto to Montreal, is of great importance, but we doubt if it is the intention to give Tweed the go by.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Now look out that we don't get January weather in February.

• • •

"So near and yet so far," as the Grit lawyer said when his dream of a judgeship went a-glimmering.

• • •

We've had rain, snow and summer weather so far this winter. What will this beautiful climate do next to get itself talked about?

• • •

The Yankee railroads put their foot down and stopped issuing passes. Then the theatrical people got busy and stopped the railroad men's passes. Now, the latter, it is said, are doing some deep thinking. Some rules work both ways.

• • •

Hawkey, the ballot-box expert, is still wrestling in Watertown, N.Y. That's about as near Canada as he dare come.

• • •

King Alfonso of Spain buys candy for and sends illustrated postal cards to his girl, just as if he were a young man working at the ribbon counter.

• • •

A Brooklyn man was arrested for insisting on treating a man who did not wish to be treated. He should not have been so insistent. He might have come here and found plenty of men who would not have had him arrested.

• • •

A Chicago janitor had a boy arrested for littering the walk, but the judge held that the boy was within his rights and that it was the business of the janitor to clean the walk. The star of the janitor appears to be waning in the land of Uncle Sam.

• • •

King Edward pinned a medal on a letter-carrier who dragged a man from in front of a train at the risk of his own life. To be strictly consistent the King should have stuck the medal on with a stamp.

• • •

A sixteen-year-old girl living at Clark's Ferry, Pa., heard a big rock roll upon the railroad tracks in the middle of the night. She seized a lantern and ran north of the place and stopped a train approaching from that direction. Then she sped to the south of the rock and stopped a train coming from the other direction. Some people are never satisfied with a fair share of glory.

• • •

Here is a little advertising story which carries its own moral; Once there was a boy named John—we think his name was Wanamaker, or maybe it was Moneymaker, anyway his name was John, with some sort of a maker attached to his last name. He owned fifty yards of calico, three pairs of jeans, a half dozen pairs of home-made yarn socks and five pairs of boots. He called this a dry goods store through a Philadelphia newspaper and offered to sell a pair of socks for thirty-eight cents. The-don't-believe-in-advertising merchants laughed! Young John spent $65 with the Philadelphia Ledger to advertise just one time, and had less than $100 worth of goods. He was cautioned by the merchants who knew it didn't pay! It was through sympathy that they offered him advice, But John didn't listen to them and blew in his money foolishly; and to-day poor John sees the results of his misdoings — he has so many large dry goods stores that he can hardly find time to study his Sunday School lesson.

Moral — If you want to sidestep the cares which come with wealth, don't advertise.

• • •

What does it mean? Mr. McIntyre, after the returns were all in, showing that he was defeated by thirty-four votes, in Kingston, addressed hundreds of his supporters from the steps of the News office, and after expressing his gratitude for the splendid support he had received, "exhorted them to be ready for another fight soon, as, if the intimations received of the breaking of the agreement and the civil law, proved to be true, the seat might soon become vacant again." If the intimation made by Mr. McIntyre can be shown to have existed, the seat should be contested in the courts. We never believed the Grits would keep within the law.

• • •

It is intimated in the Quebec press that as the vacant portfolio is to be given to a British Columbian, Mr. Lemieux, the Solicitor-General, will be given a seat in the Cabinet. What will Senator Choquette say to this? It is patronage he is after. A seat in the Cabinet without portfolio will never satisfy him, nor the patronage-loving Frenchmen.

It will be remembered what great loss of life occurred on the Hudson river by the burning of the steamer "General Slocum" some two years ago. Ever since that time the prosecution of the Captain has been proceeding, and it is only now that a verdict of neglect of duty has been rendered, and a sentence of 10 years in jail pronounced. This will probably make Captains a little more careful and attentive to duty in future.

• • •

Forty plumbers were fined for belonging to an illegal combination in Toronto to restrict trade; 29 of them have paid their fines amounting to $7,900. The balance of them have yet to pay.

• • •

The Mail says: "After suppressing the facts relating to the ballot-box frauds in the West for a week or more, the Toronto Globe is obliged at last to admit that 'rumor' alleges that some wrongs have been committed. The organ thinks that 'if' rumor is correct the circumstance is much to be regretted. And it is quite sure that 'Hon.' Walter Scott and other respectable Liberals would not countenance such things. It is this combination of falsehood and hypocrisy that makes the criminal operations possible. The organ knows well that cheating prevailed. It tried to hide the facts, and now that it has to admit them, it tries to shield the bigger rogues."

• • •

King Fred of Denmark got off to a good start yesterday. He jumped into his new job almost as suddenly as the new Judge of Hastings County did.

• • •

The man on the next block nearly had heart failure this morning when he heard that a gang of robbers had been operating in the city, and nothing but a common padlock on his coal-bin door!

• • •

Doesn't this weather make you feel glad you're alive?

• • •

A New York hypnotist claims he can cure children of cigarette smoking and other evil habits by mere mental suggestion. He is not so sanguine of success in the treatment of adults. The average parent can obtain pretty satisfactory results in most cases by suggesting the application of the slipper.

• • •

A woman of eighty in Connecticut saved a man's life by prying him from under a heavy piece of timber which had fallen upon him and was choking him to death. The man does not believe now in the Oslerian theory. No one can persuade him that this old lady of eighty is not quite a useful person yet in her way.

• • •

A knotty legal problem of rather an unusual kind arose lately in a Gotham police court. A man was arraigned charged with stealing a crate of eggs. It was when the evidence was to be produced that the knotty point appeared. The policeman in charge of the eggs, forgetting his nature studies in school, set the crate on the steam heater, and when he went to get the eggs as evidence they were chickens.

• • •

The Montreal Gazette says: "The fight between the factions of Laurierism at Quebec is complicating the mayoralty contest. It is coming to look as if it would take not less than half a dozen Government jobs to bring the brawling brethren into harmony again." If that is all that is wanted the Government will soon furnish the jobs.

• • •

A party in this city had some maple syrup for dinner to-day, made a few days ago by friends in the country from sap drawn this year. This is believed to be the record.

• • •

Unchain Towser to-night. The safe blowers may be still in the city.

• • •

The weather is wonderful. We would not be surprised to see a straw hat come round the corner at any minute.

Feel Badly?

Take Calisaya Hypophosphites and feel well.

$1.00 A BOTTLE.

——AT——

McKeown's DRUG STORE.

Graves Still Absent

No trace has yet been found of Wm. Graves, who is wanted on a charge of neglecting to provide necessaries for his wife and family. A warrant for his arrest is in the hands of the police, and will be executed if he turns up. It is thought that he has gone to friends on the other side of the line.

NOT A "PATENT MEDICINE."

Scott's Emulsion is not a "patent medicine." It has no secret ingredients. Your doctor can, no doubt, tell you as much about it as we could. We have merely perfected the method of blending the Norwegian cod liver oil, hypophosphites of lime and soda and glycerine. As one grocer will blend coffee better than another so we have succeeded in making Scott's Emulsion a little better than any other cod liver oil preparation. There's no "patent" and the only secret is the secret of knowing how, with the perfected mechanical means at hand to do it. Get Scott's and you get the perfect emulsion. It's the greatest thing in the world for regaining strength and flesh lost through wasting.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Toronto, Ont.

PERSONAL ....AND.... SOCIAL.

Mrs. George H. Pope and Dr. E. L. Pope have gone to Winnipeg.

Miss Maud M. Campbell left yesterday for a visit of several weeks in New York.

Ex-Ald. Grills, of this city, who is ill in Toronto, shows some improvement.

The Rev. Dr. Crothers, of Peterboro, was in Bowmanville on Sunday, preaching anniversary services for the Methodist Church there. He spent yesterday amongst former parishioners in Port Hope.

Miss Minnie Sills, formerly of this city, who has been residing in Kingston for several years, will return to Belleville shortly, to reside here. Her mother and sister, Miss Helen, will also likely take up their residence here in a few weeks.

At the Quinte: J. A. Hamm, C. A. Brower, G. Ramsden, A. C. Nelson, R. E. Harte, R. Filer, C. L. Morris, Montreal; S. Prime, J. M. Hughes, Kingston; C. Smith, Campbellford; P. Smith, L. B. Hartle, Hamilton; W. M. Grey, C. L. C. Lampe, New York; J. T. Cochrane and wife, Madoc; J. A. Warren, A. Wheeler, Stirling; Lt.-Col. Farley and wife, Quebec; F. P. Farrell, Oswego; A. Mitchell, Bowmanville; A. W. Peat, London; N. Reynolds, J. W. Lawdon, A. Johnson, H. H. O'Flynn, F. W. O'Flynn, J. W. Wilkinson, J. J. Johnson, A. H. Gillman, A. Lindsay, A. A. Scarborough, A. G. Marmian, W. H. Fox, J. Adams, J. W. Shouldice, T. A. Weir, R. Keyltz, Toronto.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorized to refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

REDUCED TO FIFTY CENTS.

Our complete stock of soft front shirts, regularly sold at seventy-five cents and one dollar. Desirable patterns and well assorted sizes. Sale price 50c.—QUICK & ROBERTSON.

Usually the man who worries over the country's difficulties lets his wife do the worrying for the family.

Parsley, mustard, cowslip, horseradish, dock, dandelion, and beet tops clear the blood, regulate the system, and remove that tired feeling so peculiar to spring.

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

Mostly fair, with a few degrees of frost at night. Thursday mild.

OUR

assortment of choice Bon Bons and Chocolates was never more complete than it is this year.

Your Christmas Presents will not be complete without a nice box of our Candy, prices from 25c to $2.00 per box.

JAS. WALLACE & CO.

They will Adjust Themselves

to a wide range of circumstances — the eyes — will stand lots of hard work, and get along with very little attention.

When they do complain, it is usually the result of their being overworked. They are calling for a rest.

They ache, smart, burn, probably you are subject to headaches, which you never think of attributing to your eyes.

If you are bothered, call on us. We shall gladly inform you regarding their state, and there is no more THOROUGH or reliable examination to be had in Canada.

Angus McFee

Phone 118.

The Store With the Big Clock

At Wallbridge & Clarke's

CANNED GOODS.

Best Brands Popular Prices.

Tomatoes	Asparagus
Selected Corn	Squash
Sugar Corn	Pumpkin
Sweet Wrinkle Peas	Beets
Sifted Peas	Mushrooms
Extra Sifted Peas	Lima Beans
Imported French Peas	Spinach
Golden Wax Beans
Refugee Beans
Broad Windsor Beans
Red Kidney Beans
Baked Beans
Peaches
Raspberries
Strawberries
Pineapples

etc., etc.

Jams & Jellies All Fruits English Canadian Glass Jars.

Flour Popular Brands AT Popular Prices.

Ogilvies' Ladies' Favorite.

Five Roses Crown Jewel.

Family Diadem.

White Lily.

etc.,

Extra Value in

DELICIOUS TEAS and COFFEE

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

Change of copy for advertisements in The Weekly Intelligencer must be in this office on Friday morning to ensure their appearance in the issue of the following week.

Examine our typewriter paper before ordering from Toronto and paying freight or express charges.

The Everstick Rubber

Is Light and Durable.

THEY WILL PLEASE YOU.

We can fit your boots with

RUBBERS or OVERSHOES.

VERMILYEA & SON

Always Remember the Full Name

Laxative Bromo Quinine

Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days

E. W. Grove on every box. 25c

SUNLIGHT SOAP

Clothes washed by Sunlight Soap are cleaner and whiter than if washed in any other way.

Chemicals in soap may remove the dirt but always injure the fabric.

Sunlight Soap will not injure the most dainty lace or the hands that use it, because it is absolutely pure and contains no injurious chemicals.

Sunlight Soap should always be used as directed. No boiling or hard rubbing is necessary.

Sunlight Soap is better than other soap, but is best when used in the Sunlight way.

5c. Buy it and follow directions. 5c.

$5,000 REWARD will be paid to any person who proves that Sunlight Soap contains any injurious chemicals or any form of adulteration.

269 Lever Brothers Limited, Toronto

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage, 50c each insertion.

Death notice, 50c, or when funeral notices included, $1.00.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E & J. Hardy & Co.'s office, 39 Fleet St., London, E. C.

ntelligencer

WANT ADS

Advertisements under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for each insertion, and one cent for each additional word. 4 insertions, 75c; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales which will be published at two cents per word. Count 2 marks and figures as one word each.

WANTED.

Horse and buggy, by week, by young man, to visit farmers near Belleville. Answer by letter stating terms. W. R. Delaney, Kyle House. j31-2t

Sun-
Toil
thor
&
pons Wanted. exchange for
rs. Wallbridge
Belleville.
j29-eod1m

Best Sample
. Alfred Ty-

nee, male or
The Intelli-
d&wtf

e of the modern woodshed, n be in-ken im-public
turday, leavutiful to be j31-8t

All Patent Medicines at low prices.

McINTOSH D

ph

Complete Cabinet with three tablets foolscap size, $10.00.

Single Dupligraph Trays foolscap size, $4.00.

The Dupligraph is the simplest, cleanest, quickest and cheapest duplicating machine on the market. It will reproduce exact fac-simile copies of an ordinary type-written or pen-written original at the rate of 50 in five minutes, and requires no expensive supplies. No stencil, roller, silk or wax paper; no trouble, dirt or washing. You simply write whatever you desire in the ordinary way on ordinary paper, and the Dupligraph does the rest.

Write for circulars and samples of work.

For sale in Belleville by

C. B. Scantlebury,
Stationer.

PENMAN & SPRANG,
Sole Manufacturers,
Hea. Office, 22 Yonge St. Arcade,
Toronto, Canada.

SPRINGBROOK.

Mrs. Wm. Heath and young son of Souris, Man., are visiting relatives and friends in this vicinity.

Miss Knox spent Saturday and Sunday at her home in Madoc.

Mr. Wm. McComb, a very successful farmer from near Brandon, Man., is renewing acquaintances in Rawdon Township.

Miss Nettie Rupert was the guest of Miss Florence Rupert for a few days last week.

Dr. Towle is a very busy man these days; he reminds us of the lines in the poem: "The Canadian Country Doctor," by Drummond:

"But dere's wan man got hees han' full t'roo ev'ry kin' of wedder,
An' he's never sure of not'ing but work an' work away—
Dat's the man dey call de doctor, w'en you ketch heem on de con-tree
An' he's only man I know-me don't got no holiday.

The next meeting of the Woman's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. Joseph Bateman. The subjects for discussion will be "The Care of Sleeping Rooms and Sunshine as a Disinfectant." These subjects are good ones and something every housekeeper should be thoroughly acquainted with. A great interest is taken by the members of the Institute and they try to make each meeting beneficial.

NORTH ADDINGTON.

The many friends of Mrs. Forster will be pleased to hear that she is much improved in health, and has been staying with her mother, Mrs. Couter, of Cambray, since August.

Rev. Mr. Forster went to North Addington on the 5th of January to conduct missionary meetings. Meetings were held at five stations and were well attended. The financial results were the best yet obtained in this mission. The missionary meetings being finished, mission services have been held at different stations, and we hope with much spiritual benefit to the people. Four lumber camps and one mining camp were visited and services held there. All who could avail themselves of the privilege attended. The foremen of the camps invited the clergy to come again.

The generous friends of the Mission have proved themselves most willing helpers for God's cause here.

Many things are still needed to more fully equip the churches with the ornaments thereof. Two fonts, altar linen, offertory plates and a pocket set of communion vessels for the Mission would be thankfully received.

TUFTSVILLE.

A pleasant social event took place at the residence of Arthur Juby, ninth concession of Sidney, on Tuesday evening, Jan. 23, when over forty of his many friends and neighbors gathered to bid him good-bye, as he has sold his farm to Thos. Eggleton and has moved to Foxboro to live. After being presented with an address, read by Miss Lizzie Danford and a beautiful extension table and cloth, Mr. Juby made a suitable reply. A number of short speeches were made and then the contents of a number of baskets were tested, after which all enjoyed themselves in various ways till a late hour, when all returned to their homes, after having spent a very enjoyable evening.

Mrs. D. Seeley and her daughter, Miss Nettie, of Stirling, spent a day with their cousin, Mrs. Bennett.

Miss Annie Hoard, of Stirling, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. M. Clarke.

Mr. Tufts, of Tweed, has been visiting in our midst.

Miss Carrie Juby and Miss Sarah and Mr. Geo. Eggleton attended the surprise party at Mr. T. H. Reid's, Ridge Road.

Mrs. Hattie Clarke has been visiting her brother, Wm. Collins, near Crookston.

Mr. Herman Bennett spent a few days in Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bennett have been visiting at Carmel.

Mr. Stanley Eggleton, Coe Hill, spent a few days with his sister, Mrs. A. W. Andrews.

Our school has been opened again, after being closed for two weeks.

IN MEMORIAM.

In fond remembrance of Mr. John Harkins, Blessington, Ont., who died Nov. 6th, 1905.

The sails are furled, the anchor cast,
a good ship lies at rest,
Secure from wind and wave within
the haven of the blest.
Thy destination has been reached;
no more you put to sea;
And though the tempest howls without it cannot injure thee.

Weep not for me, you seem to say,
I long to stand beside
My waiting ones, to tell a tale of love that never died.
So grudge me not a needed rest,
nor on our parting frown,
A brighter life awaits me than the one I just laid down.

So many burdens thou hast borne
upon the bounding main,
Would it be right, had I the power,
to call thee back again,
To brave anew the perils of a sinful,
selfish sea?
Ah, no! Were it the Master's will,
I fain would go to thee.

I need not dread the voyage if I but do the will
Of Him who to the angry waves once
murmured "Peace, be still."
I cannot shape the Skipper's course,
nor understand His way,
While God is pilot of the ship I'll never go astray.

—R. W. Harkins.

Address and Presentation

On Monday evening, Jan. 22, the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Reid was invaded by a happy company, and for once Mr. and Mrs. Reid were treated as guests in their own home. In spite of the inclement weather over seventy friends and neighbors gathered to present Mr. and Mrs. Reid with two handsome upholstered chairs and a beautiful silver fruit spoon. Mr. Keegan read the address and Mr. Good presented the gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Reid were taken by surprise, but in a few words Mr. Reid, for himself and wife, expressed their very great appreciation of the kindness and good feeling always shown to them by their friends. They were deeply touched by this act of their friends and sincerely hoped that, although removing from the neighborhood, they would often see their old and esteemed friends of Rawdon. After the presentation felicitious and witty speeches were made by gentlemen present, viz., F. Montgomery, Councillor; Wm. Rogers, County Councillor; G. G. Thrasher, Walter Martin and others. Then the ladies brought forth the delicacies of the culinary art in abundance. The evening was happily spent and ended by singing "Auld Lang Syne." Mr. and Mrs. Reid will leave in a few days for their future home in Belleville.

On Friday evening, Jan. 26, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reid was again besieged by their friends. This time it was their young friends. Over one hundred young people assembled to present Mr. and Mrs. Reid with a hall tree. Miss Nettie Seeley read a very appropriate address, and two young gentlemen presented the gift. Mr. and Mrs. Reid replied in a most feeling manner, thanking the young people for their kindness to them. After the presentation the contents of a number of well-filled baskets were carefully tested, after which all enjoyed themselves in games and social intercourse until the "wee sma'" hours arrived, then the party broke up by singing "God Save the King."

SECOND LINE THURLOW.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Vivian spent a few days visiting friends in Madoc.

Miss Williams, front road, spent last week with Miss Eleanor Brown.

Mr. Bradshaw and Mr. F. Fox, Manitoba, spent Friday of last week at the home of Mr. James Sutton.

A good many attended the agricultural meeting on the front road on Friday night last.

Mrs. Little, of Melrose, is visiting friends on the Second Line.

Mr. W. Huff, of Massassaga, spent Sunday last with his sister, Mrs. R. Vivian.

Mr. A. Vermilyea, Belleville, conducted the sermons in Spencer's Church on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Gilbert entertained a number of friends on Friday night last.

Mrs. W. Ryan, Point Ann, is on the Second Line visiting old friends.

Cured her Father's Drunkenness by a Simple Remedy.

Saves her father from a drunkard's grave. Free sample of Samaria Tasteless Prescription checks his drinking and leads to a complete cure.

"It seemed hopeless to keep father from drinking, and we all felt the disgrace. When things were at their worst a friend advised me to try Samaria. I saw that you offered a free sample treatment and that the remedy was tasteless and could be given secretly. I determined to try it, and, have been glad every day since. The full treatment, which I gave him in his tea, cured him, and I am pleased to say he never touches whiskey now. How glad I am that I wrote you and how happy we all are together. Father says that he could never have stopped drinking of his own accord."

Free Package and pamphlet giving full particulars, testimonials and price sent in plain sealed envelope. Correspondence sacredly confidential. Address: THE SAMARIA REMEDY CO., 45 Jordan Chambers, Jordan St., Toronto, Canada.

To Subscribers.

SUBSCRIBERS IN ARREARS for The Daily Intelligencer must positively have their subscription FULLY PAID AND ONE MONTH IN ADVANCE by Feb. 1st, otherwise the company will be compelled to take their names from the lists. 27-4t

"There is nothing so good for you these days, to keep Stomach right and Liver active, as

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

Of course, you know that. This is just to remind you if you are not feeling "up to the mark."

25c AND 60c A BOTTLE AT ALL DRUGGISTS.

KINGSTON GRITS ARE VERY "SMOOTH GOODS"

UGLY RUMOR THAT THEY FIXED THINGS FIRST AND THEN BUNCOED THE CONSERVATIVES.

Kingston News: A rumor current throughout the city yesterday and to-day was to the effect that the Liberal party had turned a neat trick on the Conservatives in order to secure the success of Mr. Pense at the polls yesterday. It is given out from reliable sources that the result of yesterday's election was to a great extent determined at the municipal election on January 1st, when the Mowat-Pense ticket was introduced, the money spent to secure the election of Mr. Mowat being also an element in the Pense-McIntyre bye-election. Electors who were then made the recipients of money for a Mowat vote were given to understand that they were further expected to earn the gift by giving Pense, the political associate of the Mayor-elect, a vote in the bye-election. It was stated last night by an independent voter that he had been told by a friend living in an outlying section of the city, that he (the latter) had received $5 for his vote on New Year's day with the understanding that he would vote for Pense on January 29th. In this manner also is explained the attitude of the cab drivers in yesterday's contest, it being reported that their services were secured for yesterday, at the time of the municipal election.

The report further says that the Liberal party, after thus making advance arrangements for the return of their candidate, negotiated for a clean election and were met in their wishes by their Conservative opponents, who thus fell easy prey to the Liberal machinations.

Such is the story, which has more than an appearance of truth, and further investigation may reveal further duplicity on the part of the local Liberal party.

MAY HAVE COLD WEATHER.

MR. R. F. STUPART GIVES FACTS ABOUT PREVIOUS MILD WINTERS.

Toronto, Jan. 30. — The following facts regarding the weather of some past winters have been furnished by Mr. R. F. Stupart, director of the Dominion Meteorological Service:

In the past 73 years there have been 14 winters of a decidedly mild type. Of these that of 1841-2 was the mildest, with an average temperature of 30.5 for the four months—December to March inclusive—and those of 1881-2 and 1889-90 were not much colder, with a mean temperature in each instance of 29.9.

It is of interest to note that in eight of the 14 years the mild weather of December and January continued during February, while in three of the other years the temperature was very slightly below average, and in three it was considerably below. In only two of the 14 years was March much below the average, while in 10 cases it was above the average, and in six of these decidedly above.

While these facts are suggestive of the probable character of the next two months, the meteorologist would be quite unjustified in making a seasonal forecast, as he is as yet ignorant of the causes which lead to such vast differences as occur in the character of corresponding seasons in different years.

He believes, however, that a wider departure from the average weather conditions over any particular portion of the globe is caused, not only by local conditions, but by variations in the atmosphere circulation over the whole earth, and these variations are probably due to a varying output of solar energy.

WHAT CAUSES APPENDICITIS.

The commonest cause of appendicitis is constipation. When you require physic don't use cheap, drastic pills—get Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which strengthen the stomach, regulate the bowels and prevent any tendency to appendicitis. In one day you'll feel the tremendous benefit of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. By purifying the blood and cleansing the system they prevent headaches, lift depression and drive away weariness. No medicine so successful as Dr. Hamilton's Pills, sold everywhere in 25c boxes with yellow cover; get the genuine.

Job Printing.

ENVELOPES.—Bond, Laid, Wove or Manilla, sizes 7 and 8, printed with your business address, from $1.25 to $3.00 per 1000. A large range of business and calling cards—ladies' and gentlemen's—all prices. Programmes and all kinds of printing at most reasonable rates at The Menu Cards, Toast Lists, Invitations, Intelligencer Job Department.

PENNY BANKS IN SCHOOLS.

SYSTEM NEED ONLY TO BE SHOWN TO MAKE ADMIRERS.

Toronto, Jan. 31.—A meeting was held in the King Edward School last night for the purpose of instructing the teachers of fifteen Public schools, which have not yet adopted the penny savings bank system in the details. The Penny Savings Bank has already been tried in twenty-five schools with splendid success.

Present were Mr. Jarvis, of Galt, Col. Ponton, of Belleville, the chairman and three trustees of the Junction School Board, also Principal Wilson, of the Junction, Chief Inspector J. L. Hughes and the fifteen representatives of the city schools. H. J. L. Gordon and C. E. Clark explained the system, with the result that it will be adopted in the entire fifteen schools, and probably in Galt and Belleville.

A Mother's Duty.

SHE SHOULD CAREFULLY GUARD THE HEALTH OF HER GROWING DAUGHTER — HER FUTURE HAPPINESS DEPENDS UPON THE CHANGE FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD.

Every mother should watch with the greatest care the health of her growing daughter. She is a girl today—to-morrow a woman. The happy health of womanhood depends upon this vital change from girlhood. When nature makes new demands upon her blood supply, you must build up her blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Her system is unequal to that strain if her back aches; if she is pale or thin, dull-eyed or languid. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will give her new, rich, red blood and tide her over the crisis. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will make her development perfect and regular—they will make her a strong, happy, graceful woman. Miss Enerine Vilandre, St. Germain, Que., says: "While attending school my health began to give way. I suffered from headaches and dizziness, my appetite left me and I grew pale as a corpse. As the doctors did not help me any my father got me a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before I had used two boxes there was an improvement, and when I had taken a half dozen I was again in perfect health. I believe all weak girls will find new health if they take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Thousands of growing girls, and thousands of women owe health and happiness to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They keep the blood rich and pure and regular. They banish headaches and sideaches and backaches, and they bring the rosy glow of perfect health to pale and sallow cheeks. But you must get the genuine with the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around each box. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS.

FURNISHED BY J. R. HEINTZ & CO.'S LOCAL OFFICE.

New York, Jan. 31

Stock	Op'g	Close
Atchison	91⅝	93⅜
do pref	103¼	104
B. & O	115⅜	115
C. O	59⅜	60⅜
C.P.R.	172	172⅞
Erie	47⅛	48⅛
do pref	80⅛	80⅜
C. G. W	22⅜	22⅜
Ills. C.	174	174½
K. T.	37⅛	37⅜
L & N.	151	152
Soo	155	154
Mop	102⅞	102⅞
N Y C	147⅞	150⅞
Nor	91⅞	92⅛
O W	54⅛	55⅜
Penn	143½	[illegible]
R I	25⅞	26⅛
Reading	140⅞	141⅞
St. Paul	186	186⅞
Sou Pac	69	63⅞
Sou. Ry	4 ⅛	41⅛
Union Pac	151⅞	155⅞
Texas	36⅛	36⅜
Wab.	24⅞	24⅞
do pref	46	46
W C	29	29
W C pref.	59	58
B.RT.	87⅜	88⅛
Met.	122⅞	122⅞
Manhattan	163	160⅞
T. W.	118⅞	118⅞
A. C. P.	110	115⅞
Alo.	76⅛	75⅛
Sugar	148	148
P. O.	99⅛	99⅞
T. C. I.	155⅞	155
U. S. Steel	44	41⅛
do pref	101⅞	112⅞
W. U.	93⅛	93⅞
A F.	44⅞	45⅜
C.F.I.	70	74⅜

May wheat opened at 85⅛; closed at 81⅞
July wheat opened at 83⅞; closed at 83⅞
May corn opened at 44⅞; closed at 44⅛
July corn opened at 41⅞; closed at 44⅞
May Oats opened at 30⅛; closed at 30⅞
Jan. pork opened at 14.12; closed at 14.05

STOCKS, BONDS, GRAIN, PROVISIONS, ETC.

J. R. Heintz & Co.

Established, 1879.

Members New York Consolidated Stock Exchange, New York Produce Exchange.

Branch Office—52 Bridge St.
'Phone 80

The Bell Piano

Lauded by
MR. DONALD C. MacGREGOR
The Favorite Canadian Baritone
Choirmaster Central Presbyterian Church, Toronto

"I am delighted with the Bell Piano that I purchased for my studio. Your 'Illimitable Quick Repeating Action' is well nigh perfect, every note responding with remarkable clearness to the lightest touch. The evenness of tone of the Bell Piano commends it to all vocalists and musicians.

Donald C. MacGregor

Write us for Free Booklet "B" containing photos of leading musical celebrities.

The Bell Piano & Organ Co., Limited, Guelph, Ont.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charge at less than twenty-five words.

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

Band at Rink to-night.

Prof. Marshall will lecture on the latter half of Hamlet at St. Agnes' Hall Friday, Feb. 2nd. This will be an extra lecture, no extra charge to ticket holders. The final lecture of the course, on The Tempest, will be given a fortnight later. Admission 25 cents. 31-2t

WANTED.

A printer at once, male or female. Steady position. — The Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont. j23-d&wtf

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED at Intelligencer office by J. D. Ford. Also at residence, Murney St.

"Honest Abe."

It is a significant fact that in a community where crime was virtually unknown, where plain, straightforward dealing was assumed as a matter of course, and credit was fearlessly asked and given, Lincoln won an enviable reputation for integrity and honor. In a moral atmosphere of this sort ordinary veracity and fairness attracted no particular attention. Honesty was not merely the best policy; it was the rule of life, and people were expected to be upright and just with one another, but when a clerk in a country store walked miles to deliver a few ounces of tea innocently withheld from a customer by an error in the scales, and when he made a long, hard trip in order to return a few cents accidentally overpaid him, he was talked about, and the fact is that "Honest Abe" was a tribute, not a nickname.—Frederick Trevor Hill in Century.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature to do its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO.,
TOLEDO, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

LIFE IN THE MIDDLE AGES.

The Way in Sickness and Old Age Was Pitiable Indeed.

Concerning the life of poor people during the middle ages a writer says: "In those bygone days of feudal rule the dwellers in the country were almost invariably serfs, bound to the estate on which they were born and under the absolute rule of the owner. They were possibly better fed than at the present day, for butter, cheese and eggs were plentiful, and the fertile soil of Italy supplied them with abundance of fruit and vegetables. The poor man held his plot of ground by the tenure of so many days in the year of service to his lord. But in sickness or old age his case was very pitiable, and we have a curious proof of this in a letter written in 1465 by the mother of Filippo Struzzi, at Florence. She is speaking of some old people on her estate in the country: 'Piero and Monna Cilia are both alive and infirm. I have overflowed the field for next year, and, as I must put it in order, those two old people, if they do not die, must go and beg. Heaven will provide.' This is no passing thought of the good lady, who was pious and highly esteemed, a friend of the Medici, but it is a firm resolution in her own mind. A few months later she writes to her son: 'Piero is still alive, so he must put up with it and go away and beg. It would be best, of course, if heaven will take him.' Apparently a merciful Providence had already provided for Monna Cilia!"

CLARK'S CORNED BEEF

Has a spiciness of flavor which places it in the front rank of ready to serve meats. Try it.

7 Sutherland Sisters. . .

Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner . .

THE IDEAL HAIR DRESSING'S

PRICE 50 CTS.

WATERS' DRUG STORE.

Dinner Sets

We have just received 16 Dinner Setts, in Blue, Pink, Peacock and Green, 98 pieces in sett, including large platter, fruit sett, butter-dish, bread and butter plates, etc.; regular price $7.00, we want a speedy clearance of these goods and will give you your choice for $5.00 per sett, of 98 pieces.

Just think of it, only 5c per piece.

* * *

TOWELS AND TOWELLING.

We have just received our spring shipment of these goods.

Drop in and see our Bath Towels @ 7, 12 1-2, 15, 25c; we think they are the best value ever seen in town.

CHAS. N. SULMAN.

EASY MONEY AT HOME

[illegible] COTTAM BIRD BOOK [illegible]

BIRD BREAD 10 CENTS.

and "CANARY vs. CHICKENS," showing how to make money with canaries. [illegible]

COTTAM BIRD SEED, 23 [illegible] London, Ont

These People All Speak Well of

Zutoo

The Japanese Headache Cure.

The best remedy on the market for headache.
N. W. THOMAS,
Director of Eastern Townships Bank,
Coaticook, Que.

We have found them to be all that is claimed for them.
J. S. McDONALD,
Editor Pictou (N.S.) Advocate.

I have always been averse to headache remedies on account of their being injurious to the system, but I can recommend your Zutoo Tablets as a safe and reliable remedy.
MRS. L. F. BAYLEY,
Beebe Plain, Que.

Every User Praises Zutoo.

Ontario Liquor License Act.

LICENSE DISTRICT OF WEST HASTINGS.

NOTICE is hereby given that John J. Fitzgerald, of the City of Belleville, has made application for permission to transfer his tavern license for the premises known as the International Hotel, Belleville, to John Burke, of the same place, and that the said application will be considered at the meeting of the Board of License Commissioners, to be held at the Inspector's Office in the City of Belleville, on the 7th day of February, 1906, at the hour of 2 o'clock p.m.

All persons interested will govern themselves accordingly.

HUGH WALKER,
License Inspector.

Belleville, 24th Jan., 1906. 24-31

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

The first test of a truly great man is humanity.

SUNLIGHT SOAP

Clothes washed by Sunlight Soap are cleaner and whiter than if washed in any other way.

Chemicals in soap may remove the dirt but always injure the fabric.

Sunlight Soap will not injure the most dainty lace or the hands that use it, because it is absolutely pure and contains no injurious chemicals.

Sunlight Soap should always be used as directed. No boiling or hard rubbing is necessary.

Sunlight Soap is better than other soap, but is best when used in the Sunlight way.

5c. Buy it and follow directions. 5c.

$5,000 REWARD will be paid to any person who proves that Sunlight Soap contains any injurious chemicals or any form of adulteration.

Lever Brothers Limited, Toronto

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage, 50c each insertion.

Death notice, 50c, or when funeral notices included, $1.00.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E & J. Hardy & Co.'s office, 39 Fleet St., London, E. C.

Intelligencer

WANT ADS

Advertisements under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for each insertion, and one cent for each additional word, 4 insertions, 75c; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales which will be published at two cents per word. Count 8 marks and figures as one word each.

WANTED.

Horse and buggy, by week, by young man, to visit farmers near Belleville. Answer by letter stating terms. W. R. Delaney, Kyle House. j31-2t

Sunlight Soap Coupons Wanted. Toilet soaps given in exchange for these coupons by Messrs. Wallbridge & Clarke, Front St., Belleville. j29-eod1m

Wanted Canvassers. Best Sample case, best tea, best terms. Alfred Tyler, London, Ontario.

Wanted—A printer at once, male or female. Steady position.—The Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont. d&wtf

FOR SALE.

157 South Albert St., one of the cosiest homes in the city; modern conveniences, good barn, woodshed, henhouse, fruit trees, etc. Can be inspected any time. If not taken immediately will be offered by public sale at the residence, on Saturday, Feb. 10th, at 1 p.m. Owner leaving city. Also a few very beautiful lots on Dundas St., bay front, to be sold at same time. j31-8t

The Dupligraph

Complete Cabinet with three tablets foolscap size, $10.00.

Single Dupligraph Trays foolscap size, $4.00.

The Dupligraph is the simplest, cleanest, quickest and cheapest duplicating machine on the market. It will reproduce exact fac-simile copies of an ordinary type-written or pen-written original at the rate of 50 in five minutes, and requires no expensive supplies. No stencil, roller, silk or wax paper; no trouble, dirt or washing. You simply write whatever you desire in the ordinary way on ordinary paper, and the Dupligraph does the rest.

Write for circulars and samples of work.

For sale in Belleville by

C. B. Scantlebury,
Stationer.

PENMAN & SPRANG,
Sole Manufacturers,
Head Office, 22 Yonge St. Arcade,
Toronto, Canada.

SPRINGBROOK.

Mrs. Wm. Heath and young son of Souris, Man., are visiting relatives and friends in this vicinity.

Miss Knox spent Saturday and Sunday at her home in Madoc.

Mr. Wm. McComb, a very successful farmer from near Brandon, Man., is renewing acquaintances in Rawdon Township.

Miss Nettie Rupert was the guest of Miss Florence Rupert for a few days last week.

Dr. Towle is a very busy man these days; he reminds us of the lines in the poem: "The Canadian Country Doctor," by Drummond;

"But dere's wan man got bees han' full t'roo ev'ry kin' of wedder,
An' he's never sure of not'ing but work an' work away—
Dat's the man dey call de doctor, w'en you ketch heem on de contree
An' he's only man I know-me don't got no holiday.

The next meeting of the Woman's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. Joseph Bateman. The subjects for discussion will be "The Care of Sleeping Rooms and Sunshine as a Disinfectant." These subjects are good ones and something every housekeeper should be thoroughly acquainted with. A great interest is taken by the members of the Institute and they try to make each meeting beneficial.

NORTH ADDINGTON.

The many friends of Mrs. Forster will be pleased to hear that she is much improved in health, and has been staying with her mother, Mrs. Couter, of Cambray, since August.

Rev. Mr. Forster went to North Addington on the 5th of January to conduct missionary meetings. Meetings were held at five stations and were well attended. The financial results were the best yet obtained in this mission. The missionary meetings being finished, mission services have been held at different stations, and we hope with much spiritual benefit to the people. Four lumber camps and one mining camp were visited and services held there. All who could avail themselves of the privilege attended. The foremen of the camps invited the clergy to come again.

The generous friends of the Mission have proved themselves most willing helpers for God's cause here.

Many things are still needed to more fully equip the churches with the ornaments thereof. Two fonts, altar linen, offertory plates and a pocket set of communion vessels for the Mission would be thankfully received.

TUFTSVILLE.

A pleasant social event took place at the residence of Arthur Juby, ninth concession of Sidney, on Tuesday evening, Jan. 23, when over forty of his many friends and neighbors gathered to bid him good-bye, as he has sold his farm to Thos. Eggleton and has moved to Foxboro to live. After being presented with an address, read by Miss Lizzie Danford and a beautiful extension table and cloth, Mr. Juby made a suitable reply. A number of short speeches were made and then the contents of a number of baskets were tested, after which all enjoyed themselves in various ways till a late hour, when all returned to their homes, after having spent a very enjoyable evening.

Mrs. D. Seeley and her daughter, Miss Nettie, of Stirling, spent a day with their cousin, Mrs. Bennett.

Miss Annie Hoard, of Stirling, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. M. Clarke.

Mr. Tufts, of Tweed, has been visiting in our midst.

Miss Carrie Juby and Miss Sarah and Mr. Geo. Eggleton attended the surprise party at Mr. T. H. Reid's, Ridge Road.

Mrs. Hattie Clarke has been visiting her brother, Wm. Collins, near Crookston.

Mr. Herman Bennett spent a few days in Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bennett have been visiting at Carmel.

Mr. Stanley Eggleton, Coe Hill, spent a few days with his sister, Mrs. A. W. Andrews.

Our school has been opened again, after being closed for two weeks.

IN MEMORIAM.

In fond remembrance of Mr. John Harkins, Blessington, Ont., who died Nov. 6th, 1905.

The sails are furled, the anchor cast,
a good ship lies at rest,
Secure from wind and wave within
the haven of the blest.
Thy destination has been reached;
no more you put to sea;
And though the tempest howls without it cannot injure thee.

Weep not for me, you seem to say,
I long to stand beside
My waiting ones, to tell a tale of love that never died.
So grudge me not a needed rest,
nor on our parting frown,
A brighter life awaits me than the one I just laid down.

So many burdens thou hast borne
upon the bounding main,
Would it be right, had I the power,
to call thee back again,
To brave anew the perils of a sinful,
selfish sea?
Ah, no! Were it the Master's will,
I fain would go to thee.

I need not dread the voyage if I but do the will
Of Him who to the angry waves once
murmured "Peace, be still."
I cannot shape the Skipper's course,
nor understand His way,
While God is pilot of the ship I'll never go astray.

—R. W. Harkins.

Address and Presentation

On Monday evening, Jan. 22, the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Reid was invaded by a happy company, and for once Mr. and Mrs. Reid were treated as guests in their own home. In spite of the inclement weather over seventy friends and neighbors gathered to present Mr. and Mrs. Reid with two handsome upholstered chairs and a beautiful silver fruit spoon. Mr. Keegan read the address and Mr. Good presented the gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Reid were taken by surprise, but in a few words Mr. Reid, for himself and wife, expressed their very great appreciation of the kindness and good feeling always shown to them by their friends. They were deeply touched by this act of their friends and sincerely hoped that, although removing from the neighborhood, they would often see their old and esteemed friends of Rawdon. After the presentation felicitious and witty speeches were made by gentlemen present, viz., F. Montgomery, Councillor; Wm. Rogers, County Councillor; G. G. Thrasher, Walter Martin and others. Then the ladies brought forth the delicacies of the culinary art in abundance. The evening was happily spent and ended by singing "Auld Lang Syne." Mr. and Mrs. Reid will leave in a few days for their future home in Belleville.

On Friday evening, Jan. 26, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reid was again besieged by their friends. This time it was their young friends. Over one hundred young people assembled to present Mr. and Mrs. Reid with a hall tree. Miss Nettie Seeley read a very appropriate address, and two young gentlemen presented the gift. Mr. and Mrs. Reid replied in a most feeling manner, thanking the young people for their kindness to them. After the presentation the contents of a number of well-filled baskets were carefully tested, after which all enjoyed themselves in games and social intercourse until the "wee sma'" hours arrived, then the party broke up by singing "God Save the King."

SECOND LINE THURLOW.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Vivian spent a few days visiting friends in Madoc.

Miss Williams, front road, spent last week with Miss Eleanor Brown.

Mr. Bradshaw and Mr. F. Fox, Manitoba, spent Friday of last week at the home of Mr. James Sutton.

A good many attended the agricultural meeting on the front road on Friday night last.

Mrs. Little, of Melrose, is visiting friends on the Second Line.

Mr. W. Huff, of Massassaga, spent Sunday last with his sister, Mrs. R. Vivian.

Mr. A. Vermilyea, Belleville, conducted the sermons in Spencer's Church on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Gilbert entertained a number of friends on Friday night last.

Mrs. W. Ryan, Point Ann, is on the Second Line visiting old friends.

Cured her Father's Drunkenness by a Simple Remedy.

Saves her father from a drunkard's grave. Free sample of Samaria Tasteless Prescription checks his drinking and leads to a complete cure.

"It seemed hopeless to keep father from drinking, and we all felt the disgrace. When things were at their worst a friend advised me to try Samaria. I saw that you offered a free sample treatment and that the remedy was tasteless and could be given secretly. I determined to try it, and have been glad every day since. The full treatment, which I gave him in his tea, cured him, and I am pleased to say he never touches whiskey now. How glad I am that I wrote you and how happy we all are together Father says that he could never have stopped drinking of his own accord."

Free Package and pamphlet giving full particulars, testimonials and price sent in plain sealed envelope. Correspondence sacredly confidential. Address: THE SAMARIA REMEDY CO., 45 Jordan Chambers, Jordan St., Toronto, Canada.

To Subscribers.

SUBSCRIBERS IN ARREARS for The Daily Intelligencer must positively have their subscription FULLY PAID AND ONE MONTH IN ADVANCE by Feb. 1st, otherwise the company will be compelled to take their names from the lists. 27-6t

"There is nothing so good for you these days, to keep Stomach right and Liver active, as

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

Of course, you know that. This is just to remind you if you are not feeling "up to the mark."

25c AND 60c A BOTTLE AT ALL DRUGGISTS.

KINGSTON GRITS ARE VERY "SMOOTH GOODS"

UGLY RUMOR THAT THEY FIXED THINGS FIRST AND THEN BUNCOED THE CONSERVATIVES.

Kingston News: A rumor current throughout the city yesterday and to-day was to the effect that the Liberal party had turned a neat trick on the Conservatives in order to secure the success of Mr. Pense at the polls yesterday. It is given out from reliable sources that the result of yesterday's election was to a great extent determined at the municipal election on January 1st, when the Mowat-Pense ticket was introduced, the money spent to secure the election of Mr. Mowat being also an element in the Pense-McIntyre bye-election. Electors who were then made the recipients of money for a Mowat vote were given to understand that they were further expected to earn the gift by giving Pense, the political associate of the Mayor-elect, a vote in the bye-election. It was stated last night by an independent voter that he had been told by a friend living in an outlying section of the city, that he (the latter) had received $5 for his vote on New Year's day with the understanding that he would vote for Pense on January 29th. In this manner also is explained the attitude of the cab drivers in yesterday's contest, it being reported that their services were secured for yesterday, at the time of the municipal election.

The report further says that the Liberal party, after thus making advance arrangements for the return of their candidate, negotiated for a clean election and were met in their wishes by their Conservative opponents, who thus fell easy prey to the Liberal machinations.

Such is the story, which has more than an appearance of truth, and further investigation may reveal further duplicity on the part of the local Liberal party.

MAY HAVE COLD WEATHER.

MR. R. F. STUPART GIVES FACTS ABOUT PREVIOUS MILD WINTERS.

Toronto, Jan. 30. — The following facts regarding the weather of some past winters have been furnished by Mr. R. F. Stupart, director of the Dominion Meteorological Service:

In the past 73 years there have been 14 winters of a decidedly mild type. Of these that of 1841-2 was the mildest, with an average temperature of 30.5 for the four months —December to March inclusive—and those of 1881-2 and 1889-90 were not much colder, with a mean temperature in each instance of 29.9.

It is of interest to note that in eight of the 14 years the mild weather of December and January continued during February, while in three of the other years the temperature was very slightly below average, and in three it was considerably below. In only two of the 14 years was March much below the average, while in 10 cases it was above the average, and in six of these decidedly above.

While these facts are suggestive of the probable character of the next two months, the meteorologist would be quite unjustified in making a seasonal forecast, as he is as yet ignorant of the causes which lead to such vast differences as occur in the character of corresponding seasons in different years.

He believes, however, that a wider departure from the average weather conditions over any particular portion of the globe is caused, not only by local conditions, but by variations in the atmosphere circulation over the whole earth, and these variations are probably due to a varying output of solar energy.

WHAT CAUSES APPENDICITIS.

The commonest cause of appendicitis is constipation. When you require physic don't use cheap, drastic pills—get Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which strengthen the stomach, regulate the bowels and prevent any tendency to appendicitis. In one day you'll feel the tremendous benefit of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. By purifying the blood and cleansing the system they prevent headaches, lift depression and drive away weariness. No medicine so successful as Dr. Hamilton's Pills, sold everywhere in 25c boxes with yellow cover; get the genuine.

Job Printing.

ENVELOPES.—Bond, Laid, Wove or Manilla, sizes 7 and 8, printed with your business address, from $1.25 to $3.00 per 1000. A large range of business and calling cards—ladies' and gentlemen's—all prices. Programmes and all kinds of printing at most reasonable rates at The Menu Cards, Toast Lists, Invitations, Intelligencer Job Department.

PENNY BANKS IN SCHOOLS.

SYSTEM NEED ONLY TO BE SHOWN TO MAKE ADMIRERS.

Toronto, Jan. 31.—A meeting was held in the King Edward School last night for the purpose of instructing the teachers of fifteen Public schools, which have not yet adopted the penny savings bank system in the details. The Penny Savings Bank has already been tried in twenty-five schools with splendid success.

Present were Mr. Jarvis, of Galt, Col. Ponton, of Belleville, the chairman and three trustees of the Junction School Board, also Principal Wilson, of the Junction, Chief Inspector J. L. Hughes and the fifteen representatives of the city schools. H. J. L. Gordon and C. E. Clark explained the system, with the result that it will be adopted in the entire fifteen schools, and probably in Galt and Belleville.

A Mother's Duty.

SHE SHOULD CAREFULLY GUARD THE HEALTH OF HER GROWING DAUGHTER — HER FUTURE HAPPINESS DEPENDS UPON THE CHANGE FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD.

Every mother should watch with the greatest care the health of her growing daughter. She is a girl to-day—to-morrow a woman. The happy health of womanhood depends upon this vital change from girlhood. When nature makes new demands upon her blood supply, you must build up her blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Her system is unequal to that strain if her back aches; if she is pale or thin, dull-eyed or languid. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will give her new, rich, red blood and tide her over the crisis. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will make her development perfect and regular—they will make her a strong, happy, graceful woman. Miss Enerine Vilandre, St. Germain, Que., says: "While attending school my health began to give way. I suffered from headaches and dizziness, my appetite left me and I grew pale as a corpse. As the doctors did not help me any my father got me a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before I had used two boxes there was an improvement, and when I had taken a half dozen I was again in perfect health. I believe all weak girls will find new health if they take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Thousands of growing girls, and thousands of women owe health and happiness to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They keep the blood rich and pure and regular. They banish headaches and sideaches and backaches, and they bring the rosy glow of perfect health to pale and sallow cheeks. But you must get the genuine with the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around each box. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS.

FURNISHED BY J. R. HEINTZ & CO.'S LOCAL OFFICE.

New York, Jan. 31

Stock	Op'g	Close
Atchison	93⅜	93⅜
do pref	103⅞	104
B.& O	115⅞	115
C. O	59¾	60¾
C.P.R.	172	172⅞
Erie	47⅜	48⅜
do pref	80⅜	80¾
C. G. W	22¾	22¾
Ills C.	174	174½
K. T.	37⅜	37¾
L. & N.	151	152
Soo	155	154
Mop	102⅞	102⅞
N Y C	149⅞	150⅞
Nor	91⅞	92⅜
O W	54⅜	55¾
Penn	143⅞	[illegible]
R I	25⅞	26⅜
Reading	140⅞	141⅞
St. Paul	186	186⅞
Sou Pac	69	69⅜
Sou. Ry	[illegible]	41⅜
Union Pac	154⅞	155⅞
Texas	36⅜	36¾
Wab.	24⅞	24⅞
do pref	46	46
W C	29	29
W C pref.	59	58
B.R.T.	87¾	88⅜
Met.	122⅞	122⅞
Manhattan	160	160⅞
T. W.	118⅞	118⅞
A. C. P.	110	115⅞
Alo.	76⅜	75⅜
Sugar	148	148
P. O.	97⅜	99⅞
T. C. I.	155⅞	155
U. S. Steel	44	41⅞
do pref	111⅞	112⅞
W. U.	93⅜	93⅞
A F.	44⅞	45¾
C.F.I.	70	74⅜

May wheat opened at 85⅞, closed at 85⅞
July wheat opened at 83⅞; closed at 83⅞
May corn opened at 44⅞; closed at 44⅜
July corn opened at 44⅞; closed at 44⅞
May Oats opened at 30⅜; closed at 30⅞
Jan. pork opened at 14.12; closed at 14.05

STOCKS, BONDS, GRAIN, PROVISIONS, ETC.

J. R. Heintz & Co.

Established, 1879.

Members New York Consolidated Stock Exchange, New York Produce Exchange

Branch Office—52 Bridge St.
'Phone 80

The Bell Piano

Lauded by
MR. DONALD C. MacGREGOR
The Favorite Canadian Baritone
Choirmaster Central Presbyterian Church, Toronto

"I am delighted with the Bell Piano that I purchased for my studio. Your 'Illimitable Quick Repeating Action' is well nigh perfect, every note responding with remarkable clearness to the lightest touch. The evenness of tone of the Bell Piano commends it to all vocalists and musicians."

Donald C. MacGregor

Write us for Free Booklet "B" containing photos of leading musical celebrities.

The Bell Piano & Organ Co., Limited, Guelph, Ont.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charge at less than twenty-five words.

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

Band at Rink to-night.

Prof. Marshall will lecture on the latter half of Hamlet at St. Agnes' Hall Friday, Feb. 2nd. This will be an extra lecture, no extra charge to ticket holders. The final lecture of the course, on The Tempest, will be given a fortnight later. Admission 25 cents. 31-2t

WANTED.

A printer at once, male or female. Steady position. — The Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont. j23-d&wtf

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED at Intelligencer office by J. D. Ford. Also at residence, Murney St.

"Honest Abe."

It is a significant fact that in a community where crime was virtually unknown, where plain, straightforward dealing was assumed as a matter of course, and credit was fearlessly asked and given, Lincoln won an enviable reputation for integrity and honor. In a moral atmosphere of this sort ordinary veracity and fairness attracted no particular attention. Honesty was not merely the best policy; it was the rule of life, and people were expected to be upright and just with one another, but when a clerk in a country store walked miles to deliver a few ounces of tea innocently withheld from a customer by an error in the scales, and when he made a long, hard trip in order to return a few cents accidentally overpaid him, he was talked about, and the fact is that "Honest Abe" was a tribute, not a nickname.—Frederick Trevor Hill in Century.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature to do its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO.,
TOLEDO, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

LIFE IN THE MIDDLE AGES.

The Way In Sickness and Old Age Was Pitiable Indeed.

Concerning the life of poor people during the middle ages a writer says: "In those bygone days of feudal rule the dwellers in the country were almost invariably serfs, bound to the estate on which they were born and under the absolute rule of the owner. They were possibly better fed than at the present day, for butter, cheese and eggs were plentiful, and the fertile soil of Italy supplied them with abundance of fruit and vegetables. The poor man held his plot of ground by the tenure of so many days in the year of service to his lord. But in sickness or old age his case was very pitiable, and we have a curious proof of this in a letter written in 1465 by the mother of Filippo Struzzi, at Florence. She is speaking of some old people on her estate in the country: 'Piero and Monna Cilia are both alive and infirm. I have overflowed the field for next year, and, as I must put it in order, those two old people, if they do not die, must go and beg. Heaven will provide.' This is no passing thought of the good lady, who was pious and highly esteemed, a friend of the Medici, but it is a firm resolution in her own mind. A few months later she writes to her son: 'Piero is still alive, so he must put up with it and go away and beg. It would be best, of course, if heaven will take him.' Apparently a merciful Providence had already provided for Monna Cilia!"

CLARK'S CORNED BEEF

Has a spiciness of flavor which places it in the front rank of ready to serve meats. Try it.

7 Sutherland Sisters...

Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner..

THE IDEAL HAIR DRESSINGS

PRICE 50 CTS.

WATERS' DRUG STORE.

Dinner Sets

We have just received 16 Dinner Setts, in Blue, Pink, Peacock and Green, 98 pieces in sett, including large platter, fruit sett, butter-dish, bread and butter plates, etc.; regular price $7.00, we want a speedy clearance of these goods and will give you your choice for $5.00 per sett, of 98 pieces.

Just think of it, only 5c per piece.

• • •

TOWELS AND TOWELLING.

We have just received our spring shipment of these goods.

Drop in and see our Bath Towels @ 7, 12 1-2, 15, 25c; we think they are the best value ever seen in town.

CHAS. N. SULMAN.

EASY MONEY AT HOME

raising canaries. More profitable than chickens. All indoors. You'll get [illegible] each for young singers. Experience unnecessary. To get you interested quickly we send COTTAM BIRD BOOK (thousands sold at [illegible]) and to [illegible]

BIRD BREAD 10 CENTS.

and "CANARY vs. CHICKENS," showing how to make money with canaries, all for [illegible] stamps or coin. Address

COTTAM BIRD SEED, 23 [illegible] St., London, Ont

These People All Speak Well of

Zutoo

The Japanese Headache Cure.

The best remedy on the market for headache. N. W. THOMAS, Director of Eastern Townships Bank, Coaticook, Que.

We have found them to be all that is claimed for them. J. S. McDONALD, Editor Pictou (N.S.) Advocate.

I have always been averse to headache remedies on account of their being injurious to the system, but I can recommend your Zutoo Tablets as a safe and reliable remedy. MRS. L. F. BAYLEY, Beebe Plain, Que.

Every User Praises Zutoo.

Ontario Liquor License Act.

LICENSE DISTRICT OF WEST HASTINGS.

NOTICE is hereby given that John J. Fitzgerald, of the City of Belleville, has made application for permission to transfer his tavern license for the premises known as the International Hotel, Belleville, to John Burke, of the same place, and that the said application will be considered at the meeting of the Board of License Commissioners, to be held at the Inspector's Office in the City of Belleville, on the 7th day of February, 1906, at the hour of 2 o'clock p.m.

All persons interested will govern themselves accordingly.

HUGH WALKER,
License Inspector.

Belleville, 24th Jan., 1906. 24-31

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

The first test of a truly great man is humanity.

BREAD is never better than the flour it is made of.

Often it is not nearly so good, but that is the fault of the bread-maker.

Without good flour, good bread is impossible, no matter how skilfully it is handled.

Now, good bread must be good to eat, as well as good to see or to taste. Good-to-eat bread is bread that nourishes.

In the matter of nutriment,

Royal Household Flour

is supreme. It represents the best that is in the wheat, ground to a snowy whiteness and purified by electricity.

It produces bread that is light, easy to digest and best of all—nutritious. Ogilvie's Royal Household is to be had at all grocers.

OGILVIE'S ROYAL HOUSEHOLD

Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Ltd.
Montreal.

"Ogilvie's Book for a Cook," contains 130 pages of excellent recipes, some never published before. Your grocer can tell you how to get it FREE.

102

The Man Who Knows

"Maple Leaf" Rubber Quality

Has no Desire to try other MAKES.

Are the Lightest

AND LAST THE LONGEST

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES—Belleville, Napanee & Trenton.

ICE CREAM SODA

We are serving Ice Cream Soda this winter as well as the Ice-Cream.

A delicious drink we are serving now is a Chocolate Soda made from Lowney's Gold Medal Chocolate.

It is manufactured by an improved process which preserves all the nutritive qualities of the Cocoa Bean and makes a delicious drink either in a soda or hot chocolate.

Ed. F. Dickens.
CATERER.

SAFE INVESTMENTS

LOW EXPENSE

THE CARDINAL POINTS
—OF—
THE DOMINION LIFE
Head Office: Waterloo, Ont.
P. H. SIMS, S.B. BRICKER, HON. SENATOR McMULLEN
Vice-Presidents.
THOS. HILLIARD, President and Managing Director.
FRED HALSTEAD, Supt. of Agencies.

LOW MORTALITY

HIGH AVERAGE INTEREST RATE

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

SONNETS ON A SAUSAGE.

(Chicago News.)

I.

You sausage hath a fine, well-seeming look,
Fair, colored well, and of a goodly size.
The sight of it doth greatly appetize.
As there it hangs upon the butcher's hook.
Forthwith a man digs for his pocket-book.
"Cut me some slices off of that," he cries,
The butcher with a darkling smile complies.
"Ready to eat. One does not need to cook."
Bologna height. How corpulent and clean!
What nice mosaic slabs of milk-white fat
Are interspersed amid the carmine lean!
An odor of sweet savor comes, whereat
One drolls. "Twill make a dainty dish, I ween,
What is it made of?" Oh, friend, ask not that.

II.

Pry not too closely into mysteries;
Take what is offered, if it seemeth good,
Whether of sausage or of other food
Or other things—and I hold it is not wise
To have the composition understood,
If it were clearly known I think it would Occasion far less pleasure than surprise,
Pause not to analyze each element
Of joys that gods or goddesses provide;
Question them not of motives or intent,
With eyes fast shut your mouth may open wide,
So it tastes well care not for the extent
Of the adulteration taste doth hide.

* * *

St. Catharines Star-Journal: A Belleville contemporary suggests that bachelors should be taxed. At the same time we ought also to make it a punishable affair for a girl to draw the line at sisterhood when asked to enter into a nearer and dearer relationship.

* * *

We don't blame that Toronto borrower a bit for kicking against being required to pay $138 interest for six months on a loan of $35.

* * *

Meanwhile things have quieted down in Russia to such an extent that an attempt to blow up the Czar with dynamite attracts general attention.

* * *

Stories of January robins, frogs, flies, caterpillars, butterflies, we swallow greedily, but we're just waiting to pounce on the man that says he saw a woman with an Easter hat.

* * *

They are having a terrible time in Kamrat, which place has the misfortune to be in Bulgaria. The populace has imprisoned the City Council, and the council do doubt deserve all they are getting.

* * *

A New England couple is said by the New York Sun to have begun their wedding tour with an ox team. And no doubt their happiness is of just as high an order as if they had started on the "Flyer."

* * *

They do some things differently in China. When the employes of the Canton-Hankow Railroad announced that unless their demands were conceded they would strike, the Viceroy countered by declaring that all who struck would be beheaded.

* * *

A London cable states that the Egyptian Government has resolved to construct a barrage across the Nile at Esneh, 100 miles below Assouan. It is expected that 240 miles on either side of the Nile will be brought under irrigation by the dam when completed. This seems a strange repetition of history. Artificial irrigation was the secret of Egypt's ancient greatness.

* * *

What a pathetic story of domestic tragedy was that revealed in the prosecution of usurers in Toronto. Husbands and wives, financially embarrassed, oftentimes through the sickness of their children or themselves, are forced into the hands of money sharks. One couple borrowed $47.60 to tide them over an unfortunate period. They have already repaid $87.10 on the loan and they still owe $11.80.

* * *

Human feet are said to be largest in the afternoon, but morning is still the recognized time for the head's greatest size.

* * *

One would imagine that the discovery of new diseases would be alarming, but the public apparently believe that each of us will live till he has eaten his peck of microbes.

* * *

"Mr. Smith spent the hollow days with friends," is an item sent for publication in an Ontario paper. Mr. Smith is not the only one to whom they appear as hollow days.

* * *

Owing to the increase of wolves in Manitoba the provincial bounty will be increased. It's too bad that a similar method cannot be used in dealing with loan sharks.

* * *

A Boston druggist has just fallen dead whilst preparing a prescription. We suppose that he had at last got one which the doctor had written in plain English.

* * *

The new British Postmaster-General can do very effective work for Canada if he will reduce the rates on English newspapers and periodicals sent out here. British publishers are compelled to pay eight cents a pound on all papers sent to this country, whereas the United States rate is only one cent. Consequently, says a contemporary, we are being flooded with a lot of cheap American literature, often anti-British in tone. We want English literature and if it comes in here cheaply it will do much to strengthen the ties between the Mother Country and us.

* * *

The series of sermons being preached in Toronto churches on marriage are very interesting. We are inclined to think that women do not show as much care and prudence in selecting a husband as they do in picking out a hired girl. For instance, how many are thoughtful enough to ask a widower for references from his late wife.

* * *

A VICTIM OF CONSPIRACY.

(Toronto Star.)

The brazen conspiracy does not stop here. It reveals a knowledge of cause and effect, an insight into human failings, which would do credit to Machiavelli. Mr. MacMaster fondly supposed he was winning votes. What really happened was this. When he kissed the maids he lost the swains; when he kissed the wives he angered the husbands; when he kissed the widows he alarmed the Uncle Tobies and Sam Wellers; when he kissed the old women he showed all too plainly he had an object in view. Those he kissed were fooling him; and those he didn't became his enemies.

* * *

The following sayings are from a book called the "Matrimonial Primer," written by V. B. Ames, and published in New York;

Absence may make the heart grow fonder; presents have been known to have the same effect.

When your husband seems willing that all the economy shall be at the home end insist upon laundering his shirts yourself.

A wise woman sometimes leaves her husband long enough to increase his appreciation, but not long enough for him to seek consolation.

Even matrimony does not preclude individual brushes and towels, and, occasionally, opinions.

* * *

THE USES OF HOT WATER.

The best toilet preparation in the world is plain hot water. Here are some of the uses to which it may be put;

Drink a bowl of it every night if you want good digestion, good sleep and a clear complexion.

Put a bag of it at your feet when you have a cold, to your back when you have a backache or at the nape of the neck when you have a headache or cannot sleep.

Bathe the eyes with it when they are inflamed.

Soak the feet in it when they are tired.

Soak the hands in it before manicuring.

Steam the face with it for your complexion.—Montreal Star.

Death Follows Spree.

Sarnia, Jan. 31.—Joseph Kemsley, Sarnia Township, was found dead in a vacant lot at Point Edward, near the bay shore, yesterday morning. He had been drinking heavily, and an altercation took place, but the police do not think that violence was the cause of death.

An Independent Candidate.

Regina, Jan. 31.—Fred S. Pringle, real estate agent of Medicine Hat, has announced himself as an independent candidate against W. E. Knowles, Liberal nominee for West Assinaboia.

'Phone Movement Spreads.

Edmonton, Jan. 31.—When the Saskatchewan Legislature meets it will take up the matter of Government-owned rural telephones.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Lower, Chicago Higher—Live Stock Markets—The Latest Quotations.

Tuesday Evening, Jan. 30.

Liverpool wheat futures closed to-day ½d to ⅝d lower than yesterday and corn futures ⅛d to ⅜d lower.

At Chicago May wheat closed ½c higher and May oats ½c higher.

Chicago car lots to-day 20, contract 1; corn 531, 15; oats 313, 51.

WINNIPEG OPTIONS.

The following were the closing quotations yesterday at this market: Jan. 76½c, May 79⅝c, July 81⅛c.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

	May.	July.
New York	90⅝	89¼
Minneapolis	83½	85⅛
Duluth	83⅜	85
Detroit	89½	85⅛
Toledo	88¼	85¼
St. Louis	83⅝	80⅜

TORONTO PRODUCE MARKET.

Grain—
Wheat, spring, bush	$0 78	to $....
Wheat, fall, bush	0 76	0 78
Wheat, red, bush	0 76	0 78
Wheat, goose, bush	0 71	0 72
Barley, bush	0 51	0 52
Oats, bush	0 39	0 40
Rye, bush	0 74	....
Peas, bush	0 75	....
Buckwheat, bush	0 53	....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, Jan. 30.—Wheat—Spot nominal; futures steady; March, 6s 11d; May, 6s 8⅛d.

Corn—Spot quiet; American mixed, new, 4s 2½d; American mixed, old, 4s 8½d; futures firm; Jan., 4s 2¼d; March, 4s 2d; May, 4s 2¼d.

Lams—Short cut steady, 44s.

Lard—Prime western in tierces steady, 39s. Tallow—Prime city firm, 25s.

Receipts of wheat during the past three days 89,000 centals, including 60,000 American.

Receipts of American corn during the past three days 213,500 centals.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, Jan. 30.—Butter—Weak; receipts, 9456; street price extra creamery, 26c; official prices creamery, common to extra, 17c to 26c; do. held, 22½c to 23c; state dairy, common to extra, 17c to 24c; renovated, common to extra, 15c to 19½c; western factory, common to firsts, 15½c to 18½c; western imitation creamery, extras, 20c to 21c; do. firsts, 18c to 19c.

Cheese—Firm, unchanged; receipts, 1983.

Eggs—Unsettled; receipts, 8534; state, Pennsylvania and near-by fancy selected white, 23c to 24c; do. choice, 21c to 23c; do. mixed extra, 20c; western firsts, 18c; do. seconds, 17c to 17½c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Hogs Firmer at Buffalo, Easier at Chicago.

London, Jan. 30.—Cattle are quoted at 10¼c to 11¼c per lb.; refrigerator, 7¾c to 8½c.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the city market as reported by the railways Friday last were 70 car loads, composed of 793 cattle, 1474 hogs, 1191 sheep and lambs, with 100 calves.

Exporters.

About two straight loads were offered, and a few picked out of loads of butcher cattle, not more than three loads all told. The highest price quoted for a load was $4.85 per cwt., and for one choice steer $5 per cwt. was paid and $4.80 for another load and as low as $4.50. Export bulls sold at $3.40 to $3.75 per cwt.

Butchers.

Choice picked lots sold at $4.30 to $4.50, but not many brought these prices; loads of good sold at $4.10 to $4.25; medium to good at $3.50 to $4; common at $3.25 to $3.50; cows sold all the way from $2.40 to $3.70 per cwt. and canners at $1.25 to $2 per cwt.

Feeders and Stockers.

Deliveries of feeders and stockers were light. Harry Murby, who bought about 100, reports prices as being unchanged as follows: feeders, 1100 lbs. each, at $4 to $4.12½ per cwt.; 1000 lb. feeders at $3.75; 900 lb. feeders at $3.50; 800 lb. feeders at $3.40 and stockers at $3 to $3.25.

Milch Cows.

There was a good trade in milch cows and springers, as will be seen by the many sales reported below. Prices ranged from $30 to $60 each.

Veal Calves

Veal calves were more plentiful, over 100 being on sale. Prices ranged from $4.50 to $6.75 per cwt. for the bulk with a limited number of good to choice at $7 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

About 1200 sheep and lambs sold at firm prices as follows: export ewes at $4.50 to $4.75 per cwt.; bucks, $3.50 to $4 per cwt.; good to choice lambs, $6.50 to $7 per cwt., and common lambs at $5.50 to $6.50 per cwt.

Hogs.

Mr. Harris quotes hogs 25c per cwt. lower as follows: selects, $6.75; lights and fats at $6.50; sows, $4 to $5 per cwt.; stags, $2.50 to $3.50.

Mr. Harris reports prospects as being for still lower prices at the latter part of this week.

One dealer reported $6.75 and stated that $6.50 was nearer the price that should be paid for selects.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, Jan. 30.—Cattle—Receipts, 100 head; fairly active and firm.

Veals—Receipts, 100 head; steady; $5.25 to $9.

Hogs—Receipts, 4300 head; active; 10c higher on light; slow on others; heavy and mixed, $5.80 to $5.85; Yorkers, $5.85 to $6; pigs, $6 to $6.10; roughs, $4.80 to $5.10; stags, $3.50 to $4.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 2000 head; active and steady; lambs, $6.25 to $7.85; yearlings, $6.50 to $7; wethers, $5.50 to $6.10; ewes, $5.50 to $5.75; sheep, mixed, $3 to $5.75; western lambs, $7.25 to $7.70.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, Jan. 30.—Beeves—Receipts, 795; nothing doing; feeling steady, with light arrivals reported for Wednesday. Exports to-day, 935 cattle and 4200 quarters of beef; to-morrow, 100 cattle.

Calves—Receipts, 253; market quiet; common to good veals, $5 to $9.25; cull barnyard calves, $2.25.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 495; sheep normal, but feeling firm; lambs strong; common to choice, $7 to $8.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 3170; firm; good to light hogs, $6.15.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—Cattle—Receipts, 3000; market steady; common to prime steers, $3.40 to $6.40; cows, $3 to $4.40; heifers, $2.25 to $5; bulls, $2 to $4; calves, $3 to $8; stockers and feeders, $2.40 to $3.85.

Hogs—Receipts, 33,000; market 5c lower; choice to prime, heavy, $5.50 to $5.60; medium to good, heavy, $5.45 to $5.50; butchers' weights, $5.45 to $5.55; good to choice heavy, mixed, $5.45 to $5.50; packing, $5.15 to $5.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 18,000; market 25c lower; sheep, $3.50 to $5.75; yearlings, $6 to $6.25; lambs, $6.50 to $7.45.

Served U. S., But Refused Admittance.

Boston, Jan. 31.—Although he had served three enlistments under the flag of the United States, one in the regular army, one in the navy, and once as a volunteer, and in each case received an honorable discharge, John J. Bowes, an Englishman, has been refused admittance to the United States. Bowes, despite his military service, was never naturalized.

Two Dead In One House.

Kingston, Jan. 31.—Rosanna McFadden, aged 73, and Martha McFadden, aged 54, are lying dead in the same house on Wellington street, one dying on Sunday, the other Monday night. A third sister is very ill.

SORE THROAT
stiff neck, swollen glands, toothache, earache, disappear immediately after rubbing with Griffiths' Menthol Liniment.
It takes away all the soreness—reduces the swelling. 25c. a bottle. At druggists.
The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., Ltd., Toronto, Can.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM
Winter Resorts For February

California, Mexico, Florida, Cuba, offer attractions difficult to find in any other part of the world. Delightful, restful, health restoring climate, luxurious hotel.

ROUND TRIP TOURIST TICKETS ARE ON SALE DAILY TO ALL SOUTHERN RESORTS.

The Mount Clemens Mineral Baths, and St. Catharines Mineral Springs, situated on our direct line, are celebrated for their curative waters. Try it.

For Tickets and full information call on
H. C. THOMPSON, Town Agent.
F. H. COPPIN, Depot Agent.

Hotel Belleclaire
Broadway and 77th Street,
New York.

Seventh Avenue, Amsterdam Ave. and West 79th St. Cars pass the door. Luxurious rooms for permanent and transient guests. Restaurant a Feature. Exquisite Palm Room. Art Nouveau Cafe. Royal Hungarian Orchestra.

"Most Artistically Beautiful Hotel in the World." Can offer few single rooms, with bath, beautifully furnished, suitable for two people, $60 per month.

TRANSIENT RATES:
One Room, with bath...............$2.50 per day
Parlor, Bedroom, with bath, $3 and $5 per day
Parlor, 2 Bedrooms, with bath, $5 and $7 per day
Every improvement known to modern ingenuity.
Write for our magazine, "The Hotel Belleclaire World."
MILTON ROBLEE, Proprietor.

HOTEL TOURAINE
Delaware Ave. & Johnson Park
BUFFALO, N. Y.
A modern, high-class and convenient stopping place, offering every accommodation for the comfort and pleasure of transient guests. Moderate prices.
Harry C. Griswold, Proprietor.

NEW YORK CENTRAL
& Hudson River R.
THE SIX TRACK TRUNK LINE
SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.
GOING EAST AND WEST
Daily except Sunday

Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)		1.39 a.m.	noon
Arr. Kingston		3.25 a.m.	1.25 p.m.
Lv. Kingston (steamer)		5.00 a.m.	2.00 p.m.
Arr. CapeVincent (str.)		7.00 a.m.	4.00 p.m.
Mondays only
Lv. CapeVincent	N.Y.C.	7.15 a.m.	4.50 p.m.
Arr. Watertown	"	8.10 a.m.	5.50 p.m.
Arr. Oswego	"	11.59 a.m.	9 12 p.m.
Arr. Syracuse	"	12.13 p.m.	9.33 p.m.
Arr. Rochester	"	2.28 p.m.	....
Arr. Utica	"	12.20 a.m.	9.00 p.m.
Arr. New York	"	5.48 p.m.	7.12 a.m.

Convenient train service in opposite direction.
Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10, while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C.R.R. of New Jersey, cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from H. S. Folger, N.Y.C. agent, Kingston, Ont.

C. F. DALY, Pass'r., Traffic Manager, New York.
A. H. SMITH, General Manager, New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent, Watertown, N.Y.

NO NEW BLADES.
NO ANNUAL TAX.
If you wish to test one of these Razors without RISK or OBLIGATION on your part, apply to us for details!
PRICES
Carbo-Magnetic $2.00
Pair in Leather Case $4.50
Double Concave for Heavy Beards $2.50
"Carbo-Magnetic Elastic Cushion Strops, $1.00
Free Booklet "Hints to Shavers."
For sale by W. W. CHOWN Co., Ltd., Belleville, Ont.

Business Directory.

MUSICAL.

W. H. SPOONER,
Associate of Trinity College, London, Eng. Organist of St. Thomas' Church, receives pupils for Pianoforte, Organ, Vocal and all branches of Theoretical Music. Apply at studio, Coleman St., or by letter, P. O. 932. 56-6md

MEDICAL.

McLEAN CAVERLY, M. D., C. M., M. C. P. S. O.
Office, at residence, No 90 West Bridge street. Office hours 9 to 10 a.m.: 1 to 3, and 7 to 8 p.m. No regular office hours on Sundays. Telephone 335.

JONH J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.C.C. S., England,
Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. WILSON,
J. M. Wilson. D. D. Wilson,
Located in Dr. Lockridge's old office, opposite Wallbridge and Clarke's, Bridge street, Belleville. jy13-d & wly

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, &c., Belleville.
Office—9 Campbell Street.
Malcolm Wright. J. Franklin Wills.
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B.C.L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for City of Belleville.
Office—City Hall.

PORTER & CARNEW,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices—Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 67.
E. Guss Porter. Wm. Carnew.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office Bridge St., Belleville.
Money to Loan.—Private Funds at lowest rates. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario, and for the Merchants Bank of Canada.

NORTHRUP & ROBERTS,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public.
Offices—North Bridge St., opposite Post Office, Belleville, Ont.
Solicitors for Bank of Montreal.
Money to loan at 5 per cent.
W. B. Northrup, K. C., M. P.
jy27-d&wtf A. A. ROBERTS.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
(Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q. C.)
Barrister, Solicitor Conveyancer, etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent. on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire, Life, Accident and Plate Glass
INSURANCE AGENCIES.
The Guardian
Ins. Co. of North America,
Quebec and Metropolitan Fire Co's.
Insures farm and city property at lowest rates.
Canadian Railway Accident Ins. Co.
Office Campbell St., Belleville, Ont.
R. W. ADAMS.

THOMAS STEWART,
INSURANCE AND REAL ESTATE
Agent Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society, Scottish Union & National Insurance Co., North British & Mercantile Insurance Co., London & Lancaster Insurance Co., Dominion of Canada Guarantee & Accident Co., Equitable Life of New York, New York Plate Glass Insurance Co.
Bridge St., Belleville.

Fire, Life and Plate Glass Insurance.
Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual of Waterloo, Ont.
Lloyd's Plate Glass.
Home Life Association, Toronto.
North British Mercantile.
Farm and City Property insured in first-class, reliable companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation and transact general Real Estate business, and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle St., opposite Post Office and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.
'Phone 163.

Money Saved is Money Earned.
I can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co.
The Merchants' Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at a lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON.
Office—Bridge St.

A Bright Future is in store for those who intend that their meals shall be cooked on a Souvenir Range the use of a Souvenir means well cooked meals and the work reduced to a minimum
THE AERATED OVEN CARRIES OFF ALL COOKING ODORS
The Gurney, Tilden Company

W. McGIE, BELLEVILLE, ONT.

DEAF TAKE POOR PICTURES.

Their Infirmity Gives Them a Hard, Fixed Expression.

"That isn't a good picture," said a photographer, with an air of apology. "The man was deaf."

"How can that infirmity affect the picture?" asked a visitor.

"It gives his face a tense, strained look," said the photographer. "All deaf persons have that expression when placed before a camera. They sit with their heads tilted forward and eyebrows uplifted, as if waiting for the command to look pleasant. Generally, I suppose, that is what they are waiting for. But even after I have given the order to brace their muscles refuse to relax.

"'What's that?' says the deaf man when he sees my lips move.

"'Look pleasant!' I shout again.

"'Oh!' says he.

"He takes his hand from behind his ear and tries to assume a beaming countenance, but he only compromises on a fixed glare. None of the devices known to the photographic trade can dispel that. In fact, the more 'business' I introduce to charm my subject into a joyful state the more rigid his facial muscles become. He is listening always for further instructions. Whether they come or not, the look of expectancy is there. For that reason the deaf are the hardest people in the world to photograph. If an artist's reputation depended upon the pictures he makes of them he would soon be obliged to go out of business."—Exchange.

THE CAMPANERO.

Sweet and Bell-like Is the Toll of This Pretty White Bird.

This bird, called dara by the South American Indians and bellbird by the English, is about the size of a jay. His plumage is white as snow. On his forehead rises a spiral tube nearly three inches long. It is jet black, dotted all over with small white feathers. It has a communication with the palate and when filled with air looks like a spire. When empty it becomes pendulous. His note is loud and clear like the sound of a bell and may be heard at the distance of three miles. In the midst of these extensive wilds, generally on the dry top of an aged mora almost out of gun reach, you will see the campanero. No sound or song from any of the winged inhabitants of the forest, not even the clearly pronounced "whippoorwill" from the goatsucker, causes such astonishment as the toll of campanero. You hear a toll and then a pause again, and then a toll and again a pause. Then he is silent for six or eight minutes, and then another toll, and so on. Actaeon would stop in midchase, Maria would defer her evening song and Orpheus himself would drop his lute to listen to him, so sweet, so novel and romantic is the toll of the pretty snow white campanero.—Waterton's "Wanderings In South America."

Prices of Coffee and Tobacco In 1662.

At the coffeehouse in Exchange alley is sold by retail the right coffee powder from 4 to 6 shillings per pound, as in goodness; that pounded in a mortar at 3 shillings per pound; also that termed the right Turkie berry well garbled at 3 shillings per pound; the ungarbled for less; that termed the East India berry at 20 pence per pound, with directions gratis how to make and use the same. Likewise there you may have tobacco, verinus and Virginia chocolatta, the ordinary pound boxes at 2 shillings 6 pence per pound, the perfumed from 4 to 10 shillings per pound; also Sherbets (made in Turkie) of lemons, roses and violets perfumed, and tea, according to its goodness, from 6 to 60 shillings per pound. For all which if any gentleman shall write or send they shall be sure of the best, as they shall order, and to avoid deceit, warranted under the house seal—viz, Morat the great, etc.—Mercurius Publicus.

3 Cents a Day Will Cure Your Kidneys

3c a day for a specialist—that will cure you of every trace of Kidney Trouble. That's all it costs—3c a day—to take

Bu-Ju

THE GENTLE KIDNEY PILL

And "Bu-Ju" cures—remember that. Not merely eases the pain and makes you feel better—but heals and strengthens the Kidneys and completely cures.

Take "Bu-Ju" on our guarantee that they cure or money refunded

At druggists or sent prepaid on receipt of price, 50c.

THE CLAFLIN CHEMICAL CO. LIMITED WINDSOR, ONT.

Arrow Throwing.

An old English sport that still survives from the days when the bow and arrow were in use is that of arrow throwing, and in parts of Yorkshire it is still made one of the features of athletic meets. The arrows are straight shafts three feet long, without either barb or feather, and are thrown by the aid of a bit of string wrapped about the thrower's hand and about the butt of the arrow. A skillful man can send the arrow 150 yards, though it requires some experience to cause the arrow to leave the string without tangling. Once the knack is acquired the sport is said to be more fascinating than putting the shot or throwing the hammer.

Right In His Line.

"I caught the street car conductor who owes me money on the car platform last night."

"Did you get your money?"

"No; he did the same thing my other debtors do."

"What's that?"

"Put me off."

Where He Gets His.

Applicant (at the pearly gates)—May I come in? St. Peter—What business were you engaged in on earth? Applicant—I owned several apartment houses, and— St. Peter (interrupting)—Sorry, but I'm afraid the children here would annoy you. Go bump the bumps.

Her Culinary Triumph.

"Mrs. Golitely made a particularly fine cake the other day."

"How do you know?"

"I happened to overhear her telling her guest at the table that she believed it was the worst cake she had ever made."

Contentment gives a crown where fortune hath denied it.—Ford.

Deadly Trades.

"Tobacco workers are prone to deadly nervous diseases. I have never yet seen a tobacco worker who is not a nervous crank, who is not off in his head," complained the owner of a large cigar factory. "I don't know why it is. I used to be a worker myself, and I have never recovered from the effects of the trade. Half the time my men are away sick or dying, they are always ill tempered and flighty, and a public agitation makes idiots of them. I don't know the reason, as I said." He was advised to consult a physician and find out.

The foreman of a stonecutting yard, when questioned, was better informed as to the evils of his trade.

"See those dust clouds all over the yard?" he said. "Consumption there! And quick, at that."

Bin Measurements.

To measure corn find number of cubic feet in crib, then multiply by 9 and divide by 20, which gives the amount in bushels. To determine amount of shelled corn to be obtained from crib of corn in ear find cubic feet of corn, divide by 2, and the product will be the number of bushels of shelled corn, as two cubic feet of corn if sound and dry will produce one bushel of shelled corn.

To find the number of bushels of apples, potatoes, etc., in a bin multiply the length, breadth and thickness together and this product by 8 and point off one figure in the product for decimals.—Iowa State Register and Farmer.

A Dilemma.

A well known college professor offers the two horns of a dilemma to advocates of coeducation.

"If you lecture to twenty boys and twenty girls in the same room," he asks, "will the boys attend to the lecture or to the girls?"

Of course the coeducationist, to be consistent, must say that they will listen to the lecture.

"Well, if they do," replies the dean, "they are not worth lecturing to."—Harper's.

Muscles.

Many muscles are located at a considerable distance from the point where their force is to be exerted and are connected with the point of operation by slender strings or tendons. This is a provision of nature solely for convenience. If all the muscles whose power is concentrated in the hand and foot were located in the hands or feet these members would assume an inordinate size and weight and become more troublesome than useful.

Hard on Her Conscience.

The giving of a "character" to domestic servants is one of the severest tests of the employer's character. An Irish master, being called upon to write a testimonial for a groom whom he was discharging for drunkenness, gave him a good character, but omitted to mention one trait. The groom returned the letter, objecting that it did not say he was sober. The master added "sometimes sober," and the man was content. The woman who had to recommend the inefficient cook she had kept for seven years only because she was afraid to give her notice went one better. She had covered three pages with undeserved commendations; she had placed it in an envelope and addressed it, and her conscience pricked her badly. Then she had a happy idea, and broke open the seal, adding to her letter, as a postscript, "God forgive me!" It satisfied her conscience, but history does not relate if it satisfied the other woman.—N. Y. Tribune.

"Only Me."

There may be a world of pathos and even of rebuke in a very few words, and so the rather thoughtless wife of a contributor of ours discovered recently. She has two sweet little children, both girls, and, almost without knowing it, she made a pet and favorite of the younger and prettier child "Sweet," as she called her, had every care and attention lavished upon her, and good natured neglect was more or less the portion of the elder.

The mother was sitting in her bedroom quietly reading recently when the soft patter of tiny feet sounded on the stairs.

"Is that you, Sweet?" she called.

"No, mamma," was the sad reply; "it isn't Sweet—it's only me!"

That pathetic little "Only me!" haunted the wife of our contributor for longer than she would have cared to admit, but a change has since marked her treatment of her eldest born.—London Tit-Bits.

English Names.

Puzzling enough to an American is the English fashion of spelling a name one way and pronouncing it in quite another, but the cities are even worse than the individuals, since they deliberately adopt some alias. The town of Hull, for instance, is Kingston-on-Hull. It has no official recognition as anything else, yet as Hull it is known to nine out of ten, who would wonder if Kingston-on-Hull was near the town of Hull should they hear it mentioned. Even supposedly respectable cathedral towns are not above hiding identity, and to call New Sarum "Salisbury" is to give it its alias. The royal town of Windsor is really New Windsor, and the county of Hampshire, popularly shortened to Hants, is in reality the county of Southampton. Bradford-by-the-Sea is more correctly Morecambe, but rightly Poulton le Sande, while Bridlington, sometimes called Burlington, is more popularly Wakefield-by-the-Sea.

Mirabeau's Trumpet Voice.

Mirabeau had a voice like a trumpet, and when he raised it in threat or denunciation the effect was awe inspiring. The impression he created was greatly heightened by his manner, his personal appearance being exceedingly imposing. He had a way of lifting his head and shaking it to give emphasis to his periods that made the beholders involuntarily draw back with fear.

Temporarily Silenced.

"Why did you insist on sending that young man to congress?"

"Got tired of his speechmakin'," answered Farmer Corntossel. "We thought we'd put him where the speaker would keep him quiet for a few years."

Choice of a Vocation.

Aunt Rosa—Well, Juanito, what would you like to be when you are grown up? Juanito (whose parents are very strict)—I'd like to be an orphan.—Dis.

Doubting Science.

She (from a book)—A woman's brain declines in weight after she is thirty. He—How do they know? I thought a woman never got to be thirty.

Curious Welsh Superstition.

Small glasslike, irregular circlets of some crystallized mineral are occasionally found in the mountains of Wales, and concerning these the Welsh people have some curious superstitions. Some believe that they are formed in the body of a snake as soon as he reaches the age of 100 years, while others declare that they are formed "of froth and venom" when two large male snakes meet. Camden, the great English historian and antiquarian, says: "It is usual for snakes to approach on St. John's eve and by joining heads together and hissing to form a kind of bubble, which passes through the snake and immediately hardens till it resembles a glass ring. Whoever finds one of these rings will ever after prosper."

BRUSHES

The high standard of Boeckh goods has led to imitations which are claimed to be " as good as Boeckh's." While this is an acceptance of the excellence of Boeckh's Brushes, the imitations are usually very inferior and prove poor value. See that you get

Boeckh's

IVORY CARVING.

The Chinese Still Excel In Making Elaborate Fan Sticks.

"You may say that the Chinese still excel in the elaborate carving of ivory for fan sticks," said a fan importer. "Years of labor are represented in some of the fans made in the orient. For nearly two centuries the manufacture of fans for the European market has been an important industry of China.

"The Chinese workmen, brought to Paris in the seventeenth century in order to teach Frenchmen the art, aided greatly in giving the prominence to French fans. At Dieppe and other industrial centers in France fine examples of carved ivory fan sticks are produced, and many of the most beautiful fans reaching the New York market come from there. There is a wide choice of material for the sticks, comprising ivory, mother-of-pearl, tortoise shell, horn, sandal and other woods, with occasionally filigree work in metal.

"The most common materials, of course, are wood and bone, which are decorated with prints or pressed work. One of the most notable fans, made with metal sticks, is the one of carved silver said to have once belonged to Marie Antoinette. This fan is now in the South Kensington collection. The mother-of-pearl sticks give an excellent opportunity for artistic carving and also for clever gilding."

THE KOTOW.

Neither Ungraceful Nor Degrading as Performed by Chinese.

The kotow (pronounced ker-toe and meaning literally to bow the head) is used as a form of thanks and is not a manner of greeting. The actors kotow to their majesties at the beginning and end of each performance at the theater, first to thank for the honor they are to receive in being allowed to act before them and at the end to thank for the privilege granted. The officials "bow the head" to thank for an audience or any favor or gift they have received or are to receive from their majesties. The kotow is not only made by people at the palace and at imperial audiences; it is sometimes used by equals to each other as a proper manner of thanking for some great favor. To make the kotow the person kneels three times and each time bows his head three times, touching the ground with it. The kotow could not be made by a foreigner without looking most awkward and appearing most servile, but the Chinese do it with dignity, and it is neither ungraceful nor degrading. It is a time honored manner of giving thanks, a Chinese tradition surviving from a time when the courtiers were perhaps like slaves, but at present it does not imply any slavelike inferiority on the part of him who performs it.—Katharine A. Carl in Century.

Made Him Cautious.

N. Vickary, formerly for many years a well known taxidermist of Lynn, Mass., had skinned an eagle for mounting one day when an old colored man who did odd jobs about came in.

"Uncle Ben," said the taxidermist, "you can take home that goose over there if you want to."

Uncle Ben bore the "goose" joyfully away. The next time he met Mr. Vickary he looked at him rather queerly, but said nothing. A few days later the taxidermist skinned an owl and again offered Uncle Ben a goose to take home. Uncle Ben removed his hat, scratched his head in some perplexity and then said:

"If it's all the same to you, Mistah Vickary, suh, I'd like to see the feet ob dat goose before I take him home to my ole woman."

A Catchword.

Concerning the term "catchword" the London Chronicle says that its old technical sense "is familiar to those who affect old books. The catchword was the first word of a page, which was printed also by anticipation in the bottom right hand corner below the last line of the preceding page, so as to insure that the pages should follow on properly. In Latin these catchwords were known as 'custodes,' guardians. The device was invented in Venice about 1400 and was in favor for centuries. This is the oldest sense of 'catchword' in the English language. Afterward it came to mean a prominent word heading a column of a dictionary, the rhyming word of a line of verse and an actor's cue."

He Won the Trick.

"Oh, George, dear," she whispered when he slipped the engagement ring on her tapering finger, "how sweet of you to remember just the sort of stone I preferred! None of the others was ever so thoughtful."

George was staggered but for a moment. Then he came back with, "Not at all, dear; you overrate me. This is the one I've always used."

She was inconsistent enough to cry about it.

What She Would Do.

"Johnnie, dear," said his mother, who was trying to inculcate a lesson in industry, "what do you suppose mamma would do for you if you should come to her some day and tell her that you loved your studies?" "Lick me for telling a falsehood" said dear little Johnnie with the frankness of youth.

Good For Baldness.

"Say," said the man who was beginning to have a bare spot on top of his head, "can you tell me what is good for baldness?"

"Yes," replied the barber, "a cheerful determination to make the best of what can't be helped."—Chicago Record-Herald.

LORD LOVELL TO DATE.

Lord Lovell stood at his own front door,
Seeking the hole for the key;
His hat was wrecked and his trousers bore
A rent across either knee,
When down came the beauteous Lady Jane
In fair white draperie.

"Oh, where have you been, Lord Lovell?" she said.
"Oh, where have you been?" said she;
"I have not closed an eye in bed
And the clock has just struck three.
Who has been standing you on your head
In the ash-barrel, pardie?"

"I am not drunk, Lad' Shane," he said,
"And so late it cannot be;
The clock struck one as I entered—
I heard it two times or three.
It must be the salmon on which I fed
Has been too many for me."

"Go tell your tale, Lord Lovell," she said,
"To the maritime cavalree,
To your grandmother of the hoary head—
To any one but me;
The door is not used to be opened
With a cigarette for a key."

ADOPTS NUT DIET.

Lady Charles Beresford and Earl of Buchan Recent Converts.

Fletcherism and vegetarianism, one meaning the chewing of meat and the other the eschewing of it, have done much to cause the butcher to grumble, but the latest cult of the well to do whose digestion has been impaired by too many dinners is quite enough to drive the worthy purveyor of meat frantic with rage. Nuts now form the staple diet of many people who find that a French chef is superfluous. Even the festive vegetable and cutlet are considered inadequate for the purposes of the advanced diner. "Lord Charles Beresford," says Vanity Fair, "has for some time been a vegetarian, and now Lady Charles Beresford has adopted the same form of diet and lives principally on nuts. The Earl of Buchan and Mr. Neville Lytton are also among the recent recruits."

The nuts are served hot or cold and constitute the principal course at many a lordly mansion nowadays. "If the unemployed only knew," said a nutty convert to an Express reporter, "they could live luxuriously on two or three pence a day on the finest food in the world, and it could be varied so much that there would be no monotony of dishes."

A booklet by Sir W. E. Cooper entitled "Errors in Eating" gives some curious figures, purporting to show the difference in the nutriment contained in nuts as compared with flesh foods. Here are some nuts: Total nutriment in chestnuts, 89.3 per cent; walnuts, 88.2; filberts, 59.5; Brazil nuts, 94; cocoanuts, 50.5; pine kernels, 95; almonds, 87.3.

Flesh foods: Lean beef, 28 per cent.; veal, 29; mutton, medium fat, 34.8; fat pork, 61; venison, 22.7; chicken, 32.31; white fish or sole, 23.3.

A Decaying Cathedral.

The pinnacles and cornices on the west front of Winchester Cathedral are in so dangerous a state, owing to decay, that the Dean and Chapter have decided to close the three western doors, leaving only the south door as a means of public entrance to the cathedral.

A few days ago large fragments of stone fell to the pavement just in front of the northwest door, and the prevalent frosts threaten seriously to increase the danger of pinnacles and cornices falling away.

It was only a month ago that Dr. Furneaux, the Dean of Winchester, issued an urgent appeal for £20,000 in order that the serious defects which had been discovered in the cathedral might be repaired.

Cracks a foot wide had been discovered in the foundations of the building, caused by the subsidence of the east end, while a progressive subsidence had also been going on in other portions of the fabric.

In that appeal the dean referred to the dilapidated condition of the spires and pinnacles of the west front, and it was intended that these should be covered in the general scheme of repair, but it was not expected that the danger in this part of the building would so soon become acute.

Named It at Once.

Some of Darwin's boy friends once plotted a surprise for the naturalist. They slew a centipede, glued on it a beetle's head, and also added to its body the wings of a butterfly and the long legs of a grasshopper. Then they put the new insect in a box and knocked at the great man's door. "We found this in the fields," they cried, with eager voices. "Do tell us what it can be." Darwin looked at the strange compound and then at the boys' innocent faces. "Did it hum when you caught it?" he asked. "Oh yes, sir," they answered, quickly, nudging one another. "It hummed like anything." "Then," said the philosopher, "it's a hum-bug."—London Tatler.

Rat Hunts In Favor In England.

Rat catching as a pastime in England is fast bounding into popularity, says The London Express. It is claimed by the many fresh devotees of this peculiar hobby that it provides excitement and sport, while, as its aim is the extinction of vermin, its usefulness is beyond question. H. F. Willoughby Greenhill, a stock broker, and a party of friends, with the assistance of four dogs, bagged ninety-two rats in one day recently and nearly as many during the preceding week. The sport is general all over the County of Surrey, and the services of those who follow the pastime are in requisition in all rat infested quarters.

Musical Tinkering.

In the far-back days when the "Cries of London" were more musical than they are now, the itinerant tinker's call for business used to be:

Work for the tinker, pray good wives,
We work like men of metal,
'Twere well if folk could mend their lives,
As we can mend a kettle.

THE tough wearing qualities of "Canadian" Rubbers will stand even the rough usage of boyhood. Every rubber bearing "the mark of quality" contains the maximum of wear, style and comfort.

VARICOCELE & STRICTURE

No other disease is so prevalent among men as Varicocele. As it interferes with the nutrition of the sexual organs it produces weakness, loss of semen through the urine, decay of the organs, pains in the loins, aching in the back, nervousness, despondency, bashfulness, palpitation of the heart, constipation, and a combination of these results in complete LOSS OF MANHOOD. Thousands of young and middle-aged men are troubled with STRICTURE. If you have reason to believe you are afflicted with it, don't neglect it. It will ruin you. Don't let doctors experiment on you by cutting, stretching or tearing it. Our NEW METHOD TREATMENT dissolves the stricture tissue, hence it disappears and can never return. We cure Varicocele and Stricture without operation or loss of time. The treatment may be taken at home privately. Send for our Free Illustrated Book on VARICOCELE and STRICTURE. WE GUARANTEE TO CURE OR NO PAY.

Kidneys & Bladder

All sexual complaints affect these organs, hence the kidneys are a great source of disease. Have you aching or weakness over the small of the back, tendency to urinate frequently, deposit in urine, coldness of hands or feet, a drowsy feeling in the morning. Don't neglect your kidneys. Our NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure any disease of these organs or no pay.

☞ No Names Used Without Written Consent.

O. W. Rowe, of Jackson, Mich., says: I had varicocele in the secondary stage and two strictures of 3 years' standing. I was operated on twice, undergoing great suffering, but only got temporary relief. I was finally advised to try the NEW METHOD TREATMENT of Drs. K. & K. The enlarged veins disappeared in six weeks, the stricture tissue was removed in eight weeks and my sexual energy and vitality returned so I was a man in every respect. I recommend you doctors with my whole heart."

CURES GUARANTEED. NO CURE NO PAY.

Before Treatment. After Treatment.

We treat and cure Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, Varicocele, Stricture, Blood Diseases, Kidney and Urinary Complaints. Consultation Free. Books Free. Write for Question List for Home Treatment.

DRS. KENNEDY & KERGAN
143 SHELBY STREET, DETROIT, MICH.

CONNOISSEURS PREFER
Dawson's
WHISKY

The warmest, most comfortable foot protection for driving—and in fact for all winter wear—are—
GRANBY RUBBERS
They are smart and trig, fit like a new glove and are easy on the feet.
GRANBY RUBBERS "WEAR LIKE IRON"

The Intelligencer Bindery
Makes a specialty of Ledgers, Journals, Cash Books and all Descriptions of Blank Account Books.

A FACT PROVEN.

Should Convince Even the Most Skeptical of Its Truth.

If there is the slightest doubt in the minds of any that Dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit inoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time.

It must be apparent to any person therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germ — which act is successfully accomplished in one hundred per cent. of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide.

Dandruff is caused by the same germ which causes baldness and can be prevented with the same remedy — Newbro's Herpicide.

Accept no substitute. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect."

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. J. S. McKeown, special agent.

Manitoba's Telephone Inquiry.

Winnipeg, Jan. 31.—The telephone committee appointed by the Manitoba Legislature to conduct an enquiry into the operation and cost of telephone systems and telephone rates, held its first session this morning, when Charles F. Fisher of Chicago, a telephone expert, gave evidence as to competition in the United States between the Bell corporation and independent companies. He estimated that a telephone system to comprise 10,000 telephones and constructed at a cost of $1,000,000, could be maintained in Winnipeg by charging a rate of $10 per telephone, and $6 per year for a desk telephone.

Shutting Out Competition.

Winnipeg, Jan. 31.—Yesterday morning City Engineer Ruttan and Chief of Police McRae ordered the Winnipeg General Power Co., when they started to extend their lines into the city, to stop work. The company was compelled to cease work operations, but application will be made immediately to the Government for permission to proceed, as the claim is made that the right to enter Winnipeg is embodied in the charter. The city intends to go into its own municipal power, and it is to shut out, if possible, the Winnipeg Power Co., that this drastic move was taken.

Report Is a Wordy One.

New York, Jan. 31.—Senator W. W. Armstrong, chairman of the joint legislative insurance investigating committee, said Monday that the report of the committee to the Legislature probably will be about 75,000 words in length. That will be nearly three times as voluminous as the longest presidential message on record. The report probably will be made public within about two weeks.

Moors Attack Spanish Cruiser.

Malaga, Spain, Jan. 31.—A despatch from Melilla, Morocco, announces that insurgent Moors recently attacked the Spanish cruiser Infanta Isabel near the Marchica factory, where the pretender's troops are erecting fortifications in preparation for an expected attack by the Sultan's forces.

Paul Dresser Dead.

New York, Jan. 31.—Paul Dresser, a song writer, whose "Banks of the Wabash" and "The Blue and the Grey" brought his name into public notice, died yesterday at the home of his sister in this city. Mr. Dresser was born 47 years ago in Terre Haute, Ind.

THE SOURCE OF NEURALGIA!

It runs hand in hand with poor blood and weak nerves. Health runs down, nerves get irritable, neuralgic torture follows. For the moment applications may relieve—but to thoroughly cure, the system must be strengthened with nutritious blood. What can equal Ferrozone? It increases the appetite, forms abundance of rich, life-giving blood, supplies nutriment and building material for worn-out nerves. Ferrozone completely cures neuralgia. Every root and branch of the disease it kills. Absolute success in every case. Stop suffering — fifty cents buys Ferrozone. Fifty chocolate-coated tablets in a box at any drug store.

Ashore on Alaska Coast.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 31.—A special from Sitka, Alaska, says that the German steamer Mariechen went ashore at False Bay, 100 miles from that point, last Thursday. The Mariechen cleared from Seattle for Vladivostock on Jan. 19 with a cargo of general merchandise valued at $250,000. This is a total loss, but the ship may be saved. No lives were lost.

Two Dead From Scalds.

St. John, N. B., Jan. 31.—Leslie Lawrence Cusack, aged 1 and a half years, died yesterday morning, the second victime of a scalding accident. On Friday a visitor at the house stumbled against the stove, upsetting a kettle of water that fell on the two children, aged respectively 3 years and 1 and a half. The elder died in a few hours.

Head Crushed in Buggy.

Sarnia, Jan. 31.—David Giffin, a nursery tree agent, about 70 years of age, while stepping into his buggy on the market square, slipped and fell between the hub of the wheel and springs. The horse became frightened and ran across the street crushing Giffin's head so badly there is little hope of recovery.

COUGHERS, HAWKERS, SPITTERS!

Public expectoration is against the common law, against the laws of health also. When the throat tickles, that's the time you need "Catarrhozone": it soothes away the irritation, cuts out the phlegm and loosens the tight feeling. You'll quickly cure that catarrh and throat trouble with Catarrhozone. It positively prevents new attacks and cures catarrh forever and for all time to come. Don't take our word for it; try Catarrhozone yourself. Once used you'll be delighted with its pleasant and helpful influence.

The coming man is generally a good advertiser.

UTILIZING TOWELS.

They Make Very Pretty House Decorations and Bed Coverings.

Towels of heavy weave made into house decorations and bed coverings are popular and economic schemes, as are Russian crash portieres.

Towels as pillow covers may be used just as they are bought, with the fringe on, or if a little more decoration is desired the fringe is cut off and the edges fashioned into scallops. For the spread it will be necessary to sew together two or perhaps three extra length towels, and to make it wide enough to cover the bed two or more must be joined together on the long edges.

Even the heavy white and brown bath towels can be effectively used, and at little expense, and if stamped and worked with a figure in bright color they make really pretty coverings.

In the same way they may be converted into tablespreads, the number of towels to be sewed together depending on the size of the table.

Still another use can be made of towels. They look well when hung as portieres between the rooms, but if plain ones are not desirable Russian crash, which is similar to toweling, may be bought in strips of bright colors or delicate shades and substituted without departing from the scheme of using all towel decorations. Fringe from the towels can be sewed to the crash curtains if it has been left on the coverings; otherwise a pretty way to finish them is in scallops or diamonds or whatever scheme has been followed with the rest of the trimmings.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

THE KITCHEN SINK.

Keep It Absolutely Clean if You Value the Family Health.

Grease in the sink is a very prolific cause of disease. It necessarily accumulates from dishes and utensils, and it clings to both wooden and metallic waste pipes, although more readily and tenaciously to the former. With it usually adhere very small bits of vegetable matter which while decaying shelter and nourish mischievous bacteria, and, besides, the grease will clog the drain after a time and, being impervious to cold water, will become both a menace and an inconvenience. Indeed, a kitchen drain is sure to become stopped unless it is frequently washed out with some powerful solvent that will liquefy, combine with or alter the grease and at the same time destroy all vegetable or animal particles that cling with it to the inner surface of the pipe. This purification should take place at least once a week in summer and winter. The surest and simplest cleansing agent for wooden or iron drains is a strong solution of potash or washing soda made with boiling water. The sink should first be scrubbed with soapsuds and then the solution should be dashed while very hot over the entire surface. After the liquid has run off, rapidly pour a generous quantity, also very hot, directly into the drainpipe, which is sure to need purification most.—Boston Herald.

KITCHEN HELPS.

The dirtiest frying pan will become clean if soaked five minutes in ammonia and water.

Discolored saucepans of enamel can often be made to look like new by boiling a little chloride of lime in the water with which they are filled.

Copper pans, etc., should be cleaned by scouring with a cut lemon dipped in salt. Then rinse thoroughly in pure water, dry and polish with a soft cloth.

Save all baking powder tins; they always come in handy as molds, either for steamed pudding, jellies or frozen desserts, and these dishes will always be served most attractively on your table.

Every pan of dishwater contains grease, which coagulates on the cold pipes. Result, evil deposits on those pipes; eventually the plumber. A pint of boiling hot solution of washing soda poured down the sink every day dissolves and carries away the grease.

Business Side of Housekeeping.

Many women have real business sagacity and ability, and some of them are realizing that the financial administration of a household affords scope for their special gift and that wise spending is as large a factor in prosperity as effective earning. When women are trained to a knowledge of values and business principles and then have the responsibility for household finances placed upon them, they not only come face to face with problems of great importance and interest, but often solve them with entirely satisfactory results. The number is increasing of those households where the wives and mothers have definite pecuniary responsibilities and do not have to resort to subterfuge or dishonest practices to secure the money necessary to meet legitimate personal, household and family expenses.—The World Today.

Be a Sunshiny Wife.

If you find any one determined to talk failure and illness and misfortune and disaster, walk away. You would not permit the dearest person on earth to administer slow poison to you if you knew it. They why think it your duty to take mental foods which paralyze your courage and kill your happiness? Do what you can to change their current of thought, but do not associate intimately with them until they have learned to keep silent—at least if they cannot speak hopefully. Many a vivacious young girl has come under the influence of just such a "wet blanket" and had all the joy of life talked out of her. Sunshiny wives are wanted in these days of hard toil and still harder competition.

AMANDA'S AMBITION

By NELLIE M. JERAULD

Copyright, 1905, by I. D. Marshall

Amanda liked to sew for Mrs. Deacon Jones, for when Saturday night came that good woman always filled a basket with meat, vegetables, a loaf of bread and sometimes a cake and sent one of the boys to carry it to Amanda's home.

"Enough to last us a whole week, Tom, and we can add a little more to our store," she would say to her pet cat.

Amanda Saunders, this old maid seamstress, who made enough with her needle to clothe and feed herself and to pay the rent of the one room she called home, had an ambition, though no one knew of it except her black cat Tom.

Whenever she slipped a dime into the china teapot, an old family heirloom, she would say: "There, Tom; we would rather have it than butter. We don't care so very much for butter anyhow." And one never to be forgotten day a whole silver dollar went to keep company with the nickels and dimes, and as it fell with a musical ring she said, "We would rather have it than a new hat, wouldn't we, now, Tom?" And Tom rubbed against her skirts and purred "Yes."

She had been sewing at the deacon's, and it was Saturday noon. The deacon's family and Amanda were at the dinner table. After each plate had been bountifully helped Mrs. Jones said: "I see you went to the store this morning, pa. Did you hear any news?"

"Yes; they are saying that some one's bought the little white cottage. They moved into it today. There didn't seem to be anybody but a man, but I suppose his family 'll come after awhile."

"Why, Mandy, are you sick?" exclaimed Mrs. Jones as Amanda, white and trembling and gasping for breath, reached feebly for a glass of water.

"No; I ain't sick. Just a little swimming in the head."

"Now, you've been sewing too steady. I'll put those buttons on and finish those buttonholes and overcast the seams, and you go right in the sitting room and lay down on the lounge."

"GOOD MORNING, MA'AM. THIS IS A BEAUTIFUL PLOT OF GROUND."

"No, Mrs. Jones; I'll go right home. Maybe I'll feel better after I rest."

Mrs. Jones filled the basket, and Jim carried it home for Amanda. Upon his return he reported that Miss Mandy must be sick, for she didn't say one word, not even "thanky," and she looked as if she were going to cry.

When the little room was reached and the door closed behind Jim Jones, Amanda dropped limply into her one rocking chair.

"We can't have it now," she moaned. "Oh, my, oh, my!" And when Tom came rubbing and purring in the endeavor to attract her attention she clasped him in her arms and said, "Oh, Tom, some one else has it, and there's not another one like it in the village."

Tom sniffed at the basket and asked for his supper. Amanda performed her evening duties mechanically, and when Tom had been fed and everything was snug for the night she took down the teapot and counted the savings of ten years.

"Fifty dollars! What shall I do with all that money now?" she asked mournfully. Then she put it away, and, taking down her Bible, she slowly turned the pages, thinking of her sorrow.

As she glanced at the page her attention was arrested by these words: "Because man goeth to his long home and the mourners go about the streets." Slowly she repeated them, "Because man goeth to his long home." A look of joy came into her eyes, and she exclaimed, "Yes, that is what I'll do!"

The following week the villagers were telling one another the exciting news that Mandy Saunders had bought a lot in the cemetery!

"One of the best, and she paid $50 for it right out of hand," said one.

"Where did she get all that money?" asked another.

"Don't know. She's awfully close mouthed. She just handed over the whole sum, and it was all nickels and dimes except one silver dollar."

Amanda said nothing about her purchase, but went to work to beautify her lot. She cut the grass with a little grass hook and planted flowers and vines. She had a fence built around it, a tiny picket fence, which after a time was painted white. The plot was the prettiest and best kept in the cemetery.

One August morning Amanda got up a little earlier than usual and had breakfast. "Now, Tom," she began, "I won't have to sew today, and we will go to our lot and dig up every wild morning glory. Pretty things they are, but they want too much room, and they are crowding out our white geraniums."

Bright and early Amanda and Tom started for their lot, and while Tom was perched on top of the gatepost busily washing himself Amanda was on her knees digging up the offending morning glories.

So busy was Amanda that she did not hear the footsteps of a passerby and was startled when a pleasant voice said: "Good morning, ma'am. This is a beautiful plot of ground."

Amanda quickly rose to her feet and, pushing back her sunbonnet, flushed girlishly under the gaze of a strange man.

"Good morning, sir," she answered shyly. "Yes, sir, I think it is a pretty place."

The stranger spoke of the morning sun shining on the dewy grass, of the gentle slope. He admired the flowers, even mentioning the names of a few, and then said inquiringly, "You have no one buried here?"

"No," replied Amanda. "My people did not live here. I am alone."

This was the beginning of their acquaintance. They often met in this little hillside lot. He told her his name was Robinson and that he was alone; that none of his people lived near.

After awhile, when their acquaintance had ripened into friendship, he met her one day and studied her intently.

"Miss Saunders, pardon the question," he said, "but I have long wondered why you bought this lot and why you have spent so much time adorning it. Will you tell me, please?"

And in simple words she told him of her longing for a home and how for ten years she had saved, hoping to buy the little white cottage at the foot of the lane, and of how upon learning that some one had bought it she had been led by reading a verse in the Bible to buy this place.

"I knew I would have a home here on earth even if I didn't have it until after I was dead, and I thought maybe the Lord would let me come back sometimes to see how sweetly and quietly I was resting, with the flowers blooming and the birds singing about me," she finished simply.

The man turned his head, for his eyes were filled with tears. After a brief silence he said: "I am all alone, and you are alone. I have enough for us both. Will you be my wife, my homemaker?"

And when she had whispered "Yes" he said, "I bought the little white cottage at the foot of the lane, and that will be our home."

"Tom," Amanda said that night, "we will have it, the little white cottage, and there will be room in the lot on the hillside for us all."

And Tom purred his contentment.

A Sheep Dog.

During Rev. Elijah Kellogg's pastorate in Maine he was persistently opposed by a citizen of no religious convictions who took malicious satisfaction in discovering and publishing inconsistencies in the lives of the members of Mr. Kellogg's church. For reasons of his own the citizen decided to remove to another part of the state.

Meeting Mr. Kellogg one day shortly before his departure, he said:

"Well, I suppose you have heard that I am going to leave town, and I dare say you will be glad of it."

"Glad of it? Why, no," replied Mr. Kellogg. "I shall be very sorry to lose you. You are so useful to me in my work here I hardly know how I can spare you."

"Spare me?" repeated the citizen, greatly puzzled. "How is that?"

"Why," said the old minister, with a gentle smile, "every time a sheep gets its foot out of my fold you bark from one end of the town to the other. You are the best watchdog I ever knew."—Boston Herald.

The Ordeal of the Dervishes.

Of a certain order of African dervishes a writer says: "They must believe they are impervious to pain. They come, then, on the occasion of the Dosah to the place of trial raving from the effects of hasheesh, crushing and eating live serpents, gashing themselves with knives, piercing their flesh with daggers or spears, eating glass and fire. The elect lie upon the ground as close together as they can be placed. In due season comes their sheik astride a horse to ride over the prostrate figures. The recumbent wretches bear the weight of horse and rider. There is no deception, no placing of the horse's hoofs between the bodies. Each step it takes lands it upon the frame of a living man, mangling and crushing it. The dead are secretly buried, the injured carried away for treatment. But all are supposed to have borne the trial without hurt or pain."

Actual Quarters.

The quarter of a dollar is merely a term for a complete coin nowadays, but in the early coinage a quarter meant a quarter of a coin, for in those times the idea of various valuations had not gained ground, and the newly minted coins were marked into quarters by a cross that the token might be divided when it was necessary to make change. This cross, moreover, was supposed to bring the blessings of heaven upon the owner and to avert ill fortune, and for a long time subsequent to the coinage of fractional currency the coins were thus marked. At present only the English florin is thus marked, although the coins of some of the Catholic countries bear crosses in their designs.

THE PIANO CORNER.

Best Arrangement For Giving an Artistic Touch to the Room.

For giving style to the room which must serve as living room and reception room at the same time there is no one note so effective as the proper fitting up and placing of the piano. Where room will admit it should be drawn across a corner, and the first essentials for this arrangement are the drapery and the planning of lighting facilities back of it.

The light is most easily and simply managed by attaching a small candelabrum of two or three candles to the front of the piano itself, putting it in at the low point at the left, where the light falls upon the music. With electric lights this can be easily managed, or without it candles will well repay for the trouble in later convenience and artistic effect.

To the fastidious taste the little metal touch given by candelabra is emphasised in a way worth while by the addition of hanging handles in the same design and material. These are put on at each end of the instrument and have their reason of existence in the saving of finger marks with every change of position.

The drapery is managed with two materials—a soft silk, which is gathered over the back, or, rather, the front, surface, and heavy embroidered strips, which are used as a narrow frieze across the top, and a corresponding band across the bottom.

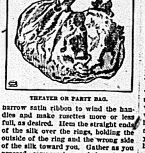
These hold the drapery silk in place, and if the piano is to be perfectly caparisoned there should be designed at the same time another broad strip, which is lined, folded over envelope fashion and laced together into a music cover for permanent use on the rest.

There are all sorts of latitude in the choice of decoration. The least elaborate plan is to choose linen, having it stamped in a design that would lend itself to the ordinary long and short and couching stitches, which can be carried out in heavy rope silks.—Boston Traveler.

PRETTY PARTY BAG.

One That Is Capacious and Stylish at the Same Time.

A pretty bag for theater or party use is a desirable possession. The illustration shows a design which makes a bag capacious enough to hold a small wrap in addition to other paraphernalia. The materials required are two six inch embroidery rings, three-quarters of a yard of heavy brocaded silk—that which has wide velvet stripes running lengthwise is most effective—narrow satin ribbon to wind the handles and make rosettes more or less full, as desired. Hem the straight ends of the silk over the rings, holding the outside of the ring and the wrong side of the silk toward you. Gather as you proceed, compressing each hem into a little less than half the circumference of a ring. Wind the remainder of the rings with ribbon. Attach rosettes to handles and also at the two points where all but ten inches of each selvage is gathered closely together to form the ends of the bag. This leaves ends open five inches. The bag is pretty, yet very inexpensive, if made of richly colored Japanese cotton crape.—Good Housekeeping.



THEATER OR PARTY BAG.

A Rocking Chair In a Sickroom.

The rocking chair is one of the most pernicious sources for harm to the patient that can be imagined, and many a weak or nervous person has been driven to the verge of collapse through its presence in the room and the thoughtless use that has been made of it. The one place near the house, says Vogue, where it may be said to have any legitimate right is on the piazza, and then only if all the other chairs are of the same persuasion. But to lie in bed or to sit up in a chair, weak and ready to faint with the exertion, and then to have nurse or relative occupy a rocking chair near one and rock, rock, rock in ceaseless restlessness, is said to feel one's senses leaving one in a desperate faint or in a bewildering fear of approaching insanity. This, however, is something rarely understood or even known by the majority of nurses, whose one idea of resting is to adopt this form of restlessness.

The Japanese Woman.

One exemplary trait in a Japanese woman is her love of neatness, a trait which her American neighbors might sometimes take pattern from. A Japanese will wear a robe that her ancestors for ages back have worn, but it looks as fresh and charming today as though just purchased. Nor does a Japanese woman often grow stout. She has sufficient strength of mind to forego sweets and rich foods. Her daily hot plunge is never omitted, and the daily hour spent at her toilet is the most important part of her day. Her coiffure is so fearfully and wonderfully constructed that it is not surprising that it is built to remain for days at a time. The smooth, perfumed masses rolled back from the low forehead form a fitting contrast to the quaint little painted face and extremely white teeth of the Japanese belle.

WOMAN'S WORLD

MRS. MARY RAMSEY WOODS.

This Oregon Woman Is Probably the Oldest Woman in the World.

About the time that the American colonies realized the necessity of federation, while the United States constitution was as yet unwritten and the nation still unborn, there came into the world on a farm near Knoxville, Tenn., a girl baby who was destined to witness the marvelous changes that have since transformed the world and to survive out of the old time into ours. The child that learned to lisp when Washington was president in the eighteenth century still lives to talk of President Roosevelt in the twentieth century, and eyes that a hundred years ago looked lovingly upon her firstborn today smile with a fading light upon the "child of her old age," a woman now past seventy-five.

Mary Ramsey Woods, now of Hillsboro, Ore., was born as Mary Ramsey on May 20, 1787. She is still quite active and maintains a lively interest in the world and its doings. Daily she walks about the garden or sits upon the porch in sunny weather to chat with neighbors, to sew or to live over in memory scenes of long ago. And what a memory is hers! She was a tiny maid when the French revolution was dyeing the gutters of Paris red, she was a laughing schoolgirl of seven when Tennessee was admitted as a state to the Union, she was a blushing bride when the great Napoleon ceded Louisiana to the United States and a proud young mother when Lewis and Clark tramped over a continent to "where rolls the Oregon." And she well remembers her father taking down his old gun, shouldering his blankets and going out to fight the battles of his country in the war of 1812.

MRS. MARY RAMSEY WOODS.

Though probably the oldest woman in the world, her intellect is still bright and keen, as is shown by the fact that during the past year her testimony decided a lawsuit and settled the title to property which was deeded over forty years ago. Her answers were to the point, and efforts to confuse her were unavailing. She testified regarding minute details, showing that the years have not dulled her recollection.

One feels a sort of awe in talking with and gazing upon one who has seen so much and lived so long in this world of ours. Her face is a study in wrinkles. Her voice is a quaver, but her carriage is good and her manner alert. And yet no one can see her and yearn to live the number of years she has.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Household Expenses.

Whether it is the home of the multimillionaire or that of the humblest clerk in his employ, the amount of money to be spent on running the house should be carefully thought out and systematized. Many families prefer monthly payments, but for persons in moderate circumstances it will be found much more economical and there will be fewer temptations to run into debt if everything is paid by the week. No doubt the best method of all is a cash basis, but this has its inconveniences. One cannot always find what is required in a shop, and the polite butcher or provision dealer, as the case may be, suggests that there is no haste about the payment; that he will get the article at the lowest possible rate for you. This is a great accommodation in these days, when time is money to so many. Then often a little more is expended on the article than would have been necessary had the purchaser been present. A small matter of a few cents on a pound seems a paltry sum to fuss over, but a few cents on several purchases reach the dollar mark very soon, and when the accounts come in sometimes the results of such a system are appalling. If the credit system is followed it is very much better to let things alone when the price is an uncertain quantity.

It is difficult to form any idea of what household expenses should average each month, as the tastes and habits of individuals vary greatly. An estimate given recently, based on careful calculation, seems a very fair one for an ordinary family's expenditure for table expenses. From the sum allowed for housekeeping one-third goes to the butcher, to the grocer one-fifth, the same to the dairy; the baker claims one-ninth, while to the fish man and greengrocer is allotted one-fourteenth of the amount.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Hostess at Dinner.

Once in the chair at the head of your board keep your eye on your guests, take every incident serenely and remember that you are a young hostess with your mark to make, and do not hiss at Hannah ominously when the mind and manners of that graceless individual wander at a very critical moment; do not freeze the genial current of Henry's soul with a withering glance when he heedlessly disobeys your injunctions and asks for something that is not on the table or the menu; do not notice the fact that there is stealing up from the kitchen a distinct odor of frying, that the sauce for the fish is missing, that there is an extra allowance of salt in the soup and a lamentable lack of sugar in the pudding.

Hold up your head instead, look fate firmly in the eye, listen to Brown's best story with profound attention, keep cool and cheerful, trust to luck, mind all your conversational cues and try to look as though you were enjoying one of the most delightful occasions of your life.

And then, though china fall, and your pet candle shades go up in flame, and the cook grates laundry soap into the macaroni savory instead of cheese, and Hannah serves hot plates by mistake for your course of ices, your dinner will redound to your honor.—Harper's Bazar.

A Valuable Prescription.

Here is a simple and valuable recipe—a medicinal bath for the nervously worn and those who cannot sleep o' nights. It is the prescription of an old physician. Take of sea salt four ounces, spirits of ammonia two ounces, spirits of camphor two ounces, of pure alcohol eight ounces and sufficient hot water to make a full quart of the liquid. Dissolve the sea salt in the hot water and let it stand until cool. Pour into the alcohol the spirits of ammonia and camphor. Add the salt water, shake well and bottle for use. With a soft sponge dipped in this mixture wet over the surface of the whole body. Rub vigorously until the skin glows. When nervous or "blue" or wakeful do not omit this bath. The relief and invigoration that follow will amply repay the effort required to prepare it.

Warning to Housewives.

A cook of thirty years' experience points out that such combinations as meat cooked in conjunction with flour (sausages and pork pies) are liable to turn sour in twenty-four hours, and this sourness, which can be detected both by taste and smell, indicates the presence of poison. This applies to soups, stews, gravies, etc., which have been thickened with flour, as well as to sausages and meat pies. If before the sourness supervenes such things are eaten hot or cold or made hot up to boiling point they are safe, but simply warming up hastens the generation of the poison.

Light Hair Without Peroxide.

If you wish to lighten your hair and don't care to use peroxide, get camomile tea, which the Swiss women use to keep their hair light. After thoroughly washing your hair rinse and dry it and dip it into a strong solution of camomile tea. Wring the hair out and dry it. If you do this every time you wash your hair and dry it in the sun when possible, you will find your hair retains the blond color and will even get lighter in time. This method has the advantage of being absolutely harmless.—Exchange.

A Novel Cosmetic.

Hear me, ye followers of the beauty show! My grandmother died at the ripe age of ninety. She had been in her youth a beautiful woman, and here I give her only cosmetic: Pure fresh lard rubbed into the skin after the bath and removed within half an hour with ordinary wheat flour. Her skin was like velvet when she died, and her "pink and white" would put many of your beauty followers to the blush when she was in her very last days.—Avis Gray in Buffalo News.

Carbonate of Soda.

Always keep carbonate of soda in the house. It is useful for many purposes. For burns and scalds it is an excellent remedy. The surface of the burn should be covered with it, either dry or just dampened. It relieves the pain caused by the bites or stings of insects. A small saltspoonful in half a tumblerful of water will relieve heartburn and indigestion and, if taken with tepid water the last thing at night, will frequently induce sleep in restless persons.

Paper Bags.

It is well that housewives should know that paper bags are made of a compound of rags, lime, glue and similar substances mixed with chemicals and acids. When dry these can do no harm, but if allowed to become damp a paper bag is unfit to touch articles of food. Never, therefore, keep food that is of a damp or juicy nature in a paper bag.

In Making Stew.

Remember to ask your butcher for a little piece of marrowbone and put this in with the meat. The result is a much increased richness, and the bone costs nothing. It may be necessary to skim the olla podrida a little with blotting paper before serving, but the flavor will compensate for the trouble.

A cleaning fluid may be made of 5 cents' worth of saltpeter, ammonia and shaving soap dissolved in a quart of rainwater. It is good for a thousand things. It takes the grease out of carpets beautifully.

Before polishing furniture rub it well with a cloth wrung out of lukewarm vinegar and water. This removes dust and dirt and prevents that cloudy appearance one so often sees.

Figs that have become rather dry may be freshened by putting on a plate and keeping in a steamer until moist and plump.

When lavender cannot be obtained oil of lavender with a little hot water will provide the desired fragrance.

Copyright 1905 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

Overcoats Ordered Out of the House

Here's the first "toot" of our Overcoat Special——

Time's Up and the Coats Must Go

If you want a coat step lively, please.

If you knew we were giving away $5 bills you would come in for your share, wouldn't you? Well, it's just what we are doing, and sometimes we give away even more.

We are closing out our Overcoats.

We won't carry them over.

It certainly isn't good business to do so.

Our Overcoats are cut to the cost and often less.

Now Is the Time to Buy an Overcoat.

MEN'S SUITS

After the season's rush we find many lines of Men's Suits badly broken. These we are offering at greatly reduced prices.

Quick & Robertson

BELLEVILLE'S FOREMOST CLOTHIERS.

ESTABLISHED 1870.

30 p.c. Reduction

ON ALL

MANUFACTURED FURS

S. A. HYMAN & CO.,

MANUFACTURING FURRIER.

N. B. Highest cash prices paid for Raw Furs.

BARGAIN PRICES IN SHIRTS

For a few days we will offer you a Large assortment of $1 00 and $1.25 Shirts for:—

75c

See window display.

Chas. J. Symons

296 Front St. Shirts to Order.

The Best Yet the Very Best

AND YOU ALWAYS GET GOOD THINGS AT SCANTLEBURY'S.

We have to-day, just this day, prepared a dozen BARGAIN TABLES the choicest BARGAIN TABLES you have yet seen anywhere—

Cost has not been considered. These bargain tables are prepared just to close out everything in china and fancy goods preparatory to our arrangements now under way for our Wall Paper season ahead.

During this week of BARGAIN TABLES we have also classified our pictures into Bargain departments—or wall Bargain Tables — and they are remarkably interesting.

We will add to the above bargains all this week everything in books in the rear store at 25c each — books worth 50c to $1.00 for 25c Remember.

C. B. Scantlebury.

Designer, Decorator, etc.

Wall Paper this week at 25 per cent. discount.

In a Hurry

WHEN YOU ARE IN A HURRY WE'LL RESPOND PROMPTLY.

If you have a breaking of pipes or a sudden giving way of connections, you want a plumber quick. We answer "hurry" calls, make repairs, and satisfaction will be yours.

Best not to wait till a "hurry" call is necessary. Let us fix your plumbing before it gives way.

JOHN LEWIS & CO.

BRING THE BROKEN GLASSES here and we can repair them. It is not necessary to send them to the store where they were originally purchased, even if they were made to order. Our equipment for making repairs on Eye Glasses or Spectacles is modern and complete, and the charges will be less than original cost.

ALEX RAY

GLASSES FOR NEAR AND FAR

The inconvenience of separate glasses for reading and distance seeing is avoided by our doubles vision glasses which afford perfect vision for near and far.

These glasses can be correctly fitted to you, with or without rims, at very little more than the regular glasses cost you.

Eyes examined free

T. Blackburn

Jeweler & Optician.

A Fraternal Visit

A number of the members of Malden City Lodge, 'Prentice Boys, of this city, last evening paid a fraternal visit to Trenton lodge. After the business of the lodge had been completed, the visitors were royally entertained. A pleasant hour was spent in speech-making and songs.

SPECIAL RATES TO NEW ORLEANS

For the Mardi Gras Festivities at New Orleans, La. The very low rate of One-way first-class fare, plus $2.25 for the round trip, will be in effect. Good going February 21st to 26th, valid returning on or before March 3rd. Call on agents of Grand Trunk Railway for full particulars. 30-6t

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

Business and professional men will do well in examining the cards just imported by The Intelligencer Job Department. They are of superior quality and very cheap. We have them from $1.50 for 500 with name and address upwards. Eight sizes. tf

Professional Cracksmen In the City Last Night.

POLICE WERE NOTIFIED AND PUT MERCHANTS WISE TO IT——ROBBERY AT SLOAN COMPANY'S PREMISES — BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN THE WORK OF VISITING BURGLARS, WHO ARE WANTED FOR SAFE BLOWING—MUCH EXCITEMENT IN THE CITY THIS MORNING AND MANY WILD RUMORS FLYING ABOUT.

Much excitement was caused on the streets this morning as a rumor became freely circulated that the premises of the Sloan Company, wholesale grocers, situated on the Station road, at the junction of the Caulfton road, had been entered by burglars, the safe blown open, and a considerable sum of money extracted.

Upon investigation it was learned that the case had been greatly exaggerated. That the premises were burglarized there was no doubt, but the safe was not tampered with in any way. An entrance was effected to the premises by means of a window in the rear of the premises.

Once in the premises the burglars had no difficulty whatever in reaching the office. Here was the evidence of the visit of the midnight marauders. The desk had been pried open and papers were scattered about the floor in a promiscuous manner.

It is estimated that the thieves, for the pains they took, secured between $4 and $5 in money and no other valuables.

Had they dynamited the safe they would not have been any richer, as all the money and valuables had been removed.

SAFE BLOWERS WERE HERE.

This was owing to the fact that the police had last evening notified the firm that three suspected safe crackers were about the city and no doubt intended operating. Not only this firm but the merchants and manufacturers generally were given the same warning.

The police were enabled to give this warning owing to a telegram which was received from Toronto during yesterday afternoon. The telegram imparting the information that such unwelcome visitors were liable to visit here, was sent to the Chief, and was as follows:

"Toronto, Jan. 30, 1906.

"Arrest Robert Bennett, 25 years of age, 5 ft. 9 in. in height, clean shaved, slim built, black overcoat, peaked cap, boots with felt soles; also Joseph Gilligan and "Wee" Scotie, both wearing peaked caps. No further description. Charge, safe-blowing. Warrant issued on charge of safe blowing. Secure all silver coin and cloth money bags, also nitro-glycerine. Left Oshawa last night for Belleville. Will be found drinking around hotels."

POLICE GOT BUSY.

Immediately upon receipt of the telegram Chief Newton took occasion to notify merchants and others as to the information received, and all the members of the police and special constable Arnott were pressed into service

It was learned that three men answering the description sent here had arrived in the city the evening previous and had partaken of supper at an uptown hotel.

The men were also seen in different parts of the city by several citizens.

Last evening it was learned that the men were in the vicinity of the Grand Trunk station and the Chief, with every man on the force, was soon upon the ground, and a diligent search was instituted not only about the station but along the track for two or three miles, but no trace of the suspects could be ascertained.

This search was kept up until after the midnight hour. Nothing more was heard of the whereabouts or operations of the men until a few minutes after 8 o'clock this morning, when the police were notified that a burglary had been committed at Sloan's establishment, as outlined above. It is surmised that this place was visited whilst the police were in search of the men about the Grand Trunk premises.

A SUSPICIOUS ACT.

That the burglars had an idea of visiting the Sloan place seems evident from the fact that a party answering the description of one of the men yesterday visited Sloan's and desired to secure a $5 bill in exchange for this amount of silver. In the few minutes that he was in the establishment he no doubt fixed in his mind the lay of the premises, and was able to impart this knowledge to his companions.

Whilst by many it is thought that the men have left the city for the purpose of operating elsewhere, the police are disinclined to believe that such is the case. During to-day the members of the force were scouring the city, to locate, if possible, the cracksmen.

Although all are young men it is believed that they are professional crooks and are expert in their operations.

It is to be hoped the men may soon be captured.

BROKE THROUGH THE ICE

MAN AND VALUABLE HORSE WERE DROWNED IN LOUGHBORO LAKE, NEAR KINGSTON.

Kingston, Jan. 31.—(Special.) William Laird, of Wolfe Island, aged 38, while driving "Lord Russell," a 2.19 pacer, valued at $1,000, from Kingston to Battersea yesterday, broke through the ice on Loughboro Lake and both man and horse were drowned.

YORK LOAN'S DISTINCTION.

PROBABLY THE LARGEST LIST OF SHAREHOLDERS IN THE WORLD.

Toronto, Jan. 30.—Though the pass books of the York County Loan Company have been coming in steadily, there are many thousands yet out. The statement that there are 114,000 shareholders' accounts has led some people to say that the York Loan had the largest list of shareholders in the world. The Grand Trunk, which is one of the largest, has about 70,000, and whether the York Loan is the largest from this point of view or not, it is certainly well up on the list.

THE COMING CONFERENCE

REV. MR. WILSON WRITES TO CORRECT ANY MISAPPREHENSION WHICH MIGHT ARISE.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,—In your issue of the 25th we notice your publication under the heading "Will Anglicans and Methodists Unite?" the publication of the private circular of this committee re arrangements for approaching conference in Belleville. Lest this might give rise to misapprehension on the part of misinformed persons, I write, as chairman of the committee, to say that the proposed conference is not the inauguration of any counter movement against the union of the churches, now happily under way. Should the mind of the committee or the bodies they represent, be made known it would be found to be in heartiest accord with the church union sentiments now happily abroad, both in this and other lands. The coming conference will be of great importance, nevertheless, inasmuch as it is an emphatic pronouncement of the growing spirit of amity and goodwill, which some day may ripen into the harvest of a united Protestantism, if not a united Christendom, a concept manifestly taking form amongst the churches.

MATTHEW E. WILSON,

Chairman of Com.

Northport, Jan. 29, '06.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

"HIS HIGHNESS THE BEY."

The above attraction drew a packed house to the Carman last night, and the performance gave satisfaction. The principals were excellent in their roles, the costumes good and the musical numbers fine. The company was a large one, including female singers and dancers, who gave many attractive numbers. The play is a musical satire, partaking of the extravaganza. It was full of comical situations and fairly bright lines.

"THE PARTING OF THE WAYS."

The mere announcement that the people's favorite play, "The Parting of the Ways," is coming to our city, is a matter of importance to theatregoers in our midst. No melo-drama of modern times has enjoyed the vogue that has been accorded to Neil Twomey's solid substantial success, "The Parting of the Ways." The reason is apparent. The play is interesting from the rise of the curtain, from the first act until the final curtain falls. The climaxes are strong and exciting, and the story is one that will appeal to all classes of theatre-goers, no matter what their station in life may be. The situations, lines and incidental business of the play are of such a nature that they compel the undivided attention of the spectators. "The Parting of the Ways" will be seen at the Carman next Monday night.

BELLEVILLE OLD BOYS

IN ONE YEAR MEMBERSHIP OF 1900 IS ENROLLED.

Toronto, Jan. 31. — An enthusiastic lot the citizens of Belleville must be, judging from the 200 or so that turned up at the first annual meeting of the Belleville Old Boys' Union, held last night in Oddfellows' Hall, under the presidency of J. E. Cook. The feature was the presentation to Secretary Rosevear of a handsome case of cutlery, in recognition of his work in forming the society. The president, in making the presentation, spoke of the great work done for the union by the secretary, who, starting so short a time ago as February of last year, had succeeded in getting together a membership of 1400.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Honorary Presidents, Hon. Mr. Justice Clute, Sir Mackenzie Bowell; President, W. H. Wallbridge; Vice Presidents, Wm. Kennedy, Dr. Clark, Wm. J. Wilson.

The meeting terminated with an entertainment, followed by a dance.

Sunlight Soap is better than other soaps, but is best when used in the Sunlight way. Buy Sunlight Soap and follow directions.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

HOCKEY.

Yesterday's Record.

O. H. A. Intermediate.
*Parry Sound	8	Bracebridge	3
Clinton	10	Hensall	2
Orangeville	6	Owen Sound	3
Collingwood	4	Barrie	4
O. H. A. Junior.
Belleville	8	Picton	7
Oxford-Waterloo League.
*New Hamburg	4	Drumbo	2
Northern League.
Harriston	7	Palmerston	3
Federal League.
Smiths Falls	6	Ottawa Vics	2

*Played Monday.

Belleville Boys Had a Strenuous Time in Picton.

The local juniors, as mentioned in these columns yesterday, went to Picton and clashed last night with the fast juniors of that town. A close and hard game was looked for, and those who anticipated it were not disappointed. The Picton lads stood up to their work in great style, and made the Bellevilles let out every link to win. The half-time score was 2 all. Within ten minutes of full time the score stood 7 to 4 in favor of Belleville. Then the speedy Pictons came with a rush, scoring three goals and tieing the score when there was only about one minute to play. The tie was played off in five minute periods. The first five minutes was non-productive of scoring, but in the last five Belleville scored a goal, thus winning the match by 8 to 7. The teams were:

Belleville—Goal Phillips; point, Pepper; cover-point, Connolly; centre, Allen; rover, Spangenberg; right wing, Burke; left wing, Weller.

Picton—Goal, Croft; point, Tulley; cover-point, Bedborough; centre, Illsey; rover, Burns; right wing, Coller; left wing, Reid.

Referee—B. Ridpath, of Toronto.

After the match was over a most regrettable occurrence took place, which is best described in the words of the Belleville players. It seems that, during the first half, Connolly, of Belleville, and Burns, of Picton, had a little mix-up, but nothing serious. However, some Picton supporters, among them Manager Boulter, ran out on the ice, and the latter is alleged to have told Connolly that he "would see him when the match was over." When the game ended the Belleville boys donned their street clothes and started out of the rink. When they reached the rink door it is alleged that Manager Boulter and the caretaker of the rink were standing there, and Mr. Boulter, it is said, "made a pass" at Connolly. Young Spangenberg, of Belleville, then interfered, presumably as a peacemaker, and somehow or other got a hard rap on the nose, which broke that organ. The blow is alleged to have been dealt by Mr. Boulter. Then "Sandy" Burrows, manager of the Bellevilles, butted in, it is said, and handed Mr. Boulter one which made his eye stick out like a doorknob. The upshot of the matter, the boys say, was that an information was laid against Mr. Boulter, charging him with assault, and the case, the boys say, came up before the Picton Magistrate this morning. The Belleville crowd came home at noon to-day, with the exception of Spangenberg, Mr. Herb Fish and "Sandy" Burrows, who stayed there to-day and will leave at 6 this evening.

A telephone message from Picton this morning, between 11 and 12 o'clock, announced that the affair had been satisfactorily settled between the parties.

The boys say that they received nothing but the best of treatment from the people of Picton, and Spangenberg, the injured lad, was looked after like a prince.

Port Hope Protests Saturday's Game.

Guide: Port Hope has protested Saturday night's game in Cobourg, and according to Referee Leslie's report they had good grounds. For years past visiting teams have always kicked on the lights in the Cobourg rink. Several times the matter has been reported to the O.H.A., but still no improvement is made in the lighting. The manager of the Cobourg junior team this year notified Secretary Hewitt that the lights were unfit for hockey purposes and asked that he notify the rink management that they would have to make a change. Surely this, with Referee Leslie's report, is sufficient evidence and the action of the O.H.A. will be awaited with much interest. If the O.H.A. decides to have the game played over they should certainly order it on neutral ice. One thing certain, the lights will be no better and it is very unfair, when Cobourg is to blame, to ask the Port Hope team to visit that town again and thereby give Cobourg the benefit of two gates. Instead of a punishment it is a great benefit and it is hoped, should the O.H.A. executive, in their wisdom, see fit to have the game replayed they shall order it for neutral ice.

SPORTING NOTES.

The curlers did not go to Napanee yesterday. They were notified that the ice had melted.

Croft, who has been "working" Port Hope since the middle of October, was released after the game on Friday, and one "Star" dropped out and returned to the canning factories in Picton.—Cobourg Post.

Belleville is now tied with Cobourg for the championship of group 2. If Port Hope beats the Pea Canners there will be a three-cornered ti

That Picton bunch, if th together, will make som junior teams travel n

The Smith's Fall

which Harry Brown, of this city, plays, gave the Ottawa Vics a bad beating last night, the score being 6-2. The Falls team has a great defence in Lesleur, goal; Brown, point, and Harold Armstrong, cover. The forward who gets by Brown and Armstrong will know he has been in the game.

The Port Hope juniors have forwarded to Secretary Hewitt a formal protest against the game played in Cobourg on Saturday, when Cobourg won by 4 to 2. The grounds of the protest are lack of proper lighting, bad ice, non-repair of the boards, interference of a spectator with the Port Hope cover-point, and the legality of Cobourg's third goal, the puck not going into the goal at all.

The following group winners in the O.H.A. junior series have already been decided:

No. 1.—St. Georges, Kingston.

No. 5.—Woodstock.

Whitby dropped out of Group No. 3, making the championship a certainty for Uxbridge, which team would have probably won it anyway.

COLGATES

Cashmere Boquet and Violet

TALCUM POWDE

Shaving Stick and Barber's Soap, Monad Violet, Cold Cream, Sandal Wood and other fine

TOILET SOAPS.

GEEN'S DRUG STORE

CARMAN OPERA HOUSE.

J. B. Carman, Manager.

MONDAY, FEB. 5TH,

NEIL TWOMEY

Presents the Great Scenic Melo-Drama

"The Parting of The Ways"

Popular prices—25, 35 and 50c.

Plan opens Saturday morning.

The Quinte Laundry Co.

Will call for and deliver your parcel anywhere in the city.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

Front Street South. Telephone 102.

'TWAS A GRIT FALSEHOOD

THE ROSS GOVERNMENT'S NUMBERED BALLOT WAS NOT USED IN KINGSTON.

Kingston News: The Grits who were working at the several subdivisions yesterday were arguing that the ballot being used had a number on it, and that the pledge of the Whitney Government to give a secret ballot had been broken. This, of course, was done to injure the Conservative candidate with voters who were not familiar with the subject, and who were stupid enough to be guyed by "lobsters" whom they thought knew all about it. The number found on the ballot yesterday was put there for the purpose of keeping track of the number of ballots issued for the election, which did number from 1 to 2,000, and the tendered ballot from 1 to 900. The Sheriff, who was returning officer, is held responsible to the authorities at Toronto Parliament for the return of these ballots, both used, spoiled and unused. The numbers on the ballot and stub in this case was necessary so that bogus ballots could not be used without being detected. There was no number placed on the ballots used in yesterday's election by the deputy returning officer as was formerly the practice. The numbered ballot, which was for years one of the strongholds of the Liberal party in Ontario and a source of coercion and muzzle to its army of office-holders, might be explained for the benefit of those who did not understand its significance. We take for example that John Jones goes to the poll to vote, his is the 56th vote polled. The poll clerk's book shows voters names from number 1 to 56, John Jones finds on the back of his ballots is No. 56, put there by the returning officer.

If you want to find at any time how John voted look up the poll book for that sub-division, find John Jones' name with No. 56 opposite it, look up ballot 56, and you see how John has voted—provided the ballots have not been sent to the furnace, as happened not many years ago.

CHILLS PROVE FATAL!

If warmth and circulation are not promptly restored, chills result in fatal pneumonia. This necessitates keeping Nerviline on hand. Taken in hot water it breaks up a chill minutes.

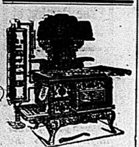
Co., Limited

Daily Intelligencer.

OUR SNAPPY GINGER SNAPS

Are fresh, crisp, snappy, wholesome and good, nothing but the best materials being used. 10c a lb. Some fresh to-day. Try them.

Chas. S. Clapp



The Happy Thought

Is the only range which has been made under one name for eighteen years, and is still the leader.

WM. McGIE,

Tel. 32. 13 Front St.

CHRISTMAS FLOWERS

A choice lot of Plants and Cut Flowers, Holly and Mistletoe.

COLLIP.

Better News—A FURTHER SLUMP IN MEATS.

—Beef Roast}	3c, 10c, 12½c
—" Steak	10c, 12½c
—" Stew	5c, 6c,
—Round Steak	3 lbs. for 25c
—Lamb	8c, 10c, 12½c
—Pork	10c. 12½c
—Sausages	3 lb. for 25c

—GREEN.

PECK & WILLS.

Opposite Market. Successors to Walter Aller

Sash, Door and Blind Factory.

Dressed Lumber of all kinds.—Mouldings Store Fronts and Fittings, Stair Work Grilles, Mantles, Hardwood Pannelling Bar Fixtures, &c.

Prompt attention given to custom work.

A call solicited.

PECK & WILLS.

Wedding Stationery

The Celebrated Eaton-Hurlbut manufacture, in cabinets of fifty invitations

$2.00

OTHER LINES AS WELL.

NEATLY PRINTED.

—AT—

The INTELLIGENCER

Job Department

Front St., Belleville.

For Habitual and Obstinate

Constipation.

APENTA

The Best Natural Purgative Water

ORDINARY DOSE, A Wineglassful Before Breakfast.

The good effects of Apenta Water are maintained by smaller and steadily diminishing doses, repeated for successive days.

Sole Exporters: THE APOLLINARIS CO., Ld., London.

WAR UNAVOIDABLE.

Castro Prepares to Resist French Invasion, and Will Force Apathetic Venezuelans to Fight.

New York, Jan. 31.—A Willemstadt, Curacao, despatch to The Herald, dated Monday, says: "A prominent Venezuelan, who has arrived here from Caracas, says that President Castro while supposed to be resting at Maracay, has been actively engaged in visiting the garrisons and preparing for an expected invasion by France.

"Governors of the states have been called to the capital for instructions, troops are mobilizing and the impressement of the army has begun. The people are apathetic, but will be forced to fight, though they blame President Castro for going too far with M. Taigny.

"Conservative opinion is that President Castro is putting on a bold front at the last moment to save his Presidency from compliance with the expected demands from France for an apology and a salute to the flag.

"President Castro has sent an extremely violent note to France, and has personally appealed to the Kaiser to intervene to save German interests in Venezuela. He made the same request to England, but was refused on the ground of British cordiality with France.

"Foreign representatives here believe that war is unavoidable and contend that whatever the result of the war, the nations should take action, as by President Castro's declaration that diplomats lose immunity immediately relations are severed, he refuses to send Ministers abroad reducing Venezuela to the plane of countries accorded consular officers only."

France Will Wait.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31—Official news has reached Washington from Paris that France will bide her time in her solution of the Venezuela problem.

It is believed that President Castro himself may prove of assistance to France if the reports received from Venezuela regarding the dissatisfaction among the people alleged to be growing against the President are true.

Wood Famine at Dawson.

Winnipeg. Jan. 31.—The temperature in Yukon was seventy degrees below zero and there was a wood famine at Dawson a few days ago. The police will not allow horses out to haul wood and unoccupied cabins are being torn down and used for fuel. The official thermometer registered 72 degrees below zero on Jan. 22. The stage line between White Horse and Dawson was tied up because the horses freeze their lungs. The temperature all along the Yukon River for three days ranged from 65 to 80 below zero.

Broker Parker Owes $60,000.

Toronto, Jan. 31.—Sixty thousand dollars in round figures is the amount which Geo. C. Parker, of Parker and Co., real estate dealers, is said to be owing. Parker disappeared suddenly about a week ago and has not been heard of since. He left his wife and family in ignorance, while his partner, William Postlethwaite, has been called upon to settle for Parker's debts. The assets of the firm amount to about $900 in cash and about $700 worth of furniture in the office at 21 Colbourne street.

Three Firemen Hurt.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—At a fire which yesterday morning destroyed Charles Fynn's liquor store, Deputy Chief Lattimer fell through an open trap and landed in the cellar. He was in danger of being buried by falling debris, and was badly knocked out. Firemen Frederick and Bourget were badly burned about the face, the latter losing his moustache. They were blown off their feet by an explosion, presumably of alcohol.

Meeting of Civil Engineers.

Toronto, Jan. 31.—The Canadian Society of Engineers had an interesting day yesterday. About 150 members are registered. The morning session was devoted to reading the reports of the council on the past year's work. An increase in membership of 128 was reported, making a total of 1,389. The receipts for the year showed an increase of more than $1,000 over 1904. The society has no liabilities and the assets amount to over $27,000.

Last Week

This will be the last week of our 25% Discount on GRANITE-WARE AND FANCY CHINA.

New Prints Just Opened

A large range of Ladies' Collars to hand.

A great range of Ladies' Flannelette Nightgowns at $1.00, 75c and 50c each.

Imported direct, the latest in Ladies Lace Ties $1.25 to 20c ea.

TO CLEAR—All 25c Wrapperettes for 15c.

All 12½c Wrapperettes for 10c.

All Patent Medicines at low prices.

McINTOSH BROS.

15 PLUMBERS SENT TO TRIAL.

Hamilton Men Now Being Prosecuted —Five Witnesses Examined.

Hamilton, Jan. 31.—Fifteen members of the alleged combine of the Hamilton Master Plumbers' Association were committed for trial by Police Magistrate Jeffs yesterday after the Crown Attorney had examined five witnesses. Those who were sent up on the conspiracy charges were: Adam Clark, J. F. Cummings, Henry Harding, the Herbert Jones Co., J. S. Kennedy, G. J. Myles, Stephen Mellon, Andrew Rodgers, William D. Smith, J. H. Stewart, Hugh S. Wallace, W. J. Walsh, Isaac Walsh, William J. Fitzsimmons, and William J. Clark.

Henry Morley told about the treatment he received from Toronto supply houses, including the Ontario Lead and Supply Co. When he complained to Vice-President Somerville, he was referred to Mr. Porter, who remarked: "Oh! he sent you to me to do his dirty work."

H. Spittle, Dundas, who ordered supplies from the Ontario Lead and Wire Co., was told by W. J. Walsh, Hamilton, that he could not get goods until he joined the association.

Danforth Evans told about getting a tender for $35 for work he wanted done, but members of the association would not do it for less than a hundred. This concluded the Crown's case.

SHOT THE SENTRIES.

Cells Opened and All Political Prisoners at Riga Liberated.

Riga, Livonia, Jan. 31.—A mob attacked the jail in the centre of the town yesterday morning, shot down the sentries, broke open the cells and liberated all the political prisoners. Half a company of soldiers was stationed in the building, but so rapid and unexpected was the action of the rioters that their purpose was successfully carried out. There were many women among the attacking party.

Dismissed For Treason.

Tiflis, Jan. 29, via St. Petersburg. Jan. 31.—By Imperial order the Governor-General, Staroseiski, and the vice-governor of Kutais, who are alleged to have shown weakness and incompetence, if not actual treason in dealing with the revolt of the Gurians and Mingrelians, have been dismissed in disgrace from the Imperial service. An investigation of their conduct has been ordered with a view to prosecuting them for treason.

Troops have been landed all along the Black Sea.

Jews' Only Hope.

Brussels, Jan. 31.—The general Jewish conference called to consider the state of the Jews in Russia formally opened its session here yesterday under the presidency of David Wolffsohn, chairman of the international zionist committee. M. Mandelstamm of Kieff presented a report of the condition in Russia, from which it was gathered that the Jews had no hopes of an improvement in their status resulting from a revolution or government reforms. The only solution of the problem, according to the report, would be the foundation of a Jewish fatherland.

Convert Into Park.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—Before leaving the capital Premier Whitney said the exchange of the camp ground at Niagara in return for the site for the central militia training camp at Petawawa, which they are asking from the Dominion Government, is not for any money-making purposes. The property at Niagara would be turned over to the commissioners of the Queen Victoria and Niagara Falls Park, to be converted into a park. The commissioners would spend $30,000 in improving the property.

Pilots Must Pass Exams.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—The general regulations by which the Marine Department will assume complete control of pilotage on the St. Lawrence are now about ready for publication and will be issued within a few days. They are being put into force at once, so that no pilot will be allowed to ply his calling on the river next season unless he has first satisfied the department in regard to sight, hearing, and a knowledge of navigation, including the use of the compass.

His Reward.

Guelph, Jan. 31.—The appointment of Hugh McMillan of this city to the junior judgeship of Victoria County, gives general satisfaction to his many friends in Guelph. Mr. McMillan has been connected with the South Wellington Reform Association for over thirty years, and has filled the presidency for six years, being at the present time head of the association.

Rescues Father From Flames.

Brockville, Jan. 31.—Monday night the residence of Lundy Seely of Elizabethtown, had a narrow escape from destruction by fire. All the occupants were away, but Mr. Seely, Sr., who is an elderly man. His son returned to discover the house in flames, and had much difficulty in getting his father, who was asleep upstairs, out.

Bomb For Alfonso.

San Sebastian, Spain, Jan. 31.—The police yesterday arrested a foreign anarchist, who arrived here during King Alfonso's visit.

A NEW VALENCIA STORY

No Surf and Passengers Left to Drown by Cowardly Crew.

Wreck Survivor Creates Sensation at Inquiry by Accusing Relief Vessels of Refusing to Attempt Rescue—"Everyone Seemed to Shun Us," Said Witness, and He Did Not See Why a Boat Could Not Have Been Lowered.

Seattle, Jan. 31.—At yesterday's session of the investigation into the loss of the steamer Valencia, C. Allison of St. Paul, a passenger, testified that the sea was not rough.

He explained that he had himself been a sailor, and that the surf which finally battered the Valencia to pieces, could not be called high. This testimony caused a mild sensation, as all published accounts of the wreck have been described as "high seas," and "a terrible surf."

"Everyone seemed to shun us," said Allison, "all seemed to be afraid to help or attempt to help the unfortunate men and women who were facing death.

"All those that succeeded in getting ashore immediately left the scene. The vessels at sea stood off and made no attempt to lower a boat. In the morning, when the last raft put off from the Valencia, not a wave had a comber on it.

"There might have been some excuse for the Queen's not coming in closer, but there was a tug alongside of her that did not come any closer than the large vessel. It all looked wrong to us."

"How did it happen that so many of the crew were on the lift raft?" asked Inspector Whitney.

"As soon as the raft struck the water the crew took possession," said the witness.

"What kind of weather was it when you were picked up by the Topeka?"

"It was a trifle foggy, but there was no wind blowing. The waves did not have combers on them. I do not see why a boat could not have been lowered."

The Tariff Commission.

Halifax, Jan. 31.—E. G. Smith opposed any increased duty on white cottons before the Tariff Commission here, and asked that fine worsteds made in Canada be fixed at 35 per cent. less the preference. J. F. Frazer asked for one cent. per pound on barrelled port. Senator Power said 33 1-3 per cent. on American mess pork was enough, and L. K. Payzant protested against the high duty on beef and pork. W. H. Johnson wanted the 35 per cent. duty to remain on pianos. The tariff investigation was now at an end save for two sessions in Ottawa. Mr. Fielding said he feared it would be impossible to satisfy everybody in the tariff to be subsequently framed.

WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU

FEW PEOPLE REALIZE THE IMPORTANCE OF GOOD DIGESTION UNTIL IT IS LOST.

Many people suffer from dyspepsia and do not know it. They feel mean, out of sorts, peevish, do not sleep well, do not have a good keen appetite, do not have the inclination and energy for physical or mental work they once had, but at the same time do not feel any particular pain or distress in the stomach. Yet all this is the result of poor digestion, an insidious form of dyspepsia, which can only be cured by a remedy specially intended to cure it and make the digestive organs act naturally, and properly digest the food eaten. Bitters, after dinner pills and nerve tonics will never help the trouble; they don't reach it. The new medical discovery does. It is called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and is a specific for dyspepsia and indigestion. It cures because it thoroughly digests all wholesome food taken into the stomach, whether the stomach is in good working order or not.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by digesting the food, instead of making the worn-out stomach do all the work, gives it a much needed rest and a cure of dyspepsia is the natural result.

When you are nervous, run down and sleepless, don't make the common mistake of supposing your nervous system needs treatment and fill your stomach with powerful nerve tonics, which make you feel good for a little while, only to fall back farther than ever.

Your nerves are all right, but they are starved; they want food.

Nourish them with wholesome, every-day food and plenty of it, well digested, and you can laugh at nerve tonics and medicine.

But the nerves will not be nourished from a weak, abused stomach, but when the digestion has been made perfect by the use of this remedy all nervous symptoms disappear.

Who ever heard of a man or woman blessed with a vigorous digestion and good appetite being troubled with their nerves?

Good digestion means a strong nervous system, abundance of energy, and capacity to enjoy the good things of life.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will certainly set your stomach and digestive organs right; they can't help but do it because they nourish the body by digesting the food eaten, and rest the stomach.

You get nourishment and rest at one and the same time, and that is all the worn-out dyspeptic needs to build him up and give new life to every organ and an added zest to every pleasure.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a god-send to the army of men and women with weak stomachs and nerves and justly merits the claim of being one of the most worthy medical discoveries of the time.

NEW KING OF DENMARK

50,000 People at Copenhagen Cheer Frederick VIII.

Sang the National Anthem as His Majesty Was Proclaimed—New King Issues a Proclamation in Which He States His Determination to Rule by the Constitution of the Country —Mourning at Sandringham.

Copenhagen, Jan. 31.—Frederick VIII. was proclaimed King of Denmark at noon yesterday in Amalienborg square in front of the palace. The ceremony lasted only a few minutes. The Premier, Mr. Christensen, appeared on the balcony of the palace and announced to the 50,000 persons assembled below the death of King Christian IX., and the accession of his eldest son. The Premier then called for cheers for King Frederick VIII.

The new ruler of Denmark joined the Premier on the balcony, and in a short speech declared that he would rule in accordance with the example set him by his father, and trusted that the same accord between the King and nation would continue as heretofore. His Majesty concluded with calling for cheers for the fatherland.

Received Warm-Hearted Greeting.

King Frederick received a warm-hearted greeting from the assembled crowd, whose cheers mingled enthusiastically with the national anthem.

From 9 o'clock in the morning all the church bells tolled, minute guns boomed from the forts, flags everywhere were displayed at half-mast, and business practically has been at a standstill, out of respect to the dead King Christian.

Prior to the proclamation of his accession, King Frederick held a council of state, at which the Ministers tendered their resignations, and were requested to retain their posts. Afterwards the new ruler received the Cabinet Ministers, presidents of the Riksdag, the civil and military officials, and the court dignitaries.

"Long Live the King!"

Then came the important ceremony of the day. Promptly at noon the Premier stepped out on the balcony of the palace, and thrice shouted to the assembled throngs: "King Christian IX. is dead. Long live His Majesty King Frederick VIII.!"

Sonorous hurrahs burst from the crowd in front of the palace, and reechoed down the streets opening on Amalienborg square, the flags on the public buildings were run up to the most-heads, and a royal salute was fired from the city's forts.

The court has been ordered to go into mourning for 30 weeks.

Frederick's Proclamation.

King Frederick early in the afternoon yesterday announced his accession to the throne in a proclamation, as follows:

"We, Frederick VIII., King of Denmark, by the grace of God, etc., do hereby announce and make known that our dearly beloved father, King Christian IX., was yesterday gathered to his fathers by a sudden but calm and peaceful death. We have thereupon, in accordance with the law, ascended the throne. While thus assuming this high and responsible position, for which the Almighty has chosen us, it is our determination to maintain unswervingly the constitution of our country and to preserve the rights and privileges of our whole people. If the people themselves will have the same confidence in their King which we have in our people then will God grant His grace and blessing to all of us."

The Dead King.

In a chamber of the Amalienborg Palace the body of the King lies in the modest bed in which he breathed his last. Following the wishes of King Christian, the funeral will be attended with little ceremonial. Yesterday the members of the family watched in the death chamber continually.

An enormous number of magnificent wreaths are coming in from every direction. The Duchess of Cumberland, daughter of King Christian, arrived late last evening. Her sorrow was very great, and it was with difficulty that she was removed from the bedside, where she had knelt for fully an hour in prayer. The burial will take place in the cathedral at Roskilde, beside Queen Louise, in the chapel of Frederick the Fifth.

King Haakon of Norway, Queen Alexandra of England, and King George of Greece are expected in a few days.

It is announced that Emperor William will be in attendance at the funeral.

Mourning at Sandringham.

London, Jan. 31.—King Edward arrived in town yesterday afternoon, and Queen Alexandra proceeded to Sandringham, where she will remain until she goes to Copenhagen to attend the funeral of her father, King Christian. King Edward has decided to open Parliament in person, but the Queen will not be present, and the state pageantry probably will be curtailed. The levees will be held as arranged, Feb. 20 and Feb. 26, but the drawing-rooms have been indefinitely postponed. The bell in the curfew tower of Windsor Castle on the day of the funeral, will be tolled eighty-seven times, beginning at noon, representing the age of King Christian.

Coast to Coast in 72 Hours.

Winnipeg. Jan. 31.—The Canadian Pacific will try the experiment this summer of a transcontinental train, which will make the trip across the continent in 72 hours, thus knocking off 24 hours from the fastest time heretofore made for the distance, which was two years ago, when the Imperial Limited covered the distance in 96 hours. The time made last summer was 108 hours by both the Imperial Limited and the Transcontinental express.

Three Die in Collision.

St. Paul, Jan. 31.—Great Northern Oriental Limited, No. 1, westbound, and passenger train No. 2, eastbound, collided head-on on a straight track one mile west of Columbia Falls, Mont., at 10.40 o'clock Monday night. Two firemen and one express messenger are dead.

MAKES YOUR CAKES LIGHT.
MAKES YOUR BISCUITS LIGHT.
MAKES YOUR BUNS LIGHT.
MAKES YOUR LABOR LIGHT.
MAKES YOUR EXPENSES LIGHT.
Order from your Grocer.
E.W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
TORONTO, ONT.

POULTRY SUPPLIES

Fresh Eggs are in Demand—why not order some of the following lines and add to your supply—

MEAT MEAL
GROUND BONE
OYSTER SHELLS
MICA GRIT
INTERNATIONAL POULTRY SPICE
MYER'S POULTRY SPICE
HERBAGEUM
WHEAT, CORN, BARLEY.
COARSE CRACKED CORN
BUCKWHEAT &c.

J.C. Hanley & Co.

Telephone 214.

British American Assurance Co.
Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co.
Western Fire Insurance Co.
Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Dominion Plate Glass Co.
Travellers' Accident Insurance Co.

CHANCEY ASHLEY

INSURANCE AGENT.
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Opposite Post Office . Belleville.

DR. W. H. ELDRED'S

LIQUID ELECTRICITY

The Magic Pain Reliever.

Electricity Cough and Consumption Cure.

See directions on bottles, For sale by

R. Templeton & Co.

Druggists, Belleville, Ont.

or D. P. Corey, General Agent, 202 Church St., Belleville, Ont.

British American Assurance Co.
Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co.
Western Fire Insurance Co.
Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Dominion Plate Glass Co.
Travellers' Accident Insurance Co.

CHANCEY ASHLEY

INSURANCE AGENT.
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Opposite Post Office . Belleville.

IMPORTED DIRECT

Pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil.

Best for Coughs, Colds and all Pulmonary Troubles.

DON. G. BLEECKER.

Phone 11.

Prescriptions carefully compounded.

Bargains in Ordered Clothing

As we are contemplating making some changes in our store will offer the following bargains.

25—$18 00 Tweed Suits at	$15 00
40— 20 00 Tweed Suits at	$16 00
30— 22 00 Tweed Suits at	$18.50
30— 24 & 25 Tweed Suits at	$20.00
$5 00 Trousers for	$4.00
6.00 Trousers for	$4 50
7.00 Trousers for	$5.00
8 00 Trousers for	$6.00

Up-to-Date goods made and trimmed same as at regular prices.—Terms cash.

ARTHUR McGIE, 300 Front St

Another Snap for My Customers

DRESSED LUMBER

Flooring, Wainscotting, Ceiling, Clapboards.

C. P. HOLTON

Phone. 112.

Very few people lose their minds because their neighbors lose their money.

EIGHTY-THREE THOUSAND cards of superior quality imported by The Intelligencer Job Department. These cards are the cheapest and best in Canada. Travellers, business and professional men should examine them.

McLAUGHLIN CUTTERS

A Specialty.

The most up-to-date sleighs in style finish and material.

A full assortment at their warerooms OPPOSITE THE MARKET, FRONT ST., BELLEVILLE

Also full lines of :—

Robes, Harness, Blankets Rugs, Men's and Women's Fur Coats and Collars, &c.

Call in before you buy.
No trouble to show goods.

J. A. ROSE,

Manager Belleville Branch.

The Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

Incorporated by Act of Parliament.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL

$5,000,000

3 1-3 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE—Bridge St., Belleville.
J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

BANK OF MONTREAL

ESTABLISHED 1817.

CAPITAL AND REST (All Paid Up

$24,000,000

(Twenty-four Millions)

Savings Bank Department.

Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

R. TANNAHILL,
Act. Manager Belleville Branch.

G. A. Bennett,

Carpenter. Joiner. Builder.

WORKSHOP AND OFFICE,
Victoria Avenue,
(Next McCrodan's Grocery.)

Estimates furnished, work promptly and carefully executed; prices moderate.

— SPECIALIST ON —

Parquette and Hardwood Floors
Grills and Fireplace Mantels.
Building and House Repairs & Alterations.
Office and Store Fixtures, also Cabinet Work and Furniture Repairs.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No. 8.—12.45 a.m., Mail train, daily, except Monday.
No. 2—1.30 a.m. Fast train (Flyer), daily.
No. 16.—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m., daily, except Sunday.
No. 6—11.15 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4—12.06 p.m., Express, daily.
No. 12.—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5.—2.22 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.
No. 3.—4.02 a.m., Limited Express, daily.
No. 9.—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday. Leaving Toronto at 5.10 p.m., arrives in Belleville at 9.10 p.m.
No. 11.—11.08 a.m., Passenger, Daily, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 1.—1.40 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7.—5.03 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've.	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 183, Front St.

nuine Scranton COAL
Prompt delivery. Wall screened.
The Schuster Co.
Office, Bridge St.

The Daily Intelligencer.

THE VERY BEST COAL
All Sizes
Wood for the millions
Dry Pine, Hardwood cut and split.
C. O. LEAVENS

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL — LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL — CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 39 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1906. NO. 228

STROUDS

delicious
teas and coffees are the best and the best is not too good for you.

Was Riddled With Bullets.

German Soldiers Brutally Murder a Canadian.

Outrage at Swakopmund, German Southwest Africa, In Which Dr. Anson Donaldson, of Brockville, Ont., Received His Death Wound—Sketch of his Career—Brockville Wants Government to Intervene.

London, Feb. 1.—A despatch to the Central News from Cape Town, published here yesterday, says:

"Canadians here are enraged at an alleged outrage by German soldiers at Swakopmund, German Southwest Africa, who are said to have shot and killed Dr. Anson Donaldson of Brockville, Ont. According to the story, Dr. Donaldson was walking peacefully in the street when a soldier fired at him, and while he was lying wounded on the ground, other soldiers riddled his body with bullets."

Brockville Shocked at News.

Brockville, Feb. 1.—This town was shocked on learning of the brutal murder of Dr. A. S. Donaldson. His brother, C. A. Donaldson, first received the news through the local newspaper offices. The feeling here is that the crime should receive the attention of the British Government at once, and his brother has communicated with the Elder-Dempster Steamship Co., in whose employ he was, for definite information.

Dr. Donaldson was born in Brockville 29 years ago, and entered McGill University, Montreal, where he pursued a medical course with success. After graduation he was house-surgeon at the Royal Victoria Hospital. He enlisted with the Strathcona Horse and went to South Africa, where he served also with the second C. M. R. He also joined forces in pursuit of the Mad Mullah, and after that accepted a position with the Delagoa Bay Development Co. at Marquez. He then returned home and spent some weeks here, but left Brockville about a year ago, going to Edinburgh for a post-graduate course, receiving the licentiate degree. Later he accepted a position with the Elder-Dempster Co., as surgeon on the Stovele, plying between Liverpool and the west coast of South Africa.

Dr. Donaldson was unmarried and is survived by one sister and two brothers—Mrs. Herbert Simpson, Pittsburg, Pa., and George of Syracuse, N. Y., and Charles A. Donaldson of Brockville, also a South African veteran.

MUST GET MORE MONEY.

John Mitchell Says Miners Must Be Better Paid or No Agreement.

Indianapolis, Feb. 1.—John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers' of America, addressing the joint scale committee of the central competitive district yesterday, said: "There must be an increase in wages or there will be no agreement.

In his ultimatum to the operators, President Mitchell did not mention any percentage of increase. It is generally recognized that his statement is backed by the almost unanimous sentiment of the miners' delegates and that the minimum increase that would be accepted without a struggle will be 5.55 per cent., which was the amount of the decrease in wages two years ago.

Mr. Mitchell declared that so far as his influence extended with the Miners' Union, and so long as he could prevent it, the standard of conditions enjoyed by the miners at present would never be lowered.

He said: "I'm making this statement so that you gentlemen will know where I stand when it comes to a point in this conference whether to agree or not to agree."

The operators of Illinois, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania districts have agreed to stand by the operators of the southwestern district.

"We will not grant one mill a ton advance, directly or indirectly," said one.

ROPES ROTTEN.

Or a Mistake in Orders in Lowering the Valencia's Boat.

Seattle, Feb. 1.—The point of yesterday's questions in the Valencia was to determine whether seamanship was shown in the launching of the lifeboats. Boats No. 5 was either dropped into the sea through a mistake in orders or the ropes were rotten. The boat contained 40 persons as it hung from the davits, banging against the side of the ship with every sea. One end gave way, and nearly all the men in it were spilled into the water. Only three or four kept afloat until the boat was finally launched.

The witneses said that some one on deck, presumably an officer, gave the order to lower away. No one could swear that the ropes were either cut or broken, but the evidence seemed to show that one end of the boat was dropped before the other was lowered.

Almost Another Wreck.

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 1.—The Norwegian collier, which arrived at Ladysmith yesterday from San Francisco, reports having had a narrow escape from being wrecked at Cape Beale.

Reade Ontario's Dhodes' Scholar.

Toronto, Feb. 1.—From among a large list of candidates the committee charged with the work has selected Robt. C. Reade, B. A., ('05), as the second Rhodes' scholar for Ontario, under the will of the late Cecil Rhodes. Mr. Reade is only 21 years of age, and has since his graduation last spring been employed on the editorial staff of Saturday Night. The new scholar will not go to England until the fall.

Violent Scenes in Church.

Paris, Feb. 1.—Violent scenes occurred in many Paris churches yesterday afternoon, when Government commissioners appeared to take inventories of the church property, pursuant to the provisions of the law providing for the separation of church and state.

Dedicate New Hall.

Windsor, Feb. 1.—The Windsor Knights of Pythias dedicated their fine new hall and held their annual election Tuesday night.

Servians Show Bitterness.

Belgrade, Servia, Feb. 1.—The bitterness felt here against Austria was evidenced yesterday by the action of a mob which invaded and broke up a meeting of prominent merchants, held to protest against the attitude of Servia towards Austria. The police did not attempt to interfere.

Won't Press Preference.

London, Feb. 1.—The Aberdeen Daily Press, concluding a lengthy editorial, says the conclusion to be drawn from Hon. Mr. Fisher's speech is that the Canadian Government has no intention of pressing the preference at the next colonial conference.

C. P. R. Freight Sheds Burn.

Winnipeg, Feb. 1.—About a block of the inside portion of the new Canadian Pacific freight sheds, erected last summer at a cost of $150,000, were destroyed by fire last evening. The loss will be fully $50,000, and to contents $30,000.

SINCLAIR'S

Great Removal Sale

IS NOW ON.

We Have Five Persian Lamb Jackets

Which will be cleared at the following prices:

$145.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price $108 75
135.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price 101.25
100.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price 75.00
85.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price 60.75
65.00 Persian Lamb Coat	Sale Price 50.75

25 P.C. Discount Off All Small Furs.

Ladies' Cloth Coats

HALF PRICE.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO.

The Ritchie Co., Limited. | The Ritchie Co., Limited.

Extensive Alterations

Constantly increasing business necessitates further alterations and extensions to our already large store.

We are just closing the largest business year in our history which speaks louder than anything else could do to tell us that our efforts to serve the people of this district are being appreciated.

Our steady aim has been to supply the newest styles of goods from the most reliable makers in the world at the Lowest Possible Prices. This can only be accomplished by sending our buyers direct to the sources of supplies both in this country and in Europe (avoiding the profits paid to middle men by small dealers) the benefits of which are reaped by Our customers. Buying our goods For Cash and selling them for cash enables us to do business on a smaller margin of profits than if we were obliged to pay interest on purchase and make losses through selling on credit.

Workmen are now busy removing walls, stairways, partitions, etc., which will increase our room, light and comfort of our customers when trading. We intend to do bigger and better things during 1906 than in any previous year.

Sale of Remnants

This is clearing out time - all odds and ends must go in the next two weeks. Our stocks have been thoroughly searched out and on Thursday morning every department will have its quota of bargains—all marked at quick selling prices. Here is a partial list.

Towellings, Flannelette, Carpets, Prints, Laces, Linings, Table Linens, Ribbons, Silks.

Fur Specials

We are making special inducements on many of our Furs, to clear them quickly.

At the rate Furs of all kinds are advancing, these prices offer splendid investments.

—4 only Greenland Seal Coats, regular prices $38 to $40, to clear at $25
—A few sizes, in Ladies' Black Astrachan Coats, selling much below regular prices
—Bargains in Ruffs, Stoles, Muffs, Caps, etc.

$10.00 JACKETS $3.95

Your choice of 30 Ladies' Colored Cloth Jackets

ALL THIS SEASON'S STYLES.

Regular Price $10.00 For $3.95

$10.00 Suits for $7.50

Here is something you cannot afford to miss. We are getting ready for inventory and stock must be reduced at once. On Tuesday morning we will place on sale 30 Men's Suits in Plain and Fancy Tweed, well sewn with silk and linen, up-to-date styles—sizes 36 to 44—regular price $10.00, for $7.50

$1.00 and $1.25 Shirts 75c

The season's selling has left behind about 84 of these Shirts, we therefore want them all out in two weeks and on Tuesday morning we place the balance on sale.

—100 Men's Shirts in stripe and spot, all sizes, large variety of patterns, regular price $1.00 and $1.25, for 75c

The RITCHIE Co., Limited